—There is a Boston Bible class with a teacher on a salary of $1,000 a year.

—A farmer in Preston, Conn., who was troubled by rats, purchased a cat with a reputation as a mouser, and rats were soon among the things that were. But on going into the cellar one day he saw rats sharing the noonday meal of the cat. The cat appeared to be charmed by them. The farmer allowed the strange friendship to exist for several days, the rats coming regularly to partake of meals with the cat. Finally the farmer decided to put an end to the singular friendship, and, taking a gun, went to the cellar. No sooner, however, had he fired at and missed a rat than the cat jumped upon it and killed it. Now the farmer wants to know why the cat did not kill the rat before.

Woman's Wisdom.

"She insists that it is more importance, that her family shall be kept in full health, than that she should have all the fashionable dresses and styles of the times. She therefore sees to it, that each member of her family is supplied with enough Hop Bitters at the first appearance of any symptoms of ill health, to prevent a fit of sickness with its attendant expense, care and anxiety. All women should exercise their wisdom in this way."—New Haven Palladium.

—Patient: "Then, according to you, doctor, in order to live at all I must give up all that makes life worth living for?" Doctor: "I'm afraid so—at least for a few years." Patient: "Perhaps you'd recommend me to marry?" Doctor (a confirmed bachelor): "Oh no! Come, my dear fellow, it's not quite so bad as all that, you know!"

—Charles Ledwell obtained a divorce from his wife at Jefferson, Ohio, but at the end of a week went to her with a proposal of remarriage. She struck him on the head with a club and fractured his skull.

—"The papers talk about civil engineers," said old Mrs. Briggs. "I wonder why they ain't no civil conductors."

SPEER'S PORT GRAPE WINE FOR WEAKLY PERSONS.—This excellent product of the grape is prescribed and used by the leading physicians in the country, when a generous and nourishing wine is desirable; especially for females, aged persons and consumptives; and by churches for communion. This wine is for sale by A. P. Preston, D. Kimball & Co., and F. B. Coleman, druggists, and H. F. Gerrish, grocer.

THE BEST REMEDY
FOR
Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

Diseases of the pulmonary organs are so prevalent and fatal, that a safe and reliable remedy for them is invaluable to every community. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is such a remedy, and no other so eminently merits the confidence of the public. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, to insure the greatest possible efficiency and uniformity of results, which enables physicians as well as invalids to use it with confidence. It is the most reliable remedy for diseases of the throat and lungs that science has produced. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt and certain relief, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it without difficulty. In the treatment of ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household, for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

The marvellous cures which AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has effected all over the world are a sufficient guaranty that it will continue to produce the best results. An impartial trial will convince the most sceptical of its wonderful curative powers, as well as of its superiority over all other preparations for pulmonary complaints.

Eminent physicians in all parts of the country, knowing its composition, recommend AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL to invalids, and prescribe it in their practice. The test of half a century has proved its absolute certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

What Shall We Do With Our Girls?

A Bloomington paper says that two girls at a boarding school, though of wealthy and reputable parentage, stole $70 worth of books from the library, sold them for $15, and spent the money for candy. The appetite for candy, so often acquired by young girls, is doubtless fully as strong as the appetite for whiskey among young men. But the consequences, of course, are not so terrible, which is the reason it is less noticed. A girl who goes to a candy store and fills herself up places not stay till midnight and then have to be put out by the proprietor, who wants to close up, and she does not go looking round for a brick to hurl through the window, and then go home whooping it up and singing some ribald song. But her appetite is just as strong, and she is drawn as irresistibly toward a glass jar full of hoar-hound as a young man is toward a decanter filled with benzine, and she goes down into her clothes for a nickel with the same burning thirst for gumdrops, the same demon appetite for taffy, that a young man has for "old crow" or "sour mash." There is no difference. But her beverage does not unnerve her as a young man's does. She has sense enough usually to know when she has got enough, and has the will power to stop before she suffocates. But when denied candy for a long period the appetite becomes fierce, and she is liable to take books from a library and put them in soak for enough money to appease the gnawing hunger for caramels that is consuming her. Eminent practitioners have held that at such times a girl is not responsible for what she does, but that she is laboring under a mild species of insanity, and deserves to have her actions charitably overlooked. A great many girls go through life without people knowing they are victims of the fatal habit, because they can always procure the means to obtain the stimulant, and it is only when circumstances debar them from access to the candy shop, and they are led to commit some breach of propriety, that the matter is brought to the attention of the public. People have often wondered how it was that so many saloons and candy stores could exist, as they could not see where all the patronage came from; but it is no secret to those who take particular notice of girls. We have known it all along. Parents, where are your girls to-night?—Peck's Sun.

A Brakeman's Bravery.

A daring act of bravery was performed on the New York, Lake Erie & Western railway, a few miles west of Susquehanna, Pa., a few days ago. Train No. 49 was approaching Kirkwood, a way station. Thaddeus Tanney, a brakeman, sitting on the pilot of the engine, saw a woman walking on the track a few rods ahead of the train. He seized the bell rope, and giving it a sudden jerk, drew the attention of the engineer, who blew his whistle several times very loudly. The woman paid no attention, but kept on the track. The engineer reversed his engine, somewhat reducing his speed, and the brave Tanney gave a leap from the head of the pilot, landing safely on his feet. He ran like a deer up the track, and reaching the woman, seized her, and with a herculean effort threw her off the track. The engine by this was within a few feet of him, and mustering together his strength, he gave one desperate bound, landing safely among the bushes along the track. The brave brakeman was slightly injured, but the woman's life was saved without her receiving a bruise. When asked why she did not leave the track when the whistle blew, she said she was so frightened that she did not know which track the train was on, or which way to go.

Somebody's Child.

Somebody's child is dying—dying with the flush of hope on his young face and an indescribable yearning to live and take an honored place in the world beside the companions of his youth. And somebody's mother is thinking of the time when that dear face will be hidden where no ray of hope can brighten it—when her heart and home will be left desolate—because there was no cure for consumption. Reader, if the child be your neighbor's take this comforting word to the mother's heart before it is too late. Tell her that consumption is curable, that men are living today, aged, robust men, whom the physicians pronounced incurable at the age of twenty-five, because one lung had been almost destroyed by the disease. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a most efficient alterative for separating the scrofulous matter from the blood and lungs, and imparting strength to the system. It has cured hundreds of consumptives.

Salmon fisher, about the mouth of the Penobscot river report that the catch of that fish this season is something remarkable. The same is true of all varieties of weir fish, of which the fishermen are taking more than has been known at any time for a great many years.

"The Doctor Told Me"

To take a blue pill, but I didn't for I had already been poisoned twice by mercury. The druggist told me to try Kidney-Wort and I did. It was just the thing for my biliousness and constipation, and now I am as well as ever."

It is said that the profits of the Philadelphia Ledger, which is wholly owned by G. W. Childs, were $400,000 last year. The New York Herald is the only paper in this country which yields a larger net revenue. Probably the Boston Herald comes next.

FOR PRESIDENT.

James A. Garfield,

OF OHIO.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT.

Chester A. Arthur,

OF NEW YORK.

The Narragansett Disaster.

Damaging stories are reported concerning the inefficiency of the life-saving gear of the Narragansett, and the incompetency—or worse—of her officers and crew. It is charged that most of the officers looked out only to save their own lives, paying no attention to the helpless and terrified passengers, and that the steamboat men knew nothing about handling boats, many of them not even being able to pull an oar.

This statement about the crew is no doubt correct, and would be of the crew of any other of the big steamers; for seamen are not required on board of them, the duties of deck hands consisting merely in the hauling in or putting out of hawsers at the wharf, the handling of cargo at either end of the line, and the occasional trimming over of cargo on the passage to keep the boat on an even keel. There is no sail to make or take in, no steering for the deck hand to do,—in short he has none of the ordinary duties of a sailor to perform, and generally does not know how to perform any of them.

A more serious charge is that the life preservers were many of them without straps to secure them to the person, and that many of those which had straps had them break through rottenness, so that they were worse than useless, as the poor wretch who took to the water with one of them on would find himself at once left unaided. The boat davits, also, it is charged were so rusty that some of the boats could not be swung outboard; the boats were covered over with canvas tacked to the gunwales all around, which had to be cut off before the boats could be entered; and there were no plugs at hand for the plug-holes in their bottoms.

William Prosser, John Smith, and a young man named Juroy, all belonging to the U. S. S. Tennessee, and Michael Dugan of Providence, R. I., who were on board the Narragansett, are said to have behaved with the greatest coolness and courage, and were instrumental in saving many people.

By the wreck of the Metis, already referred to, forty-three lives were known to be lost, and it is believed eight more. The steamer had one hundred and forty-eight people on board, and was run down and sunk on a very dark night in August, 1872, during a heavy storm of wind and rain, by the schooner Nettie Cushing. When the steamer went down a portion of her upper deck floated off with most the people upon it, and held together long enough to drift to the beach at Watch Hill, six miles off which the vessel sank. When the raft reached the surf it was instantly broken up, and its living burden of men, women and children thrown into the surge among a mass of broken planks and timbers, and many persons were killed by the wreckage within a few rods of safety and succor.

A Successful New Hampshire Industry.

Of the many industrial enterprises for which our state is noted, and which go far toward the employment of our mechanics in producing commodities for distant customers, the Nashua Iron & Steel Co. has for some time been prominently known. Beginning in a small way, persevering amid fluctuations of business, and changes in values and in the wants of its patrons as new kinds of mechanism made demands upon it, it has attained a prominence in the manufacture of cast and homogeneous steel, and for iron and iron forgings, such as few establishments of the kind possess.

Upon a recent visit to Nashua we called upon our former townsman, John D. Swain, Esq., the present superintendent of the works, and we were surprised at the magnitude of the operations there carried on. The works, whose buildings and grounds require nearly ten acres, consist of two forge shops, one with four heavy steam trip-hammers and the other with five steam hammers, a rolling mill, a machine shop, with the largest sized tools, a steel-melting shop, and a shop where steel tires are made for locomotive wheels.

In their extensive shops and buildings, the company produce every kind and description of forged work, in iron and steel. Cast steel locomotive and car tires are made here, for which the company has a high reputation and constantly receives large orders. Here too we see cast steel in its various required shapes, and what is known as homogeneous cast steel boiler fire-box and tank plates. These are made from the best stock by means of Siemen regenerative gas furnaces, and claimed to be of a standard as high as any in the market. All kinds of steam engine and locomotive work are seen here in every stage of production, such as crank pins, locomotive piston rods, axles, side bars, connecting rods and driving wheels. Here too are all the forgings and work for marine engines, such as heavy cranks, shafts, connecting rods, piston rods, cross heads, beam centres and the varied composite parts of the intricate marine engine. As we pass from shop to shop we are surprised to find in how great variety and extent this important mechanism is here produced, and we learn that orders for this work come from all parts of the United States.

The facilities for doing the work are upon an immense scale. The company has of late, with the improved condition of business and consequent enlarged demand for its supplies, increased its capacity for production. Mr. Swain informed us that he had three hundred and sixty-five men on his labor roll, and some of these we noticed are men who had become disgusted with the partial employment in the shops at the navy yard, and gone to Nashua, where the prospect of a constant and uninterrupted demand for their labor had invited them.

The company manufacture their own metals upon their own grounds, by processes of their own. The study of the proper preparation of this work is a peculiarly careful one, and the knowledge of the uses and capacities of metals is but one of the many requirements for a skillful and successful management of their business. Manufacturing their own iron and steel, the company have a manifest advantage over concerns which buy their metals and simply work them into the desired shape.

The president of the company is Aretas Blood, Esq., of Manchester, a practical man and one of the most successful locomotive builders in the country. Mr. Blood came to Portsmouth last fall, and proposed to Mr. Swain that he should go to Nashua and accept the superintendency of the works. Mr. Swain went thither, examined the works, concluded to take the offered position, and at once resigned his place as foreman iron plater at the navy yard, which he had held for several years. Mr. Swain, as very many of our readers know, is a mechanic of superior ability, and an invitation from such an eminent man in mechanics as Mr. Blood to take charge of these very important works, whose capital is half a million and whose annual product is over a million of dollars, is the best evidence of his standing among men who cannot for one moment afford to have other than the most thoroughly competent person in charge of the mechanical department of this work.

While at the works we saw materials being worked to fill a large order for John Roach, the celebrated builder of iron ships, and cars which brought the ore from Pennsylvania were being reloaded with the finished work destined for use in that state. The enterprise is an important feature in the prosperity of our sister city, whose admirable railway facilities make it an excellent locality for this kind of business.

The company was originally chartered in 1829, but did not organized as at present constituted till 1847. During the past fifteen years it has grown to its present prominence, and it is now an establishment of which not only the people of Nashua, but of the whole state, may well be proud.

News and Notes.

There was a heavy blow in New Jersey and southern New York, Sunday evening. Much damage was done to roofs, window glass and chimneys, and several lives were lost.

Lieut. Comdr. Gorringe, U. S. N., left Alexandria, Egypt, on the 12th inst., in the steamer Dessouk for New York, with Clopatra's Needle, and the pedestal, steps and foundation. There was a great crowd to see the steamer off, salutes were fired, and the American and Egyptian flags were displayed together.

The loss by the great fire at Titusville, Pa., is now put at $1,500,000.

Seven fishermen were drowned on the bar at Columbia river, Oregon, on Saturday, and a number of others are missing.

Brown's Household Panacea

Is the most effective Pain Destroyer in the world. Will most surely quicken the blood wherever taken internally or applied externally, and thereby more certainly relieve pain, whether chronic or acute, than any other pain alleviator, and it is warranted double the strength of any similar preparation.

It cures pain in the side, back or bowels, sore throat, rheumatism, toothache and all aches.

The great relieve of pain, "Brown's Household Panacea," should be in every family. A teaspoonful of the Panacea in a tumbler of hot water (sweetened, if preferred), taken at bedtime, will break up a cold. 25 cents a bottle.

Much Sickness,

Undoubtedly with children attributed to other causes, is occasioned by worms. Brown's Vermifuge Comfits, or Worm Lozenges, although effectual in destroying worms, can do no possible injury to the most delicate child. This valuable combination has been successfully used by physicians, and found to be absolutely sure in eradicating worms, so hurtful to children. Twenty-five cents a box. t,th&f

Dissolution of Co-partnership.

PORTSMOUTH, May 12th, 1880.

THE CO-PARTNERSHIP heretofore existing between David Kimball and Frank J. Philbrick, under the firm name of DAVID KIMBALL & CO., is this day dissolved by mutual consent. The business will hereafter be conducted under the name of DAVID KIMBALL & CO., as heretofore, by Mr. Philbrick, who will settle all accounts.

DAVID KIMBALL.
F. J. PHILBRICK.

Notice of the dissolution of the partnership between myself and Frank J. Philbrick having been made public, it seems only an act of simple justice to all that our association, covering a period of nearly ten years, was at all times harmonious, and gave me full confidence in Mr. Philbrick's integrity. This I may receive the patronage of the friends of the late firm, to which his character and acquirements entitle him, is my sincere wish. In closing a business life of more than fifty-six years, I am led to look back with grateful remembrance of the many friends who have gone, who kindly gave me their confidence and esteem, and to those who remain, I tender my heartfelt thanks for their continued friendly interest and regard.

DAVID KIMBALL.

AROUND HOME.

See notice of strawberry festival, in another column.

The United States district court will be in session at Exeter to-day.

Hon. Charles Levi Woodbury of Boston was in town on Monday. The judge leaves for the Cincinnatti convention on Thursday.

George A. Bailey, G. W. C. T. of New Hampshire, is to visit Strawberry Bank Lodge, I. O. G. T., Wednesday evening of this week.

It is announced that Mrs. J. K. Little of Exeter was one of the victims of the Narragansett horror, her body having been recovered.

The schooner Grace Choate, Robinson master, arrived on Sunday with 60,000 lbs. of split fish; and the Bell View, Perkins master, came in on the same day with 7000 lbs.

Major Urch has applied for patents on his marine bicycle. There are about eighteen applications connected therewith and now in process of examination at Washington.

The graduation exercises at Brackett academy, Greenland, are to take place next Tuesday evening, commencing at eight o'clock, and promise to be of unusual excellence.

Class day exercises at Miss Morgan's seminary take place next Thursday afternoon, commencing at three o'clock. The class reception follows in the evening at eight o'clock. Invitations to both are now being sent out.

Five or six men were busily engaged on Monday in picking green peas at the farm of Charles Hayes & Son. The pods are quite well filled out, though it is a week or ten days earlier than green peas are usually fit for market in this latitude.

It is said that the Wentworth house will open next week with over a hundred guests. Messrs. Stoddard Brothers will supply the livery connected with the house, and it will be under the direction of John Clark; no better man can be found for the position. Mr. Edward K. Cox, the well-known experienced driver from the White Mountain region, will have charge of the coaching between the railway stations and the Wentworth. Mr. Cox has been widely known to visitors in the mountain region for many years, and the engagement of such a man for this service is an indication that the managers will omit nothing to secure the safety as well as the comfort of their guests.

The schooner Mary E. Caswell, Downs master, left this city on Thursday morning of last week at seven o'clock, and was back at the wharf again at half-past five o'clock in the evening of the same day, with fifty barrels of mackerel, taken off the Shoals; the whole fare was taken by C. Sullivan & Co. On Sunday the same vessel took twenty-one barrels of mackerel, a portion being disposed of to "cruisers" outside of the harbor, Sullivan & Co. taking the remainder. The Mary E. Caswell is now a much handsomer craft than ever before, and looks like a new vessel, which she virtually is, the repairs upon her having been thorough, and the alterations and improvements extensive. She is a good boat.

There were several battles at the unfinished earthwork fort on Gerrish's island, Kittery, on Sunday. The little steamer La Chiquita, of South Newmarket, came down the river with a gander party, landed most of the crowd and a couple of flour barrels containing tonic and other sea stores on the beach at the fort, and went out to Branscom's rock buoy to fish, returning in an hour or two, when all hands went ashore. From this time until the little steamer tripped her anchor and started for up river, the attention of a number of the party was about equally divided between investigating the contents of the flour barrels and punching each other in the head, either the tonic or the warlike influences of the fort being too much for their nerves. First there would be a little knock-down and a large expenditure of strong words; then the warriors would be separated by the others, and all hands would gather at the barrel; and then pretty soon there would be another war. 'Twas a hard crowd, apparently.

We are informed that the "sea-robin," a fish which has hitherto been so rare in the waters of this vicinity as to be practically unknown, but which abounds in Vineyard sound, is considered a great delicacy in France, where it is occasionally taken, but is not eaten at all by the fishermen or shore-residents of the Vineyard region. A very few of the handsomely-colored, odd-looking fish were taken in the Harding weir last year and the year before, but this year they are more numerous; six or eight of those taken have been sent to the aquarium, and all the others turned loose well up in the river in hope of stocking it—all but one, which was given to an epicure in fish, to eat, for the sake of securing his report on the value of the fish for table purposes. The recipient of the fish has not yet reported, and it is not known whether his courage failed at the critical moment, or not.

One morning in the early part of last week there was a fleet of twenty-five fishermen waiting at the lower weir, near Gerrish's island, for bait which was expected to be in the meshes when Mr. Beane should tie up the purse; but there was none. Just as the fleet was getting under way to go outside a large school of hard-heads was seen coming in between Horn and White islands, and in less time than it takes to write this, twenty dories were in the rear of the flying squadrons, driving them pell-mell into the river, where a hundred and fifty barrels were scooped in as fast as busy hands could manipulate the nets. The fishermen got their bait that morning for nothing.

Grand Worthy Chief Templar George A. Bailey will visit the Good Templar lodges in this city and vicinity on the 15th, 16th and 17th of July.

THE CONCORD RAILROAD.

The recent partial change in the direction of the Concord railroad corporation, by which certain managers of the Old Colony line were made directors of the Concord railroad, is not without its significance to Portsmouth. It will be remembered that when Ex-Gov. Stearns was president of both the Concord and the Old Colony roads, the project was seriously entertained of transferring the carriage of coal from the wharves in this city to New Bedford, (to which port coal freights are of course lower than to Portsmouth,) and transporting coal from New Bedford to Manchester at about the same rate of through freights from the mines as if carried by way of Portsmouth. The Old Colony railroad controls by ownership and lease the lines of railway within fifteen miles of Manchester, and it is claimed that more unrestricted wharf facilities can be had at New Bedford than at Portsmouth. There is danger of our losing this business, unless we make an effort to retain it. We should afford to the railway leading from our city every facility for economically doing its business at our wharves, and encourage their outlay in our city in every proper manner.

CRICKET.

The names of the elevens which will play on the grounds at Frenchman's lane to-day are as follows:

Boston—Wallace H. Bate, Geo. Wright, H. Ormiston, J. Schaefer, W. Pettitt, T. Pettitt, M. O'Hare, S. Shaw, F. Furniss, J. Rolfe, and J. Haigh.

Portsmouth—R. Nuttall, S. Wallis, S. Emery, W. Sladen, J. Rafter, J. White, G. Gray, J. Green, D. Collins, F. Cartledge, S. Moran.

O'Hare received a handsome prize bat for his good bowling during the season of 1876; he bowls "round arm," either right or left, and is "dead on the wicket." Shaw is an English professional from Notts county, England, and is a cousin of Alfred Shaw, the best bowler in all England. Shaw's bowling is not fast, but very puzzling and straight. Ormiston is the crack bat of the team, and a very fine one, too. Geo. Wright, the well known base-ball player, has been borrowed of the Longwood club for the occasion. Wright is probably the best bowler and bat in the country; he came from York county, England, to Boston, as cricket professional for the old Boston cricket club.

The visitors come determined to win, but the Portsmouth boys mean to give them a tough fight. Game will be begun at half-past ten o'clock this forenoon.

CHARLES GILMAN BREWSTER.

The announcement of Mr. Brewster's death has added a feeling of personal sorrow, with many persons in this city and elsewhere, to the pitying horror with which the first news of the terrible calamity on the sound was received. Though long a resident of another city and state, he is well remembered and warmly regarded by hundreds of our citizens who were boys thirty or forty years ago. Even as a boy he was noted for a conscientious regard for duty, inherited on both sides from his excellent parents, and as a man his adherence to honorable and just dealing was what such a boyhood promised; but with all this he enjoyed and keenly appreciated any innocent joke or harmless amusement. Sociable and kind of heart, strictly correct in personal and social habits, he was most beloved and honored by those who knew him best. The last time we met him was five or six years ago, when we spent several very pleasant hours in his store in Boston, and we found him then the same pleasant and companionable being, only more matured by years and the cares of business and family, that he was when we played with him in the long ago, and wondered at a boy who always seemed to think more of doing what was right than of doing what he wanted to. That such a man, whom we do not believe ever wantonly inflicted suffering upon dumb brute or human being, should lay down his life while yet in the prime of manhood, amid the unspeakable horrors of such a disaster as that of last Friday night, gives us a feeling of sadness which we cannot and would not express in words. Mr. Brewster's age was forty-seven years and six months, and he leaves a widow and three children to mourn the untimely death of a loving husband and father. I. P. M.

The remains of Mr. Brewster arrived in this city by the seven o'clock train Monday evening, and were deposited in the receiving tomb. There will be a service of prayers at the homestead, No. 19 Islington street, this forenoon at eleven o'clock, by Rev. Mr. McGinley.

POLICE COURT.

MONDAY, June 14; Batchelder, J.

CIRCUIT COURT--LOWELL, J.

The circuit court of the United States came in on Monday.

A. F. Howard, assignee of J. M. Carr, appellee, vs. C. Warren Brown, a creditor of the estate of Mr. Carr, whose claim was allowed by the district judge, from which decree Howard appeals. The motion before the court was that the apellee should file a declaration of his claim. It was ordered that the declaration be filed within fourteen days; plea in fourteen days after. Frink for Howard, assignee; Clark for Brown.

In case Healey vs. Cocheco National Bank, tried at the early part of the term, the plaintiffs moved for a new trial on the ground of misdirection to the jury. The motion was argued at some length by Thos. J. Smith for the plaintiff, and submitted on the part of defendants by Saml. M. Wheeler; decision reserved.

Bailey Wringing Machine Co. vs. Piper. The master in chancery in this case reported that after due notice the defendant had neglected to appear as required by the notice served upon him. A motion for a proceeding against the defendant was made. C. L. Woodbury, Hatch and Jillson for complainants.

Sias vs. Rogers Williams Ins. Co. Motion to amend, filed by deft., allowed; motion to remand, by the plff., refused. Copeland for plff.; Eastman for deft.

Hayden vs. Great Falls Manufacturing Co. Question whither a bill in equity on an infringement of a patent will lie after the patent has expired. The question is before the supreme court, and at present this court follows the former rule, and permits the bill to be brought. Roberts Bros. for plff.; Copeland for deft.

In Barron vs. Worthen, judgment on the verdict for plaintiff was ordered. Ray and Spring for plff.; Frink and Dole for deft.

BOW MISSION SERVICES.

The children's temperance service in charge of Mrs. Hooper, Saturday afternoon, was as usual quite interesting. During these warm days the attendance is not so large as in cooler weather, but the meetings are to be kept up every week independent of the season or the weather.

The gospel temperance meeting, Saturday evening, was a real good one, the first half-hour being devoted to a praise service, with selections from Gospel Hymns No. 3; and although the audience in the hall was not very large, the participants had the satisfaction of knowing that all "the sidewalks were full of 'em." After the service of song, the regular service was conducted by Mrs. Hooper and Mrs. Philbrick, and several ladies and gentlemen made remarks.

The bethel service, Sunday afternoon, was in charge of Mr. George Wallace; subject, the 91st Psalm. There was a children's bible service at the close of the bethel meeting.

On Sunday evening Mr. James Janvrin delivered a very able and eloquent address before the reform club, to a fair audience. The lecture was a review of the temperance movement for the past fifty years, with a sprinkling of personal experience. It was a strong argument in favor of total abstinence. Mr. Janvrin also reviewed the history of the Portsmouth reform club for the past four years or more, and paid a high tribute to woman's abilities and achievements in the work of reform. In concluding, the speaker said many good things of our city by the sea, his loved birth-place, yet "cursed with a curse," and expressed a hope that the day is not far off when the enemy will be so effectually banished from our midst that our sons and daughters will be free from its temptations. It is expected that the lecture will shortly be repeated. L.

YORK COUNTY ITEMS.

A salmon weighing twelve pounds was caught in one of the weirs at Gerrish's island on Sunday.

About one hundred and fifty migratory quails, from Messina, Italy, have been received by the Kennebunk Gun club, and turned loose in that vicinity. The acclimating of these birds has been successfully attempted in several portions of Maine before, they having this year appeared in the haunts where they or their progenitors were turned loose last year.

The engagements both at the Marshall house and the private boarding houses at York beach are far in excess of those of any former season. Hon. Carl Schurz, secretary of the interior, was among the later applicants at the Marshall house. The early engagement of rooms is a good evidence of the manner in which this fine locality is appreciated by summer visitors.

The United States steamer Tallapoosa, Lieut. McRitchie commanding, arrived at the navy yard on Monday evening from Washington and way stations. The Tallapoosa brought as passengers Congressman Farr of the third New Hampshire district, and family. Major Farr has suffered from ill health, and was obliged to leave Washington before the adjournment for that reason. He proceeds at once to his home at Littleton.

At Milford, Sunday evening, Mr. E. C. Batchelder was driving out with his wife and little son, when the horse ran away and threw them all out, the child being killed.

A tornado struck Barnstead and Gilmanton, Sunday evening, and did much damage. It was accompanied with rain, and lasted only about five minutes; it was about a quarter of a mile wide. It entirely destroyed five barns in Gilmanton, moved the church in Lower Gilmanton two feet, and blew off its steeple, killed horses and cows, and injured a boy seriously. It destroyed six barns in Barnstead, and uprooted a large number of timber and fruit trees.

Rev. W. S. Tucker, formerly a leading minister of the Baptist denomination, was on the 11th inst. ordained a deacon of the Episcopal church, at Wolfeboro' Junction by Rt. Rev'd. Bishop Niles. The candidate was presented by Rev. Mr. Beard, pastor of St. Thomas church in Dover. Rev. Mr. Tucker now has charge of the Episcopal church at the Junction. There was a large assembly of clergymen of the Episcopal denomination present, and the ceremony was an interesing one. Mr. Tucker is known as an able and efficient minister of the gospel, and will no doubt prove quite an accession to the Episcopal church.

Bonds worth $4000 were stolen from a Philadelphia safe, and J. F. Southern, the clerk in charge, was arrested. True tobacco is very scarce in the market, and commands high prices. A large bear has been making his presence felt in the vicinity of Skowhegan, Me., lately. He appeared on Peter Malbon's farm and killed a sheep and a colt a few days old. He took a fore quarter out of the sheep for a lunch, and the next night returned and ate up the colt.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is such a remedy, and no other so eminently merits the confidence of the public. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, to insure the greatest possible efficiency and uniformity of results, which enables physicians as well as invalids to use it with confidence. It is the most reliable remedy for diseases of the throat and lungs that science has produced. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt and certain relief, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it without difficulty. In the treatment of ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household, for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

The marvellous cures which AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has effected all over the world are a sufficient guaranty that it will continue to produce the best results. An impartial trial will convince the most sceptical of its wonderful curative powers, as well as of its superiority over all other preparations for pulmonary complaints.

Eminent physicians in all parts of the country, knowing its composition, recommend AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL to invalids, and prescribe it in their practice. The test of half a century has proved its absolute certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

SAMUEL CLEAVES & SON.

Daily Chronicle.

A Smart Girl.

They have smart girls in Toledo, according to the following story which comes from that city:

A man in Toledo, having a wife and three children, became enamored of an intriguing woman, and procured a divorce in an obscure Indiana town. He did not say a word about it at home. One day his oldest daughter received a parcel of patterns from a lady in Indianapolis. It was an old copy of a country newspaper. An advertisement attracted her attention. It was an application by her father for a divorce from her mother. The young lady decided to visit her friend in Indianapolis, and to make an excursion to the country where the divorce had been granted. She returned with ample evidence that her mother was living with a divorced man. She showed her father a copy of the advertisement, and told him that she had found out all about him. He walked the floor for a minute, and then turned to his daughter:

"I have been a very bad and guilty man," he said; "but it is not too late to make amends. I will go to her and confess all, and undo what I have done."

"Confess first to me," said the girl. "It is Miss J—— who is the woman in the case, is it not?"

"It is."

"I thought as much. Are you to marry her?"

"I was to have married her."

"You must not go to mamma yet. She must be your wife again before she knows the fearful truth."

The young lady was equal to the emergency. The twentieth anniversary of her parents' marriage was close at hand. She invited all her friends, and had the couple married again by the same minister who performed the ceremony twenty years before. She took pains to have her mother's rival present, and remarked to her in a corner:

"Papa and mamma are married again as fast as the law can do it. Whether the truth is ever known depends upon you. Papa will never tell it, I am sure, and for mamma's sake I never shall. But it does seem to me, dear, that some other climate would suit your constitution better than this."

We are strongly disposed to regard that person as the best physician who does most to alleviate human suffering. Judged from this standard, Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, 233 Western Avenue, Lynn, Mass., is entitled to the front rank, for her Vegetable Compound is daily working wonderful cures in female diseases. Send for circulars to the above address.

—A committee on tableaux at a centennial celebration in Vermont issued an invitation asking "all the pretty women in town" to meet at the hall to take part in the tableaux, and every woman in the place came to time. That committee knew how to get plenty of help.

If you have a cough resulting from a sudden cold, procure Adamson's Botanic Balsam, take one half to one teaspoonful three times a day, and your cough will cease. Trial bottle, 10 cts.

—In the outskirts of New Orleans lives an old man, whose only companions are spiders of every shape and hue. He has never attempted an accurate census, but believes there are 500 or 600 of them, and the ceilings of his two rooms are completely hidden by the webs which they have spun. For the most part these strange pets make their own living, but occasionally the old man throws a handful of flies into the innumerable webs, and delights to see the spiders glide along the gossamer and seize their struggling victims.

PUBLIC BENEFACTORS. Harvey, Jenner, Guthrie, and other discoverers of great facts in medical science, have been properly called the world's benefactors. Whoever succeeds in lessening the pain and dangers of the human family deserves no less a title. Hunt's Remedy, the great kidney and liver medicine, is a medical marvel. It cures all complaints of the kidneys, bladder, liver and urinary organs—even Bright's disease—and it saves valuable lives by the thousand. Sold by all druggists. Trial size; seventy-five cents.

—Josiah G. Perry, who died at Worcester, Mass., a few days ago, lived and died on an estate which has been in the possession of his family for nearly 200 years. He was a member of the city government the first year Worcester became a city, and was a man of sterling worth and integrity.

—A collection of twenty-five pins, very well made, have been placed in the Louvre. They were found in the subterranean vaults of Thebes, and were made more than 3000 years ago, showing that the modern invention is only a re-invention.

Admirable Wine for Weakly Persons.

The most certain way to get something strengthening for aged and weakly persons, especially for females, is to purchase Speer's Sambucl Wine from druggists, which is beyond doubt the purest and most admirable ever made. It is rich, nourishing and most delicious, and at the same time entirely free from any sort of spirits. Whatever strength it contains is not added strength, but simply pure juice of the fruit. Many have tasted this tonic, and prefer it to imported wine. Its medicinal properties have been acknowledged. Physicians do not hesitate prescribing it to patients for general debility, etc., for it is a sort of medicine that one would rather take than not.

This wine is for sale by A. P. Preston, D. Kimball & Co., and F. B. Coleman, druggists, and H. F. Gerrish, grocer.

News and Notes.

The steamer Stonington was more seriously damaged by the collision than was first reported. Her bows for nearly twenty feet back from the stem and down to the water line were all stove to pieces, and the main deck for a long way aft twisted and torn up, showing that she was going at a much higher rate of speed when she struck the Narragansett than was at first admitted.

At Lafayette, Ind., a heavy rain storm on Sunday night flooded cellars and first floors, doing damage to the extent of $10,000.

The family and two friends of a Mr. Rook, at Williamsport, Pa., ten persons in all, were poisoned Sunday by eating lettuce on which Paris green had been sprinkled while growing. Mrs. Rook it is expected will die.

F. C. Fadner, editor of the Watchword, a temperance paper, was shot Monday while leaving his office in Rome, N. Y. He is under indictment for bigamy on complaint of an Ohio wife, and some suspect him of shooting himself.

Dr. Charles A. Guilmette, a well known physician, vocalist and teacher of music, died in Boston on Sunday. Dr. Guilmette resided in Concord, N. H., for several years.

The bark Exile, at New York on the 14th inst. from Antwerp, reports that on May 10th, when in latitude 44 34 north, longitude 18 50 west, she passed a large boat, bottom upward and a long time in the water, as it had lots of barnacles on it. There was a fresh breeze with a cross swell at the time or she would have endeavored to pick it up, as it looked like the launch of a man-of-war. Shortly afterwards passed two large deck beams, and a mast of about a one thousand ton ship, which had been a considerable time in the water, and looked like a bright mast. The above were thought to be relics of the wrecked British training ship Atalanta.

The senate on Monday confirmed Gen. James Longstreet of Georgia to be resident minister of the United States in Turkey. The nomination was confirmed without discussion, only three senators voting in the negative.

Congress has passed bills granting a pension to Ann M. Paulding, widow of the late Rear Admiral Paulding, and increasing the pension of Mrs. Julia Gardner Tyler, widow of Ex-President Tyler; also a bill granting the widow of Commodore John Guest a pension of $30 a month.

A despatch from Fort Davis, Texas, says Lieut. Mills arrived Sunday from Ysleta, with a force of Pueblo scouts. He reports discovering a fresh Indian trail and following it until night, camping on the trail in Vejo Pass. At daylight on the 11th the camp was attacked by hostiles. Simon, an old Pueblo guide, was killed. The Indians were flanked and routed. Lieut. Reid with a detachment is now following the trail.

At a picnic, Friday, near Groball, Texas, a difficulty arose between two men, Randall and Muse. Muse was wounded in the thigh and a bystander shot in the head accidentally by Randall, and killed.

Ex-Gov. Albert G. Brown of Mississippi was thrown from his horse into a pond near his home, Saturday evening, and drowned. Deceased resided near Jackson, Miss., and was sixty-seven years of age. He was governor of Mississippi two terms, and served the state as member of congress and of the United States senate.

The coroner's inquest in the Avon, Conn., murder case brought out nothing new, and the verdict was that Mrs. Avent and Mrs. Chidsey were murdered by some persons unknown. The jury were dismissed. Further investigations will be made by Grand Juror Dwight Avery.

The Selma, Rome & Dalton railroad in Alabama was sold on Monday for $1,503,000, and was bought by the East Tennessee & Georgia railroad, subject to an appeal to the United States supreme court in favor of the bondholders of the Selma, Rome & Dalton railroad.

W. W. Bailey, a farmer residing near Coneo, Miss., was killed by a man named Spiney, Saturday evening. Spiney rented land from Bailey, out of which grew the difficulty. The killing was unprovoked. Spiney escaped.

George D. Kirby quarrelled with Sandford G. Sisson at Westport, Mass., Sunday; David Brasso went to Sisson's assistance, when Kirby stabbed them both in three places. The wounds are reported dangerous. He was arraigned at Fall River, Monday, and the case was continued.

The accounts of Town Treasurer Lafayette Clapp of Easthampton, Mass., have been found to be about $2,000 short, and he has disappeared. The selectmen took charge of his books, Monday. A change of bondsmen being necessary, the selectmen had insisted upon auditing his accounts, but he refused, and a letter received from him Monday gave the shortage as his reason. Mr. Clapp had been town treasurer twelve years, and was a prominent Mason and church member.

Political Matters.

The latest election returns from Oregon indicate that the senate stands sixteen republicans to fourteen democrats, the house thirty-seven republicans to twenty-three democrats, with more than an even chance that the republicans will have seventeen in the senate and thirty-eight in the lower house. The last legislature was democratic.

The independent republicans of New York city, known as the "young scratchers," have taken early occasion to ratify the Chicago nominations, which they did by a meeting in Cooper Institute on Saturday night. Joseph H. Choate, Esq., presided and made the speech of the evening, in which he said that the whole "army of scratchers had joined the regular ranks, that every republican will respond to the roll call, and that the Empire state, which has the casting vote in this great contest, will give it with a will to Garfield and Arthur."

While some of the democratic journals have hastened to vilify Gen. Garfield, the more honorable Brooklyn Eagle says: "It would be hard to convince his congressional associates of any party that he was not an honest man in a pecuniary sense." The editor of the Eagle served as a representative in Congress with Gen. Garfield.

That question was settled long ago. In the first place the republicans will not be allowed to vote anything but the democratic ticket; and secondly, if the republicans were to outvote the democrats two to one, the democratic electors would be declared elected all the same.

Naval Gazette.

Medical Director Darius Duvall is placed on the retired list, to date from July 9th.

Lieut. James M. Miller, who has for some time been at his home in Boston, in ill health, left there on the 10th inst. for New York, to join the Constitution.

Almost Another Horror.

The steamer Anchoria, which left New York for Glasgow on Saturday last with the Tourjee excursionists on board, and the National line steamer the Queen, from London for New York, were in collision on Sunday afternoon at 1:20 o'clock, about 112 miles off Sandy Hook, and both were damaged, the Anchoria very badly. The Anchoria's passengers were transferred to the Queen, and the two vessels steamed slowly toward New York, where they arrived on Tuesday. There was a dense fog at the time of the collision, and the Anchoria was struck just forward of the bridge on the starboard side, the Queen's bow crushing through into the saloon. Two compartments of the Anchoria, and the bow compartment of the Queen at once filled; and had there not been moderate weather and a smooth sea from that time till the vessels got into port, another awful calamity must have resulted. No person was hurt.

South American Troubles.

The Peruvian charge d'affairs in this country has received from the consul general of Peru at Panama a despatch saying: "Tacna was occupied by the Chilians after three days' fighting. Col. Comacho of Bolivia was killed, and 8,000 men on both sides placed hors du combat. Tacna is now besieged by the allied armies. One thousand Chilian prisoners were taken by Montero. The Chilians are completely surrounded by Leiva and Montero."

Despatches received in London from Rio Janeiro say that the Chilians on the 7th inst. took Arica, Peru, by assault and made prisoners of the garrisons. The Peruvian monitor Manco Capac was sunk.

A telegram to London from Buenos Ayres, dated June 11th, says: "The situation here is worse. A commercial crisis is feared. A state of siege has been declared. Gold is twenty-five per cent premium."

There is no Pain Like Toothache!

It "beats the dogs" for making a fellow squirm. Nobody pities you. "Get it out," says one; "rub the tooth against a stone," says another; "when it begins to swell then it won't hurt so much," says a third. The reason of the ache is you didn't use SOZODONT, and prevent your teeth from decay.

Thirty Years' Experience of an Old Nurse.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup is the prescription of one of the best Female Physicians and Nurses in the United States, and has been used for thirty years with never failing safety and success by millions of mothers and children, from the feeble infant of one week old to the adult. It corrects acidity of the stomach, relieves wind colic, regulates the bowels, and gives rest, health and comfort to mother and child. We believe it the Best and Surest Remedy in the world, in all cases of Dysentery and Diarrhœa in Children, whether it arises from teething or from any other causes. Full directions for using will accompany each bottle. None genuine unless the fac-simile of Curtis & Perkins is on the outside wrapper. Sold by all Medicine Dealers, 25 cents a bottle. 3

See a Woman!

In another column, picking grapes for SPEER'S WINE. It is an admirable article, used in hospitals and by the first-class families in Paris, London and New York, in preference to European or California Wines.

Politics vs. Finance.

Amid the hurry and din of politics the unceasing demand for profitable investments continually recurs to the mind of the fortunate owner of funds beyond the amount of the daily actual necessities of life. But how many there are who, having been fortunately taught by experience, regularly aid the cause of charity and education and send to M. A. Dauphin, New Orleans, La., or same person at No. 319 Broadway, New York city, two dollars every month for the purchase of a ticket in the grand monthly drawing of the Louisiana State Lottery Company, which takes place invariably on the second Tuesday of every month at New Orleans, and where two dollars may produce a return of $20,000.

A CARD.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a recipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the REV. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D, New York C. D&WLJ29

AROUND HOME.

Eastern railroad stock seems to be on another boom. On Tuesday, at the first call of the brokers' board in Boston, twenty-five shares went at $36.50 each, and 215 shares at $37 each.

Spruce cottage, at Dow's woods, Rye, was on Tuesday opened by Mr. George E. Herbert of this city, who with his family will reside there during the season of summer travel.

The usual semi-annual dividend of three and a half per cent upon the shares in the Concord & Portsmouth railroad owned in this city and vicinity, will be paid by the treasurer of the Concord railroad at the office of William H. Hackett in this city, on Tuesday, the 29th inst., only; after that, at Manchester.

No freight trains are allowed to pass through the Eastern railroad depot in this city; all are drawn over the track on the north side of the station house. And as one after another of these improvements are seen, people ask, why was not this thought of before? What is now needed is a ladder with which to mount the steps of the passenger cars.

The schooner Oak Grove, previously reported as having been run into off the Shoals, is lying at the wharf back of Marvin Bros. & Bartlett's cod liver oil manufactory. Her cargo of bricks and pressed hay was for Boston, whither she was bound when the collision took place; the hay has been discharged and sold here, but the bricks will be taken to Boston in the schooner, which will proceed to that port for permanent repairs.

The rain and wind squall which passed over this city about eight o'clock Sunday evening was much more severe at Dover than here. Over two inches of rain fell in our neighboring city flooding, the gutters and streets, and making several washouts. Trees were blown down and windows blown in, and quite a number of chimneys lost loose bricks from their tops. Four young fellows who were boating on the lower Cocheco got caught in the squall, lost all control of their boat, and were mighty glad to be blown ashore all safe, but very wet.

On Friday night of last week, about ten o'clock, an elderly lady left the house of her brother on Christian shore to return to her home in the center of the city; but the night being intensely dark, and no street lamps lighted, she got bewildered after crossing the bridge, lost her way entirely, and was found a couple of hours later by persons who were in search of her, in a large yard into which she had wandered, and too frightened to move. This lady thinks the lamps ought to be lighted on such dark nights, even if the almanac does say there is a cheese-rind of moon somewhere.

Messrs. Geo. H. Adams & Son, of New York, have published the new "Columbian Railroad Atlas, and Pictorial Album of American Industry," which in addition to its maps has numerous illustrations with accompanying descriptions of various mercantile, mechanical and manufacturing establishments in the United States. Prominent among these we find views and descriptions of Frank Jones' bewery and malt houses in this city, with a brief pen and ink sketch of the proprietor; the Abbot Downing Co. coach establishment at Concord, and the Nashua Iron and Steel Co. at Nashua. Upon one page are three views of the "Wentworth" at Newcastle, with a description of this celebrated establishment, diagrams of the several floors, and other information. The book is of very large size. Its pages are 24x17 inches, and as a description of the various mechanical industries of the country it seems to be decidedly interesting, though as we turn its ponderous pages we must admit that it is about as "heavy" reading as we ever chanced to see.

Congressman Evarts W. Farr has returned to Washington.

One of Hon. Frank Jones' valuable driving horses was fatally injured on Monday night. The animal was hitched in such a way that he got cast, and in falling broke a shaft which penetrated his body.

Hon. Frank Jones, accompanied by Hon. A. W. Sulloway of Franklin, will leave on Thursday to attend the national democratic convention at Cincinnati. They will accompany the Massachusetts delegation.

The paymaster's train of the Eastern railroad reached Portsmouth on Tuesday evening. Paymaster Hobbs paid the employees on the main line and all the branches on Tuesday, and on Wednesday goes over the Portland, Saco & Portsmouth, and the Portsmouth, Great Falls & Conway roads, on his tour of disbursement.

A special train will be run over the Portsmouth & Dover railroad on the evening of the 22d inst., leaving this city at half-past six o'clock, and starting from Dover on the return at half-past ten, or after the close of the performance of the Great London circus. There will no doubt be a big delegation go up to see the baby elephant.

The Portsmouth Musical Association proposes to give a concert in Music hall in the near future, at which the chorus will be assisted by our best local talent as well as some from out of town, and Harlow's orchestra, enlarged for the occasion. In preparation for that event the association has been holding extra rehearsals; the next is appointed for this evening, and all members are earnestly requested to be present, in order that the managers may receive sufficient encouragement to proceed with the arrangements for the proposed concert.

The reports of the bad state in which the life-saving apparatus of the Narragansett was found at the moment when needed, and the comparative uselessness of her boats on account of their not being in condition to be easily lowered, incline us to make a comparison between the lack of attention to such matters on the huge steamer, ploughing her way on a dark night through a narrow channel swarming with vessels, and the care always exercised on the little steamer Appledore ever since Capt. Rand has commanded her. We have made a good many trips in her, and we have always noticed that as soon as she left her moorings the very first thing done by the hands was to swing the boat outboard, and see that the falls were all clear for running, the plug in, and oars and rowlocks in the proper places; and this duty was attended to with the same care, whether the passengers on board numbered one or a hundred.

FAST DRIVING.

Richard Watkins visited this city on Tuesday afternoon from a neighboring town, and amused himself by driving at a furious rate through some of the business streets. Quite an excitement was created among the citizens. Watkins was arrested on a complaint for fast driving, and though apparently unconscious of going at improper speed, several responsible citizens, among them an alderman, testified against him, and he was sentenced to pay a fine and costs amounting to $10.18.

CRICKET MATCH.

The match between Boston and Portsmouth was played here on Tuesday, resulting in a victory for Portsmouth. Owing to a previous engagement Geo. Wright was unable to appear, and Schafer was at Lynn, so that Boston came down two players short. Mr. Sladen and Sam. Shaw tossed up for innings, Sladen winning. It was decided to send Boston to the bat, and Shaw sent Small and Rolfe to the wickets.

Nuttall opened from the railroad end. After a few overs Small was bowled by Emery, and in a short time Rolfe left too, bowled by Emery. O'Hare came on and was run out, and Garland was bowled by Nuttall. Shaw and Furniss now held the wickets, and Captain Shaw of the Bostons gave the lookers-on a splendid exhibition of scientific cricket. Shaw's leg hitting and cutting were very clean and hard. Furniss was bowled by Emery, but Bate coming in he and Shaw made a stand of about three-quarters of an hour; but at last Shaw was caught by Abbott off Nuttall for a splendidly played seventeen. Bate soon retired, caught by Abbott off Nuttall. Bate's defence was very good. Jones came in, but was bowled by Emery for one. The innings of Boston closed with a score of fifty-six.

Portsmouth now took the wicket, Shaw bowling from the upper and O'Hare from the railroad end. Nuttall and Wallis were the chief scorers, Nuttall going out for a round eight, and Wallis driving hard for ten. The Portsmouths were all out for twenty-six, and it looked like a defeat for them. But Nuttall and Emery, supported by good fielding, raked down the Boston wickets in quick time, the Bostons' second inning closing for seventeen.

Portsmouth now took the bat again, having forty-eight runs to get, to win. Collins, the "not out" of the first inning, went to wicket, and was bowled by O'Hare on the second over. Sladen was caught by Shaw off O'Hare, for nothing. Grey was bowled by Shaw, for one. Emery went in, partnering Nuttall, and the two had made something of a stand when Emery was run out for six. Nuttall was now joined by Wallis, and the two made it lively for the Bostons. Wallis got on to the bowling after an over, and then he did rushing business. Drive after drive followed from him, until finally the Bostons began to think of putting a man on the railroad track to chase the long hits made by Wallis. Nuttall was also doing some splendid work, and received frequent applause for his magnificent blocking. Wallis was finally run out, after having the best score ever made on the field put to his credit. Among his hits were five threes, seven twos and ten singles. His was a truly magnificent inning, and he was loudly applauded for every hit. He came out for thirty-nine. Nuttall still held his end, but was finally caught by Jones off O'Hare for a splendidly played twenty-eight. Portsmouth's inning closed for seventy-eight.

Following the match Mr. Shaw of the Boston club presented the ball to Mr. Sladen in a short speech, and soon after the Bostons left to catch the half-past five o'clock train. The score is given below:

Mr. G. A. Hammond of Eliot, who was on board the ill-fated Narragansett, arrived in this city Monday. Dissolution of Co-partnership.

PORTSMOUTH, M-y 15th, 1880.

THE CO-PARTNERSHIP heretofore existing between David Kimball and Frank J. Philbrick, under the firm name of DAVID KIMBALL & CO., is this day dissolved by mutual consent. The business will hereafter be conducted under the name of DAVID KIMBALL & CO., as heretofore, by Mr. Philbrick, who will settle all accounts.

DAVID KIMBALL.
F. J. PHILBRICK.

Notice of the dissolution of the partnership between myself and Frank J. Philbrick having been made public, it seems only an act of simple justice to add that our association, covering a period of nearly ten years, was at all times harmonious, and gave me full confidence in Mr. Philbrick's integrity. That he may receive the patronage of the friends of the late firm, to which his character and acquirements entitle him, is my sincere wish. In closing a business life of more than fifty-six years, I am led to look back with grateful remembrance of the many friends who have gone, who kindly gave me their confidence and support; and to those who remain, I tender my heartiest thanks for their continued friendly interest and regard.

DAVID KIMBALL.

ANY DRUGGIST WILL TELL YOU ITS REPUTATION.

A Nurse's Revenge.

In the absence of the head of the household the nurse furnishes the census-taker with the information he desires.

"My master," she says, "is an idiot."

"Completely?"

"Completely. Not of the violent kind, but harmless. His wife is eighty-two years. Only one child, a son aged thirty-five. No, he can neither read nor write."

"Thank you, mademoiselle."

"Do not mention it, sir."

"Catharine," says the butler, when the official has departed, "where do you expect to go to when you die? You know your master belongs to the academy, and missus is only thirty and their boy is at the infant school."

"I know it, but I'll teach them to suck a lady for having a few habitual discrepancies in the marketing account. Avenged! Ha! ha!"

—"I'm no physician, but I've heard that iron in the blood is good," said Macbeth, as he jabbed his dagger into King Duncan.

—In Stanstead, Canada, a man sold ten-cent packages, "warranted sure death to potato bugs; no risk of poisoning animals, as with Paris green." The packages were not to be opened until time to use them. One victim, having three, opened one, and found two square blocks of wood, on one of which was written—"Place the bug on this block, and press firmly with the other."

—Howard's wife deserted him at Iola, Kan., and positively refused to return to him. He procured the services of two clergymen, who accompanied him to her father's house where she was living, and spent an entire afternoon endeavoring to effect a reconciliation. Howard was willing to promise anything she demanded, but she stubbornly resisted all arguments, and the ministers gave up the task. That night Howard broke into the house with an axe, chopped his wife frightfully, and would have killed her if her father had not shot him dead.

—"Are you prepared for death?" the clergyman asked, with a tremor of emotion in his voice as he took the sick woman's hand in his own. A shade of patient thought crossed the invalid's face, and by and by she said, "she didn't hardly think she was; there was the little bedroom carpet to be taken up yet, and the paint up stairs had hardly been touched, and she did want to put up new curtains in the dining room, but she thought if she didn't die until next Monday she would be about as near ready as a woman with a big family and no girl ever expected to be." P. S.—That woman got well.

A delicious family medicine prepared from the true Jamaica ginger, combined with choice aromatics and genuine French brandy, Sanford's Jamaica Ginger is consequently not only the most agreeable, but the most effective household remedy for every form of bowel complaints, weak and debilitated systems, dyspepsia and sluggish digestion, that can possibly be compounded. To insure specific results call for Sanford's.

—A long-winded lawyer (not in St. John) lately defended a criminal unsuccessfully, and during the trial the judge received the following note: "The prisoner humbly prays that the time occupied by the plea of the counsel for the defense be counted in his sentence." This recalls an incident in a state supreme court. The late Mitchell Sanford was arguing a case, and the late Judge Gould was presiding. The judge had interrupted the counsel considerably, and when he reminded the counsel that his "hour was up," the latter said, "Well, Your Honor ought to give me half an hour more, for you have talked half the time since I have been on my feet." The same judge once fell into a ferry-way, and, unable to swim, had the presence of mind to turn on his back and float until he was rescued. In narrating the circumstance to a lawyer he said: "All I had to do was to keep on my back with my mouth shut for three minutes." The lawyer exclaimed: "Judge, how did you manage to keep your mouth shut so long?"—St. John Globe.

Cuticura

HUMORS OF THE BLOOD, SKIN AND SCALP.

CUTICURA RESOLVENT is the most powerful Blood Purifier and Liver Stimulant ever compounded. In fact forty minutes after taking the first dose it may be detected in the blood, sweat, and urine, showing that it has entered the blood and been distributed throughout the entire system. In its passage through the circulating fluids it meets with the corrupt particles of matter which form and sustain disease, with which it chemically unites, destroying and gradually eliminating them from the system.

Hence its power to forever cure Scrofulous, Cancerous, and Canker Humors, which unchecked fill the body with foul corruptions, and rot out the delicate machinery of life.

CUTICURA, the great external remedy for all Humors of the Skin and Scalp, Ulcers, Sores and Discharging Wounds, is the most soothing and healing of outward applications. It speedily destroys fungous and parasitic growths, restores the oil glands and tubes to a healthy condition, and cures, when assisted by the CUTICURA SOAP, diseases of the Skin and Scalp which have been the torture of a lifetime.

SKIN DISEASE.

Great Suffering for Sixteen Years. A Wonderful Cure by the Cuticura Remedies.

MESSRS. WEEKS & POTTER: Gent's—CUTICURA REMEDIES have done me a power of good. I have been afflicted with skin disease for sixteen years. Some days it troubled me more than others, but at night the itching nearly drove me wild.

I would scratch until the blood would run down my limbs.

I have tried several physicians. Some said they could cure me, but others said not.

I will say that before I used the CUTICURA REMEDIES I was in a fearful state, and had given up all hope of ever having any relief.

But, like a drowning man grasping at a straw, I thought I would try the CUTICURA REMEDIES, about which I had read so much.

They have performed a wonderful cure for me, and of my own free will and accord I recommend them. Yours truly, S. A. STEELE,

66 W. VAN BUREN ST., CHICAGO, ILL., March 7, 1878.

MORE GOOD THAN DOCTORS

In Three Years of Treatment.

Gentlemen,—Please find 50 cents to pay for small box of CUTICURA and direct it to me. The dollar box you sent me has done me more good than all the doctors in three years. The doctors have done me good. My feet and legs are healing fast. It is indeed CUTICURA.

Yours truly, EVAN MORGAN, P. M.

MOSCOW, MINN., June 25, 1878.

FOR

Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

Diseases of the pulmonary organs are so prevalent and fatal, that a safe and reliable remedy for them is invaluable to every community. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is such a remedy, and no other so eminently merits the confidence of the public. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, to insure the greatest possible efficiency and uniformity of results, which enables physicians as well as invalids to use it with confidence. It is the most reliable remedy for diseases of the throat and lungs that science has produced. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt and certain relief, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it without difficulty. In the treatment of ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household, for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

The marvellous cures which AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has effected all over the world are a sufficient guaranty that it will continue to produce the best results. An impartial trial will convince the most sceptical of its wonderful curative powers, as well as of its superiority over all other preparations for pulmonary complaints.

Eminent physicians in all parts of the country, knowing its compositions, recommend AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL to invalids, and prescribe it in their practice. The test of half a century has proved its absolute certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

Metropolitan Advert's ng Rates.

The prices which some of the most influential papers in our large cities get for advertising, will seem to most people as enormous. But the expenses of publishing these papers are also enormous, and their circulation is great; also, too, is their influence. The Chicago Tribune, we are informed, receives $26,000 for a column one year. The New York Herald and Sun each receive $39,733 a year for their cheapest column, and the price for a preferred position is three times that. The New York Tribune receives for its lowest column $27,794, and for its highest $45,948. And these papers are never at a loss for an advertisement to fill their columns. Their patronage comes not from any desire of their patrons to assist their respective papers, but from business men who find it profitable to advertise.

A man named Johnston, residing near Aylmer, Ont., killed his brother and immediately afterwards committed suicide. Lunacy is supposed to be the cause of the tragedy.

Five hundred of Sitting Bull's Sioux surrendered at Fort Keogh to Gen. Miles on the 14th inst. They came from the British possessions, where they were starving.

Robert Deconcrier, who premeditatedly shot his brother at Lambton Mills village, near Toronto, last fall, for which crime he was to have been hanged on the 15th inst., died suddenly in his cell in the jail on the previous day. It is said that outside friends stealthily conveyed to him a vial containing prussic acid.

The Old Story.

The morning sunlight looked in through the silken curtains, lighting the room as with an angel's smile, suddenly enveloping the face of the occupant with a strange brightness and transforming her pale brown hair into waves of glistening gold. Said the sunlight: "Maiden, I missed you from the garden where I used to find you every morning, and I came here to seek you. Summer will soon be here with her roses almost as bright as your cheeks. Are you ill?" "O, no!" responded the maiden, warming her thin, bloodless hands in the sunbeam, "only a little weak; I shall soon be out in the garden to greet you—to-morrow perhaps. I was just planning how I should arrange my flowers this year, when you peeped in. Are my lillies up yet?" "Yes, your lillies are up; I have just been warming them. I have tired you," said the sunlight, as he noticed the wearily drooping eyelids; "I will come again to-morrow if you are not in the garden"—and silently withdrew, leaving the fair slumberer alone in the gloom. A few hours later the moonlight stole softly through the silken curtains, which were gently rustling in the night breeze. "How cold!" said the moonlight, as she touched the pallid brow, and then gently laid her hand on the pulseless heart. "Dead!" she shudderingly whispered, as she withdrew through the softly rustling curtains. It is the old, old story of consumption. How she flatter her victims at morning with hope's honied words, and at evening makes them the prey of the spoiler! Statistics show that one-third of mankind die of this disease, and of these, far the greater part are young persons between the ages of fifteen and twenty-five, in the dawn of manhood and womanhood. For many years, consumption was generally believed to be incurable. But medicine in her triumphant march against disease has already added consumption to her list of conquered. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures this dread disease if resorted to in time. For a full consideration of the disease and its rational method of treatment, read the article on consumption in the People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, the most reliable popular work upon Physiology, Hygiene, Diseases and their Remedies, yet published. Price 1.50. Address the author, R. V. Pierce, M. D., World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

The advocates for marriage with a deceased wife's sister in England are very actively organizing their ensuing campaign. They believe that the new Parliament will give the desired relief.

Haunted Me.

A workingman says: "Debt, poverty and suffering haunted me for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for doctoring, which did no good. I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I procured Hop Bitters and commenced their use, and in one month we were all well, and none of us have been sick a day since; and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your families well a year with Hop Bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost."—Christian Advocate.

Terrible ravages are being made by army worms on Long Island and Jersey farms. The farmers are making a stout defence against them with intrenchments of ditches and lines of fire. In many cases the green crops have been cut down to save them from the insect. The potato bugs have also made their appearance in alarming numbers.

FOR PRESIDENT.

James A. Garfield,

OF OHIO.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT.

Chester A. Arthur,

OF NEW YORK.

Chronicle Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 14th.

On Wednesday, the 16th, it is now certain that the republican congressmen will go home, and democratic congressmen to Cincinnati. That day is the now fixed and grateful day of adjournment. Grateful certainly, to congressmen, for the halls they sit in while on duty in this torrid climate are little better than ovens. "Old Ben Butler" was the only member of the house who ever vigorously and successfully attacked this nuisance of bad ventilation in our legislative halls. His failure to come back to this congress was a public calamity, as it stopped his energetic efforts in that direction.

What this congress has done at this session has been influenced much, of course, by the fact that a presidential election occurs this fall, and many congressional seats are to be filled. It is probable that much evil has been prevented by this consideration. Members who look for success do not propose rash measures. Herein is the best argument for short presidential and congressional terms.

Speculation as to the Cincinnati candidates runs high here to-day, with, I think, a decided gain for Hancock in the general run of preferences expressed.

A large number of Arkansas editors have just arrived here on a pleasure trip, with numerous ladies. They visit the president to-day, and will start on their return trip to-morrow evening. Like their Massachusetts predecessors, they are welcomed by everybody.

As this congress has done almost nothing but pass the regular appropriation bills, and some unimportant general legislation, it may be of interest to give a short account of these appropriation bills. Formerly the general appropriations were made by twelve bills, and congress used to consider it its first duty to have the bills introduced and referred to the proper committees. They were then passed as fast as they were reported back.—no party legislation, no riders, nor any long useless debates, were had on them. The estimates of the department officers were carefully made, and congress respected them. So there were no long squabbles over the provisions of bills, etc. These bills were designated as follows: the army, navy, post-office, pension, Indian, fortification, military academy, consular and diplomatic, legislative, executive, and judicial, and deficiency bills. To these the present congress has added as regular the District of Columbia and the agricultural bills. All of these have passed both houses and been sent to the president, except the general deficiency bill, which goes to the house to-day with senate amendments which will probably be concurred in. These bills, including the pension deficiency bill, aggregate about $190,000,000.

Mr. Windom addresses the senate to-day on the "Exodus," in reply to a speech made by Senator Voorhees sometime ago, and in which he begged Senator Windom not to interrupt him. Let us see if Senator Voorhees does as he required Senator Windom to do. KNOX.

News and Notes.

A telegram from an official source in Havana says that neither the captain general of Cuba nor the commandant general of the naval squadron has any knowledge that any American vessel or a vessel of any other foreign nation has been detained or searched by a Spanish man-of-war, and deny that there is any such man-of war as the Nuncio.

Benjamin Eastman was arrested at Huntington, Mass., on the 16th inst., as the murderer of Perley B. Hutchins of Little River in that town a few weeks since. Eastman is the man who was held on bail recently for a murderous assault on his own brother, and one theory is that both brothers were concerned in the murder of Hutchins, and that Benjamin, fearing a confession on his brother's part, attempted to put him out of the way.

Among the Masonic personals in the Washington Herald of the 13th inst. was the following: "Brother James A. Garfield is a charter member of Pentalpha Lodge No. 23, and a member of Columbia Chapter No. 1, Columbia Commandery No. 2, and Mithras Lodge of Perfection, A. and A. Rite, all of Washington, D. C. Brother Chester A. Arthur is a member of all the Masonic bodies in New York city."

The Cincinnati Commercial says that "the wheat crop, according to the reports from various places, will be the largest harvested for many years. Many farmers will commence cutting this week."

Edward W. Stratton, son of a former pastor of the Old South church in Worcester, Mass., was arrested on the 14th inst., for the larceny of $200 worth of wearing apparel, jewelry, etc., belonging to the boarders in the house of Mrs. B. B. Rand, in that city. About fifty dollars worth of the stolen articles were found on his person; the rest had been pawned.

P. K. Millay, sheriff of Sagadahoc County, Me., was shot in the leg, on the 15th inst., while attempting to serve a writ of ejectment against Alvin and Jesse Huntington of that place. Millay's wound is not considered dangerous.

The First National bank of Brattleboro', Vt., whose capital stock is $300,000 and which was supposed until a few days ago to have about $60,000 surplus, is insolvent, owing to the defalcation of large sums by the late president of the bank, Silas M. Waite. It is believed the bank will find $200,000 in forged paper on hand. The thief ran away on the 10th inst., and was last heard of in Portland, Me. His relatives fear, and many other people hope, that he has committed suicide.

In Titusville, Pa., a few days ago, Mrs. Joseph Bushnell died from the effect of kissing the dead body of her father ten days ago, while attending his funeral in Pittsburg. Her father died of erysipelas, and at the time mentioned she had a sore on her lips, through which her blood was poisoned. Her little daughter Ella is not expected to live, from kissing her mother.

A notorious counterfeiter named Harrison has been arrested at Toronto, and having given information to a detective where plates could be found, was taken by the detectives to the woods, where a box was found in the ground containing seven plates, viz: $10 on the Ontario bank, $5 on the Canadian Bank of Commerce, $4 on the Dominion bank, $1 and $2 on the Dominion of Canada notes, and $2 and $5 plates on United States legal tender. There is a standing reward of $5,000 by the United States government for the capture of the last two mentioned plates. The whole of them are valued at $15,000. Harrison has been counterfeiting for thirty years. He is an engraver, and his work is so well executed that his American notes passed through the treasury department at Washington unnoticed. The same can be said of the banks on which the Canadian counterfeits are printed. This is considered the biggest counterfeiting arrest made on the continent for years. Canada has been regularly visited by American detectives in search of the man.

A new and dangerous counterfeit $100 note on the National Exchange bank of Baltimore, Md., has made its appearance. The note is of the series of 1875, with the large medallion seal printed on excellently counterfeited fibre paper, and the engraving is done so well that a close examination by experts is required to detect the fraud. It is believed to be printed from the plates used for the $100 counterfeit notes on the Pittsburgh National bank of Commerce, which made their appearance in January.

The body of James Williams (colored) was found in the woods near Lawrence, Marion county, Ind., on the 13th inst., with the head crushed into a shapeless mass, and at his cabin his wife was found lying on the floor unconscious and with her skull crushed, but still alive, though recovery is doubtful. There is no clew to the murderers.

Mary Dean, a young colored woman living in a tenement on West Twenty-sixth street, New York, who had deserted her husband, Samuel Dean, was brutally murdered on the 13th inst., by her paramour, Augustus Lytton, who cut her throat from ear to ear. The murderer was arrested next day.

The census man has struck something interesting away down east in Oldtown, Me. He has found and "enumerated" a youth twelve years old, named James H. Fortier. He is the fifth in succession bearing the same name. A further circumstance is that each of the five was the first-born of his generation, and all five were born on the first day of April.

Weitzel and Fretz, bosom friends, wrestled for sport at a picnic, at Dayton, Ind. Fretz was thrown violently, and he appeared to feel his defeat considerably, though he laughed over it. A little later he took up a gun to fire at a bird, clumsily missed the mark, and shot Weitzel through the heart. The point to determine is whether the killing was accidental.

The suicide mania which has broken out in New York is ascribed by physicians to the excessive heat of the season the depressing effect of which is aggravated by the use of alcoholic liquors. People who would like to live the season through should keep sober and cool, for though they escape the deadly sunstroke, they do not know at what moment of delirium they may lift a hand against themselves. Seven suicides in the metropolis in a single day furnish an impressive warning.

A man thrust his arm into a hollow log to catch a rabbit at Americus, Ga., and was fatally bitten by a rattlesnake.

State Prison Report.

The annual report of the officers of the state prison for the year ending April 3d shows the whole number of convicts to be 151.—147 males and four females. This is a decrease of twenty-nine from the previous year, due, no doubt, in a great measure, to the admirable working of the "Tramp law," passed by the legislature in 1878, and to some extent to the revival of business throughout the country, which has helped to reduce the number of criminals. Constant employment has been furnished the inmates by the contractor, George T. Comins, who has been connected with the prison in that capacity for thirteen years. The financial results for the last twelve months are as follows: Earnings, $20,990.06; expenses, $16,665.20; gain to the state during the year, $4,334.86. The assets of the prison, May 1st, 1879, were $2013.91; and on May 1st, 1880, they were $13,122.07, showing a gain in that time of $11,108.17. To this sum should be added $51,000 which has been transferred to the state treasury from the earnings of the prison, showing a net gain in ten years of $62,108.16.

Naval Gazette.

Advices from Yokohama, Japan, of April 25th, say the U. S. S. Alert arrived at Kobe April 4th, to aid, if necessary, the United States consul in any trouble that might grow out of the destruction by fire of the American ship Saint Charles, thought to have been the work of one of the crew, who subsequently murdered the second mate of that vessel. "A few hours previous to the arrival of the Alert at Kobe," the commander reports, "the first mate of the American schooner Centennial was killed by her second mate, and the captain being absent at the time, the crew hailed the British gunboat Swinger for her assistance, which was promptly answered, and at their request the second mate was ironed and conveyed to the Swinger, and from there delivered to the United States consul. After the adjustment of the difficulty the Alert sailed on the 13th of April for Yokohama, where she was on the 25th."

Circumstances alter Cases.

The order given by the national republican committee for the old fashioned hand-made "Noriega" cigars for the use of General Grant and his friends during the coming presidential campaign has been countermanded. These popular cigars will however still be

There is no Pain Like Toothache!

It "beats the dogs" for making a fellow squirm. Nobody pities you. "Get it out," says one; "rub the tooth against a stone," says another; "when it begins to swell then it won't hurt so much," says a third. The reason of the ache is you didn't use SOZODONT, and prevent your teeth from decay.

Brown's Household Panacea

Is the most effective Pain Destroyer in the world. Will most surely quicken the blood whether taken internally or applied externally, and thereby more certainly relieve pain, whether chronic or acute, than any other pain alleviator, and it is warranted double the strength of any similar preparation.

It cures pain in the side, back or bowels, sore throat, rheumatism, toothache and all aches.

The great reliever of pain, "Brown's Household Panacea," should be in every family. A teaspoonful of the Panacea in a tumbler of hot water (sweetened, if preferred), taken at bedtime, will break up a cold. 25 cents a bottle.

Much Sickness,

Undoubtedly with children attributed to other causes, is occasioned by worms. Brown's Vermifuge Comfits, or Worm Lozenges, although effectual in destroying worms, can do no possible injury to the most delicate child. This valuable combination has been successfully used by physicians, and found to be absolutely sure in eradicating worms, so hurtful to children. Twenty-five cents a box. t,th&f

A CARD.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a receipt that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. AROUND HOME.

There will be an entertainment in the Methodist vestry, Friday evening, to consist of a lecture, readings and singing.

Several large bass, one of them weighing fifty pounds, were at Randall and Caswell's fish market on Wednesday, the 16th inst. They were taken in the Piscataqua, a short distance above the bridge at Dover point.

The schooner Aurora, Randall master, sailed from Calais, Me., for Dover, on the 12th inst., with a load of lumber, and put into Lubec next day in distress, having sprung a leak. She is an old vessel, and probably started a butt.

Workmen were engaged on Wednesday of this week in preparing the foundation for a big tank which the Eastern railroad is to put up on the land of the corporation between Railroad place and Vaughan street, for supplying the locomotives with water.

The steam launch Gypsy came off the marine railway at Kittery on Tuesday evening of this week, and went alongside the wharf at Noble's island; the boarding of the steamer's house is to be removed, leaving the frame, and canvass curtains substituted, to be rolled up or fastened down at pleasure. The schooner Flying Eagle will come off the ways to-day.

Stratham has a very nice town hall for a small town, it having been built about three years ago, and well taken care of since. It is a one-story building, having a sort of French roof, slated and ornamented with colored tiles. The inner walls are wainscotted and handsomely grained, and the hall is lighted by a handsome chandelier; it will seat about four hundred people.

On Sunday last a little seven-year-old girl named Nora Lee, residing with her parents on Water street, fell into the Cocheco river at Hughes' wharf, and would have been drowned only for the timely efforts of a young lad named John Clark, twelve years old. She had gone down twice and it was high water at the time, and young Clark coming along at the time and taking in the situation jumped in without a moment's hesitation and saved the little girl's life.—Dover Democrat.

A man in Seabrook recently got drunk and assaulted another man, for which he was arrested by a constable, whom he kicked viciously. Next day he was taken before a justice of the peace on two charges, and the rural Dogberry fined him for the first assault, but dismissed the complaint for assaulting the officer on the ground that the prisoner committed the assault only in order to get clear of the constable who had him in custody!

Concerning Elder A. A. Waite the Newburyport Herald of the 16th inst. speaks as follows: "Elder Waite is meeting with great success in Haverhill. At his Monday evening service the tent was filled to its utmost, and a large number went away unable to gain an entrance. Mr. Waite delived an able discourse, and at the close gave a chalk talk. Mrs. Waite made quite a lengthy address and she was listened to very attentively, convincing those present that women is man's best friend. At the close of the regular service an inquiry meeting was held, nearly one thousand remaining, a large number evincing a desired to become Christians. That these meetings are doing a good work is not questioned by those who are constant attendants. A pleasing event of the evening was a presentation of a sum of money to Mr. Waite by a little lad in behalf of himself and his boy companions as a token of their esteem."

YORK COUNTY ITEMS.

Mr. Samuel Blaisdell, of Beech ridge, York, has in his possession an old arm chair which is supposed to have been brought to the town at its first settlement; also a Scotch wheel upon which the first Mrs. Blaisdell of that town used to spin flax. The house in which Mr. Blaisdell lives was rebuilt in large measure from the materials of the original house erected by the immigrant Blaisdells more than two centuries ago.

YORK, ME., June 9th.

Mr. Allen C. Moulton, (firm of Moulton Bros., York corner, Me.,) last evening, June 10th, took unto himself a bride, and we trust a helpmeet (in its true senre,) in the person of Miss Lizzie Sewall, daughter of our worthy and esteemed sash and blind manufacturer, Mr. David Sewall.

The golden robins are "pairing." There is only one pair around here now. The feathers of these are very gaudy, as well as their style of manners.

Messrs. S. W. Junkins & Co. are making improvement by painting their stable, (the one now leased to Moulton Bros.) at the corner. Messrs. Will. Putnam and George Thompson are painters by contract.

Among other improvements we notice that G. F Plaisted has built (at his own expense) a useful and convenient sidewalk of over 300 feet, being about one-third the distance from his house to his store. Why will not others follow his example, and then let us all enjoy at small expense to each one, a good chance to walk? Roads are built for cattle and horses at tax-payers' expense; why not have a walk for "poor human nature" at human nature's expense? Echo answers, why? Let each one do a little, and the desired result is accomplished.

The Marshal house, the A 1 hotel, opens next week. The gentlemanly proprietor informs your correspondent that most of his rooms are already engaged.

The New Hampshire house at Long beach has been leased to new parties by Mr. Warren, the former landlord.

The rooms at the Goodwin house, Short beach, are entirely engaged, as well as those at Norwood farms, the Whiting house and other places.

The Sea Cottage stage and the "goodwill" thereof have been disposed of to parties yet unknown to your correspondent. P.

POLICE COURT.

WEDNESDAY, June 16; Batchelder, J.

Artie Barney and Olive Austin, for drunkenness, were assessed $9.90 each.

Political Matters.

President Hayes on Tuesday vetoed the deputy marshals bill, for abundant and valid reasons which he gave in his veto message.

Congress adjourned on the 16th inst., without having been able to do any very great harm to the country, thanks to the firmness and patriotism of President Hayes.

The delegate who began voting for James A Garfield on the second ballot, and continued to vote for him, was W. A. Grier, of Pennsylvania. He is a nephew of the late Justice Grier, of the United States supreme court, is a business man of Luzerne county, has no political aspirations, and says there "is no office I would have." He never saw Garfield till the convention met, but always admired him.

The irrepressible German-American Independent Association of New York, having got through with threatening to bolt Grant, and believing that they cannot support Arthur, are now turning their attention to the democrats, whom they inform that they cannot support Tilden.

The Dover Democrat of the 15th inst. had a leading article on "The Great Fraud of 1866." We commenced to read it, supposing of course that it was something about "Tilden and Reform"—a combination which was the biggest fraud we ever heard of—but it turned out to be only a yarn about Louisiana.

New Hampshire Items.

A valuable lot of silver ware, consisting of spoons, forks, knives, cake basket, caster, and other articles, stolen from the house of Rev. Levi Rodgers in Claremont, six years ago, have been found buried under a shed at the railroad station. It is supposed that one Rugg, who is serving a six years' term in the state prison for other burglaries committed about the same time, was the thief, but was prevented by his arrest from disposing of it.

The recent tornado in portions of Belknap and Strafford counties did much damage. It was about fifteen rods wide and at least twelve miles long, and everything in its course was leveled to the earth. A large number of barns were thrown down, other buildings were unroofed, valuable orchards and timber rnined, and several persons injured. The loss is roughly estimated at about $100,000.

Between the third and the eleventh days of the present month 16,518 vouchers were presented at the pension agency in Concord, and pensions were paid amounting to $470,337.15. The largest number of vouchers were presented on the tenth inst., when the pensions paid amounted to $93,279.01. It is said that although the number of pensioners and amounts disbursed have largely increased since the consolidation of agencies, the payments are made in much less time than was formerly required.

One of the census enumerators of Farmington, W. H. Plummer reports, that he found at the house of George C. Jordan, near Merrill's, corner, a maiden lady who lacks only about ten months of being one hundred years old; that reads common newspaper print without the use of glasses, and is quite robust and healthy. Her name is Catharine Hanson, and her father was Timothy Hanson, formerly a resident of Dover.

New York capitalists are about to buy land near Lebanon, on which to build a glove factory, employing two hundred persons, and a patent wrench factory, employing fifty.

New Publications.

"The United Service" for July has the following list of contents: The Puritan militia, by Chas. Edw. Banks, M. D.; Admiral David Glasgow Farragut, by J. J. Talbot; Sign-language of the North American Indians, by Lieut. W. P. Clark, U. S. A.; "Land ho!" by Comdr. Wm. Gibson, U. S. N.; The census in relation to the war power of the country, by Capt. Harry C. Cushing, U. S. A.; Wants of the navy—cannon, part third, by Commo. E. Simpson, U. S. N.; Hannibal; the English naval prize essay; editorial notes, and service literature. L. R. Hamersly & Co., 1510 Chestnut street, Philadelphia; $5 per year; single number fifty cents.

"Lucie Rodey," a "society novel" by Henry Greville, is published by T. B. Peterson & Brothers, Philadelphia. Lovers of a good novel should get Lucie Rodey, as no other French authoress of to-day equals Henry Greville in power and interest. Little Rodey teaches a lesson which will be felt even by those who read merely for the sake of the story. It is published in a large square duodecimo volume, paper cover, price fifty cents, in uniform style with Peterson's editions of "Dosia," etc.

"The Ode of Life," by the author of "The Epic of Hades;" Boston; Roberts Brothers, 1880. This poem treats of high themes but in popular and pleasing style. It is easy reading for those interested in serious subjects, and yet who prefer to have them approached reflectively rather than didactically. It will also be especially acceptable to such as have been reared in the Christian religion, and whose faith has not been shaken by science, nor enfeebled by indifference. Its spirit is lenient toward human frailties, portraying the struggle between good and evil, never doubtful of the issue, and warm with the emotions excited in one who contemplates soberly and thoughtfully all the aspects of life. These aspects are described under the most comprehensive heads that could well be devised:—Creation, Infancy, Childhood, Youth, Love, Perfect Years, Good, Evil, Age, Decline, Change. Thus in these eleven themes are condensed into one hundred and forty-three pages much that poetry can say in its own beautiful and suggestive way, of our life in its journey from its divine source and its return thither, its inward history and its outward relations. It sings of nothing very new, but the story is always fresh, and the form novel. It is pleasant on pages twenty-six and twenty-seven to catch a faint echo of Wordsworth's "Ode on Immortality," which has colored and will continue to color the thoughts of all men who meditate similar subjects. We never cease to expect some new disclosure in regard to life and immortality from the poet. He invents new words but it is the old, old tune; not a string has been added to that Æolian harp, which we may set in our window but whose music awakes or slumbers by no power of our own. However, we heartily commend this volume to many, who, even in this small city, are interested in all that belongs to the spiritual and higher intellectual life; and to those weary of the strained and ambitious and sensational literature of the times. Here all is natural, earnest, in a style flowing and adequate, and remarkable for the copiousness of its diction, in a lyric form, commonly somewhat involved and difficult, in this transformed into perspicuity, and extended to greater length than was ever before attempted in English literature.

Dissolution of Co-partnership.

PORTSMOUTH, May 12th, 1880.

THE CO-PARTNERSHIP heretofore existing between David Kimball and Frank J. Philbrick, under the firm name of DAVID KIMBALL & CO., is this day dissolved by mutual consent. The business will hereafter be conducted under the name of DAVID KIMBALL & CO., as heretofore, by Mr. Philbrick, who will settle all accounts.

DAVID KIMBALL.
F. J. PHILBRICK.

Notice of the dissolution of the partnership between myself and Frank J. Philbrick having been made public, it seems only an act of simple justice to add that our association, covering a period of nearly two years, was in all times harmonious, and gave me full confidence in Mr. Philbrick's integrity. That he may receive the patronage of the friends of the late firm, to which his character and acquirements entitle him, is my sincere wish. In closing a business life of more than fifty-six years, I am led to look back with grateful remembrance of the many friends who have gone, who kindly gave me their confidence and support; and to those who remain, I tender my heartfelt thanks for their continued friendly interest and regard.

DAVID KIMBALL.

ANY DRUGGIST WILL TELL YOU ITS REPUTATION.

"Early Poems."

Perhaps there are but few men living who in their youth had any poetic traits and did not at some period of their adolescence indulge to some extent in the pastime of writing poetry. Perhaps it may simply have been the customary rhyme made to his mistress' eyebrow, or even it may have gone beyond, to that period when the youthful writer sees in himself what others persistently fail to observe, traces of genius.

In after life, many a man has enjoyed a good laugh over this display of early infatuation; others have proudly preserved intact the carefully produced lines in their original manuscript, or per chance, in the copy of the village newspaper wherein it appeared under the head of "Poetry."

A few, a very few, can afford to rescue these results of "Childhood's happy hour" and breathe new life upon them in reproduction to the world.

We think it was Samuel Rogers who, born in London, in 1762, was the first man who was enabled to combine shrewd financering with successful verse-making. Rogers was immensely rich, and succeeded his father as the head of a prominent banking firm in London, and at the same time wrote many poems, but remarkable more for their elegance and grace of composition than for their strength and force.

Manchester in this state, has a banker—poet in the person of Moody Currier, a man who combines scholarly tastes with practical success in business affairs.

The Manchester papers affect a sort of surprise at Mr. Currier's poetic attainments. But he has been known as a reader of poetry and a critic, as well as a writer of versification.

Mr. Currier has recently had printed a neat volume of about sixty poems designated "Early poems by Moody Currier," and printed for private circulation. We do not think we can express our appreciation of these lines better than by adopting an extract from the notice of the volume published the Mirror:

The poems are all scholarly. Many of them draw their inspiration from fields that are only open to those to whom the German, French and Spanish are familiar tongues, and others circle about themes born of Greek culture and rugged Roman thought, sent down to us in language long dead. Still others are rich in sentiment, laden with the aspirations, hopes, doubts and fears that reveal to us our hearts, and teach us that God has made us better than we allow ourselves to appear to the world. Some of the sonnets and fragments are exquisitely sweet, and the longer poems are characized by a solid beauty of thought and expression which leaves its impress on the mind and recalls the reader to examine it again and again.

The book is printed at the Mirror office and its execution is creditable to that establishment. It is finely bound and contains a steel portrait of the generous patron of the public library of his adopted city, whose timely gifts, made while he can enjoy the pleasures of witnessing their beneficial results, are within the knowledge of a large portion of the people of our state.

A census enumerator found one hundred persons living in one house on Lowell street, Lawrence, Mass., which was considered a private residence. The occupants were French.

"The Doctor Told Me"

To take a blue pill, but I didn't for I had already been poisoned twice by mercury. The druggist told me to try Kidney-Wort and I did. It was just the thing for my biliousness and constipation, and now I am as well as ever."

Archæological researches in a mound near Sandefiord, Norway, have brought to light a boat sixty feet long. It is believed to be a Viking's ship, used for piratical expeditions a thousand years ago.

Prejudice Kills.

"Eleven years our daughter suffered on a bed of misery under the care of several of the best (and some of the worst) physicians, who gave her disease various names but no relief, and now she is restored to us in good health by as simple a remedy as Hop Bitters, that we had poohed at for two years, before using it. We earnestly hope and pray that no one else will let their sick suffer as we did, on account of prejudice against so good a medicine as Hop Bitters."—The Parent.—Telegram.

The board of aldermen of Paterson, N. J., took action recently looking to a prohibitory license fee of $1,000 a day to circuses. At the last visit of one of these traveling shows many persons acted as if they had gone mad, and the whole town seemed to have turned out. Working girls jumped from the windows of the mill when refused permission to go to the circus, and the mill owners complained of the show as a nuisance.

Malaria.

If you live in districts where you are subject to malaria, you should keep your liver and kidneys in perfect order that they may throw it off. The great preventive is the celebrated Kidney-Wort. Use it whenever you are constipated or bilious and you will never have a touch of the chills.

THE BEST REMEDY
FOR
Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

Diseases of the pulmonary organs are so prevalent and fatal, that a safe and reliable remedy for them is invaluable to every community. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is such a remedy, and no other so eminently merits the confidence of the public. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, to insure the greatest possible efficiency and uniformity of results, which enables physicians as well as invalids to use it with confidence. It is the most reliable remedy for diseases of the throat and lungs that science has produced. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt and certain relief, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it without difficulty. In the treatment of ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household, for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

The marvellous cures which AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has effected all over the world are a sufficient guaranty that it will continue to produce the best results. An impartial trial will convince the most sceptical of its wonderful curative powers, as well as of its superiority over all other preparations for pulmonary complaints.

Eminent physicians in all parts of the country, knowing its composition, recommend AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL to invalids, and prescribe it in their practice. The test of here a century has proved its absolute certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

The Army Worm.

The havoc of the army worm among the farms of New Jersey and Long Island bids fair to be complete and without remedy. The vineyards and farm lands of Burlington and Ocean counties, N. J.,—a tract greater than that lately burned over,—are being eaten clean by the pests, and a large portion of Long Island is being overrun by them, though the multitude is thickest on the south side around Islip, Amityville and Freeport. They march in solid column, eating everything as they go; corn-fields are ruined in a night, and wheat, rye, oats, barley and grass fall before them. At Babylon the roads are black; at Westhampton and Mattituck they are likened to the sands of the seashore, and their advance through the grass can be plainly heard. The worst thing about it is that the farmers seem utterly helpless; none of the usual remedies have been successful; Paris green and London purple have no apparent effect, and their number is so great that ditches and tar prove but temporary checks. Many of the farmers are thereforce cutting their half-ripe grain to use for fodder.

To Deaden Noise in Work-Shops.

Rubber cushions under each of the legs of the workbench. In a certain factory the hammering of fifty coppersmiths was scarcely audible in the room below, their benches having under each leg a rubber cushion.

Kegs of sand or sawdust applied in the same way. A few inches of sand or sawdust is first poured into each keg; on this is laid a board or block upon which the leg rests, and around the leg and block is poured fine dry sand or sawdust. Not only all noise, but all vibration and shock are prevented; and an ordinary anvil, so mounted, may be used in a dwelling-house without annoying the inhabitants. To amateurs, whose workshops are usually located in dwelling houses, this device affords a cheap and simple relief from a very great annoyance.—Workshop Companion.

— When cows have learned to read and horses to appreciate dry goods it will pay some enterprising firm to advertise itself on rocks, trees and fence boards.

—The census-taker in Aurora, Ind., has discovered a pretty young woman in his bailiwick who has seen but twenty summers, and who in that short period has been the wife of three separate and distinct husbands, and has been the mother of three noisy children.

— An exchange says: "A cow needs as much currying as a horse, and the result will be found in the milk pail." Of course it will, if a man is foolish enough to set the milk pail under the cow while he is currying her. The best way is to turn the pail bottom up, or leave it at the house till you are done currying.

We are strongly disposed to regard that person as the best physician who does most to alleviate human suffering. Judged from this standard, Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, 233 Western Avenue, Lynn, Mass., is entitled to the front rank, for her Vegetable Compound is daily working wonderful cures in female diseases. Send for circulars to the above address.

— Mme. de Sevigne proved herself a bad prophetess when, writing to her daughter, she predicted that Racine and coffee would soon go out of fashion. The great tragic poet is yet popular in France, and the French are still moderate coffee, or rather chicory drinkers, for the quality of the fragrant berry degenerates every day. Tea has always been looked on as an exotic in Paris. No working man or woman in a thousand ever tasted tea, which is looked on as a soothing draught in sickness.

If you have a cough resulting from a sudden cold, procure Adamson's Botanic Balsam, take one half to one teaspoonful three times a day, and your cough will cease. Trial bottle, 10 cts.

— Dr. Ely claims that tobacco injures the eye-sight. That is all well enough in theory, but if you have got an extra cigar about your person a smoker is pretty sure to discover it.

PUBLIC BENEFACTORS. Harvey, Jenner, Guthrie, and other discoverers of great facts in medical science, have been properly called the world's benefactors. Whoever succeeds in lessening the pain and dangers of the human family deserves no less a title. Hunt's Remedy, the great kidney and liver medicine, is a medical marvel. It cures all complaints of the kidneys, bladder, liver and urinary organs—even Bright's disease—and it saves valuable lives by the thousand. Sold by all druggists. Trial size; seventy-five cents.

—A telegram came to the Wesleyan female seminary of Cincinnati for Miss Mary Beach, daughter of a state senator, saying that her father had died suddenly of apoplexy. The school officials gave a ready assent to her speedy departure, and did all they could to soothe and assist the seemingly grief-stricken girl. She was joined at the depot by a young man whom she introduced as her cousin. He really was her sweet-heart, and had sent the message according to a previous understanding with her, not because her father was dead, for he was not, but to enable her to get out of the seminary and elope with him. They were married before the fraud was discovered.

The aged and infirm are strengthened and faculties brightened by Malt Bitters.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,

OF NEW YORK.

News and Notes.

A young man named Theron Holly of Stamford, Conn., step-son of the treasurer of the Stamford savings bank, shot at Richard Busteed, jr., son of Richard Busteed of New York, who returned the fire, seriously wounding Holly in the left side. Busteed fired from the top of a flight of stairs. The ball entered Holly's side, two inches and a half below the left nipple, and plowed the tissue for seven inches. The affair occurred about twelve o'clock on the night of the 15th inst., at the house of a Mrs. Kinsella. Busteed is under arrest.

The mystery surrounding the murder of Perley B. Hutchins, the wooden-bowl manufacturer of Huntington, Mass., who was found dead in his shop about two months ago with his skull broken and his throat cut, the factory having been set on fire to conceal the murder, has been solved. Benjamin Eastman and his brother Edwin were the murderers, and a quarrel over the division of the spoils led to the arrest of both. The property has been recovered.

It is believed there will be a stampede to the Big Horn country this summer. This region is famous for Indian watchfulness, and the attempt to murder every man who has had the temerity to enter it. The Black Hills Times says: "The Big Horn range of mountains are almost due west of the Black Hills, distant about 350 miles, and on a line with the great Comstock lode, of which the Hills belt is thought to be a continuation. That there are veins of the precious metals and acres of rich placers there we have no doubt, and in all probability the Black Hillers who are longing for a new wilderness to subdue and develop, will rustle from this date for a grub stake and stampede to the very latest centre of mining excitement."

In the police court at Bangor, Me., on the 16th inst., a desperate character named John Carson was held in the sum of $3,000 for entering the residence of Mr. James Haynes on the previous night. He entered the room of a young lady, who screamed for assistance, and in order to prevent a noise placed his hand over her mouth, when he was discovered by Mr. Haynes. A struggle followed, and Mr. Haynes got the burglar down and held him until the arrival of the police. The residence of Mr. J. T. Ricker was also entered the same night by another party, who escaped.

A despatch from Secretary Evarts says: "No complaint has been made by the owners of the schooner Eunice P. Newcomb, in reference to being fired upon by a Spanish frigate off the coast of Cuba, and we have no official information on the subject."

A terrible scourge, resembling dysentery, is prevailing in Adams, Mass., which so far has baffled the skill of physicians. Over 1,000 persons, old and young, have been stricken down. The physicians are busy night and day. Many cases, it is feared, will be fatal. Little doubt now exists but that the epidemic is occasioned by the impurities of the water in the reservoir, as several North Adams railroad men were taken ill immediately after drinking of the reservoir water.

Frank L. Hutchinson, mate of the schooner Susan B. Franklin of Greenport, N. Y., shot himself through the head, Wednesday, June 16th, while the schooner was at anchor in Vineyard Sound. He died instantly.

John Wight, aged twenty-two years and unmarried, was killed in the freight yard of the Nashua & Lowell railroad in Lowell, Mass., June 16th. He was shackling cars, and got caught between the bunters. He came to Lowell from Canada last fall.

Of the six thousand millions of dollars which it cost the nation to put down the democratic rebellion, twenty-five hundred and fifty millions was for pay, clothing and subsistence of the army; one hundred and thirty millions for arms; five hundred and fifty millions for pensions to soldiers; eighteen hundred millions for expenses and interest on loans; and one hundred and thirteen millions for assessing and collecting the internal revenue and other special war taxes. Nearly two-thirds of this immense sum has been paid already; and probably in thirty years from now the whole will have been paid.

Silas M. Waite, the high-toned thief who "went through" the First National bank of Brattleboro', Vt., has been president, cashier and pretty much all hands in the bank since 1878. He has made use of his almost unlimited power to steal at least $250,000, and it is feared even more, one account being to the effect that he has gotten away with about all the capital, surplus, deposits—in short, with everything but the banking rooms—and that the total of his plunder will foot up half a million.

Peter Bonfour, aged twenty years, employed by the Portland & Ogdensburg railroad, fell from a trestle near the Dismal pool in the White Mountain notch, Tuesday morning, the 15th inst., fracturing his skull. He was taken to Bartlett, and died in the evening.

In Rhode Island, according to the last report, over 10,000 children, or more than twenty per cent of those of school age, did not attend any school last year.

One of the richest and most famous monasteries in Italy is that of Monte Cassino on the line of railway between Rome and Naples; it was founded in 529, and has continuously existed ever since. Its library is wonderfully rich in written and printed documents, and the rents of the domain are adequate to maintain the institution. Its abolition and confiscation are now urged by the Italian radicals.

W. C. Stains, the Mormon immigration agent, who is now in New York, says that more Mormon proselytes are arriving in this country from Europe than ever before, notwithstanding Secretary Evarts' anti-Mormon circular of last year.

Harry Moulton of Sanford, a lad of about seventeen years of age, received a severe though not a fatal shot wound in the right side, lacerating the side in a shocking manner, and grazing the right lung, on Sunday evening, the 13th inst. He had just returned from a pleasure trip in the woods, and in the usual sportsmanlike manner peculiar to the country shootist, dragged his gun by the business end out of the rear of the wagon, with the results above stated. But this is not the only case of this kind; they have all got to learn, and the "woods are full of them."—Portland Argus.

Political Matters.

Judge Tourjee thinks we shall find more graveyards in the census at the south than voters to match them in the north. How naturally these republicans are now taking to the graveyards.—Post.

Just so. The southern republicans have "taken to the graveyards" very naturally indeed ever since the southern democrats discovered that the shotgun was more effective than the ballot in carrying elections.

New Hampshire Items.

John Lundy was arrested at Suncook on the 14th inst. for drunkenness, and put into a cell in the lock-up. While the officer went for help Lundy got a club, and in a drunken frenzy went pelting at the windows. After smashing those in the corridor he went up stairs into the police court room, and demolished glass and sashes so that in five minutes the building was thoroughly riddled. He broke, besides the sashes, one hundred and eighteen panes of glass, inflicting damage estimated at $50. He was arraigned, charged with being drunk and for malicious destruction of property. He pleaded guilty and was ordered to recognize in $200, in default of which he was sent to Concord jail.

Paul Handy, of Fitzwilliam, who has lived within one mile of the Cheshire railroad ever since the completion of the road, and who is over eighty years of age, took his first ride in the cars on Monday, June 7th, to Keene, which he had not visited for thirty-six years.

While turning out their cattle in the east part of Peterborough, a few weeks since, Mr. Benj. Crosby and son discovered a black snake, about four feet in length, which they dragged home across lots, a distance of a mile or more, and left it in the yard. The next morning, upon going to remove the snake, its mate was found coiled up near its dead companion. It was at once dispatched, and was nearly as large as the one first killed.

A tower is to be built the present season on Mt. Washington high enough to give an unobstructed view in all directions. It will be for the use of the United States coast and geodetic survey, and for visitors. Prof. E. T. Quimby of the United States coast and geodetic service has received instructions from Washington to occupy this tower during July and August.

The town of Rochester, with one dissenting voice, voted to exempt from taxation for ten years, any buildings erected by Messrs. Wallace on the ruins of those destroyed by the recent fire. Regarding the voting on the question appropriating a sum not exceeding $7,500 for water works, it was found that a special meeting must be called for that purpose alone.—Dover Democrat.

A meeting of the officers of the First New Hampshire regiment will be held on Friday, the 25th inst., for the purpose of considering the matter of building a battalion armory sufficiently large for drill exercise. Several plans are proposed, and what the outcome of the meeting will be cannot be predicted. Certain it is, that the regiment feels the necessity of ampler accommodations for battalion drill, and in order to hold its own with the other state regiments, some hall or building, it is thought, should be built, as in other New England cities.—Manchester Mirror.

—The cattle drive of Texas will be larger this year than for several years past, amounting to at least 300,000 head.

Artificial Ice.

The Commercial Bulletin says: The artificial manufacture of ice was begun at Augusta, Ga., in June last, by a process which experience has proved to be both efficient and economical. This process is replete with interesting details, but may be described in general terms as follows:

In the first place the water for making the ice is obtained from a well over forty feet deep, and is pumped up by a large pump into a cooler. Here the water is cooled by means of pipes running through the cooler, greatly reduced in temperature, and after filtration, is conducted down into cans thirty inches long and twelve square. These cans, 480 in number, all fit into a large tank through which pipes containing the freezing mixture run. This freezing agent is composed chiefly of ammonia, and is prepared in peculiar retorts by a special process. The mixture which runs through these pipes and renders them so intensely cold as to freeze the water in close proximity does not come in contact with the water, and can not do so. The pipes are tight and durable, and the joints are strongly made with a peculiar patent, preventing the escape of gas at all. After the water in the cans is frozen, these cans are lifted out and allowed to stand on end for ten minutes, when they are slowly withdrawn, each one leaving a pure, solid block of ice of 125 pounds.

Besides the company controling the above process, and which acted as a valuable conservator to the trade last year, Augusta has another concern engaged in artificial ice manufacture, which is turning out the crystal blocks at the rate of twelve tons per day. Therefore the people of that city are not assailed with fears regarding an ice famine, and the cry of the ice man has no dominion over them.

At other points south, notably New Orleans, the manufacture of "mock ice" has received considerable attention, and a certain brewery in the Crescent City has recently introduced a novel apparatus for the manufacture of ice water which comprehends the essential principles of ice-making machinery. The tank in which the water is cooled contains 9000 feet of one-inch pipe, in which pure ammoniacal gas, condensed by compression into a liquid, is admitted. The latent heat in the water transforms it into vapor, when it absorbs the heat in the water and is drawn from the pipes by the pump, and is again compressed into the condensing pipes. From the condensing pipes it is again admitted into the pipes in the cooling tank, where it again becomes a vapor and absorbs the latent heat until the water is reduced to thirty-three or thirty-four degrees Farenheit. One hundred and twenty-six pounds of ammoniacal gas was used in charging the apparatus, and this amount will last indefinitely.

But there is especial congratulation in the fact that northern cities, as well as their southern sisters, are agitating the question of artificial ice. Philadelphia and San Francisco have already been moving in this direction, and an ice-making machine is being operated in New York, with very successful results, it is claimed.

—The white wax used by ladies in connection with their sewing is the diseased secretion of a central China fly. Last year's crop of this article was valued at $3,250,000.

—When an amateur city farmer read a man "planted one hundred brook trout," and in a few years raised a big crop, he concluded to experiment with fish on a small scale. He procured fifty trout and "planted" them. This was a year ago, and they have not yet come up. He thinks maybe he ploughed too deep, but the probabilities are he planted too many in a hill.—Norristown Herald.

Admirable Wine for Weakly Persons.

The most certain way to get something strengthening for aged and weakly persons, especially for females, is to purchase Speer's Sambuci Wine from druggists, which is beyond doubt the purest and most admirable ever made. It is rich, nourishing and most delicious, and at the same time entirely free from any sort of spirits. Whatever strength it contains is not added strength, but simply pure juice of the fruit. Many have tasted this tonic, and prefer it to imported wine. Its medicinal properties have been acknowledged. Physicians do not hesitate prescribing it to patients for general debility, etc., for it is a sort of medicine that one would rather take than not.

— A Poughkeepsie ex-soldier, according to a paper of that city, has been granted a pension because of "general ability." The disease is not common—this is the first case in Poughkeepsie.

The graduating class of the high school will have a reception at Congress hall on Thursday evening, June 24th.

The schooner Mary E. Caswell brought in 6000 mackerel on Thursday, which were disposed of in the local market.

A new greenback paper, The Protest, has been started in Exeter by A. J. Hoyt. Seventy-five cents will pay for a year's subscription.

Among the guests who have engaged rooms at the Wentworth house are Gen. Hunter and wife, of Washington, D. C., who will arrived there about the end of this month.

The CHRONICLE says a party from South Newmarket came down in steamer La Chiquita to Gerrish's island last Sunday, and spent the day in getting drunk and fighting—and that "it was a hard crowd, apparently." Sunday parties are generally a nuisance to decent people; and it must indeed have been a hard-shell collection, if the CHRONICLE objects to it. —Weekly.

A ladies' missionary meeting was held in the vestry of the North Parish on Tuesday afternoon of this week, at which Mrs. Virginia Bufford of San Francisco, daughter of Hon. M. Bufford of this city, gave some interesting facts in relation to missionary work in San Francisco, describing the manner in which the Chinese live, etc.

Wm. Colbath, Jr., superintendent of Beach's soap factory at Dover, raised a blister on the second finger of his left hand while mowing grass on Saturday, the 12th inst. He thought nothing of it at the time, but on the Tuesday following the finger had become so painful that a physician was called, and it was found necessary to amputate the entire finger.

At the annual meeting of the New Hampshire Medical society in Concord this week, Dr. John W. Parsons of this city was elected a member of the executive committee and of the board of censors. Dr. Samuel C. Whittier was chosen a member of the council and of the committee on semi-annual meeting, and also as one of the four delegates to the American Medical society.

The Newmarket Advertiser says that at the Congregational church in that town on a recent Sunday evening there was to be seen in one pew a very remarkable gathering, viz.: Mrs. Mary Badger and her daughter, Mrs. N. H. Leavitt; Mrs. Leavitt's daughter, Mrs. Thomas W. Willey; and Mrs. Willey's daughter, Miss Mary Holt Willey. A similar group can be seen almost every Sunday at the Baptist church in this city, in Hon. Frank Jones' pew, consisting of Mrs. Leavitt and her daughter, Mrs. Jones; the latter's daughter, Mrs. Charles A. Sinclair; and Mrs. Sinclair's children.

THE PRISONERS' FRIENDS.

We have received and glanced over the annual reports of the county commissioner, sheriff and other county officers, for the year ending May 1st, 1880.

The most interesting mention we note is that one of our oldest citizens, with the endeavor of supplying the prisoners at the jail in this city with reading matter to improve their morals and afford them an opportunity to pass their time profitably, visits the jail every week with contributions of appropriate literature. Col. Kent in his report makes a note of this, and the prisoners may well be grateful to Alfred W. Haven, Esq., for his kindly weekly remembrances. The late William R. Preston also appreciated this timely manner of benefitting the unfortunate prisoners.

A few years since, Frank W. Hackett, Esq., while in the legislature, drafted and obtained the passage of an act permitting the employment of prisoners in the county jails at some labor consistent with their safe keeping. We are not aware whether the experiment has been fully tested, but it seems that in many instances it might prove salutary if the provisions of the law in this respect were thoroughly tried in jails where the prisoners were kept for any considerable period.

SEAMAN'S FRIEND SOCIETY.

From the report of the secretary of the Seaman's Friend society, submitted at the last annual meeting, held at the Seaman's Home on the 4th inst., we learn that "the Home on State street has done well during the year, the number of meals served from October to April having been 5233, with cooked food taken away amounting to nine hundred and ninety-nine dollars. Number of lodgers for the same time, two hundred and fifty. The coffee room, with enlarged facilities for furnishing more and better supplies, proves its value by the patronage which it receives; while the public appreciation of this much needed work is shown by a steadily increasing number of subscribers. From subscription list, $118. Mrs. N. A. Haven has become a life member. Mr. Loyne continues his visits to vessels in our harbor, distributing books and papers as he has opportunity. The society has sustained a heavy loss by the death of its vice president, Mrs. Young, whose efficient and steadfast interest in the Home since its re-establishment in 1875 is recalled with grateful affection. When in Portsmouth, she was always ready to do anything in her power to further its interests, and when abroad was not unmindful of its claims."

"LIGHT" DRINKS.

The warm weather which came on so early the present year has had the effect of stimulating the manufacture and sale of the light drinks, which continue to supercede the use of the fiery liquids which in the absence of the former would be more extensively gulphed down in spite of the denunciations fulminated by thoughtful reformers. It has been often repeated that in France, where wines are plentiful and cheap, that drunkenness is but little known; and certainly the habitues of German saloons are quite easily to be distinguished from frequenters of groggeries. If the furnishing of lighter drinks tends to diminish the consumption of alcoholic liquors, then the establishment of C. E. Boynton on Bow street is a good adjunct of the temperance cause. His store, three stories high at the front, by the street, and four in the rear, by the river, is scarcely ample enough for his business, which besides the bottling of lager beer includes the manufacture of still lighter beverages, against which even a tetotaller cannot inveigh. Mr. Boynton has now been a resident of Portsmouth and in this business for a period of eight years, and his probity has never been disputed. When he commenced the bottling of lager, the process of cooling was accomplished by packing the bottles in a cask of ice; but now an expensive ice chest is in the lower story, where the same operation is much more quickly performed. The drawing off of lager from barrels into bottles is accomplished by means of small siphons, and the more rapidly the operation is performed the better it is for the flavor of the beverage—a fact which the foreman of the establishment, Mr. Walter M. Grogan, who is a "lightning bottler," is well aware of. Mr. Grogan has been with Mr. Boynton since he started the business, and the first of Eldredge's lager was drawn by him.

YORK COUNTY ITEMS.

Grant's hotel at Berwick has been reopened, having been thoroughly repaired, refitted and repainted inside and out since it was damaged by fire some weeks ago.

John Cantillon's store on Gooch island, Saco, was broken into on the night of the 14th inst., and fifty plugs of tobacco stolen therefrom. On the same night Fred LaFleur was arrested as he was trying to sell part of the stolen weed in a saloon, and Mike Scanlan and William Vayo were arrested as accessories. LaFleur pleaded guilty and was bound over in $500, Vayo being held in $300. The latter is a pedestrian who has figured in several "tramps" in Biddeford and Saco.

The house, barn, carriage house, etc., of George W. Manson in Hollis, were totally destroyed by fire on Monday afternoon, June 14th. The buildings were very large and elegant, and the loss cannot be much less than $15,000.

George C. Calef of Saco, president of the Fish and Game League of York county, has received the migratory quails subscribed for by citizens of Saco and Biddeford, and turned them loose in those cities, and in Buxton, Hollis and Parsonsfield. The habits of the migratory quail in this country are, as far as observed, about the same as in Europe. They arrive on their nesting ground in May, and migrate the last of September. Their favorite resorts are meadows and grain fields, particularly wheat fields. Their food consists of grain, herbs, and hemp, poppy and turnip seeds; they also feed largely on grasshoppers, worms, insects and their eggs and larvæ. The female builds her nest in June and July; it is a mere depression in the ground, surrounded by a few straws, and containing from eight to fourteen whitish gray eggs, marked with large brown spots. When full grown the quail is about as big as a woodcock, perhaps a trifle heavier when fat.

The steamer Mystic will leave Adams & Co.'s wharf this evening at 7:40 for an excursion, returning about 10:00; fare twenty cents; music by drum corps.

—Although cases of buying alive are very rare, they nevertheless happen now and again, and it is well there is a good test for the total absence of vitality in a corpse. Electricity, which is now being applied to so many useful purposes, also enables us to distinguish between life and death, because for two or three hours after the stoppage of the heart the whole of the muscles of the body have competely lost their sensibility; that is to say, when stimulated by electricity they no longer contract. If, then, an electric shock be applied to the muscles of the limbs and trunk, say five or six hours after the supposed decease, and no contractile response ensues, it may be certified that death has occurred; for, says the Medical Press and Circular, "no faint, nor trance, nor coma, however deep, can prevent the manifestation of electrical muscular excitability." This is no new fact, but it has recently been brought forward again.

There is no Pain Like Toothache!

It "beats the dogs" for making a fellow squirm. Nobody pities you. "Get it out," says one; "rub the tooth against a stone," says another; "when it begins to swell then it won't hurt so much," says a third. The reason of the ache is you didn't use SOZODONT, and prevent your teeth from decay.

Brown's Household Panacea

Is the most effective Pain Destroyer in the world. Will most surely quicken the blood whether taken internally or applied externally, and thereby more certainly relieve pain, whether chronic or acute, than any other pain alleviator, and it is warranted double the strength of any similar preparation.

It cures pain in the side, back or bowels, sore throat, rheumatism, toothache and all aches.

The great reliever of pain, "Brown's Household Panacea," should be in every family. A teaspoonful of the Panacea in a tumbler of hot water (sweetened, if preferred), taken at bedtime, will break up a cold. 25 cents a bottle.

Much Sickness,

Undoubtedly with children attributed to other causes, is occasioned by worms. Brown's Vermifuge Comfits, or Worm Lozenges, although effectual in destroying worms, can do no possible injury to the most delicate child. This valuable combination has been successfully used by physicians, and found to be absolutely sure in eradicating worms, so hurtful to children. Twenty-five cents a box. t,th&f

Dissolution of Co-partnership.

PORTSMOUTH, May 12th, 1880.

THE CO-PARTNERSHIP heretofore existing between David Kimball and Frank J. Philbrick, under the firm name of DAVID KIMBALL & CO., is this day dissolved by mutual consent. The business will hereafter be conducted under the name of DAVID KIMBALL & CO., as heretofore, by Mr. Philbrick, who will settle all accounts. DAVID KIMBALL.
F. J. PHILBRICK.

Notice of the dissolution of the partnership between myself and Frank J. Philbrick having been made public, it seems only an act of simple justice to all our association, during a period of nearly ten years, was at all times harmonious, and gave me full confidence in Mr. Philbrick's integrity. That he may receive the patronage of the friends of the late firm, to which his character and acquirements entitle him, is my sincere wish. In closing a business life of more than fifty-six years, I am led to look back with grateful remembrance of the many friends who have gone, who kindly gave me their confidence and support; and to those who remain, I tender my heartfelt thanks for their continued friendly interest and regard.

ANY DRUGGIST WILL TELL YOU ITS REPUTATION.

—A singular suit has just been decided in Iowa. A woman examined a straw cutter in a hardware store, and has just recovered $500 damages for the loss of two fingers, on the ground that the machine was not labelled "dangerous."

—A young woman of Cambridge, jealous of the honor of the students, on hearing of the late defeats of the Harvards at base ball, remarked, reproachfully: "If the young gentlemen had paid more attention to their base ball and less to their books they would not have been so badly beaten."

—Jones says: "Give an oyster locomotion and the five senses, and he might be the rhinoceros of the sea." He might be, but we hope no generous person will give him those things. The price of half-a-dozen fried oysters as large as a rhinoceros would strike away beyond the margin of most pocket books.

—The new "catch blankets," to be used for the purpose of rescuing people from burning buildings, have been tested by the members of engine company No. 12, in Boston, and apparently are likely to prove very efficient. One man jumped from the second story of the engine-house, and was caught in the blanket without touching the ground.

— Even at the wreck of the Narragansett incidents occurred which when divested of the awful surroundings were comical in the extreme. There is a most amusing story of a self-possessed passenger, who first flung over two chairs and then followed with his carpet-bag and umbrella. Securing a floating board, he placed it between the chairs and sat upon it. When it began to rain, the traveller raised his umbrella, and bobbing with the waves in this curious situation must have presented as odd a spectacle as the Lone Fisherman of the play on the whale's back. It might have been this same passenger who was afterwards heard bewailing his hard fate, in having accidentally dropped his umbrella overboard. Another man, a commercial traveller, found himself overboard in the unconventional costume of a stove-pipe hat and an undershirt. There came up a boat, but it had a woman in it. The young man, with that extreme modesty so characteristic of commercial travellers, refused to be saved. So he floated off again, but fortunately was picked up presently by a boat with only men in it. His silk hat afterward proved useful in bailing out the boat.

THE BEST REMEDY

FOR

Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL.

Diseases of the pulmonary organs are so prevalent and fatal, that a safe and reliable remedy for them is invaluable to every community. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is such a remedy, and no other so eminently merits the confidence of the public. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, to insure the greatest possible efficiency and uniformity of results, which enables physicians as well as invalids to use it with confidence. It is the most reliable remedy for diseases of the throat and lungs that science has produced. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt and certain relief, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it without difficulty. In the treatment of ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household, for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

The marvellous cures which AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has effected all over the world are a sufficient guaranty that it will continue to produce the best results. An impartial trial will convince the most sceptical of its wonderful curative powers, as well as of its superiority over all other preparations for pulmonary complaints.

Eminent physicians in all parts of the country, knowing its composition, recommend AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL to invalids, and prescribe it in their practice. The test of half a century has proved its absolute certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

A Great Work.

Somewhere about 3,000 workmen, 600 or 700 wagons, seventeen or eighteen locomotive engines, three steam "navvies" and a great quantity of minor machinery of various kinds have been engaged since 1875 at the southeast end of London in a work compared with which the building of the pyramids—with modern appliances—would have been no very signal feat. Hitherto the one entrance to the Victoria docks from the Thames had been at Blackwall point, but now there is a dock capable of receiving all vessels, no matter what they might be. Three and a half miles of walls have been built, inclosing ninety acres of water. These walls are forty feet high, five feet thick at the top, and eighteen or nineteen feet thick at the bottom, the whole of this enormous mass being composed of solid concrete, for, which 80,000 tons of Portland cement have been used. Some 4,000,000 cubic feet of earth have been dug out. It may assist the imagination somewhat to state that if it were filled into ordinary carts the vehicles would form an unbroken line 7,000 miles long. The excavations have gone through a submerged forest, and among other curiosities dug out have been a reindeer's horn, a Roman vase, and what is supposed to be ancient British canoe carved out of solid oak. The latter is now in the British museum. The new entrance below Woolwich will save about three and a half miles of river navigation, which, in the case of vessels with heavy draft, is of course a matter of very great importance. The London and St. Katharine's and Victoria Docks company are now prepared for vessels of all kinds, not excluding the largest ironclads of the British navy. The cost has been estimated roundly at $5,000,000.

The Old Story.

The morning sunlight looked in through the silken curtains, lighting the room as with an angel's smile, suddenly enveloping the face of the occupant with a strange brightness and transforming her pale brown hair into waves of glistening gold. Said the sunlight: "Maiden, I missed you from the garden where I used to find you every morning, and I came here to seek you. Summer will soon be here with her roses almost as bright as your cheeks. Are you ill?" "O, no!" responded the maiden, warming her thin, bloodless hands in the sunbeam, "only a little weak; I shall soon be out in the garden to greet you—to-morrow perhaps. I was just planning how I should arrange my flowers this year, when you peeped in. Are my lillies up yet?" "Yes, your lillies are up; I have just been warming them. I have tired you," said the sunlight, as he noticed the wearily drooping eyelids; "I will come again to-morrow if you are not in the garden"—and silently withdrew, leaving the fair slumberer alone in the gloom. A few hours later the moonlight stole softly through the silken curtains, which were gently rustling in the night breeze. "How cold!" said the moonlight, as she touched the pallid brow, and then gently laid her hand on the pulseless heart. "Dead!" she shudderingly whispered, as she withdrew through the softly rustling curtains. It is the old, old story of the Autumn. How she flatter her victims at morning with hope's honied words, and at evening makes them the prey of the spoiler! Statistics show that one-third of mankind die of this disease, and of these, far the greater part are young persons between the ages of fifteen and twenty-five, in the dawn of manhood and womanhood. For many years, consumption was generally believed to be incurable. But medicine in her triumphant march against disease has already added consumption to her list of conquered. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures this dread disease if resorted to in time. For a full consideration of the disease and its rational method of treatment, read the article on consumption in the People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, the most reliable popular work upon Physiology, Hygiene, Diseases and their Remedies, yet published. Price 1.50. Address the author, R. V. Pierce, M. D., World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

Two negroes and two white men have been arrested for the outrage and murder of Mrs. Stephens at Pine Bluffs, Ark.

James Oliver of Oliver's Grove, Ill., is ninety-three years old. He gave his wife a farm for consenting to divorce, as he desired to get a young wife in her place; but the new wife asked and got $30,000 in money.

Haunted Me.

A workingman says: "Debt, poverty and suffering haunted me for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for doctoring, which did no good. I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I procured Hop Bitters and commenced their use, and in one month we were all well, and none of us have been sick a day since; and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your families well a year with Hop Bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost."—Christian Advocate.

In the ship Iron Cross arson case at New Orleans a motion for arrest of judgment was overruled, and Johnson, the seaman who set her on fire, was sentenced to twenty years' hard labor.

SATURDAY, JUNE 19, 1880.

FOR PRESIDENT.

James A. Garfield,

OF OHIO.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT.

Chester A. Arthur,

OF NEW YORK.

A Drunken Ruffian.

John W. White of Ossipee made a desperate attempt to kill his wife on the train at the station in that town on the 17th inst. As the train was leaving for North Conway, White entered the rear car, and passing to where his wife was sitting, stooped as if to speak to her, at the same time drawing a revolver from his pocket and aiming it at her. He was discovered by a friend who sat near, in season to save her life, the ball passing into the side of the car. White was at once seized by the conductor and passengers, but not until he had cut his own throat in a fearful manner, severing the windpipe. The affair caused great excitement on the train, but White was soon securely bound and taken in charge. He had not been living with his wife for three or four weeks, on account of his dissipated habits, and at this time he was under the influence of liquor. White will probably die.

The World Moves.

As an indication of the improved state of morals at Harvard college, it is reported that in accordance with the views ascertained from answers to circulars the customary rum-punch on commencement day will give way to the lighter and more classical claret, the graduates indicating their perference by a decided majority for the latter over the time-honored Old Medford of former years.

New Hampshire Items.

Mrs. Susan A. Hill of Concord, widow of Gov. Isaac Hill, died at her home in that city June 17th, aged ninety-one years.

The whole of the advertised New Hampshire state loan of $100,000 has been taken by New York parties at a rate varying from 6.34 to 10.73 premium. The bonds will net the purchasers, twelve in number, a trifle over four per cent.

Work on the rebuilding of the Wallace Brothers' shoe shop and tanneries, at Rochester, will commence at once. The new buildings will be much more spacious than the old ones. This is good news for the trades-people of Rochester, who feared that no buildings would be erected this summer, which would have ruined the business of the town.

Frank Colomy of Rochester, a brakeman on the Portland & Rochester railroad, was caught between two cars, Wednesday night, the 16th inst., and received injuries which will probably prove fatal.

News and Notes.

The great boat race at Providence, R. I., on the 17th inst., was won by Wallace Ross of St. John, N. B., with George W. Lee of Newark, N. J., second, and James Riley of Saratoga, N. Y., third. Robert W. Boyd, the English oarsman, was next to the last man in of the ten contestants; and Hanlan of Toronto, the champion, was last. At the start Hanlan pulled at a rate which showed that he meant to win and probably would do so, but he was taken suddenly ill in the middle of the race.

Oliver Pearl, proprietor of the Pearl patent spindle company, died at Lawrence, Mass., June 17th, aged fifty-nine years. Deceased served for years as overseer of the spinning department in the Atlantic cotton mills.

At Omaha, Nebraska, a curious freak was recently performed by the wind. Florence and Willow lakes, north of the city, were blown nearly dry, the wind scooping out the water. The ground near the lakes was covered with dead fishes which were blown out of the water.

The agent of the secret service at Memphis, Tenn., telegraphs the arrest of Charles G. DeGuillfeldt and wife for dealing in and manufacturing counterfeit coin. Six sets of moulds were found in their possession. Both were making counterfeit coin when arrested.

The schooner Argonaut, which arrived at Gloucester, Mass., on the 15th inst., from a Banquereau trip, reports that on May 30th she picked up a dory containing the body of a man of medium size apparently from forty-five to fifty years of age, with the appearance of having been dead for two or three days. His oil-jacket was doubled up and placed under his head in the bow of the dory, as if having lost trace of his vessel and becoming exhausted he had lain down to die. The dory had hand lines and some fish on board, and the dory scoops and oars were marked with the initials "O. W." There was a bucket on board marked "Alexander Gills, Gloucester." The body was taken on board the vessel, sewed up in a canvas bag, and committed to the sea in deep water.

Political Matters.

The republicans of the fifth congressional district of Maine have nominated Seth S. Milliken for congress. The district is now represented by Mr. Murch, greenbacker.

The republican state convention of Indiana met at Indianapolis on the 17th inst., and nominated Albert G. Porter for governor, with a full state ticket. Judge Porter is now first comptroller of the United States treasury, and even the democrats admit that he did not seek nor desire the nomination. His selection as a standard-bearer by the republicans troubles the opposition a great deal, as they fear that they cannot possibly carry the state against him.

The democratic presidential candidate is not yet nominated, but the news already comes that the democrats have attempted to prent free speech in the south by breaking up a Garfield ratification meeting. Private news was received in Washington on the 17th inst. that at a ratification meeting attempted to be held at Montgomery, Ala., on the 12th, in the customary place where such meetings are held, the republican speakers were assaulted with rotten eggs, pistols were fired into the crowd, and knives were drawn and several persons cut. The press, as usual, brings no information of this, except that a Montgomery newspaper says that the front of the bank building before which such meetings are generally held was discovered to be besmeared with rotten eggs the next morning.

The Cincinnati market reports state that whiskey is active and firm at $1.06. The convention to assemble soon near Bourbon county, Kentucky, may have had something to do with stiffening the prices, though holders will have more stock on hand, probably, as the delegates appear on the ground.

People should beware of writing anonymous letters, for their sin and the handwriting experts will find them out. That was what tripped up Finley. On the testimony of the experts, the house investigating committee find Finley guilty. It will be remembered that the note in question was one offering Congressman Springer $5,000 to give his vote to place Donnelly in the seat occupied by Congressman Washburn. This offence is a grave one, and it will go hard with Finley if convicted. He was an active Tilden agent in 1876, and it is not supposed that he was working on his own hook this time.

The democrats began to abuse Mr. Garfield early after the nomination, for the reason that they could not guess how vulnerable a candidate the democratic party might have after the Cincinnati convention. Gen. Garfield has been nine times elected to congress by an intelligent constituency, and money did not do it, as his entire estate is reckoned at but $15,000. Now if the democrats have a man who after twenty-two years exposure to the the temptations of public life has a cleaner record than the Ohio boatman possesses, why just let them bring him out and show him up.

The democratic national committee meets on Monday at Cincinnati, for the purpose of endeavoring to discover some prominent man in their party whose private and public record is without reproach, so that the democrats may make use of the stores of abuse they have saved up for the republican nominee without fear of exposure of the record of their own standard-bearer.

BRIGHTON CATTLE MARKET.

For week ending Wednesday, June 16.

Amount of stock at market—Cattle 4322; sheep and lambs 7202; swine 12,117; number western cattle 4.44; eastern cattle 18; milch cows and northern cattle 160.

Prices of beef cattle per 100 lbs. live weight—Extra quality $5 75; and $5 75; first quality $5 50 and $5 25; second quality $4 62½ and $4 87½; third quality $4 12½ and $4 50; poorest grades of coarse oxen, bulls, &c., $3 25 and $4 00.

Brighton Hides—8½ per lb; Brighton Tallow $5 00 per 100 lbs; country hides 7½ and 8c per lb; country tallow 3½ and 4c per lb. Calf skins 12c and 13c per lb. Sheep skins 40c each; Lamb skins 50c each.

Western cattle cost higher at the west last week than they did the week previous, and the demand here being active prices upon all grades of beeves have advanced fully 1c per lb over those obtained one week ago. Shipping cattle suitable for the English markets sold quick at prices ranging from 5½ and 5½c per lb live weight. Some of the best lots of cattle were bought up by butchers at prices nearly up to those paid for cattle bought for the English markets. Nearly all the western cattle were sold out early in the day on Tuesday. The supply from Maine was light and consisted of one car load of milch cows and 110 veal calves.

Working Oxen—Not any demand for them at present. We did not hear of but one pair in market. A few pairs each week is all the markets require until cattle come in more plenty from Maine.

Store Cattle—Small cattle and grass fed cows that are brought into market are mostly bought up by butchers to slaughter. The trade for store cattle will be light until later in the season.

Milch Cows—Of late the supply of cows offered in the market has been large, and the larger portion of them brought into market have been of a common grade. We quote sales of 1 springer at $40; 1 do $35; 2 farrow cows $23 each; 11 milch cows at $40 each; 1 cow, part Jersey, at $45; 2 milch cows for $37 50; 1 cow and calf and 1 milch cow for $125 the two; 1 milch cow $38; 1 beef cow $36; 1 springer $42.

Sheep and Lambs—Those from the west were all owned by butchers, and cost landed at Brighton from 5 and 5½c per lb for sheep; spring lambs 7½ and 8½c per lb, live weight.

Veal Calves—We quote sales of 120 nice calves, average weight 120 lbs, at 5c per lb, live weight; 90 calves, average weight 120 lbs, at 4½c per lb live weight.

Swine—Fat Hogs—We quote prices 5 and 5½c per lb, live weight; all taken direct from the cars to the slaughter houses to be slaughtered.

"Honesty is the best of Policy."

Hugo Fischer shot Curtis Longue at Dunellen, N. J., on the 16th inst., and then shot himself dead. Both bodies were found by a sister of Longue, who had just arrived from Germany to marry Fischer. It is supposed they had a quarrel and Fischer shot Longue, and then killed himself in remorse. They lived together on Fischer's farm.

Prejudice Kills.

"Eleven years our daughter suffered on a bed of misery under the care of several of the best (and some of the worst) physicians, who gave her disease various names but no relief, and now she is restored to us in good health by as simple a remedy as Hop Bitters, that we had tested at intervals for two years, before using it. We earnestly hope and pray that no one else will let their sick suffer as we did, on account of prejudice against so good a medicine as Hop Bitters."—The Parent. —Telegram.

The Cape Ann Advertiser says that "Mr. Elisha Crowell, of patent boneless codfish fame, has been defeated in a suit brought by him against a New York firm for an injunction restraining them from putting up boneless codfish without paying him a royalty. Judge Blatchford decided on June 11th against Crowell, denying the motion for an injunction. This decision will doubtless please the salt-fish trade in general, who have for the past three years been greatly annoyed on account of these suits."

Kidney Diseases.

Kidney diseases afflict the greater part of the human race, and they are constantly on the increase, but where the virtues of Kidney-Wort have become known, they are held in check and speedily cured. Let those who have had to constantly dose spirits of nitre and such stuff, give this great remedy a trial and be cured.

Homer Wellington was arraigned at East Cambridge, Mass., on Friday, on an indictment containing two counts, charging him with twice attempting the life of his wife by poison. He was also fully committed without bail for trial on a charge of murdering his infant son by poisoning.

Do a Favor to a Sick Friend.

If you have a friend suffering from any disorder of the Kidneys send them a package of Kidney-Wort, and you will make them happy. Its great tonic power is especially directed to those diseases, and it quickly relieves the distress and cures the disease.

Dissolution of Co-partnership.

PORTSMOUTH, May 12th, 1880.

THE CO-PARTNERSHIP heretofore existing between David Kimball and Frank J. Philbrick, under the firm name of DAVID KIMBALL & CO., is this day dissolved by mutual consent. The business will hereafter be conducted under the name of DAVID KIMBALL & CO., as heretofore, by Mr. Philbrick, who will settle all accounts. DAVID KIMBALL.
F. J. PHILBRICK.

Notice of the dissolution of the partnership between myself and Frank J. Philbrick having been made public, it seems only an act of simple justice to add that our association, covering a period of nearly ten years, was at all times harmonious, and gave me full confidence in Mr. Philbrick's integrity. That he may receive the patronage of the friends of the late firm, to which his character and acquirements entitle him, is my sincere wish. In closing a business life of more than fifty-six years, I am led to look back with grateful remembrance of the many friends who have gone, who kindly gave me their confidence and support; and to those who remain, I tender my heartfelt thanks for their continued friendly interest and regard.

AROUND HOME.

See notice of sale of real estate at auction to-day.

Rev. J. Herbert Yeoman commences his regular pastoral labors with the Pearl street church on Sunday.

Rockingham lodge of Good Templars will take a moonlight excursion on the steamer Mystic next Tuesday evening.

The steamer James Sampson towed the schooner Flying Eagle from Kittery railway to this city on the 17th inst., and also took a schooner from Portsmouth to Fishing islands.

Mr. Oscar J. Pfeiffer of this city, for several years past principal of the high school at Lancaster, has resigned that position, and will enter the Harvard medical school at the next term.

Mayor Sise and the board of overseers of the poor visited the county farm at Brentwood on Wednesday of this week. The premises were thoroughly inspected, and found to be in the very best of order, as usual. Superintendent Scott and his wife, the matron, are thoroughly awake to the interests of the institution, and thoroughly competent for their responsible positions.

A little daughter of Mr. Warren Keen, who lives on Jones avenue in this city, on Friday sustained a compound fracture of the left arm between the wrist and elbow, in a somewhat singular manner. She was playing with a carriage, moving it about, when it got on a down grade and ran away with her, forcing her against a building in such a manner as to inflict the injury mentioned.

The schooner Clara E. Simpson, of this port, Talpey master, is said to have made the best time on record for a sailing vessel between Windsor, Nova Scotia, and Alexandria, Va. On the 17th of May she took on board at Alexandria a cargo of over five hundred and sixty tons of coal, went to Boston and discharged, sailed from Boston for Windsor and took aboard a full cargo of plaster, and arrived back at Alexandria on the 12th inst., having been exactly twenty-eight days in making the round trip.

Steamer Mystic, Capt. Rashe Trefethen, made an excursion trip outside the harbor on Thursday evening, and was well patronized. The fare was only twenty cents, the boat leaving her regular landing place, Adams & Co.'s wharf, at 7:40 o'clock, arriving back at about ten, and the trip was much enjoyed by the party. The steamer made a similar excursion on Friday evening, taking the drum corps along to make music, and the number of passengers was still larger than on the previous evening.

An ecclesiastical council of which Rev. F. Davis of Tamworth was moderator and Rev. J. N. Lowell of Milton was scribe, met at Wolfeboro' on the 4th inst., and installed Rev. George W. Christie as pastor of the Congregational church of that place. The examination was thorough and well sustained. Rev. A. Q. Quick of Rochester preached the sermon, which was listened to with marked attention. The other parts were interesting and impressive. Mr. Christie was a few years since ordained at Kittery point, and has since preached at Wiscasset, Me., and at Salmon Falls, N. H. Mrs. Christie is a daughter of Rev. J. K. Aldrich of Rye.

The steamer Appledore towed the yacht belonging to Laighton Bros. to the Shoals on the 18th inst.

The first Garfield campaign flag raised in Dover was hoisted by Wilder D. Quint, the sixteen-years-old son of Rev. Dr. Quint of that city.

About sixty cars loaded with grain came over the Concord & Portsmouth railroad this week from Ogdensburg, and were unloaded at Mr. Frank Jones' malt houses. The grain is kiln-dried on its arrival, and this prevents its heating while stored in bulk. The freight bills on this lot amounted to about three thousand dollars.

"Shadow," the Stratham correspondent of the Exeter News-Letter, writes as follows: "Joseph Fabyan was up before the police court, at Portsmouth, for taking something for the stomach's sake. Being short of clipped coin he was let off on his promise to leave the city. Being a man of his word he hastily gathered together his earthly effects, consisting of a one-pint villain, and struck for freedom and the back settlements. He took a short cut by the way of the Portsmouth & Concord railroad track, but alas! the country air proved too bracing for poor Joe, and as he was crossing the bridge that spans the waters of Great bay the structure suddenly flew from under him, and he found himself immersed in the dark rolling waters beneath. The catastrophe was witnessed by a lad named Fred Ames, who went to the assistance of the drowning man and succeeded in rescuing him as he was disappearing for the last time. Joe says this is the first water he has tasted of for seventeen long years, and he further states that he has no hankering for any more of the vile stuff."

THE CENSUS LISTS.

The enumerators of the census for this city having completed their field work, will, agreeably to the provisions of the law, exhibit copies of their lists at the court house on Tuesday and Wednesday, June 29th and 30th. This exhibition is made for the purpose of enabling any inhabitant to suggest the correction of any possible error, and to ensure as far as possible perfect returns. The enumerators of neighboring towns, who may find it most convenient to exhibit their lists in this city, will find the court house open on those days for that purpose.

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

In Board of Mayor and Aldermen, regular meeting, Thursday evening, June 17th:

Request of Elder E. B. Wells for the use of the south ward room on Sundays was referred to Alderman Mugridge, with power.

Claim of Martha Gray for $500, for damages alleged to have been sustained by falling over steps on Pleasant street, was referred to the committee on claims with the city solicitor added.

Petition that the street sprinklers be allowed to draw water from a city reservoir for sprinkling the streets at the west end, was referred to committee on fire department with mayor and chief engineer added, with power.

The Bartlett schoolhouse was reported in very bad condition, and it was voted that the aldermen and board of instruction visit the premises.

Petition asking that the Concord railroad be allowed to lay an additional track across Market street, was referred to the committee on streets with the mayor added, to report.

The committee having the matter in charge recommended that gas be introduced into the city stables, at a cost of $62. Adopted.

Matter of lighting the streets on some very dark nights when under the present regulations they are not lighted, was referred to committee, to report.

There was some discussion about the fire alarm given on the night of the 12th inst., the chief engineer of the fire department asserting that the bell of the North church was stopped at an improper time. The matter was postponed for a week, and Chief Engineer Marston and Asst. Marshal Gray directed to then appear before the board.

U. O. G. C.

Portsmouth Commandery, No. 47, United Order of the Golden Cross, held its semi-annual election of officers on Thursday evening, June 17th, with the following result:

Noble Commander, John Dame;
Vice Noble Commander, Lucy F. Perkins;
Prelate, Lucy K. Lord;
Keeper of Records, Samuel Dodge;
Financial Keeper of Records, Dr. R. C. Grant;
Treasurer, James Janvrin;
Herald, Charles S. Dodge;
Warder of the Inner Gate, Josiah T. Brown;
Warder of the Outer Gate, Frank L. Marks.

A special meeting of the Commandery is to be held on Thursday evening of next week for the purpose of installing the new officers, Past Grand Commander Stephen W. Clarke performing that impressive duty.

During the past six months a large number of persons have been initiated into the mysteries of the order. The total growth of Portsmouth Commandery since its institution on March 5th, 1879, is seventy-three members.

An invitation has been received to participate in the second anniversary of the institution of the U. O. G. C., in New England, occurring June 25th, at a mass picnic to be held at Smith's grove, Haggett's pond, Andover, Mass., on the Boston & Lowell railroad. Among the speakers announced are Supreme Commander Dr. J. D. Young, Grand Commander Joseph Kidder of Manchester, and Col. Russell H. Conwell of Boston.

YORK COUNTY ITEMS.

Cheney & Osgood of Great Falls are building a house at York beach, a portion of which is to be made into a hall for dancing.

A campaign flag bearing the names of Garfield and Arthur was raised in front of the residence of Mr. John Lambert at Spruce creek, Kittery, on the evening of the 14th inst.

It is said that the ship houses at the navy yard are shortly to be painted. It does not need to be said that they needed painting years ago, and that they and the timber sheds, and other costly structures at the yard which require painting equally as much, have deteriorated to the extent of many thousands of dollars because the work was not done in time. That it was not done, however, was not in any way the fault of the officials in charge, being due solely to the "economy" of the democratic congress, which was willing to let property worth hundreds of thousands of dollars go to decay if a few hundred dollars' worth of political capital could thereby be made for the democratic party.

Chronicle Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 16th.

A carefully prepared "record" of General Garfield is to be sent out early by the democrats. It will revive slanders and malicious prosecutions long ago proved untrue and forgotten,—the intention being, of course, to show that he has been unduly enriched while in congress. But the intention will fail. General Garfield is comparatively a poor man. A campaign made up of attacks on candidates is not one which most people desire, and that is the kind of one the democrats evidently intend to furnish us.

Speculation is active as to the coming democrat, with chances, if Washington speculations may be relied on, in favor of Ex-Governor Seymour. Yet within a few days the intense opponents of Tilden have rather given the cold shoulder to the Seymour movement. This may be accounted for, possibly, by the fact that they wish to class the two men together, as defeated candidates, so as to aid them in their opposition to Tilden. They may wish to say, for instance, in order to kill off Tilden, that it will not do to nominate a man who has once run for the presidential office unsuccessfully. But there are no signs of concentration on any other candidate. The Field strength in the south is found to be, to a great extent, factitious. Hancock, if I may venture a prophesy, has less opposition than any of the other candidates, Seymour excepted.

The president's veto of the deputy marshals bill—Bayard's—was anticipated, but takes ground not expected by either republicans or democrats. The question of an extra session was anxiously discussed by everybody at the capital to-day. There is a great disinclination to return here during the political campaign.

General Garfield, who arrived yesterday, has as many personal friends among congressmen as they are members of congress. They will all call upon him during his stay here. He will close his private business as soon as possible, and return to Ohio. I am able to say, on the highest authority, that the rumor that he will take the "stump" during the campaign is without any foundation whatever.

The census-takers find 170,000 people in the District of Columbia, an increase of 28,000 in ten years. The increase is gratifying, considering the fact that district finances have for most of the decade been in such a condition as to deter capitalists from investments in building and other improvements here, and laboring men have consequently kept away from us. This growth is a healthy one, and among those who have come to stay are many men distinguished in the arts and professions. KNOX.

A Justice of Presque Isle.

In Presque Isle county, toward Mackinaw, is a beautiful lake—High Grand lake—on whose shore stands the club house of sundry fish-loving citizens of Adrian, Mich. The country around is pretty much as nature made it—rough—and the few backwoodsmen living there are much like the country. One of them, named Crawford, was lately elected justice of the peace. A woodsman per made complaint that a certain raftsman had beaten him, and asked for a warrant for the offender's arrest. The justice's entire stock of legal blanks consisted of a summons and a subpena. After spending some time vainly in trying to make these papers fit the case, he got mad, flung down his papers, and addressed the complainant thus:

"See here, mister, this court is bound to see justice done in this township. You pay me two dollars and a half, for the costs of court, show me the man, and the court will lick him in two minutes."

Complainant paid the costs and pointed out the man. The "court," with majesty on his brow and his sleeves rolled up, went for the offender, and in sixty seconds thrashed him to the full content of both parties. The court then put on his coat and remarked that "he was a peace officer and wished it understood that this court would preserve the peace, and any man who thought he could raise thunder in that neck of the woods would have to try the case with the court personally."

No other case has since been tried by Squire Crawford.

— A tall man having rallied his friend on the shortness of his legs, the friend replied: "My legs reach the ground—what more can yours do?"

— A writer in an Irish newspaper, after mentioning the wreck of a vessel near Skerries, rejoices that all the crew were saved, except four hogsheads of molasses.

—An account of a remarkable Christian woman appears in the Boston Transcript. Mrs. Drusilla Lahs was born in Wellfleet, Mass., September 19th, 1787, and at eighteen years of age was married, her husband then being in command of a vessel. After having been married six years, she being twenty-four years old and having two children, a boy of four and one of two, her husband was brought home to her an invalid for life, having been taken from the side of his wrecked vessel after four days' exposure to wind and the wash of waters. Then it was that he got disheartened and saw nothing but destitution staring him and his family in the face. But to her things looked differently. She started a store, small at first, of course, but for fifty-nine years she made monthly visits to Boston in small sailboats, replenishing her stock, etc.; and she says many a time she has taken over $100 a day over her counter. For fifty years she took care of her invalid husband, who was not able to dress himself. She educated her two boys and started them in business. She also adopted, clothed, fed, educated and placed in good positions in the world twenty orphan boys and girls, besides visiting and taking care of the sick at all hours day and night. She will be ninety-three years old in September.—Troy Times.

HUMORS OF THE BLOOD, SKIN AND SCALP.

CUTICURA RESOLVENT is the most powerful Blood Purifier and Liver Stimulant ever compounded. In fact forty minutes after taking the first dose it may be detected in the blood, sweat, and urine, showing that it has entered the blood and distributed throughout the entire system. In its passage through the circulating fluid it meets with the corrupt particles of matter which poison and sustain disease, with which it chemically unites, destroying and gradually eliminating them from the system.

Hence its power to forever expel Scrofulous, Cancerous, and Cankerous Humors, which unchecked fill the body with foul corruptions, and rot out the delicate machinery of life.

CUTICURA, the great external remedy for all Humors of the Scalp and Skin, Ulcers, Sores and Discharging Wounds, is the most soothing and healing of outward applications. It speedily destroys fungus and parasitic growths, restores the oil glands and tubes to a healthy condition, and cures, when assisted by the CUTICURA SOAP, diseases of the Skin and Scalp which have been the torture of a lifetime.

SKIN DISEASE.

Great Suffering for Sixteen Years. A Wonderful Cure by the Cuticura Remedies.

MESSRS. WEEKS & POTTER: Gent'emen,—CUTICURA REMEDIES have done me a power of good. I have been afflicted with skin disease for sixteen years. Some days it troubled me more than others, but at night the itching nearly drove me wild.

I would scratch until the blood would run down my limbs.

I have had several physicians. Some said they could cure me, but others said not.

I will say that before I used the CUTICURA REMEDIES I was in a fearful state, and had given up all hope of ever having any relief.

Sir, like a drowning man grasping at a straw, I thought I would try the CUTICURA REMEDIES, about which I had read so much.

They have returned a wonderful cure for me, and of my own free will and accord I recommend them. Yours truly, S. A. STEELE,

68 W. VAN BUREN ST., CHICAGO, ILL., March 7, 1878.

In Three Years of Treatment.

Gentlemen,—Please find 50 cents to pay for small box of CUTICURA and direct it to me. The dollar box you sent me has done me more good than all the doctors in three years. The doctors have done me no good. My feet and legs are healing fast. It is indeed CUTICURA.

Yours truly, EVAN MORGAN, P. M.

ENGLISH SPARROWS.

A nest built by English sparrows was removed from behind one of the shutters of a third story window on the Penn street front of the Mansion house. The nest was a marvel of successful building. The outside was composed of sticks, straw, twigs of trees and rough material ingeniously worked together, while the interior was as soft as eider down, having been constructed of feathers, cotton and filaments of silk. The most remarkable feature of this nest, however, is the fact that it was attached to the shutter by strings, which were entwined around the nest and fastened in such a manner as to display all the elements of human skill.

A sparrow here recently having a long piece of cotton in its bill made a number of efforts to reach one of the highest points on the vine where its nest was, but was thwarted by the wind, which invariably blew the cotton away and caused it to fall to the ground. Finally several sparrows were observed in a group, evidently in consultation, and presently an attack was made by the birds upon the cotton, and in a few moments it was pulled to pieces and each sparrow flew away with a portion. Several English sparrows found a lodging-place in a rolled-up awning in front of the Gem Bakery on North Fifth street, near Washington. They entered the awning at the end, and in a most secure place during the winter and spring against cold, wind and storms.

In front of 417 Washington street English sparrows have peeled off all the bark from the dead limb of a tree, the bark having been used for nest building. The birds tore it off in narrow strips, and while engaged had their operations displayed wonderful patience and good management.—Reading (Pa.) Times.

A few weeks ago a sparrow built her nest in one of the trees in the yard around Mayor Forwood's dwelling, and in a short time three or four pretty little sparrows were hatched out. One evening, while a storm was raging and the wind whistling through every branch of the trees, making it decidedly uncomfortable to be out, the mother sparrow, true to the instinct which prompts everything to care for its young, carried the little sparrows from the nest to the corner of a windowsill, away from the severe weather, and then carried the nest down, put the little ones in it, and rested safely from the storm all night. She and her young were well cared for. If this had not been done, the young sparrows would no doubt have been drowned.—Chester (Pa.) Times.

While stopping at the depot at Williamsport a few days ago a Derrick reporter's attention was called by the depot master to a sparrow's nest built inside the large stationary gong at the depot, and which sounded for the departure of trains. The gong is about eighteen inches in diameter, and when struck by its large hammer it has a deafening sound. Notwithstanding the racket made by the gong a pair of sparrows have built their nest right over the knocker, and let it ring loud as it may, one of the sparrows will remain on the nest and the other, has been frequently observed to sit upon the iron of the knocker while it is striking, apparently not in the least disconcerted by the din.—Oil City (Pa.) Derrick.

The other day a number of gentlemen were sitting in the detective's room in the city hall, when an English sparrow flew near the window, peeped in and darted away again. Capt. Holzworth, who saw the little fellow, said that whenever he saw a sparrow it reminded him of a little scene which occurred in his yard one cold day last winter. The sparrows, it seems, ascertained the fact that there was a knot hole in the gable of his house, and took advantage of their knowledge by taking possession of the hole and a portion of his attic, where they passed the winter as snug as bugs in the rugs. The captain's wife has a warm spot in her heart for birds. So when the ground was covered with snow, and the little fellows ran a risk of starving to death, Mrs. Holzworth would sweep away the snow and spread upon the ground a fine repast of crumbs. The sparrows soon learned to depend upon her, and told their friends what a fine landlady they had. The consequences were hundreds congregated about the captain's house and partook of his charity. Close to the spot where the birds usually fed was a pile of bricks, and upon this pile the captain's cherished mouser used to station herself for the purpose of watching for prey. As soon as the birds would get comfortably settled upon the crumbs the cat would pounce upon them, and invariably get a tender sparrow for dinner. Finally the birds became accustomed to the cat's mode of procedure, and would be on the watch whenever they were feeding. They were so alert that the cat would hardly get ready for a spring before they were up in the air and out of danger.

One day they were eating as usual, and the cat as usual was watching them. Like a bolt of lightning the mouser jumped into their midst, but they were too quick for her, and escaped unhurt. Miss Tabby, not discouraged, mounted the pile of bricks again and awaited their return. The sparrows after flying about for some time, finally settled upon the fence at the foot of the lot, where they held a long and interesting confab. After chattering away for several minutes they cautiously returned to their crumbs and resumed their eating, keeping all the while a sharp lookout for the enemy. After the cat had become satisfied that they were too much interested in satisfying their appetite to think of her, she made another spring. The birds were up in an instant, and instead of flying away as usual, they formed themselves into a hollow square, and charged upon the foe. Some got upset

Important Railway Litigation.

Suits in equity have been entered in the circuit court of the United States for the district of New Hampshire, in behalf of the Ogdensburg & Lake Champlain railroad company, against the Northern railroad Co. of New Hampshire, the Nashua & Lowell railroad company, and General George Stark, founded upon the agreement made in 1871 between the Northern Transportation company of Ohio and J. Gregory Smith of Vermont and George Stark as trustees and managers of the Vermont Central railroad company, of the Vermont & Canada R. R. Co., the Northern Railroad Co. of N. H., and the Nashua & Lowell and Boston & Lowell railroad corporations. By this contract, the several lines of railway above mentioned formed a connecting line between Boston and Ogdensburgh, depending mainly for their business upon freight and passengers between Ogdensburgh and the western towns and cities upon the great lakes. The Northern Transportation company was chartered to carry on this business, and it became financial embarrassed and unable to carry it on successfully, and it was supposed that its steamers would be withdrawn from the line of transportation; and it became for the interest of the railroads to loan to Messrs. Smith & Stark, trustees, a portion of their gross receipts from business brought to the line of railroads, to be expended by the trustees to obtain the control of the stock in the Transportation Co. for the purpose of securing the management of its business, in order to aid in carrying out the purposes of the contract.

The Transportation Co. agreed to hold and purchase the requisite steamboats to properly do the business, and fix the rates satisfactorily to the railway company, and to send freight and passengers for points east of Ogdensburg over these roads. The roads were to reserve out of their gross receipts the sum of $150,000 as the separate gross earnings, and pay the same to the trustees to be used as indicated, and to advance if required other sums up to $600,000, to be used for the same purpose as the semi-annual payments thus to be made by the railways, and to be in lieu thereof, the same to be repaid out of the semi-annual reservation.

By a further provision of said contract it was agreed that in the event the Ogdensburg & Lake Champlain railroad should advance any sum amounting to $600,000 or any part, the other railway companies were to pay to the O. & L. C. R. R. as much of the semi-annual payments reserved for these gross receipts as would pay the semi-annual interest on said sums so advanced at rate of eight per cent per year, and a further sum, as a sinking fund to extinguish the indebtedness on or before the expiration of the term of nineteen years.

The Ogdensburg & Lake Champlain road paid in 1871 the sum of $600,000; of this there has been repaid $208,000, leaving unpaid of the advance, and now due, $392,000 and interest. In January, 1875, the Northern Transportation Co. failed, and its property was placed in the hands of a receiver by whom it was continued to be employed in the same manner as provided in the contract, and the complainant corporation now seeks to be repaid the proportion due from the other roads under the contract,—that is the proportion of its advances as the amount of the other railways' gross earnings up to the period when the Transportation Company was sold and disposed of, bore to the gross earnings of all the parties, viz., the Vermont roads, the Northern (N. H.,) Nashua & Lowell, and the Boston & Lowell roads; with interest on the same.

A similar suit has been entered in the Massachusetts district against the Boston & Lowell Railroad Co., and probably the result of the litigation in that action, will govern the other parties in these suits.

Hon. S. Bartlett of Boston and Wallace Hackett of Portsmouth are counsel in the cases in the New Hampshire district. The bills filed set forth the contract, copies of which are annexed. The answer will be required at the August rules of the court, and calls for an account of the gross receipts from the business.

In the suit against the Boston & Lowell Railroad Co. in Massachusetts Messrs. Abbott and Lovering, counsel for the defendants, have filed a general demurrer to the bill.

News and Notes.

The British steamship Deronda, at New Orleans June 18th from Liverpool, reported that on the 15th, about one hundred miles off Key West, she fell in with the British steamer Edmonton, derelict but apparently not disabled. The Deronda's chief engineer, chief mate, carpenter and several seamen were put on board the Edmonton, with instructions to take her into Key West. The Edmonton struck on Gingerbread shoal May 30th, while on the passage from Cardiff for Havana, and was abandoned on the 6th, all efforts to get her off having failed. Her captain, in his report of the disaster, said "the ship would have floated on Saturday, the 5th, but a gale coming on, she broke in two." She must have grown together again after he left her.

The army worm is reported in Whitehall, near Allentown, Pa., and in Nazareth, Northampton county, where large fields of grass and rye have been destroyed.

Silvina Pager, eighteen years old, sister of the pastor of the "Church of the Sacred Heart" in Gloucester, Mass., was fatally burned, Wednesday of last week, by the breaking of a kerosene lamp.

A terrible accident occurred at the Yellow Jacket mine at Gold Hill, Nev., on Friday, a car load of tools falling from near the surface to the bottom of the shaft, where eight men were standing on a skip, four of whom were instantly killed; another had an arm torn off, another's thigh was broken, and two escaped with slight hurts.

The sixteenth annual session of the general convention of the New Jerusalem church of the United States opened in Portland, Friday. In addition to the annual address, the president, Rev. Chauncey Giles of New York, delivered a very able discourse on unity among brethren.

Charles Coombs, a young man twenty-one years of age, hanged himself last Thursday night in the barn of his employer, Mr. Perry, at Quinsigamond, Mass. No cause is assigned. He belonged in Barre, Mass., and had been with Mr. Perry but a short time.

An interesting trial was held at Lowell, Mass., last Friday, in the police court. Fish Warden Abijah Cutter caused to be arrested, some days ago, Luke McFarlin, one of the most prominent citizens, for fishing within 400 feet of the fishway at Pawtucket falls, Merrimac river. The plea for McFarlin was that the fishway was not legally constructed. Judge Crosby imposed a fine of $50 and costs, from which McFarlin appealed.

At Russianville, Ind., June 18th, James Vogus entered a saloon where his father, Jacob Vogus, was sitting, and fired five shots at him from a revolver, hitting him four times, inflicting mortal wounds. The murderer then quietly walked out of the saloon, and was arrested some time later. He says he did the act deliberately, being crazed over a law-suit pending, in which he sues his father for five years' wages. Mr. Vogus made his will after being shot; his property is estimated at $75,000. Threats were made to lynch the murderer.

Gen. John A. Sutter, the discoverer of gold in California, or rather the man through whose discovery of gold there the world became acquainted with the fact of its existence, died in Washington, D. C., on the 18th inst., of inflammation of the kidneys.

The British bark Birdstow, bound from New York to Gigon, ran into an iceberg when a week out from New York, and went down in a very short time. Her crew, numbering ten persons in all, including the captain and his wife, were picked up by the ship Liverpool after being nineteen hours in their boats, and were landed in New York on the 18th inst.

At Lansing, Mich., Seymour Shelters, aged ten years, was shot Friday night by Henry Raymond, aged nine. The boys quarrelled over the shooting of a dog.

Dr. W. W. Dawton, a leading physician of Cincinnati, states there was a case ten days ago of sporadic cholera, such as occurs every summer, but there is none now.

Three incendiaries, who were to have been hanged at Greenville, S. C., Friday, were respited by the governor, to await the result of an appeal to the supreme court.

The census enumerators in Utah were unable to determine whether they ought to classify the plural wives of Mormons as married or single, and in their dilemma they applied to Superintendent Walker for instructions. He directed that the woman's answers be accepted in all cases, and entered as they gave them.

Hon. Levi P. Morton of New York, and Hon. Benjamin Wilson of West Virginia, have purchased the famous Red Sulphur Springs property in West Virginia, which they propose to make a first class summer resort, to be opened July 1st.

A duel took place between Judge W. P. Stephens, candidate for the state senate and Mr. Detweiler at Toledo, Ark., on Thursday of last week. The judge's pistol failed to do its duty, and his adversary shot him in the shoulder, inflicting a serious wound.

Samuel Sampson Howard was hanged at Bastrop, Texas, Friday, in the presence of a large concourse of people, for the assassination of Alexander Farmer at Paize, in that county, May 31st, 1876. J. H. Williams, also to have been executed at the same time and place for the murder of William Strickland, was respited by the governor.

William H. Schultz, a lad of twelve years, some time ago obtained a verdict of $15,000 against the Third Avenue Horse Railroad company, for injuries sustained by being thrown off a car by a conductor, in New York. The company appealed the case to the general term of the superior court, which on Friday gave a verdict sustaining the decision of the court below.

In 1871 Wm. A. Engeman, a hotel proprietor at Coney island, obtained a divoice from his wife, Eunice P. Engeman, for adultery. The latter applied to the superior court of New York a few days ago, to vacate the decree and allow her to come in and defend, as she knew nothing of the proceedings. Engeman swears that the woman has married again, is intemperate, and deserted his home. Her second husband corroborates him. She avers that her second husband got her drunk, and then married her and stole her money and jewelry.

MESSRS. GEO. WM. BALLOU & CO., bankers, of New York and Boston, have bought a large amount of the first mortgage six per cent. bonds of the Toledo, Delphos & Burlington Railroad Company, and we understand that they will offer them in the market at 90, reserving the right to advance the price at any time. The mortgage is at the rate of less than $7000 per mile of road and the company has no floating debt. Messrs. Ballou & Co. have been very successful in all their operations, and we hear that this is one of the cheapest investment securities in the market.

Dissolution of Co-partnership.

PORTSMOUTH, May 12th, 1880.

THE CO-PARTNERSHIP heretofore existing between David Kimball and Frank J. Philbrick, under the firm name of DAVID KIMBALL & CO., is this day dissolved by mutual consent. The business will hereafter be conducted under the name of DAVID KIMBALL & CO., as heretofore, by Mr. Philbrick, who will settle all accounts.

DAVID KIMBALL.
F. J. PHILBRICK.

Notice of the dissolution of the partnership between myself and Frank J. Philbrick having been made public, it seems only an act of simple justice to add that our association, covering a period of nearly ten years, was at all times harmonious, and gave me full confidence in Mr. Philbrick's integrity. That he may receive the patronage of the friends of the late firm, to which his character and acquirements entitle him, is my sincere wish. In closing a business life of more than fifty-six years, I am led to look back with grateful remembrance of the many friends who have gone, who kindly gave me their confidence and support; and to those who remain, I tender my heartfelt thanks for their continued friendly interest and regard.

AROUND HOME.

Charles M. Lord of this city is a member of the Middleborough, Mass., cornet band.

Estate No. 19 State street was sold at auction on Saturday. Mr. David Flynn was the purchaser.

Harper's Monthly for July is now ready for delivery to subscribers, and for sale, at Moses Brothers' newsroom and W. G. Myers' bookstore.

The steamer James Sampson proposes to make excursions every pleasant evening this week. The programme we are informed is to go up river three evenings, and down river the other three.

Clothing, books, magazines, and papers designed for mission purposes may be sent to the Faith Home, where Mr. Loyne can be found; or a messenger will be sent for contributions on notice being given.

The schooner Oak Grove, Closson master, which put into this port on the 12th inst. in distress, and sailed on the 16th after discharging part of her cargo and making temporary repairs, arrived at Boston on the 18th.

The Woman's Temperance League will have a strawberry festival at Grange hall, No. 5 Congress street, this evening, commencing at 7:45 o'clock; admission five cents. The proceeds will be devoted to the interests of the league.

The schooner City of Green Bay, the queer looking craft which arrived at this port some time ago direct from New Orleans with a cargo of cotton for Dover, to which place she proceeded to discharge, arrived at Montreal on the 16th inst., on her way back to Lake Michigan, on which she formerly sailed.

Mr. William Hurd of Dover, of gospel-tent fame, has recently given a series of illustrated lectures on temperance and religion in Newmarket, and the local paper says: "The attendance was fair each evening, but we cannot conscientiously say the same of the lectures. They were a confused jumble of temperance, religion and egotism, the tenor of which would naturally lead one to doubt the sincerity of the speaker."

Now for the foot-bridge across the north mill pond! A connection with "that sacred precinct," Christian Shore, as Ben Shillaber wrote it, would afford opportunity for residences for persons employed at the new shoe factories, and bring a now distant portion of the city in pleasant and convenient proximity to the centre of population and business. The next move in Portsmouth to keep up its march of activity, is the erection of proper and conveniently located residences for those who come among us to add to our industrial productions.

The cream ginger beer and Belfast ginger ale manufactured by C. E. Boynton of this city are not surpassed by anything of the sort we ever sampled; there is no need to send out of the city to get the best article of the kind in the market, as an order on Mr. Boynton will secure its prompt delivery at the door. The same may be said of the other light and seasonable beverages made by him; for though we will not say that other parties may not make as good tonic, root beer, birch beer, etc., as he does, we will assert that nobody produces anything better in that line, so far as our experience goes—and we think his the best.

The following is a list of the steamers on the river: Appledore, Capt. Rand, running between Portsmouth and the Isles of Shoals; Emerald, Capt. Marden, navy yard ferryboat; Clara Batemen, Capt. James Magraw, towboat; Mystic, Capt. Rashe Trefethen, and James Sampson, Capt. Dick Philbrick, both running regular trips between Kittery and Portsmouth, taking a tow when they get a chance and the job is not too heavy, and going on excursions; Gypsy, tender for the hotel Wentworth at Newcastle; Little May, Capt. Marr; Mollie, Capt. "Oscar," tender for the Shoals hotels; Ann, Capt. Drew, towboat, and charters for excursions; United States tug Leyden, (not in constant use,) Mate John L. Vennard; La Chiquita, of South Newmarket, excursion boat. Besides the above, there are little steamboats being fitted up at Exeter and South Newmarket, and another one lying near Badger's island awaiting her engine and boiler.

The Newmarket Advertiser says: "There is no doubt of the existence of some wild animal in this vicinity. The other night as a gentleman who lives at the 'Bay-side' was returning home through the pastures he saw a large animal sitting on a rock some distance from him. He describes this beast as having a white breast, and estimates his weight at one hundred pounds at least. Many persons have said that this animal so often seen is only a large dog, with his hair sheared off. This gentleman thinks he knows how a dog looks, and is positive that the creature seen by him was no dog."

The United States despatch boat Tallapoosa, which arrived at the navy yard early last week, brought in a launch which was towed to South Newmarket on the 16th inst. by the steamer La Chiquita of that place. The launch is to be fitted there with engines and experimental boilers for the burning of petroleum as fuel, but whether on private or government account we are not informed.

YORK COUNTY ITEMS.

The fishing schooner Helen F. Tredick was on the ways at Kittery, Saturday.

The population of Biddeford, according to the census just taken, is 12,640, against 10,282 ten years ago—a gain of 2,358. Of the present population, only 6,679 were born in the United States.

Mr. Samuel H. Pillsbury of Kittery has sold his sloop yacht "No-name" to D. T. Littlefield and Charles H. Cleaves of Saco. Mr. Pillsbury still retains the "Myth," and will probably not part with her in a hurry.

Frank Waterhouse has leased the Old Orchard opera house for the season, and he, George Leopold and the Bertine brothers were in Portsmouth on Saturday making arrangements for opening on the 1st of July. George W. Guppy will open a show under canvas at Old Orchard on the same date.

A fine flag, thirty-six feet long and bearing the names of the next president and vice president of the United States, was hoisted on Friday evening last between two poles in front of the residence of Dr. M. F. Wentworth of Kittery, in the presence of nearly two hundred voters. The Dirigo band of Kittery was in attendance, and played suitable patriotic airs.

About one o'clock in the morning on the 12th inst. a barn belonging to Erastus Hilton, at Bald hill, near the depot in Wells, was discovered to be on fire. From the barn the flames spread to the house and a shed, and all three of the buildings were destroyed, nothing being saved except a portion of the furniture in the house. The loss was about $1500; insurance $800.

COLORS.

The rage for red is only equalled by the rage for yellow, and vice versa, the rage for yellow is only equalled by the rage for red. These two rages constitute the most prominent fact in dress at the present moment, and I would not give much for the sensibilities of anybody whose nerves were not seriously affected thereby. Impressed by the sight of a yellow bonnet trimmed with red, you scarcely recover from this shock when you encounter a red bonnet trimmed with yellow, and hardly have you by an effort regained your composure, when you observe a society belle whose various coat tails float in the breeze, displaying the artistic combination of a red outside with yellow facings or a yellow outside contrasting triumphantly with red linings. This, moreover, in view of coming dog days, is a curious subject of speculation, and rises to the proportions of a general sort of madness which has taken possession of the feminine mind. Yet all has not been told, for both red and yellow intrude themselves in combination with other colors. Costumes of blue, gray, green, etc., are trimmed or faced with red or yellow, while of late we see black silk skirts finished around the lower edge with three narrow, plaited ruffles, one red, one yellow and one blue! Hot-looking morning costumes for the country are of plain Turkey red, or red and yellow, figured calico; red calico parasol to match. Surprising costumes are likewise in bright shades of garnet and wine colors, trimmed with yellow or sometimes with pronounced plaids. One of the latter was worn the other evening by Edwin Booth's daughter, as with her distinguished father she listened to one of Weber's Baby Grand pianos. This new instrument has attracted no little attention during the winter, not only among musicians, but from the general public, since its tones are remarkably powerful and of great beauty, while from diminished size, it is less cumbrous than the grand pianos to which we are more accustomed. But to return. The young lady's costume was made Roxelane waist and Edmee skirt,—two stylish designs recently introduced,—and her bonnet was of mixed straw trimmed with brown ribbon and a bunch of cherries. She is quite small, almost fragile; her round, childlike face having no resemblance to the narrow, spirituelle countenance of the distinguished tragedian. Another new and pretty walking skirt is the Simplice; the Theresine overskirt is also a handsome novelty, and in the way of a stylish corsage the Gervaise coat deserves mention. Together with the Simplice skirt, it would be a handsome model for a walking dress of any kind of summer goods, while for indoors an adjustable train could be added. Returning to

MILLINERY.

We find a noticeable feature to be the manner of trimming very coarse, flaring straws, since they are garnished with fine Languedoc or Breton lace, handsome plumes, flowers, etc. The new colored mulls are likewise much used for these shade hats. Not black velvet, however, which though really more appropriate than anything else, is not employed in such combinations, nor elsewhere indeed in millinery. Pale lilac, which for some tremely fashionable in both millinery years was in profound oblivion, is now every and costumes; and near akin to this are the new heliotrope shades in diverse tones of pinkish purple or purplish pink; yet as readily becomes apparent, these colors are too trying to be largely adopted, and the same can be said of the coachman's drabs, pale grays, etc.

EXPANSION OF IDEAS.

There is an evident tendency towards broadening effects in dress. Some of the new hats are very small, perfectly flat to the head, in cap shape, but quite broad, the breadth being added to by a spray of flowers pendant on one side and a bow of ribbon on the other. Then again, we see plain skirts hanging full all around and with French gathers in front as well as at the back. Extremists only adopt them, but peradventure they lead where we in time shall follow.

PUBLIC BENEFACTORS. Harvey, Jenner, Guthrie, and other discoverers of great facts in medical science, have been properly called the world's benefactors. Whoever succeeds in lessening the pain and dangers of the human family deserves no less a title. Hunt's Remedy, the great kidney and liver medicine, is a medical marvel. It cures all complaints of the kidneys, bladder, liver and urinary organs—even Bright's disease—and it saves valuable lives by the thousand. Sold by all druggists. Trial size; seventy-five cents.

the cats's back, and scratched and picked with all their might; others flew right into her face, while the balance made it interesting in the rear. The cat was so surprised at first that she stood unable to move. The birds became more and more infuriated, and fought such a savage battle that they drove the foe down the garden path on a full gallop and under the barn. They returned to their feast, and were left to themselves the balance of the winter, the cat making herself scarce when they put in an appearance.—Cleveland (O.) Leader.

When the English sparrows see a bug, they go into committee of the whole and argue for an hour or two as to the best manner of dispatching him. When they have come to an agreement, the bug has moved out of range. They remind us of something, but what that something is we can't for the life of us think.—Boston Transcript.

Too Technical by Half.

A census enumerator ran across a lawyer, and the following colloquy occurred:

"Are you married, sir?" he asked.

"That is a matter of record about which I have no right to give oral evidence," wisely remarked the technical gentleman.

"Well, where were you born?"

"If I should answer that question, my testimony would be purely hearsay, and incompetent."

"When were you born, or how old are you, please?"

"My evidence upon that point would be merely hearsay; I was present, but have no personal recollection of the affair. You cannot prove these things by me, and the law cannot force me to answer."

—A sculptor's wife had her husband arrested in Cincinnati the other day for assault and battery because, as she testified, on the occasion of her going to his studio to inform him that the woman across the way had eloped, he struck her in the face with a huge mass of mud. The sculptor explained that the occasion referred to was the first time for years he had seen a pleasant look on his wife's face, and therefore he hastened to take a clay cast of her features, so as to catch the expression for use on a bust he intended to model. The court dismissed the case.—San Francisco Post.

—He was a brand new office boy, young, pretty-faced, with golden ringlets and blue eyes. Just such a boy as one would imagine would be taken out of his little trundle-bed in the middle of the night and transported beyond the stars. The first day he glanced over the library in the editorial room, became acquainted with everybody, knew all the printers, and went home in the evening as happy and as cheery as a sunbeam. The next day he appeared, leaned out of the back window, tied the cat up by the tail in the hall-way, had four fights with another boy, borrowed two dollars from an occupant of the building, saying his mother was dead, collected his two days' pay from the cashier, hit the janitor with a broomstick, pawned a coat belonging to a member of the editorial staff, wrenched the knobs of the doors, upset the ice-cooler, piled three galleys of type, and mashed his finger in the small press. On the third day a note was received saying, "Mi Mother do not want I to work for such a dull place. She says I Would make a Good preacher, so De I. my finger is Better; gone fishin. Yours."

Admirable Wine for Weakly Persons.

The most certain way to get something strengthening for aged and weakly persons, especially for females, is to purchase Speer's Sambuci Wine from druggists, which is beyond doubt the purest and most admirable ever made. It is rich, nourishing and most delicious, and at the same time entirely free from any sort of spirits. Whatever strength it contains is not added strength, but simply pure juice of the fruit. Many have tasted this tonic, and prefer it to imported wines. Its medicinal properties have been acknowledged. Physicians do not hesitate prescribing it to patients for general debility, etc., for it is a sort of medicine that one would rather take than not.

—"Goods at half price," said the sign. "How much is that teapot?" asked the old lady who had been attracted by the announcement. "Fifty cents, mum." "I guess I'll take it then," she said, throwing down a quarter. The dealer let her have the teapot, but took in his sign before another customer could come in.

We are strongly disposed to regard that person as the best physician who does most to alleviate human suffering. Judged from this standard, Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, 233 Western Avenue, Lynn, Mass., is entitled to the front rank, for her Vegetable Compound is daily working wonderful cures in female diseases. Send for circulars to the above address.

—The Springfield Republican remarks: "One often runs against a sermon when he least expects it. A local brakeman of long service on a passenger train, where he was noted for his prompt attention to duty and politeness to passengers, was asked the other day by a friend why he chose to transfer himself to a freight train with its extra risks and greater discomfort. The reply was: 'I can't stand the travelling public; they treat me like a dog, and some of them even whistle for me when they want any service. I did not expect them to treat me as they would a gentleman, but I did look for treatment worthy of a human being—a man. I got in the way of telling them I wasn't a dog, and it made trouble. So I concluded to take to the freight."

If you have a cough resulting from a sudden cold, procure Adamson's Botanic Balsam, take one half to one teaspoonful three times a day, and your cough will cease. Trial bottle, 10 cts.

THE BEST REMEDY

FOR

Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL.

Diseases of the pulmonary organs are so prevalent and fatal, that a safe and reliable remedy for them is invaluable to every community. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is such a remedy, and no other so eminently merits the confidence of the public. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, to insure the greatest possible efficiency and uniformity of results, which enables physicians as well as invalids to use it with confidence. It is the most reliable remedy for diseases of the throat and lungs that science has produced. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt and certain relief, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it without difficulty. In the treatment of ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household, for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

The marvellous cures which AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has effected all over the world are a sufficient guaranty that it will continue to produce the best results. An impartial trial will convince the most sceptical of its wonderful curative powers, as well as of its superiority over all other preparations for pulmonary complaints.

Eminent physicians in all parts of the country, knowing its composition, recommend AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL to invalids, and prescribe it in their practice. The test of half a century has proved its absolute certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

GOOD WATCH WORK — AT — HUTCHINSON'S.

Daily Chronicle.

Advice to Canada.

The Toronto Globe opposes the high-tariff notions of some of the Canadians, and argues that a democratic victory in this country would be also a victory for the merchants and manufacturers of Canada. It says:

Nothing can be more certain than that the United States will reduce their tariff before very long. In another generation their national debt will have almost disappeared. Heavy taxation will then be purposeless, as the general government is not charged with the execution of ordinary public works. We do not believe that the protectionists can hold power in the states for ten years longer. With the first democratic president the assault on the tariff will begin. Were Canadians to enter the high-tariff Zollverein now, they would surrender their self-government for sake of obtaining immediately the entrance to markets which will be given to them very shortly in the natural course of events.

Among the prominent local industries in Alameda county, says the San Francisco Chronicle, is that of salt manufacture. The works are located on the bay shore, near Newark, and salt is made by solar evaporation. The salt ponds are eighty acres in extent, which are divided into water-tight compartments, each compartment being provided with a gate, for the purpose of admitting the water supply. The pond is connected with the waters of the bay by a ditch. This water is then passed from the pond into the upper end of the vats by windmill pumps, and from this point the water is gradually distributed into the various receptacles, as evaporation goes on, the water becoming more impregnated with salt as it passes towards the lower rows. From these vats it is again pumped into others, where it remains until crystalized, and layers of salt half an inch thick are thus formed. The residue of the water is then let off, and the salt taken up and put into small cars, which run on a wooden tramway, and carried to the receiving-house and there manufactured into the various kinds in use, which is done by thoroughly drying it in heated pans and crushing the salt in mills. Several thousand tons are made in this locality annually.

Benjamin Bennett, grocer of Woonsocket, R. I., was returning on Thursday of last week from Manville, where he had collected $500, when he was attacked on the highway by two men who stopped his horse. One fired a pistol and the other jumped into the wagon. Bennett's dog seized one man and he fired at the other, when the horse sprang and he escaped.

Do a Favor to a Sick Friend.

If you have a friend suffering from any disorder of the Kidneys send them a package of Kidney-Wort, and you will make them happy. Its great tonic power is especially directed to those diseases, and it quickly relieves the distress and cures the disease.

Phineas T. Barnum will celebrate his seventieth birthday on the fifth of July. He began work at thirteen as clerk in a country store; at eighteen he opened an oyster saloon, and engaged in selling lottery tickets under an assumed name; then he published a newspaper, and was imprisoned for libel; at twenty-five he was keeper of a boarding house, and failed in the business. He then entered the show business with Joice Heath, whom he advertised as one hundred and sixty-one years old, and in that business he has continued, with many changes of fortune.

Prejudice Kills.

"Eleven years our daughter suffered on a bed of misery under the care of several of the best (and some of the worst) physicians, who gave her disease various names but no relief, and now she is restored to us in good health by so simple a remedy as Hop Bitters, that we had poohed at for two years, before using it. We earnestly hope and pray that no one else will let their sick suffer as we did, on account of prejudice against so good a medicine as Hop Bitters."—The Parent. —Telegram.

Henry Ward Beecher's house at Peekskill, N. Y., which he has been engaged in building for several years, will be, when finished, the finest rural residence belonging to any American clergyman. It is said that he makes money rapidly, spends it with equal rapidity, and that "he has handled more cash than any clergyman on this continent."

Kidney Diseases.

Kidney diseases afflict the greater part of the human race, and they are constantly on the increase, but where the virtues of Kidney-Wort have become known, they are held in check and speedily cured. Let those who have had to constantly dose spirits of nitre and such stuff, give this great remedy a trial and be cured.

At Port Jefferson, near Sydney, O., on Thursday of last week, David L. Shank, a young blacksmith attacked two widows in their house, and killed Mrs. Lane, aged sixty-five years, the weapon being a fence rail. He was driven away before killing the other woman. He feigned insanity when arrested, but is believed to have been drunk.

FOR PRESIDENT,

James A. Garfield,

OF OHIO.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,

Chester A. Arthur,

OF NEW YORK.

"On the Defensive."

"Already has the democratic press put the republican party on the defensive, in the person of its candidate for the presidency," is the exultant proclamation of a democratic exchange; and the same statement, couched in different language, can be seen in almost any democratic paper.

These papers evidently consider—or wish to make their unthinking readers believe—that for a man to be "put on the defensive" is proof that he is a very bad man, and is utter disgrace and ruin to him. This is not so. The best of men have been and are constantly being "put on the defensive" by reckless and unprincipled assailants, and many a worthy farmer has been "put on the defensive" by a polecat without any injury to his good name. When our democratic contemporaries so jubilantly announce that they have put the republican candidate on the defensive, they simply proclaim that the same torrent of slander and misrepresentation which would have been aimed at any other republican by the democratic partisan press, has been aimed at Garfield. That is all.

The democratic papers appear displeased and annoyed at the very quiet and unconcerned tone of the republican papers amid all the democratic mud-flinging; but the republican papers know—and know that the people of the country know—that reckless and mendacious slander has always been the "best hold" of the democratic press, and that such a style of warfare hurts only those who invoke its aid. On this head the New York World, the leading democratic paper of the country, says:

It is not too early in the presidential campaign to invite the attention of our esteemed contemporaries to the fact that what is called political "mud throwing" has really ceased to affect the fortunes either of parties or of individuals. So far as the democratic party is concerned it is very important that this should be understood. To call Gen. Garfield or Gen. Arthur "pet names" of the old regulation Callender pattern, and belabor them with superlative epithets, will have only one possible effect.

We shall certainly not be discouraged if a man of honesty and ability like Garfield is called to the White House. If the democrats at Cincinnati will give us a man of equally high character, the people of this country may breathe more freely in regard to their political future than they have before for many years.

A Good Exhibit.

It is said that in the event of the democracy at Cincinnati being able to select a candidate whom it is believed by certain New Hampshire members of the party can be chosen president, a strong effort will be made to carry this state for their party in the fall.

The result of the republican management makes a good exhibit. With the expense of the legislation of last year, which, with the publication of laws, revising statutes, etc., cost about fifty thousand dollars, which sum will not be required to be expended this year; and with an outlay of seventy-two thousand dollars for the new state prison, the indebtedness of the state has been reduced sixty-one thousand dollars,—and yet the democrats will go before the people, without the cause of complaint as to successful management of the affairs of the state by their opponents, but asking to be placed in power for the cogent reason that they want a few offices for which their followers have long impatiently learned to labor and to wait.

Back Talk.

A dispatch from New York says that William Young, master of the steamboat Narragansett, last Sunday evening attended the Trinity Methodist Episcopal church in Jersey City, of which Rev. R. Harcourt is pastor. During his sermon the minister denounced all the officers of the Narragansett as cowards. Captain Young, who sat in front of the pulpit, arose and said that any one who made such a charge was a liar. The audacious captain was conducted to the police station by one of the trustees, charged with disorderly conduct, and locked up to answer. While it may be difficult to determine who was the chief offender in the matter of propriety, it is clear that the parson was entitled to the floor. What a dreadful state of confusion would result if sinners in all our congregations were permitted to "talk back."

The "Fifteen" Puzzle Outdone.

On Monday a long letter was published, written by Samuel J. Tilden to the New York delegates to the democratic national convention. The first half of the letter recites the history of the contest which did not result in the election of Tilden to the presidency. In the latter part of the letter the cipher reformer of Gramercy park either does or does not decline a renomination, and after carefully reading the document several times we are of the opinion that we cannot tell which he did mean to do. We are clear however that he referred to the matter one way or the other.

News and Notes.

The excursion steamer Adelaide was run down and sunk in New York harbor, Saturday evening, by the excursion steamer Grand Republic. There were but few persons on board either of the steamers besides their crews, as both were making for their docks to tie up for the night, and no person was seriously hurt.

Mr. Bill Mire, the sexton of the Mount Vernon church in Baltimore, who disappeared eight months ago, has turned up in San Francisco and has written a long letter to his wife giving an extraordinary story of his having been kidnapped with a billy, chloroformed, taken on board of a schooner, drugged, cast adrift in a small boat, picked up by bark Antioch, Capt. Weeks, and carried to Hong Kong, whence he finally found his way to California. He says the men who kidnapped him robbed him of $900 belonging to the church.

Two boys, Linar Gallagher, aged fourteen years, and Sid Mullins, aged fifteen, of Lancaster, Ky., quarrelled on Saturday, when the former ran into the family residence, procured a revolver and began shooting. The second shot passed through Mullins' body, inflicting a fatal wound. Gallagher was arrested.

George Whitenech of St. John, N. B., was driving in a carriage with a woman, formerly employed as a domestic, Friday night, when he was dragged from the vehicle by his wife's nephew, who had with Mrs. Whitenech gone in pursuit. Whitenech had his jawbone broken and was otherwise badly used.

The finance committee of the Boston & Albany railroad directors have reported in favor of an advance of ten per cent in wages, to take effect June 1st. The rise is understood to include officers as well as employes.

Twenty-four hundred acres of rye, corn and grass were eaten up last week in Harrison township, Westchester county, N. Y., by army worms. It is thought the pest was brought there in baled manure, as farms not using it were not affected.

William Southerland, a carpenter, thirty-five years old, fell from a ship, repairing at Bath, Me., into the water, Saturday afternoon, and was drowned. He leaves a widow and three children.

At Fall River, Mass., Saturday afternoon, while John Scott was rowing a friendly race with a friend, fearing that a passing vessel would run into him he jumped overboard, and was drowned.

Jeduthan Spooner, a well known citizen of New Bedford, Mass., was found dead in a field where he was at work, Friday morning. Heart disease was probably the cause. He was seventy-four years of age.

The advance guard of the army worms that have been travelling northward through Connecticut, reached Springfield, Mass., last Saturday. They make clean work of every field of grass or grain they attack, leaving hardly a vestige of green in their track.

William Rooney, who was injured at the Boston Rubber Belting company's works in Roxbury, Mass., by falling down in a fit some time since, and reported as having died at the city hospital, is still alive. It seems that he was thought to be dead, and the body was sent to his friends. Before the funeral took place he was discovered to be alive, and is now doing well.

A married woman at Bangor, Me., named Susan Pond, dropped dead at a house where she worked, Sunday night. It was thought to be heart disease and trouble combined, her husband being in jail for breaking into the Castine post-office. She was twenty-seven years of age, and leaves three children, two of whom are in the Orphan asylum.

Elizabeth Rollins of Chelsea, Mass., eighty-seven years of age, was fatally burned on Saturday morning while using kerosene to light a fire. The poor old lady was old enough to have known better.

James Currie, the high-toned Texan ruffian who brutally murdered Barrymore, the actor, and wounded another man, because they remonstrated with the bully for insulting a lady, a year or two ago, was last week tried for the crime. The case was given to the jury on Saturday, and in fifteen minutes a verdict of "not guilty by reason of insanity" was returned.

A Broken-Hearted Mother.

State house and state prison officials in Massachusetts have become familiar with the sorrowful, anxious face of the mother of Albert Joy, now serving life sentence for the brutal murder of Charles H. Gilman, a peddler, at Rockport, Mass., in 1877, and who it will be remembered was sentenced to be hanged, but because of his youth, for he was hardly more than a boy, the circumstantial nature of the evidence, and the pleading of his mother, had his sentence commuted to imprisonment for life. Hardly had the change been made when the mother began her efforts to secure the release of her son, whose innocence she has never doubted, and for three years she has haunted the state house and prison. Her petition has been heard and acted upon unfavorably once or twice, but she never falters, though the case is almost hopeless. She is poor and weak, but she is a constant visitor at Concord, where she is allowed to see and speak freely with her son, who is a well behaved prisoner; and many a time the officers of the institution have given her money to take her to her desolate home.

There is no Pain Like Toothache!

It "beats the dogs" for making a fellow squirm. Nobody pities you. "Get it out," says one; "rub the tooth against a stone," says another; "when it begins to swell then it won't hurt so much," says a third. The reason of the ache is you didn't use SOZODONT, and prevent your teeth from decay.

Brown's Household Panacea

Is the most effective Pain Destroyer in the world. Will most surely quicken the blood whether taken internally or applied externally, and thereby more certainly relieve pain, whether chronic or acute, than any other pain alleviator, and it is warranted double the strength of any similar preparation.

It cures pain in the side, back or bowels, sore throat, rheumatism, toothache and all aches.

The great reliever of pain, "Brown's Household Panacea," should be in every family. A teaspoonful of the Panacea in a tumbler of hot water (sweetened, if preferred), taken at bedtime, will break up a cold. 25 cents a bottle.

Much Sickness,

Undoubtedly with children attributed to other causes, is occasioned by worms. Brown's Vermifuge Comfits, or Worm Lozenges, although effectual in destroying worms, can do no possible injury to the most delicate child. This valuable combination has been successfully used by physicians, and found to be absolutely sure in eradicating worms, so hurtful to children. Twenty five cents a box. 4th&f

Dissolution of Co-partnership.

PORTSMOUTH, May 12th, 1880.

THE CO-PARTNERSHIP heretofore existing between David Kimball and Frank A. Philbrick, under the firm name of DAVID KIMBALL & CO., is this day dissolved by mutual consent. The business will hereafter be conducted under the name of DAVID KIMBALL & CO., as heretofore, by Mr. Philbrick, who will settle all accounts.

DAVID KIMBALL.
F. J. PHILBRICK.

Notice of the dissolution of the partnership between myself and Frank J. Philbrick having been made public, it seems only an act of simple justice to add that our association, covering a period of nearly ten years, was at all times harmonious, and gave me full confidence in Mr. Philbrick's integrity. That he may receive the patronage of the friends of the late firm, to which his character and acquirements entitle him, is my sincere wish. In closing a business life of more than fifty-six years, I am led to look back with grateful remembrance of the many friends who have gone, who kindly gave me their confidence and support; and to those who remain, I tender my heartfelt thanks for their continued friendly interest and regard.

AROUND HOME.

Rev. Dr. J. H. Morrison occupied the pulpit of the Unitarian church on Sunday.

There was a big dinner party at the Dover Point hotel on Saturday, composed principally of persons from Dover and this city.

There was some excitement occasioned, Sunday, by a report that a man had been drowned in a vat at one of the breweries, but the rumor was probably untrue, as the man was at work on Monday.

The eleventh annual commencement of Robinson female seminary occurred at Exeter on Wednesday afternoon of last week. There were six graduates. In the evening a brilliant reception was held. Gen. Gilman Marston, of the board of trustees, had charge of the exercises.

The schooner Mary E. Caswell arrived on Sunday evening with 4000 mackerel, the finest lot brought in this season; the fare was sold to G. Sullivan & Co. The indications are, so the fishermen say, that mackerel will be plentiful and of large size. The Mary E. Caswell also brought in a large party of pleasure seekers from the Shoals, who went out by steamer on the previous day; and when the squall of Sunday evening struck her there was a lively time from the excitement among the passengers and the hurried shortening of sail by the crew.

The Boston Herald of last Sunday said: "Considerable commotion was caused at Portsmouth, N. H., on Saturday, by the arrest of a prominent gentleman of that city, belonging to one of the oldest and most wealthy families, for the non-payment of taxes. After considerable time the amount, which is under $200, was paid by counsel under protest. The arrested party claims damages, and a lawsuit is threatened. The severe losses which have occurred in previous years by the non-collection of taxes have caused a determination by the present municipal administration to look sharp after delinquents."

One hundred and eighty-eight barrels of alewives were brought down river in gondolas last week, from the weirs near the railroad bridge at Newmarket belonging to John J. Robinson, and stored with William T. Frye on Bow street, who has dealt with the up-river fishermen for many years. At present there is no sale for them. Other parties at the head of the river have also done well this season, having disposed of their catch to good advantage, some of the fish going to the West Indies. They are salted and packed in barrels, and keep well, but are not so large and fat as those taken along the coast of Nova Scotia.

On Saturday night last certain persons took from in front of the residence of Hon. Marcellus Eldredge, on Islington street, a very valuable plant which was growing in a pot. After carrying it a short distance they broke off the plant close to the roots, and a little further on threw the pot on the ground and shivered it. They were seen and recognized while engaged in this contemptible business, and are quite likely to find themselves in trouble over the matter, malicious mischief being a serious offence under the new law. There has been much complaint lately about the stealing of flowers and plants from front yards, and perhaps it would be a good thing to make an example of somebody.

The Boston papers inform us that the Wentworth hotel at Newcastle will open for business this week.

The number of men in this city who claim relationship or intimate acquaintanceship with General Garfield is truly alarming.

The Rye and Greenland base ball clubs plased a game at Greenland on Saturday, the Greenlanders winning by a score of thirty-six to eighteen.

A clerk in one of our bookstores who was camping out for the past week, got through with ten cans of tomatoes as one item in his bill of fare.

The Portsmouth & Dover railroad will run an extra train this evening, leaving this city at 6:30, and Dover after the circus entertainment is over.

The name of the Commercial house on Vaughan street is to be changed to Gibson house. Mr. J. S. Grant, the owner of the property, is to open the house as landlord.

The symetrical and airy annex to the fine Lord mansion at the corner of State and Middle streets, was designed by Emerson, a Boston architect. The work was done by B. F. Webster.

Last week our market was glutted with mackerel, and the buyers at length refused to purchase any more. One crew were offered $25 for their fare, but refused to sell, and put their mackerel on private sale, realizing $50 for them.

It took fifteen men and boys, including the whole stable force of the Stoddard brothers, to get a pig into a box, Monday morning, and but two men to put the box (including the pig) into a countryman's wagon. It was rare sport for the bystanders.

The exercises of the graduating class of Brackett's academy, Greenland, will be given this (Tuesday) evening at eight o'clock, at the academy on Greenland parade, after which a reception will be given by the class to their friends from ten until twelve o'clock.

Major George E. Hogdon has challenged Capt. James E. Ford to a shooting match with breech-loading Springfield rifles, distance five hundred yards; Capt. Ford has accepted the challenge, and the match will take place one day this week at Gerrish's island.

M. C. Foye opens on Wednesday morning a job lot of Hamburgs for skirts and sacks, at 25 and 50 cts, per yard. As these goods are claimed to be cheap at 37 1-2 and 62 cts., ladies in want of Hamburgs should call early, as they will last but a few days. See advertisement.

One of the handsomest strings of brook trout brought to this city for many a season was on exhibition at Joseph W. Bell's saloon on Fleet street, Monday, where they attracted many visitors. There were thirty of the beautiful fish, one of them weighing over a pound.

Messrs. Albert C. Hill, James E. White, Harry B. Thayer, and Henry G. Hartshorn of Boston, all well known in this city, have gone to the Rangeley lakes for a two weeks' fishing excursion. They expect to reach the Wentworth, at Newcastle, with a large mess of trout, about July 4th.

There was a brisk squall between six and seven o'clock Sunday evening, and small boats on the river had to let their sails down on the run. At Newburyport the squall assumed the form of a young tornado, the wind blowing with great force in a narrow track, and being accompanied with considerable rain and large hailstones, while outside of this track there was but little wind and not rain enough to lay the dust; a new house, nearly completed, was blown to pieces, and a number of trees ruined; and the flag-staff at Plum island lightstation was shattered by lightning.

On Monday noon the span of horses attached to Mr. Frank L. Marks' confectionery team, while standing in front of his residence on Vaughan street, near the railroad crossing, took fright from the noise of a locomotive, and started at a furious rate toward Congress street. Mr. Marks' daughter, who was standing on the sidewalk at the time, had hold of the reins, but was unable to check the horses, though fortunately succeeding in dropping the ribbons before being dragged any great distance. The animals kept on at a high rate of speed, but were stopped as they neared the Franklin block by Mr. Fred Young, who courageously sprang in front of them and succeeded in grasping and holding on to the bridle. Mr. Young is deserving of much credit for his bravery. The team and its contents were not injured.

BOW MISSION SERVICES.

During the warm days the meetings are not so well attended as during the more comfortable season of the year, yet there are always enough present to have a good service, as the workers are not governed by the seasons—or ought not to be—and it is thought best to continue the several meetings through hot and cold weather.

Mrs. Adams conducted the gospel temperance exercises Saturday evening, after a social service of praise, and the meeting was interesting throughout.

Mr. James Janvrin had charge of the bethel service Sunday afternoon, which closed with a children's bible service.

The reform club held a social service Sunday evening, Vice President Robert Phinney in the chair. Interesting remarks were made by S. W. Clarke and others, and at the close two new names were added to the roll. L.

Political Matters.

The national convention of the democrtic party meets in Cincinnati to-day. Who will be nominated for president cannot be guessed. Seymour has said he won't take a nomination, and Tilden has said something, nobody can tell what.

There is one feature in the nomination of James A. Garfield which we refer to with unalloyed pleasure. It is that a man without a barrel, a man worth not even what the world would call a competence, has been nominated. We have of late too virtually adopted the rule that only rich men can run for office. No "barrel" was used to nominate Garfield; no "barrel" will be needed to elect him. —Lowell Courier.

The Journal, as it had a definite theory as to the probable action of the Chicago convention, which it saw fulfilled in the event, has also, in one phase of the subject, an indifference to what may be done in and at the democratic convention at Cincinnati. It is fully of the opinion that, whoever may be nominated at Cincinnati, Gen. Garfield will be the next President of the United States; and it bases this confidence, precisely as it did its conviction in the wisdom of the Chicago convention, upon the doctrine of the intelligence and patriotism of the people. The democratic candidate must be the choice and representative of the democratic party; the democratic party is held up, made recognizable and controlled by the south; and the south, in so far as it possesses a political voice, is rebel still. So we say, as we believe, that seeing this, the north will defeat the democratic nominee in November next, as it defeated secession and rebellion in the field, being actuated now by the same sentiment which impelled it then.—Providence Journal.

New Hampshire Items.

Mrs. Nora Connery of Westhampton was thrown from a wagon on Wednesday of last week, and so badly injured that she died during the night.

Henry Parkinson, a prominent citizen of Nashua, was run over, Saturday, on the Worcester & Nashua railroad by a shifting train of the Nashua & Lowell road, and instantly killed. He was sixty-seven years of age.

An assault case was tried before the police court at Manchester, Saturday, growing out of a disgraceful church quarrel in East Weare. The Baptist church and society of that town last September extended a call to Rev. Sumner Latham for one year at a salary of $300. A majority of the members having become dissatisfied, they some time since voted to dismiss the pastor, but could not agree upon the terms of settlement. The minister's party held possession of the church, through Agent Alfred M. Hamilton. On the 15th of May other parties attempted to gain possession and put new locks on the church doors, which was resented by Hamilton as agent of the church, when the assault complained of occurred. Upon the hearing of the case, Rodney W. Gould, who claims to be a church officer, was fined $5 and costs, amounting to $19, from which decision an appeal was taken to the superior court.

Extravagant Women.

A fashionable dressmaker recently sued the Countess Potocki for the amount of her bill, said amount not being far from $30,000. One article in the list was a cloak lined with Russian sable, for which the modest sum of $6,400 was charged. The count declared that the prices asked were absolutely extortionate and refused payment. Hence the suit. The now famous cloak has been placed in the hands of an expert, who will be able to declare if the furs used were worth anything like what was asked for the garment. It appears that the Count Potocki's father died some time ago. He was a great miser, and kept his children deprived of all the elegancies to which his wealth entitles them, and one of the first uses that his son made of his new inheritance was to authorize his wife to go and purchase for herself a complete and splendid outfit. But he never contemplated such prices as the dressmaker in question has been fit to demand, and so he has made a necessary stand against the extortion.

I am told that there are some other really startling revelations of the same nature to be unfolded shortly. Worth, for instance, has refused to make another article for a certain noble English lady, whose husband is one of the wealthiest men in England, because he cannot get the amount owing to him, now over £20,000 ($100,000). It is said that the books of that famous establishment, if carefully investigated, could tell strange stories. There was one fair luminary of the second empire who died owing Mr. Worth some $40,000, and I do not know if she has ever yet been paid in full. But the chief of any one of the great houses of Paris could tell queer tales of that nature if he would. I have heard of her there came one day to the Compagnie des Indes (the greatest lace and India shawl warehouse on the Rue Richelieu) a certain noble duchess, with a set of point lace flounces that she wished to have altered. The courteous salesman took her directions very quietly, but when they were ended, he remarked: "Before we alter your lace, madam, do you not think that you had better pay for it?" The bill had been standing for over seven years. But the liveliest case on record of this nature was that of the wife of a prominent official of the second empire, who bought a superb set of diamonds on credit, took them straightway to the Court at Eisle, and forthwith pawned them. Naturally, when the bill was presented she was unable either to pay it or to restore the jewels. The affair was on the point of terminating in a tremendous scandal when some prominent personage informed the emperor of the whole matter, and pointed out the terrific damage that would be done to the reputation of the imperial official circle were it suffered to become public. That cautious sovereign at once paid the jeweler out of his own pocket, or rather out of the public treasury, and the lady's "little game" in consequence succeeded to perfection.—Chicago Times' Paris letter.

The Old Story.

The morning sunlight looked in through the silken curtains, lighting the room as with an angel's smile, suddenly enveloping the face of the occupant with a strange brightness and transforming her pale brown hair into waves of glistening gold. Said the sunlight: "Maiden, I missed you from the garden where I used to find you every morning, and I come here to seek you. Summer will soon be here with her roses almost as bright as your cheeks. Are you ill?" "O, no!" responded the maiden, warming her thin, bloodless hands in the sunbeam, "only a little weak; I shall soon be out in the garden to greet you—to-morrow perhaps. I was just planning how I should arrange my flowers this year, when you peeped in. Are my lilies up yet?" "Yes, your lilies are up; I have just been warming them. I have tired you," said the sunlight, as he noticed the wearily drooping eyelids; "I will come again to-morrow if you are not in the garden"—and silently withdrew, leaving the fair slumberer alone in the gloom. A few hours later the moonlight stole softly through the silken curtains, which were gently rustling in the night breeze. "How cold!" said the moonlight, as she touched the pallid brow, and then gently laid her hand on the pulseless heart. "Dead!" she shudderingly whispered, as she withdrew through the softly rustling curtains. It is the old, old story of consumption. How she flatter her victims at morning with hope's honied words, and at evening makes them the prey of the spoiler! Statistics show that one-third of mankind die of this disease, and of these, far the greater part are young persons between the ages of fifteen and twenty-five, in the dawn of manhood and womanhood. For many years, consumption was generally believed to be incurable. But medicine in her triumphant march against disease has already added consumption to her list of conquered. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures this dread disease if resorted to in time. For a full consideration of the disease and its rational method of treatment, read the article on consumption in the People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, the most reliable popular work upon Physiology, Hygiene, Diseases and their Remedies, yet published. Price 1.50. Address the author, R. V. Pierce, M. D., World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

—A clerk in a Broadway store recently asked for a half day's absence because he wanted to attend a funeral in the country. When he returned the next morning with red hands and a freckled face, his employer said, "Where are the fish?"

Haunted Me.

A workingman says: "Debt, poverty and suffering haunted me for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for doctoring, which did no good. I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I procured Hop Bitters and commenced their use, and in one month we were all well, and none of us have been sick a day since; and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your families well a year with Hop Bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost."—Christian Advocate.

—The brilliant Sophie Arnold, when she heard that a certain diplomatist had been eaten by wolves, exclaimed, "Poor brutes! Hunger must indeed be a terrible thing!"

It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, to insure the greatest possible efficiency and uniformity of results, which enables physicians as well as invalids to use it with confidence. It is the most reliable remedy for diseases of the throat and lungs that science has produced. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt and certain relief, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it without difficulty. In the treatment of ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. GOOD WATCH WORK

HUTCHINSON'S.

Daily Chronicle.

New Publications.

The July magazines are at hand. An interesting paper in the Atlantic Monthly is a sketch of the occupation of Richmond after the rebel exodus, and of President Lincoln's visit to that city. It was read by Gen. George F. Shepley before a literary club in Portland of which he was a member, and now first appears since Judge Shepley's death, in the Atlantic. Perley Poore's sketches of Van Buren's administration and the Harrison campaign are like the former reminiscences of Washington, interesting. They give us nothing new, but still the old incidents are well related. Continuation of Mr. Aldrich's story, Mr. Howells' "Undiscovered country," and other contributions make the July number attractive and readable.

Appleton's Journal has the following contents: "Herr Drommel's inconsistencies," by Victor Cherbuliez (in two parts—part second); "The Shakespearean myth," concluding paper—by Appleton Morgan; "Modern Italian picturesque sculpture," by James Jackson Jarves; "The variations of the Roman church," by A. P. Stanley, Dean of Westminster; "Plea for musicians;" "An Adventuress of the eighteenth century;" "The dramatis personæ of Spanish comedy;" "The grievances of women," by Mrs. Oliphant, which is well worth reading by persons of both sexes; "Kossuth and Louis Napoleon;" "The Suez canal and Egyptian finances," by Charles H. Rockwell; Professor Winchell's "Preadamites;" "The Channing centennial literature;" Editor's table, literary notices, etc. In Mr. Morgan's "Shakespearean myth" there is an examination of the several theories current as to the authorship of the Shakespearean plays, and some eminently graphic pictures of the period and the life therein. It is impossible not to be greatly interested in Mr. Morgan's arguments, and in the facts which he brings forward as inconsistent with the commonly accepted belief that the remarkable plays which bear Shakespeare's name were really written by him. This mooted question, though frequently before discussed, cannot fail to draw out some sort of reply from those holding the other view of the case; and after all we shall subside into the old state of uncertainty in which we have for so long time been exirting as to the authorship of these celebrated plays, a question which seems destined never to be finally determined.

The International Review gives us a sketch of the religious veiws of the celebrated Jonathan Edwards by Oliver Wendell Holmes; an article called the "the Labor problem from the labor reform side," by J. H. Jones of Boston; and an interesting article upon the wrecking of life insurance companies, by Julius Wilcox, containing some startling disclosures. The International has nothing commonplace within its covers. Its articles each and every one of them are of especial worth. Its clear type and superior paper add to the enjoyment of its perusal, while its able editorship has placed it prominently before readers in this country, England, France, Germany, etc., as a leading periodical of the country.

The July number of the Eclectic, beginning a new volume, has a particularly fine steel engraving for frontispiece. It is entitled "The Frown," and illustrates the couplet from Goldsmith's "Deserted Village:"

"For all we they laughed with counterfeited glee
At all is jokes, for many a joke had he;
Full well the busy whisper, circling round,

The literary contents of the number are "The Gospel of Evolution;" "Morocco and the Moors;" "The Pinch of Poverty," by James Payn; "Henri Murger;" "De Profundis," a poem, by Alfred Tennyson; "An escape for life from a Fijian cyclone;" "White Wings; A yachting romance," by William Black, continued; "From the cradle," by Frederick Locker; "The grievances of women," by Mrs. Oliphant; "A plea for musicians;" "Recent science," supervised by Professor Huxley; "Cymbeline in a Hindoo play-house," by Harold Littledale; "Daltonism" (or color-blindness,) by William Pole, F. R. S.; "The regicides of the century;" "An anecdote of instinct;" "Fleuss' method of breathing under water;" "Literary notices;" "Foreign literary notes;" "Science and art," and "Varieties." Published by E. R. Pelton, 25 Bond street, New York. Terms, $5 per year; single number, forty-five cents; trial subscription for three months, $1.

The ever popular Harper's Monthly has the beginning of a new story by Henry James, Jr. The story is American, and from the reputation of the author the readers of Harper will have great expectations as to "Washington Square." An

James A. Garfield,

OF OHIO.

Chester A. Arthur,

OF NEW YORK.

Democratic National Convention.

The democratic national convention met in Cincinnati on Tuesday. John W. Stevenson of Kentucky was selected as permanent chairman by the national committee.

The Faneuil hall delegation was recognized by the committee as the "regular" delegation from Massachusetts, the delegates from the Butler convention being ruled out. The Tilden delegates from New York were also recognized as "regular," the Tammany men being left out in cold.

Democratic Canards.

Some of the democratic assaults upon the next President are absolutely ludicrous in the utter recklessness of their mendacity. He is charged with being a "salary-grabber," and Lyman Trumbull is quoted as sufficient authority for denouncing his dishonest greed, the facts being that Garfield was one of the very first members of congress to turn his share of the salary-steal into the treasury, on the ground that it was not morally his, while the democratic saint, Trumbull, kept his share of the stolen money and never returned a dollar.

A leading democratic paper of New York gave Garfield "fits" for supporting in congress the movement which resulted in the "buzzard dollar," when in fact he was almost the only western congressman of note who dared to vote and did vote against it all through, and to speak against it at a time when the republican party of his state and nearly all of its congressmen were carried away by the "silver craze."

Another paper in the interior of New York state gave a circumstantial account of how Garfield tried to swindle a tailor out of the payment for a suit of clothes, at the time he was working hard in that state to get an education. The name of the tailor and all the circumstances were given, even to the date when the tailor sued Garfield and compelled him to pay for the clothes he bought many years before; and the delicious story was gleefully copied, with choice comments, by numerous democratic papers—some of which have not yet heard of the rest of the tale. The tailor whose name was used—a democrat—at once came out in the papers over his own signature, stating that he did, on the recommendation of a friend, furnish to young Garfield a suit of clothes as alleged, on credit, he being then a student and working hard at odd hours to earn money to pay his expenses; that Garfield told him at what time he expected to be able to pay for his clothes, and that at the specified time he did pay for them, as the books of the establishment show; and that he never thought of legal measures to get his pay, as nothing of the kind was needed.

His Story.

John E. White of Ossipee, who recently attempted to shoot his wife in a railroad car, and afterward cut his own throat, is recovering, and talks freely about the shooting. He first began to pay attention to his wife, he say, in 1868, buying a greater portion of her clothes during the courtship; and before the marriage, in April, 1869, he purchased the entire wedding trousseau. For a while they lived happily together. Discord came only through the efforts of his wife's relatives, who were opposed to the match from the outset. He purchased silks, jewelry, a gold watch and a host of other things that she wanted, denying himself to gratify her. Four weeks ago she asked him to let her go home to rest a few days, and he consented, hiring somebody to take her place. Since then he has visited her two or three times a week, giving her money each time, but she was not ready to come back. In order to clear off debts upon which he was paying a large interest, White mortgaged his farm, and told her of it at the last visit. Mrs. White became very angry, and refused to accept a proposition of her husband that he would deed her one-half of his entire property if she would return. The next meeting was in the railroad train in which the assault was committed. He says that he entered the car intending to ride to Centre Ossipee, the next station, and make a final effort to induce her to come back; but that, although he addressed her three times, she kept her face toward the window and would not recognize him. He remembers drawing the pistol from his pocket, but he says all else is a blank until he found himself in bed at home, where he now is, under the keepership of Aaron Roberts, appointed by the sheriff. About town in Ossipee, White is reported to have been an indulgent husband, but quick-tempered, and nobody says aught against his wife.

News and Notes.

John and Henry Triebichman, brothers, of Cornwall, Litchfield county, Conn., while returning home from Cornwall village, when half a mile from home, about ten o'clock Saturday night, were fired at by unknown persons, from behind a stone wall. John was fatally wounded in the abdomen, and Henry was fatally wounded in the neck.

The government fish commission, whose headquarters were at Provincetown, Mass., last summer, will be located at Newport, R. I., during the present season. Operations will commence early in July.

Young Kalloch, the murderer of Chas. De Young in San Francisco, was on Monday released from custody on account of an informality in the proceedings, but was immediately rearrested on a new complaint, and held to answer without bail.

Lightning struck the sloop Cock of the Walk at Rockport, Mass., Monday afternoon, commencing at the truck and shivering the whole mast into splinters. The mast was over 100 feet high.

Miss Hall, one of the singers in the Portland street Baptist church of Haverhill, Mass., died of heart disease in church on Sunday. She was the daughter of Brackett F. Hall.

When General Garfield entered Williams college he was a rather overgrown, awkward young man, and was not run after by any of the college secret societies, so he joined the "Oudens," an anti-secret society. And, remarks a gentleman who knew him well at Williamstown, in three months he had made the "Oudens" the best secret society in college, and a power in college politics.

Wm. Burke shot Pat. Harris dead at Richmond, Va., Sunday night, in a fit of jealousy, and killed Mrs. Burke as she was trying to leave the house. The parties were all colored.

It is said there is much dissatisfaction and indignation in Texas over the acquittal of the assassin Currie.

At Attleboro', Mass., Monday afternoon, Larry Burke, a jeweller, was killed by lightning while washing his hands at a sink. Several other buildings were struck and a number of persons affected, but none seriously.

The steam dredging machines for the Cape Cod ship canal are being towed around from Delaware by steamers, and are daily expected on the scene of operations; one will work on the Barnstable bay side and two others on the Buzzard's bay end, and it is expected that operations will commence in two or three weeks. Dry digging will also begin at some intermediate point soon. It is designed to cut the canal 200 feet wide, and deep enough to have twenty-five feet of water at low water. One of the machines has arrived at Provincetown.

Sunday afternoon, about 5:30 o'clock, army worms took possession of a five and a half acre field of grass belonging to Otis A. Sisson, in New Bedford, Mass., and at six o'clock the field was literally covered with them, and doomed to utter destruction. A few hours earlier not a worm was to be seen, and their sudden appearance is a mystery. The field was in particularly good condition. The farms of Peter Shaw and Alexander Simmons, in Little Compton, R. I., have been visited by the army worm. A field of corn on Mr. Simmons' farm has been completely destroyed.

— Of course the pen is mightier than the sword, for a stroke of the latter will take off a man's head while a stroke of the former often has saved a man from losing that necessary adjunct to his body.

Piles! Piles! Piles!

Do you know what it is to suffer with piles? If you do, you know what is one of the worst torments of the human frame. The most perfect cure ever known is Kidney-Wort. It cures constipation, and then its tonic restores health to the diseased bowels, and prevents recurrence of the disease. Try it without delay.

Grape Wine for Communion.

The superior quality and entire purity of Speer's Port Grape Wine, of New Jersey, and the success that physicians have had by its use, has induced them to write about it, and caused hundreds of others to prescribe it in their practice as the best and most reliable wine to be had. It is held in great favor for communion purposes, and said to be a cure for consumptives.

—The church was warm, the minister was dull, and everybody fell asleep except half-witted Jamie. "My brethren," shouted the indignant pastor, "you should take the example of that fool there. A WORD OF CAUTION. Although hundreds of preparations of ginger are before the public, none possess the delicious flavor and powerful medicinal properties of Sanford's Jamaica Ginger. It is to be regretted that imitations are so numerous as to require caution in purchasing.

—A complete set of signal flags has been furnished by the merchants' exchange to the telegraph operator at Highland light station, Cape Cod, and an endeavor will be made to report the name of every inward-bound vessel that answers the signals.

Regulate the Secretions.

In our endeavors to preserve health it is of the utmost importance that we keep the secretary system in perfect condition. The well known remedy Kidney-Wort, has specific action upon the kidneys, liver and bowels. Use it instead of dosing with vile bitters or drastic pills. It is purely vegetable and is prompt but mild in action.

— A Jew, joking with a Christian, struck him on the cheek, and said, "Now turn the other, as your gospel commands." But the Christian gave him a sound drubbing. The Jew cried, "This is not in the gospel." "Ay," said the Christian, "but it is in the comment." "Curse the comment," said the Jew; "it is harder than the text."

It is a fact well established by unquestionable testimony that Hall's Hair Renewer renews, cleanses, brightens, invigorates and restores to its original color and lustre, faded gray or discolored hair, cheaply, quickly and surely. The poorest people prefer to buy it and use it, rather than to proclaim in a manner more forcible than words can delineate, through blanched locks or grizzly beard, that they are aged and passing to decay. A very short trial will convince the most skeptical that it does eradicate the scalp diseases which rob the hair of its color and life.—Fort Scott (Kan.) Daily Monitor.

— Shakespeare foresaw that oleomargarine would some day be used as a term of reproach when he wrote: "O, thou mechanical salt butter man!"

E'en though the face be not so fair,
And beauty may be all but flown,
Dear ladies, you need not despair,
If SOZODONT you make your own.
And keep your teeth and mouth with skill

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere. 25 cents a bottle. 4

Honey from Poison.

The Supreme Court of the State of Louisiana, sitting in banc at New Orleans on the 31st of May, in a decision maintaining to the utmost the vested rights of the Louisiana State Lottery Company, thus briefly but forcibly alludes to the institution assailed: "The Louisiana State Lottery cannot repudiate its charter nor exonerate itself from the payment of a license, the amount of which goes to a charitable institution (the far-famed Charity Hospital at New Orleans) essentially necessary for the relief of suffering humanity, and without adequate means of self-sustenance. It was, no doubt, wise in the State to regulate reprehensible, but, perhaps, irrepressible inclinations for that sort of speculation, so as to draw from those who follow them, as it were, honey from poison, for the betterment of the destitute classes of society." This is a proper expression of the high character from the highest authority at home of the character of the business of The Louisiana State Lottery Company, and any one interested can learn all particulars by applying to M. A. Dauphin, New Orleans, La., or same person at No. 319 Broadway, New York City.

PORTSMOUTH, May 12th, 1880.

THE CO-PARTNERSHIP heretofore existing between David Kimball and Frank J. Philbrick, under the firm name of DAVID KIMBALL & CO., is this day dissolved by mutual consent. The business will hereafter be conducted under the name of DAVID KIMBALL & CO., as heretofore, by Mr. Philbrick, who will settle all accounts. DAVID KIMBALL.
F. J. PHILBRICK.

Notice of the dissolution of the partnership between myself and Frank J. Philbrick having been made public, it seems only an act of simple justice to add that our association, covering a period of nearly ten years, was at all times harmonious, and gave me full confidence in Mr. Philbrick's integrity. Thanks may receive the patronage of the friends of the late firm, to which his character and acquirements entitle him, is my sincere wish. In closing a business life of more than fifty-six years, I am led to look back with grateful remembrance of the many friends who have gone, who kindly gave me their confidence and support; and to those who remain, I tender my heartfelt thanks for their continued friendly interest and regard.

AROUND HOME.

Capt. Hilton is having made by Major Urch a very handsome marine bycicle for use in the pool at the Wentworth.

A trout weighing two pounds and five and one-half ounces, net, was taken in Col. Cushing's pond at Dover point one day last week.

The New Hampshire national bank has declard a semi-annual dividend of three and a half per cent, payable July first to stockholders of record June 28th.

Civil Engineer B. F. Chandler, U. S. N., has been spending a few days in this city—his first visit since his removal to the naval station at New London, Conn., over a year ago.

It is a fact worthy of mention that one of our most corpulent citizens, while camping out recently, added four pounds to his avoirdupois in one week. The diameter of "out-doors" will have to be increased if he keeps on.

Four hundred visitors were at the aquarium on Sunday. The anemones, Neptune's collars, seals, sea robins, sharks, sturgeons, and the almost innumerable fish, are proving a greater attraction this year than ever.

The steamer Mystic took quite a large party from Kittery to the Shoals on Monday evening, the Dirigo band going along to make music. On Tuesday evening the Good Templars of this city had an excursion in the same boat.

On Tuesday evening, as a towboat was berthing a schooner at Doane's wharf, the schooner by some means ran foul of the Newcastle bridge, and stove it so badly that it will take several days to repair. No serious damage was sustained by the schooner or steamer.

The residents of Stratham are contemplating celebrating the coming 4th of July with a picnic on Stratham hill, at which "Shadow" is to tell his townsmen what he knows about whaling. He will likewise run a foot race against time, distance five hundred yards—and time had best keep out of his way after he once gets well agoing.

The schooner Parker M. Hooper, of Bath, Me., Lane master, which arrived at Concord railroad wharf on Monday of this week, is one of the finest vessels that has visited this port for some time. She is one hundred and fifty feet on the keel and of thirty-five feet beam, registers 665 tons, and carries about 1100 tons of dead weight on a draught of eighteen feet and nine inches aft, her sailing trim being a foot and a half by the stern. She was built at Bath by Blaisdell, and launched in November last. She brought here a cargo of a little over a thousand tons of Cumberland coal, from Baltimore.

Thursday, the 24th, is St. John's day, and the Boston Commandery of Knights Templar propose to celebrate it by a visit to the Isles of Shoals, returning on the following day. They will be accompanied by their ladies, and a grand dinner and a dance at a later hour, are items in their programme. On their arrival here on Thursday morning they will be received by De Witt Clinton Commandery of Knights Templar and escorted on a short route about the town, after which both Commanderies will embark on the steamer Leyden for Star island. The numbers and display of Knights Templar will probably exceed anything of the kind that has been witnessed in our city for quite a number of years. Carter's military band and the Dover cornet band will furnish the music.

The steamer James Sampson took an excursion party down river from this city, Monday evening, and went up river with another party Tuesday evening.

In Dover, one evening last week, an Italian organ grinder was playing "Hail Columbia" in front of a saloon, when a dog rushed out and grabbed the Italian's monkey. The monkey quickly cleared himself, gave the dog a good beating and chewing up, and finally drove him back into the saloon.

The ladies of the Universalist society have their annual strawberry festival, and sale of aprons and fancy articles, on Thursday evening of this week, in the vestry of the church. Admission—adults fifteen cents, children ten cents. Vocal and instrumental music will be furnished during the evening.

Fred Roberts of Dover, a boy twelve or fourteen years old, son of Elijah E. Roberts, master mechanic of the Cocheco mills, was badly hurt on Saturday while on a boating expedition down the river toward Dover point, with several other boys. The party ran their boat ashore and were going out to shoot something, when young Roberts took hold of a loaded gun by the muzzle, and drew it toward him; it went off and shattered the left arm in a shocking manner, from the wrist to the elbow, and on Monday the unfortunate boy was lying in a precarious condition. Should he recover he will never have the use of that arm, even if it does not have to be taken off.

GREENLAND ACADEMY.

Sacred Solo, — Miss Larkin.
Latin Salutatory, — Clifford Simpson.
Vocal Solo, "Autumn Leaves," — Susie S. Berry.
English Oration, "Shall our Republic stand," (original) — D. W. Shea.
Reading, "The Toddleays," — Mary E. Furber.
Class Will, — Abbie A. Berry.
Vocal Solo, "Carina," — M. Emma Chapman.

At the close of the exercises a reception was given by the graduating class, holding in until midnight. The attendance was large, and the whole affair was gratifying to the relatives and friends of the pupils, and creditable to the conductors of the academy.

FLOWER THIEVES.

Next in meanness to the stealing of a newspaper from a subscriber's door come the operations of the petty sneak thieves who steal flowers or growing plants from front gardens or beside the front entrances of houses, where they are objects of beauty to the public as well as to their owners; meaner yet are the ghouls who rob graves of the floral tokens placed on them by surviving friends, though even thieves of this class are less despicable than the creatures who can find "fun" in the wanton destruction of plants, simply because they suppose such plants may be highly valued by their owners and give pleasure to the general public.

One evening of last week a rustic vase of ferns was taken from off the portico of the residence of Mr. Joshua Stackpole on Pleasant street; the ferns were stripped from the vase and scattered in the street, and the vase left on the sidewalk.

On Monday of this week the lot in Union cemetery belonging to the family of the late Ammi R. H. Fernald was stripped of the flowers planted there, by some young women. They were on Tuesday arrested by City Marshal Entwistle, and no doubt repented bitterly the commission of the offence—that is, they were much scared and very sorry at having been detected, which is what repentance ordinarily consists of, we believe. At the earnest request of the aggrieved family, the marshal did not bring the culprits before the police court, and the family decline to give us their names for publication.

The marshal announces his intention to stop this very prevalent phase of sneak-thieving or malicious mischief if possible, and to that end will, on sufficient evidence furnished, bring before the court any person caught pilfering or mutilating plants, regardless of the entreaties of the parties plundered or the friends of the thieves; and we give notice that any persons so caught shall have their full names and places of residence published, whoever they may be; and that it will be of no use for anybody to come whining to us about "keeping our names out of the paper." If they don't want their names bandied about as thieves, they had best stop stealing. We have received a conditional promise of the names of two young men who are known to have been engaged in this contemptible business, and just so sure as those names are given to us we give them to the public next morning.

POLICE COURT.

Levi D. Locke, of Rye, complained of for malicious mischief, (sawing a boat belonging to Augustus Caswell, and smashing another boat belonging to the same person,) was discharged, there being no evidence to connect him with the outrage except some threats previously made.

John Crowley, drunk, $9.90; Brentwood.

YORK COUNTY ITEMS.

The new Eliot bridge is completed, and was opened for travel and tolls on Sunday last.

The old light-tower at Whalesback was taken down last week, and the stones of which it was composed dumped on the sea face of the ledge, so as to fill up the gap between the new tower and the pier on which the old one stood; the pier is to be left as it is. The removal of the old tower is a great improvement, in looks at least.

New Hampshire Items.

Mrs. Eliza M. Emery, fifty years old, shot herself to death at her home in New Hampton on the 21st inst. She was in comfortable circumstances, and no cause is assigned for the act. She is supposed to have a husband living in Massachusetts, but for the last ten or twelve years she has lived with and taken care of her invalid mother in New Hampton. She was a sister of Judge Stephen G. Nash of Boston.

Hollis celebrates its 150th anniversary this summer.

A Democratic View of It.

The leading democratic organ of the country, the New York World, is not impelled by the declinatory letter of Mr. Tilden, to let by-gones be by-gones, in the first place because it doubts the sincerity of the writer; and secondly, because it will not permit him to assume virtues which the record shows him not to be possessed of. It intimates that the letter is only a sham, a pretence, an artful dodge, and that the friends of the sage of Gramercy park, in the Cincinnati convention, will demand, as Mr. Tilden expects, that it should be "disregarded by the convention." Now, taking the words of renunciation altogether, this interpretation of them is not warranted, if read as the candid statement of an honest man. But the World declares that they are "not received as final by those who are supposed to possess the confidence of Mr. Tilden," and that he will be pleased if they are taken in a Pickwickian sense. In other words, the most prominent democratic paper in the country has no confidence in the statements of the most prominent democratic leader in the country.

But the World goes further. It recalls the Oregon operations of Mr. Tilden; it avows him to have been morally and politically slain in 1876-7, and yet it deems it proper, if not necessary, to kill him anew upon the eve of the Cincinnati convention. It asserts that "through the whole period of his relation to the presidency, he has done everything in his power to lower, and nothing to elevate, moral standards in the competition of parties." If we should not, at the moment and under the circumstances, have called upon this witness for this testimony, we accept it when proffered as that of an expert, and as true. The question then recurs, what is to be thought of the party which has by a great majority for four years sustained the man who is (and truly) denounced as unworthy of belief in the most solemn moments of life, and one who has for a long time deceived the less informed and more confiding portions of his own party. The sin of Mr. Tilden, if the World is right, was not his alone; it was that as well of Speaker Randall and other important democrats. The indictment of the World is not against Tilden only; it is against the management and want of principle of the democratic party.—Providence Journal.

article upon William M. Hunt, the artist who lost his life at the Shoals last season, appears from the pen of Miss Oakey, accompanied by a portrait of the unfortunate artist. All the magazines have their articles on Hunt, and Harper's is not behind its competitors in the hunt. "By-paths in the mountains" is illustrated with drawings of scenes described. Mrs. Oliphant tells us of Queen Victoria, in a biographical sketch full of interest; and there is an unusually pleasing variety of contributions which afford satisfactory reading for this season.

"The Folio" for July, from White, Smith & Co., contains the following pieces of music: "Sleep baby, sleep," cradle song; "I've been photographed like this," song by C. Dubois; "Hungarian or Rakoczy March," and "Danse Des Sylphes," by Henry Strauss; "Wake Robin Polka," by Chas. V. Cloy.

Brentano's Monthly for June is received from Brentano's Literary Emporium, No. 39 Union square, New York. Unlike most of the magazines, this one is published in the month whose name it bears; as, being a full and authentic record of sporting events, it cannot well be published before the events described take place. Chess, billiards, archery, croquet, shooting, angling, boating, yachting, cricket, base ball, racing of all kinds—in short, all true sports, are treated of in this publication, which is furnished at $4 a year—single number thirty-five cents.

Out of door life in Europe, by Rev. E. P. Thwing: New York; I. K. Funk & Co. This is one of the "standard series" being published by this firm. The book is one of forty-eight pages and published at twenty cents—all it will bear. A person who, after so many have been abroad, attempts in these days to write out his travels for publication in a book, should think thrice before he essays the production. When we have so many carefully written books by eminently qualified writers, who tell us not how cheaply they make their tour, but in an interesting series of sketches entertain us, the man who has "pushed through Europe in five weeks at the moderate outlay of four hundred dollars" cannot be supposed to be capable of offering much to the intelligent reader; when we can read Prof. Peabody's reminiscences, Curtis Guild's books, or even go back as far as Mrs. Stowe, Hillard, Ware and scores of others, whose books always read well, we cannot in this short life waste time upon books of inferior grade. This book seems to tell us what the author likes to write, rather than what readers prefer. Contrasted with this in point of excellence for example is Mr. Howells' Italian Journeys, a new and enlarged edition of which was recently published by Houghton, Osgood & Co., in season for the enjoyment of summer tourists. Mr. Howells in the most entertaining manner gives us a passing view of places often read about before, and perhaps visited by his readers, but every page of his book is full of pleasant pen pictures. If he is cheated by the men lying in wait all over Europe for the American traveller, he turns the incident to a good account in his jocular vein, and does not scold absent it. In short, he is enjoyable all through the journeys. An eminent book man of Boston writes that "many an old traveller will be glad to get Prof. Thwing's book," we suppose because a Cambridge critic writes that it is "learned without pedantry, minute without gossip." Such a book may satisfy the literary taste of Brooklyn or please the culture of Boston, but after visiting the same sights as this author we conclude that he fails to arouse in his book the interest which the average New England reader must discover before he will consent to spend time in its entire perusal.

PRAISEWORTHY WORK. Wm. E. Clarke, of Providence, R. I., has issued a pamphlet which he sends free to any address, setting forth the results of his experience with reference to Bright's Disease of the Kidneys. Mr. Clarke adduces the most incontestible evidence that this malady yields to the proper remedy. The only medicine used by Mr. Clarke is Hunt's Remedy, the great kidney and liver medicine, and with it he performs cures that are really very remarkable. Sold by all druggists. Trial size, 75 cts.

The government fish-hatching establishment in Washington, D. C. has turned nearly fifteen millions young shad into the Potomac river this season.

The highest hopes and interests of the race rest on the purity, health, and strength of womanhood. We take pleasure in referring our readers to the remarkable efficacy of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in all that class of diseases from which women suffer so much.

The captain of the tug steamer Eliza Hancox, which ran down a row-boat in New York harbor last Thursday night, testified in court that he was ten minutes in lowering one of his boats! Meanwhile two girls who were in the row-boat perished.

Why throw away so much money trying worthless medicines, when for 25 cents a remedy can be procured that will cure Coughs, Colds, Sore Lungs and Croup? Give it a trial. Adamson Balsam will do it. Trial bottle, 10 cts.

HUMORS OF THE BLOOD, SKIN AND SCALP.

CUTICURA RESOLVENT is the most powerful Blood Purifier and Liver Stimulant ever compounded. In fact forty minutes after taking the first dose it may be detected in the blood, urine, and urine, showing that it has entered the blood and been distributed throughout the entire system. In this way through the circulating fluids it meets with the corrupt particles of matter which foster and maintain disease, with which it chemically unites, destroyings, and gradually eliminating them from the system.

Hence its power to cure every form of Scrofulous, Cancerous, and Cancer Humors, which unchecked fill the body with foul corruptions, and rot out the delicate machinery of life.

CUTICURA, the great external remedy for all Humors of the Scalp and Skin, Ulcers, Sores and Discharging Wounds, is the most soothing and healing of outward applications. It specifically destroys fungus and parasitic growths, restores the oil glands and tissue to a healthy condition, and cures, when assisted by the CUTICURA SOAP, diseases of the Skin and Scalp which have been the torture of a life-time.

SKIN DISEASE.

MESSRS. WEEKS & POTTER: Gent'emen,—CUTICURA REMEDIES have done me a power of good. I have been afflicted with skin disease for sixteen years. Some days it troubled me more than others, but at night the itching nearly drove me wild.

I would scratch until the blood would run down my limbs.

I have had several physicians. Some said they could cure me, but oil ers said not.

I will say that before I used the CUTICURA REMEDIES I was in a fearful state, and had given up all hope of ever having any relief.

You, like a drowning man grasping at a straw, I thought I would try the CUTICURA REMEDIES, about which I had read so much.

They have performed a wonderful cure for me, and of my own free will and accord I recommend them. Yours truly, S. A. STEELE.

Cor. W. VAN BUREN ST., CHICAGO, ILL., March 7, 1878.

MORE GOOD THAN DOCTORS

In Three Years of Treatment.

Gentlemen,—Please find 50 cents to pay for small box of CUTICURA and direct it to me. The dollar box you sent me has done me more good than all the doctors in three years. The doctors have done me no good. My feet and legs are healing fast. It is indeed CUTICURA.

MOSCOW, MISS., June 25, 1878.

THE CUTICURA REMEDIES are prepared by Weeks & Potter, Chemists and Druggists, 360 Washington St., Boston, and are for sale by all druggists. Price of CUTICURA, small boxes, 50 cents; large boxes, containing two and one-half times the quantity of small, $1. RESOLVENT, $1 per bottle. CUTICURA SOAP, 25 cents per cake; by mail, 30 cents; 3 cakes, 75 cents.

Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

Diseases of the pulmonary organs are so prevalent and fatal, that a safe and reliable remedy for them is invaluable to every community. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is such a remedy, and no other so eminently merits the confidence of the public. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, to insure the greatest possible efficiency and uniformity of results, which enables physicians as well as invalids to use it with confidence. It is the most reliable remedy for diseases of the throat and lungs that science has produced. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt and certain relief, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it without difficulty. In the treatment of ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household, for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

The marvellous cures which AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has effected all over the world are a sufficient guaranty that it will continue to produce the best results. An impartial trial will convince the most sceptical of its wonderful curative powers, as well as of its superiority over all other preparations for pulmonary complaints.

Eminent physicians in all parts of the country, knowing its composition, recommend AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL to invalids, and prescribe it in their practice. The test of half a century has proved its absolute certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

GOOD WATCH WORK

— AT —

HUTCHINSON'S.

Daily Chronicle.

A Disobedient Soldier.

"Now, lads, there's the battery; remember the emperor himself is watching you, and carry it in true French style. The moment you get into it, make yourselves fast against attack; and mind that any man who comes out again to pick up the wounded, even though I myself should be among them, shall be tried for disobedience as soon as the battle's over."

So spoke Colonel Lasalle to his French grenadiers just before the final charge that decided the battle of Wagram. Then he waved his sword, and shouted, "En avant!"

Forward swept the grenadiers like a torrent, with a shout which the Austrians opposed to them already knew to their cost. Through blinding smoke and pelting shot they rushed headlong on, with mouths parched, faces burning, and teeth set like a vise. Ever and anon a red flash rent the murky cloud around them, and the cannon-shot came tearing through their ranks, mowing them down like grass. But not a man flinched, for the same thought was in every mind, and they were fighting under the eye of their "Little Corporal," as they affectionately called the terrible Napoleon.

Suddenly the smoke parted, and right in front of them appeared the dark muzzles of cannon and the white uniform of Austrian soldiers. One last shout, which rose high above all the roar of the battle, the bayonets went glittering over the breastwork like the spray of a breaking wave, and the battery was won.

"Where's the colonel?" cried a voice, suddenly.

There was no answer. The handful of men that remained of the doomed band looked meaningly at each other, but no one spoke. Strict disciplinarian as he was, seldom passing a day without punishing some one, the old colonel had nevertheless won his men's hearts completely by his reckless courage in battle; and every man in the regiment would gladly have risked his life to save that of "the old growler," as they called him.

But if he were not with them, where was he? Outside the battery the whole ground was scourged into flying jets of dust by the storm of bullets from the fight that was still raging on the left. In such a cross-fire it seemed as if nothing living could escape, and if he were fallen there, there was but little hope for him.

"I see him!" cried out a tall grenadier. "He's lying out yonder, and alive, too, for I saw him wave his hand just now. I'll have him here in five minutes, boys, or be left beside him."

"You mean't disobey orders, Dubois," said a young captain (now the oldest surviving officer, so terrible had been the havoc), hoping by this means to stop the reckless man from rushing upon certain death. "Remember what the colonel told you—that even if he were left among the wounded, no one must go out to pick him up."

"I can't help that," answered the soldier, laying down his musket and tightening the straps of his cross-belts. "Captain, report Private Dubois for insubordination and breach of discipline. I am going out to bring in the colonel."

They saw him approach the spot where the colonel lay; they saw him bend over the fallen man, shielding from the shot with his own body. Then he was seen to stagger suddenly, as if from a blow; but the next minute he had the colonel in his arms, and was struggling back over the shot-torn battle-ground, the dying and the dead. Twice he stopped short, if unable to go farther; but on he came again, and had just laid his officer down inside the battery, when, with his comrades' shout of welcome still ringing in his ears, he fell fainting to the earth, covered with blood.

By the next morning, Colonel Lasalle had recovered sufficiently to amuse the whole regiment by putting under arrest the man who had saved his life, and rode off to head-quarters at full gallop. In about an hour he was seen coming back again, side by side with a short, square-built man in a gray coat and cocked hat, at sight of whom the soldiers burst into deafening cheers, for he was no other than the Emperor Napoleon.

"Let me see this fellow," said Napoleon, sternly; and two grenadiers led forward Pirre Dubois, so weak from his wounds that he could hardly stand.

"So, fellow, thou hast dared to disobey orders, ha?" cried the Emperor, in his harshest tones.

"I have, sire. And if it were to be done again, I'd do it."

"And what if we were to shoot thee for insubordination?"

"My life is your majesty's, now as always," answered the grenadier, boldly; "and if must choose between myself and leaving my colonel to die, the regiment can better spare a common fellow like me than a brave officer like him."

A sudden spasm shook the old colonel's iron face as he listened, and even Napoleon's stern gray eyes softened as few men had ever seen them soften yet."

"Thou'rt wrong, there," said he, "for I would not give a 'common fellow' of thy sort for twenty colonels, were every one of them as good as my old Lasalle, here. Take this, Sergeant Dubois"—and he fastened his own cross of the Legion of Honor to Pierre's breast. "I warrant me thou'll be a colonel thyself one of these days."

And sure enough, five years later, Pierre Dubois was not only a colonel, but a general.—Harper's Young People.

Haunted Me.

A workingman says: "Debt, poverty and suffering haunted me for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for doctoring, which did no good. I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I procured Hop Bitters and commenced their use, and in one month we were all well, and none of us have been sick a day since; and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your families well a year with Hop Bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost."—Christian Advocate.

— "Do you play euchre?" the sad passenger asked the man from Whitehall. "No," replied the man; "I only know two cards in the deck—the jack of queens and the spade of diamonds." They didn't play.

James A. Garfield,

OF OHIO.

Chester A. Arthur,

OF NEW YORK.

Democratic National Convention.

The convention was called to order by Ex-Senator Barnum of Connecticut, the famous buyer of "mules" during the Ohio election several years ago. George Hoadley of Ohio was appointed temporary chairman, and made a strongly-partisan hifalutin speech. Of the New Hampshire delegates, Irving W. Drew was put on the committee on permanent organization, Harry Bingham on the committee on resolutions, and Hosea W. Parker on the committee on credentials.

The permanent organization was effected by the appointment of J. W. Stevenson of Kentucky as chairman, with a vice president and secretary from each state. Frank Jones was the vice president from New Hampshire, and C. A. Busiel the secretary.

The Faneuil hall and Butler-Tarbox factions of the Massachusetts hard-soft-money democracy had a love feast, and smoothed things over nicely, each faction taking half the representation in the convention.

The convention sat down on John Kelly with great vigor, when he attempted to speak; and a tremendous "Tilden boom" developed itself as soon as the convention met, showing that the delegates themselves placed no reliance in his pretended declination of a renomination, regarding his letter to the New York delegation as an artful bid for a renomination, instead of what it pretended to be. The true character of the great cipherer is much better understood now than it was four years ago.

Jewett	1
Lathrop	1
Parker	1
Black	1
McLellan	2
McDonald	3
Loveland	5
Randall	6
Seymour	8
Tilden	38
Hendricks	49
Morrison	56
Thurman	68 1-2
Field	69 1-2
Payne	91
Bayard	149
Hancock	172

The "De Golyer" Canard.

We have already mentioned several of the stories about Gen. Garfield which the democratic papers are industriously circulating—stories either utterly baseless, or else with the small foundation of fact so twisted and perverted as to make the statement a worse misrepresentation than though it were a lie made from the whole cloth.

Another one of these democratic campaign slanders, on which the changes have been persistently rung, refers to Garfield's alleged corrupt complicity with the patentees of a wooden pavement which was adopted in Washington, and turned out to be worthless.

As the story was first told, it was alleged that General Garfield, on the 20th of May, 1872, as chairman of the house committee on appropriations, reported two appropriations for the benefit of De Golyer & McClelland, and that in June or July following he received $7500 for his services in procuring these appropriations, and for his influence with the board of works of the District of Columbia in securing a contract for the use of the De Golyer pavement.

This story was completely exploded by the publication of the record of the appropriations from the Congressional Globe. It turned out that one of the two appropriations was for filling up the stagnant old canal, which made a portion of Washington almost uninhabitable; and the other was for an assessment upon United States property for improvements upon the adjoining streets, already done and paid for. The contractors had no possible interest in the appropriations, which passed almost without opposition.

The story thus shattered has been reconstructed. It is now alleged that an appropriation of $1,200,000 was made at a subsequent session of Congress, and that this was the service for which Mr. Garfield was paid, having meanwhile secured the adoption of the De Golyer pavement by his influence with the board of works. This is also a misrepresentation of the facts, but bears some distant resemblance to them.

The whole matter was investigated in 1873 by a joint committee, of which Mr. J. M. Wilson of Ohio was chairman on the part of the house. The evidence was not then published, but the committee fully acquitted Mr. Garfield, not only of any fault but of any indiscretion even. The truth was, that the board of works had entered upon an extravagant series of public improvements. The members of the board were buying real estate on unimproved streets, improving them, and then selling the property at enhanced prices. This is what appeared afterwards, but in the summer of 1872 all that was known to Mr. Garfield and others outside of the ring was that the board had decided to adopt some kind of wooden pavement in a number of streets, as had been done in Chicago and San Francisco. Under these circumstances Mr. Parsons, a lawyer of Cleveland, had been engaged to present the merits of the De Golyer pavement. He was called away, and engaged Mr. Garfield to appear for him. Mr. Garfield made an exhaustive study of the different patents and of the chemical processes to which the wood was subjected, and urged the case before the board for Mr. Parsons, who afterward divided his fee with Mr. Garfield.

It was a proper service for a lawyer; it had nothing to do with any previous appropriation; and the subsequent appropriation for which Mr. Garfield is so savagely maligned by the democratic press, was put on the appropriation bill in the senate, and was passed by the house while Gen. Garfield was engaged in a committee of conference on another matter; and he not only had nothing to do with it, but actually knew nothing whatever about it until long after it had passed.

Such was the finding of the investigating committee; but the evidence taken in the case has only just been published, through the Washington correspondent of the democratic Chicago Times—and the evidence fully justifies the conclusions of the committee, and blows away the whole cloud of suspicious conjecture with which a partisan press has surrounded a transaction which was perfectly legitimate and proper.

Maine Republican Convention.

News and Notes.

The Ticonderoga sailed from Yokohama, Japan, June 5th, on a cruise; and it is believed she has gone to the Corea.

The Mexican government refuses to allow United States troops to cross into Mexico in pursuit of the hostile Indians. Our government will consequently take the same position that it did in the case of Sitting Bull. The United States will hold the Mexican government responsible for any depredations that may hereafter be committed on our territory by Indians from Mexico.

John Francis, colored, of Stonington, Conn., who died last week, was said to be 108 years old. He came to Stonington about forty years ago from St. Helena, where he had been a servant to Napoleon.

Four young men of Lowell, Mass., some of whom are of highly respectable connection, are under arrest for a felonious assault on Theresa McIntire of Lawrence in a lonely place on the road between Lowell and Lawrence, on Monday, June 21st. They were taken to Lawrence for examination.

The grand jury at Northampton, Mass., has indicted Benjamin Eastman for the murder of Perley B. Hutchinson of Huntington.

Twenty-eight ladies and gentlemen graduated at the state normal school at Gorham, Me., June 22d, with appropriate ceremonies.

The number of vessels belonging to, or bound to or from ports in the United States, reported totally lost and missing during the month of May, was thirty, of which eighteen were wrecked, five abandoned, one burned, one foundered, and five are missing. The list comprises three steamers, one ship, fifteen barks, five brigs, and six schooners, and their total value, exclusive of cargoes, is estimated at $165,000.

Advices from Halifax, N. S., say the seines and nets at Prospect were filled on Saturday night, June 19th, by a large school of mackerel. Some of the seines were carried away by the sheer weight of fish. The American schooner Orient, of Gloucester, Mass., took one hundred barrels of mackerel with a purse seine, on Saturday, off Halifax harbor.

Judge Barr of the United States district court for Kentucky has released William Gillis and John Davis, colored murderers in the Bourbon county jail, because colored men were not placed on the jury that tried them. The Kentucky constitution expressly excludes negroes from jury duty, and it is feared that there may be a general release of black convicts on writs of habeas corpus.

What has been feared has occurred in Ireland in the outbreak of the famine fever, which is a low form of typhus engendered by poor and scanty food and general unhealthiness of the conditions of life, and which assumes a fatal form from lack of vitality to resist it. The fever was much more fatal in its results in the period of distress in 1848 than the immediate effects of the famine, and lingered even after the want of food was relieved by the harvest. With the outbreak of this disease, there is reason to fear that the condition of Ireland for the next month or two will be worse than at any time during the year, and that if there is not a revival in the charity, the distress will be very severe. The harvest of all kinds is late in Ireland, owing to the humidity of the climate, and from now until the middle of August there will be no substantial relief from the soil.

A negro disguised in woman's clothing was arrested on a train of cars in Baltimore, June 22d, and recognized as Geo. Thompson, who murdered Capt. Frank, of the schooner Mignonette, and William O. Sage, the cook, in Delaware bay about a month ago.

Prof. John Aloysius Gillespie, professor of languages and mathemathics at Loyola college in Baltimore, was drowned June 21st while bathing in the Patapsco, near the city limit. A party of professors and students of the college had gone on an excursion down the river, and while bathing Gillespie was seized with apoplexy, and was drowned. He was a native of Boston, and twenty-two years of age.

THE TOLEDO, DELPHOS & BURLINGTON railroad system embraces 311 miles of road, running from Toledo, Ohio, southwest to Frankfort, Ind., and south to Dayton, Ohio. It has excellent terminal facilities in the cities of Toledo and Dayton, and runs through a rich agricultural country, where the local business is more than sufficient to pay interest on its bonds. We understand that a large amount of the first mortgage six per cent bonds of this road were sold a few days ago in Boston to Geo. Wm. Ballou & Co., bankers, and that they will offer them at 90 and interest to investors, reserving the right to advance the price later.

Brown's Household Panacea

Is the most effective Pain Destroyer in the world. Will most surely quicken the blood whether taken internally or applied externally, and thereby more certainly relieve pain, whether chronic or acute, than any other pain alleviator, and it is warranted double the strength of any similar preparation.

It cures pain in the side, back or bowels, sore throat, rheumatism, toothache and all aches.

The great reliever of pain, "Brown's Household Panacea," should be in every family. A teaspoonful of the Panacea in a tumbler of hot water (sweetened, if preferred), taken at bedtime, will break up a cold. 25 cents a bottle.

Much Sickness,

Undoubtedly with children attributed to other causes, is occasioned by worms. Brown's Vermifuge Comfits, or Worm Lozenges, although effectual in destroying worms, can do no possible injury to the most delicate child. This valuable combination has been successfully used by physicians, and found to be absolutely sure in eradicating worms, so hurtful to children. Twenty five cents a box. t.th.&r

Dissolution of Co-partnership.

PORTSMOUTH, May 12th, 1880.

THE CO-PARTNERSHIP heretofore existing between David Kimball and Frank J. Philbrick, under the firm name of DAVID KIMBALL & CO., is this day dissolved by mutual consent. The business will hereafter be conducted under the name of DAVID KIMBALL & CO., as heretofore, by Mr. Philbrick, who will settle all accounts.

DAVID KIMBALL.
F. J. PHILBRICK.

Notice of the dissolution of the partnership between myself and Frank J. Philbrick having been made public, it seems only an act of simple justice to add that our association, covering a period of nearly ten years, was at all times harmonious, and gave me full confidence in Mr. Philbrick's integrity. That he may receive the patronage of the friends of the late firm, to which his character and acquirements entitle him, is my sincere wish. In closing a business life of more than fifty-six years, I am led to look back with grateful remembrance of the many friends who have gone, who kindly gave me their confidence and support; and to those who remain, I tender my heartfelt thanks for their continued friendly interest and regard.

Haying commenced on the Peirce and Parrott farms in Greenland, June 22d; numerous other farmers started in at the same work on the 23d, and haying in general is to be very early in this vicinity.

Col. J. Horace Kent on the 23d inst. received fine likenesses of Garfield and Arthur, photograph on cloth by a new process. The pictures are about three feet square, and will decorate the fine flag that hangs in front of Col. Kent's residence.

Four vessels of the mackerel fleet belonging to Mr. Valentine Doane, Jr., arrived on Tuesday evening of this week with light fares. The Anna M. Nash brought in one hundred and ten barrels, the Gov. Goodwin ninety-three barrels, the Velocipede fifty-three barrels, and the Daniel Marcy twenty barrels.

Daniel J. Spinney, one of Portsmouth's best painters, is employed by the Eastern railroad company in beautifying the passenger depots on their several lines of railway. The beautiful graining and lettering done by Mr. Spinney for the company is the subject of general comment, and is good evidence of his skill and taste as a workman.

At the residence of Mr. Nathaniel D. Miller, on Newington road, is an English ivy five hundred feet in length. On its being taken down the other day it was found to have wound itself closely around one end of a curtain stick four times, and one shoot had forced its way between the folds of the curtain and the stick, traversing its entire length, issuing from the opposite end and growing many feet beyond.

It was a good thump which the second Newcastle bridge received from the schooner Gov. Goodwin on the evening of the 22d inst. A number of piles and stringers were displaced and broken, causing one side of the bridge to droop a foot or more, and necessitating the closing of the bridge for repairs; foot passengers can cross without danger or trouble, but do so "at their own risk," no toll being collected. The damage will cost several hundred dollars to repair.

The American Union Telegraph Co. opens for business in this city this (Thursday) morning, with Mr. J. G. Tobey, a thoroughly competent gentleman, as operator and manager; the office of the company is most conveniently located in the basement of the city building, and is very neatly fitted up. The American Union wires are now stretched over a wide extent of territory, and the "tolls" we believe are much less than the public has heretofore been compelled to pay.

Mr. Woodbury H. Wingate of this city is now filling the position of head steward at the Pavilion hotel, at Wolfeborough. Mr. Wingate has had good experience in hotel matters, having at one time been clerk of the Haseltine house at Manchester, and at another time steward of the Merrimack house at Newburyport. The patrons of the Pavilion this season will find the wants of the inner man carefully looked after.

The schooner John Bracewell, of Dover, Chatfield master, which sailed from Wilmington, Delaware, for Carthagena, South America, a few days ago, is loaded with an iron steamboat one hundred and twenty-four feet long, twenty-four feet wide, and four feet deep, built at Wilmington and intended for river navigation. Six men have gone out in the schooner to put the steamer together on her arrival at her destination.

The Dover Democrat of June 22d says: "There came near being a drowning accident on board the yacht Strugeon, Capt. Nason, which went out to the fishing grounds between Portsmouth and the Isles of Shoals, Saturday night. The craft gave a sudden lurch, throwing one of the party into the water. George Leopold, another of the party, who is an expert swimmer, jumped to the rescue and after a deal of trouble succeeded in bringing the nearly drowned man aboard again. The whole party arrived on shore Sunday night."

An immense number of people visited Dover from the surrounding towns on Tuesday of this week, to see the circus and the baby elephant. Between seven and eight thousand people attended the afternoon performance, and in the evening the audience was still larger. The street show was the finest seen in Dover within memory; the procession did not go over all the intended route, the authorities declining to allow the herd of fifteen elephants and the numerous heavy wagons to cross the bridge to the north side of the river. The tent show—circus and menagerie—was the best ever presented in that city.

VISITING TEMPLARS.

Portland Commandry of Knights Templar, one hundred strong, with Chandler's full band, went through this city on the afternoon of the 23d inst. in a special train which passed the Bangor express at Kennebunk, and arrived here at three o'clock. The Sir Knights were on their way to Providence, R. I., to participate in the celebration of St. John's day, June 24th, as the guests of the Providence Commandary.

A special train conveying Boston Commandry of Knights Templar and ladies, will arrive in this city at 11:45 o'clock this forenoon. A procession will be formed on Deer street, the right resting on Concord railroad station, in the following order: Platoon of police; Dover cornet band, twenty pieces; De Witt Clinton Commandry, of this city; Carter's military band, thirty-five pieces; Boston Commandry; invited guests. The route will be through Bridge, Islington, Cabot, Middle, State, Pleasant and Market streets to steamboat wharf, where boat will be taken for the Shoals. The ladies of the visiting knights will be taken in barges and driven about the city, resting at intervals in favorable positions for witnessing the march.

POLICE COURT.

WEDNESDAY, May 25; Batchelder, J.

James May and Andrew Morgan, drunk, each fined $3 and costs; county farm in default of payment.

YORK COUNTY ITEMS.

Two fields of corn in Eliot, belonging to Samuel C. Shapley and William Hill, were handsomely spindled out on Monday, June 21st.

The fishing schooner Helen F. Tredick came off the marine railway at Kittery on Wednesday afternoon of this week, looking first-rate, and sailed over to town.

Three salmon were taken out of the eastern weirs at Gerrish's island on Wednesday morning of this week, having an average weight of twenty-five pounds each. Small ones have occasionally been taken in previous seasons, but this year they have been larger and more numerous.

Political Matters.

The city election of Portland, Oregon, was held June 21st, and the republicans elected every official except one councilman.

The Baltimore Herald, a democratic paper, says that "as a man Gen. Garfield is unobjectionable, and all the democratic newspapers that have gone off half-cocked ought not to load with such ammunition again, but to fire at him as exponent of the views of a party that has performed its mission and belongs to the history of the past."

The Tammany delegation, 600 strong, reached here to-day and went to their hotel, with John Kelly and Augustus Schell at their head. Joe Harris of the Atlanta Constitution, whose sketches, over the signature of "Uncle Remus," have attracted attention, went down to see the braves. When he had satisfied his curiosity and had seen all the glory of their war-paint and feathers, a New York journalist said to him: "You have always been talking to me about radical nigger thieves in the south. Now, did you ever see a band of radicals that looked as bad as this gang?" Harris thoughtfully rubbed his chin for a moment to refresh his memory, and then replied: "Well, there's one gang of nigger gamblers in Atlanta who look almost as bad."—Cincinnati special.

New Hampshire Items.

The shed of Calvin Swett of Ashland was struck by lightning on Monday, June 21st, and burned. Loss about $500.

The Manchester Mirror publishes a carefully-prepared estimate, in which the population of the city of Manchester is given as 33,000, an increase of nearly 10,000 since the last census, and 5,000 since 1878. There are believed to be about 9,000 French Canadians in the city.

It is announced that a special train will be put on July 1st, between Manchester and Plymouth, to carry the morning edition of the Union. It will connect at Plymouth with the regular train north.

A petition is being signed, addressed to the mayor and aldermen of Manchester, requesting the prosecution of hotel proprietors and one or more of the liquor dealers, for violation of the liquor laws.

—A child at Athens, Ga., fell from a third-story window, and a man, seeing it fall, pushed a barrel of water so that the child fell into it and was not hurt.

—A Danbury man tells a good story of his aunt, who is a model housekeeper and a scrupulous stickler for a good table. The clergyman called near the dinner hour and was pressed to stay to the meal. At the table there was a good supply of well-prepared food, but the lady felt compelled to make many apologies for imaginary deficiences. In the grace the clergyman asked our Heavenly Father to "bless the frugal meal." This made the lady very mad.

Chronicle Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 21st.

The president has gone west, and Secretary Sherman south, each for a short time. The president will make a tour of the Pacific states this summer, and all the members of the cabinet will be absent for a time.

Secretary Sherman, before going away, expressed great satisfaction with the financial situation, and with business prospects throughout the country. Probably he is the best informed man in the Union on all subjects connected with our material interests.

Captain Howgate's vessel, the "Gulnare," which leaves to-day to establish a colony in the northern regions for polar explorations, goes entirely under private auspices. The government does not recognize the vessel or the project. One naval officer will go on the vessel, having received leave of absence.

That municipal corruption is not always the result of suffrage seems to be shown by the recent finding of over thirty indictments in connection with our District of Columbia affairs. As is known, there is no voting here. The form of government is as much a pure despotism as any in Asia. Several officials were found to be in collusion with outside parties, and a great lack of executive care was shown.

The change in this administration's manner of dealing with Mexico is strikingly shown by late events. On Saturday prompt orders were given to prevent a raid upon Mexican territory, and it has just been decided not to permit our troops to follow Victoria's Indians across the border. Three years ago the administration adopted such a course towards Mexico, that only the helpless condition of that country prevented a war. The change is at once creditable to the United States and gratifying to good citizens of both countries.

There was a report here this morning that correspondence had passed between delegates from different southern states with a view to united support of General Hancock. The leader of the Hancock "boom" in this city denies any knowledge of such correspondence. KNOX.

—A promising youth recently surprised his father by asking, "Father, do you like mother?" "Why, yes, of course." "And she likes you?" "Of course she does." "Did she ever say so?" "Many a time, my son." "Did she marry you because she loved you?" "Certainly she did." The boy carefully scrutinized his parent, and, after a long pause, asked: "Well, was she as near-sighted then as she is now?"

—If men who devour, with an evident relish, the undisposed cheese, stale bread and the other stuff that go to make up a free lunch at a saloon, were to eat without growling the fare twice as palatable prepared for them by their wives at home, there would be fewer divorces in the world.—Norristown Herald.

Americans Travelling Abroad

will find all of Dr. Pierce's Family Medicines on sale in all principal drug stores and at the London branch of the World's Dispensary, Great Russell Street Buildings. Golden Medical Discovery is a most potent alterative or blood-cleansing elixir. It dispels all humors and cures blotches, pimples, eruptions, kings' evil, or scrofula, enlarged glands, swellings, internal soreness, ulcers, and virulent blood poisons that, unremoved, rot out the vital machinery. Dr. Pierce's Pellets (little sugar-coated pills) are an agreeable and most cleansing cathartic; remove offensive and acrid accumulations, thereby preventing fevers and kindred affections. World's Dispensary Medical Association, proprietors, Buffalo and London.

—The right kind of a summer hotel has not yet been devised. A little mountain air, not too much; a little sea breeze, just enough; a mineral spring, a trifle bitter; society, select; rooms, ample; table, with victuals on it; drives, not dusty; beautiful lawns, no hay fever and rates way down, would seem to be good foundations for such a hotel. Other matters would suggest themselves.—New Haven Register.

Grape Wine for Communion.

The superior quality and entire purity of Speer's Port Grape Wine, of New Jersey, and the success that physicians have had by its use, has induced them to write about it, and caused hundreds of others to prescribe it in their practice as the best and most reliable wine to be had. It is held in great favor for communion purposes, and said to be a cure for consumptives.

— If a man undertakes to travel on the line between truth and dishonesty, says Josh Billings, he is sure to stumble, and we all kno on which side of the line he will fall.

Prejudice Kills.

"Eleven years our daughter suffered on a bed of misery under the care of several of the best (and some of the worst) physicians, who gave her disease various names but no relief, and now she is restored to us in good health by as simple a remedy as Hop Bitters, that we had pooh-ed at for two years, before using it. We earnestly hope and pray that no one else will let their sick suffer as we did, on account of prejudice against so good a medicine as Hop Bitters."—The Parents. —Telegram.

—Oleomargarine has only one advantage that we have ever heard of. If you don't want to use it as butter—and the chances are pretty heavy that you don't—you have only to run a wick through it and use it for candles. It is also useful for chalking the bridge of the nose, in case of local colds.

FOR
Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

Diseases of the pulmonary organs are so prevalent and fatal, that a safe and reliable remedy for them is invaluable to every community. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is such a remedy, and no other so eminently merits the confidence of the public. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, to insure the greatest possible efficiency and uniformity of results, which enables physicians as well as invalids to use it with confidence. It is the most reliable remedy for diseases of the throat and lungs that science has produced. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt and certain relief, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it without difficulty. In the treatment of ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household, for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

The marvellous cures which AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has effected all over the world are a sufficient guaranty that it will continue to produce the best results. An impartial trial will convince the most sceptical of its wonderful curative powers, as well as of its superiority over all other preparations for pulmonary complaints.

Eminent physicians in all parts of the country, knowing its composition, recommend AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL to invalids, and prescribe it in their practice. The test of half a century has proved its absolute certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

The Hibernation of Animals.

Most beasts do not hibernate, because they have the power of keeping up a uniform body-temperature in spite of the cold of winter. In the dormouse, marmot, and many allied forms, however, as also in the hedgehog and in bats, we do find this winter sleep to occur. The lower animals, such as, reptiles, frogs, and eels, many fishes, spiders, shell-fish and worms, also enter into this state; while yet lower creatures, such as infusoria and rhizopods, protect themselves by excreting, and forming a structureless, spheroidal cost or "cyst." In preparing to hibernate, animals seek secluded and sheltered nooks, or burrow in the dry ground or in mud, or conceal themselves in moss or beneath the bark of trees. There they fall into a sleep, either uninterrupted, or interrupted by intervals of activity, which endures more or less according to latitude and consequent length of winter. During this sleep the body-heat of warm-blooded animals falls greatly, as respiration and circulation take place very gently and slowly. The nutrition of the body is also effected very slowly, the fat of the body, generally considerable at the commencement of hibernation, being used up in the process, unless occasional awaking has given an opportunity for feeding. An annual period of repose, analagous to hibernation, also takes place during the dry season in many tropical animals—as in many reptiles, frogs, and fishes. The tanrec (Centetes) of Madagascar, which has a superficial resemblance to the hedgehog, also resembles it as to its annual torpor, and certain lemuroids (of the genus Cheirogaleus) which inhabit the same island, seem also to prepare for the torpor of the dry season by storing up a quantity of fat in their tails, which, it is alleged, disappears by the time that the period of activity has returned. Parallel with the periodic repose of animals is the winter inactivity of very many plants which, in temperate latitudes such as our own, drop their leaves, or, if herbs, die down to shoot forth again with the advent of spring. During this time the sap retreats from the surface, and the processes of life come almost to a stand-still, to be renewed with a rapidity and suddenness not inaptly termed a "burst of vegetation," at a period which varies according to the species. The annual torpor of animals is a prolongation for weeks or for months of that process, so familiar yet so mysterious, called sleep. During it the functions of life are slackened in their operations, and the refreshment which sleep produces is not due to any accelerated nutrition, but to a temporary cessation of the wear and tear of activity.

FRIDAY, JUNE 25, 1880.

James A. Garfield,

OF OHIO.

Chester A. Arthur,

OF NEW YORK.

Democratic National Convention.

When the convention adjourned, on the evening of the 23d, it was considered by the Hancock men a certainty that their favorite would have been nominated had a second ballot been taken; and the opposition thought so too, and managed to carry the adjournment so as to gain time to effect possible combinations. The ballot might as well have been taken Wednesday evening, as it turned out, for the first ballot on reassembling was as follows:

Whole number of votes	738
Necessary for a choice	493
Tilden	1
Bayard	2
Hendricks	30
Hancock	705

And Winfield Scott Hancock was declared the nominee of the democratic party for president of the United States. The nomination was made unanimous.

Democratic Economy.

The democratic party for several years made a great profession of what they would save to the country if the people would only put the government in their hands. They were the great "reform" party of the period. They have partially been in control, and if the way they "reduced" expenditures is to be taken as an earnest of what they would do if intrusted with the control of all government affairs, the people will be thankful the nation has escaped such "reform," and the calamity of democratic rule. In this connection we quote from a speech made by Representative Baker of Indiana, and published in the Congressional Record of the 17th of June.

Mr. Baker presents a statement which shows that the annual expenditures of the government were reduced while the republicans had the full control of congress from $292,177,188 in 1870-71 to $258,459,797 in 1875-76. Thus, in five years, the annual expenditures had decreased nearly $34,000,000. In 1876-77 and 1877-78 the democrats made an apparent reduction of expenditures of about $22,000,000, the amount appropriated for the latter year being $236,964,326. Everybody who has heard of the deficiency bills passed since, knows how that reduction was effected. In the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1879, the expenditures ran up to about $267,000,000; for the next fiscal year the amount appropriated was $297,860,238, or nearly $6,000,000 more than in 1870-71. For the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1881, the appropriations already made amount to $291,423,888, making no allowance for deficiencies.

Mr. Baker next proceeds to an analysis of democratic economy as illustrated in the expenditures of the house of representatives, where the democrats have held full control for five years. During the last year of republican control the number of permanent annual employes of the house was one hundred and twenty-five, and their pay amounted to $194,190 a year. Now the number of permanent employes is one hundred and seventy-three, and their pay amounts to $208,798 a year. Other expenditures have increased in similar proportion. In this connection Mr. Baker forcibly remarks:

Thus we see that the democrats have increased the permanent house employes forty-eight, or about forty per cent, and have increased the annual expenditures $15,747.30. We are told by the democracy that there are now one hundred thousand men in the civil service of the government. If that party had control of the executive, and made as elaborate an increase in other departments of the public service as they have about the house, we should speedily have forty thousand more men in the civil service than we have under republican control; and there can be but little doubt, if that hungry party ever gets control of all departments of the government, that we shall see an increase proportionately as great as has been made in the employes of the house.

The "Country Week" for 1880.

Since its inauguration in 1875, the "Country Week," under the auspices of the Boston Young Men's Christian Union, has sent into the country, for vacations of a week or longer periods, over thirty-seven hundred children. The work has steadily grown from one hundred and sixty in 1875, till last year thirteen hundred and twenty shared its benefits. The children are carefully selected from among those who would not otherwise have an opportunity of enjoying the pleasure which a short visit to the country adds to the life of every child.

The best results have attended those instances where children have been received into families as guests, and have thus been brought more directly under the refining influences of home-life unlike their own. Many instances could be given of the good done the children by such visits, and many times have homes opened of their own accord for lengthened and return visits.

Agents of the "Country Week" have met with a cordial response to their efforts to secure such invitations in the places that they have been able to visit, and many invitations for the children have already been received. As it would be impossible to visit every town, the committee in charge would ask those who read this article, who feel willing to aid in the good work by receiving into their homes one or more of these little ones for ten days during July and August, to send their names and the number and ages of children preferred to the secretary, Miss H. G. Putnam, No. 18 Boylston street, Boston, who will cheerfully furnish any further information desired. Children will be sent and returned free of expense.

News and Notes.

Mrs. Halseman and her eighteen-months-old child were run over by a train of cars at Kankakee, Ill., on June 21st; the child was instantly killed, and the mother fatally hurt.

There was excitement in the British house of commons one night recently. Bradlaugh, elected from Northampton, as an atheist, has desired to affirm, instead of taking the oath of office. It was voted, 275 to 230, to forbid him to do either, thus unseating him. The conservatives had the votes of sixty-five liberals. It is thought the conscientious atheist may now take the oath, which would probably be permitted in spite of the vote.

Rev. John Morse, pastor of the Methodist church in Calais, Me., was drowned from a boat in the river, June 23d. He was alone at the time, having landed two of his children shortly before. He leaves a wife and four children.

Schooner Herman Babson, which left Gloucester, Mass., May 28th, for a halibut trip on the coast of Greenland, was compelled to abandon the voyage from encountering immense ice fields off the northern coast of Newfoundland, and put into St. John's to fit for a bank trip.

The dead body picked up in a dory on the 30th of May by fishing schooner Argonaut of Gloucester, on Banquereau, has been identified as probably that of Otis Witham, of Pigeon cove, Gloucester, an unmarried man about fifty years of age, and one of the crew of the schooner Waverly, of that port. The oars and scoop found in the dory were marked with his initials, a knife found in his pocket answered the description of one he traded for before sailing, and the general description fitted him in every way; and a despatch from the captain of the Waverly says that he left the vessel on the 20th of May and did not return.

Bradlaugh, the English agitator, was put under arrest by the sergeant-at-arms of the British house of commons, on the evening of the 23d inst., for defying the house and refusing to withdraw when ordered.

John A. G. Smith, a Columbia college law-student, has been tried for forging notes on Mr. Gilman of Port Jarvis, N. Y., convicted, and sent to the state prison for five years.

The case of Burwell Reynolds of Danville, Va., for killing Aaron Shelton, (white,) ended June 23d, a mixed jury giving a verdict of manslaughter, with five years in the penitentiary.

Patrick Clark and his wife left their baby with Ann Davis, a San Francisco negro nurse, and for three years neither paid the board nor showed it any attention. The white child regarded the black woman as her mother. At length the Clarks desired to reclaim their offspring, but Mrs. Davis would not give it up. They therefore waylaid the couple, and the mother carried off the youngster, while the father whipped the nurse so unmercifully that she died.

Elias Rychel left Five Points, Ohio, eight years ago to seek his fortune. He lately returned wealthy, having been lucky at mining on the Pacific coast, to find that his brother had married the girl on whom he had himself fixed his choice for a wife. He was greatly disappointed, but she said that the husband need be no impediment, as she was ready to desert him. So the Californian went back to the gold fields with his sister-in-law, who left two children behind.

A public meeting was held at Eaton, Ohio, to discuss the marriage of a white woman and a black man. A resolution to drive the couple out of the village was discussed, and voted down.

A hog killed and ate some of Rev. Bryant Ransom's fine chickens, at Mount Vernon, Ohio. The annoyed chergyman caught the brute and cut one of its eyes. He had intended to destroy its sight entirely, so that it could see no more chickens to catch, but through pity he left the job half completed. His congregation, however, do not credit him with much mercy, and have resolved to put him on trial for the act.

New Hampshire Items.

John E. White, who attempted to kill his wife and then cut his own throat in a car at Ossipee, is growing better, and unless inflammation supervenes will soon be moved to the county jail. His wife is at the house of her parents in Moultonville, and is said to be forcibly restrained by them from returning to the side of her husband.

Nine years ago John Martin was sentenced to the state prison for burglary, but while waiting transportation escaped from the lock-up at Nashua. Wednesday morning, June 23d, he was arraigned before the police court at Manchester for drunkenness, and being recognized by one of the officers, will now serve his original sentence. He claims to have been about the city nearly all the time since his escape.

It is stated that another Catholic diocese is to be established in New England, and that it will be known as the diocese of Concord, where the bishop would have to reside. Rev. John E. Barry of Concord is spoken of as the choice of the Holy See to fill the position of bishop. This act would probably change the jurisdiction over this parish from the bishop of Portland to the bishop of Concord.

Class day at Phillips academy, Exeter, occurred June 22d. The programme was as follows: History of the class, by James G. Gardiner of Croydon, N. H.; prophecy, by Lawrence E. Sexton of Cleveland, Ohio; oration, by Isaac B. Burgess of Hampton Falls, N. H.; poem, by Seymour I. Hudgens of Sandwich, Ill. There were forty-four members in the class. The Boston cadet band furnished the music. In the evening a brilliant reception and ball were held in the town hall.

— A good dinner will make home happy where twenty mottoes have had no effect.

E'en though the face be not so fair,
And beauty may be all but flown,
Dear ladies, you need not despair,
If SOZODONT you make your own.
And brush your teeth and mouth with skill

Brown's Household Panacea

Is the most effective Pain Destroyer in the world. Will most surely quicken the blood whether taken internally or applied externally, and thereby more certainly relieve pain, whether chronic or acute, than any other pain alleviator, and it is warranted double the strength of any similar preparation.

It cures pain in the side, back or bowels, sore throat, rheumatism, toothache and all aches.

The great reliever of pain, "Brown's Household Panacea," should be in every family. A teaspoonful of the Panacea in a tumbler of hot water (sweetened, if preferred), taken at bedtime, will break up a cold. 25 cents a bottle.

Much Sickness,

Undoubtedly with children attributed to other causes, is occasioned by worms. Brown's Vermifuge Comfits, or Worm Lozenges, although effectual in destroying worms, can do no possible injury to the most delicate child. This valuable combination has been successfully used by physicians, and found to be absolutely sure in eradicating worms, so hurtful to children. Twenty-five cents a box. t,th&f

PORTSMOUTH, May 12th, 1880.

THE CO-PARTNERSHIP heretofore existing between David Kimball and Frank J. Philbrick, under the firm name of DAVID KIMBALL & CO., is this day dissolved by mutual consent. The business will hereafter be conducted under the name of DAVID KIMBALL & CO., as heretofore, by Mr. Philbrick, who will settle all accounts.

DAVID KIMBALL.
F. J. PHILBRICK.

Notice of the dissolution of the partnership between myself and Frank J. Philbrick having been made public, it seems only an act of simple justice to add that our association, covering a period of nearly ten years, was at all times harmonious, and gave me full confidence in Mr. Philbrick's integrity. Thanks may receive the patronage of the friends of the late firm, to which his character and acquirements entitle him, is my sincere wish. In closing a business life of more than fifty-six years, I am led to look back with grateful remembrance of the many friends who have gone, who kindly gave me their confidence and support; and to those who remain, I tender my heartfelt thanks for their continued friendly interest and regard.

Mr. Nathan F. Gilson has on exhibition and for sale at his store on Market street a fine lot of cabbages, raised this year by Mr. John Remick of Kittery.

A suspicious-looking character was seen prowling around the back yards of the houses on the lower end of State at about midnight on the 22d inst., but no depredations are yet reported.

The excursion to the Shoals in the steamer Mystic on Thursday evening, did not come off, and is postponed to Monday evening next, if fair weather. Will leave Adams wharf at 7:30 o'clock.

Steamer Stamford arrived here from Newburyport last Thursday afternoon with a small excursion party, who after meandering the streets for a few hours left for home. No better day could have been made for a trip of this kind.

The democrats of this city jubilated on Thursday evening over the success of their party's national convention in nominating candidates for president and vice president. They had a bonfire on Market square, and a concert by the drum corp.

A gentleman in this city is the owner of two decanters holding a pint each, which belonged to a set of four once the property of Gov. Langdon. They are of green Bohemian glass, finely decorated with gilt, and look as fresh and brilliant as when they graced the governor' table.

Seven brick-yards are in operation at Dover point, four miles from this city. They employ to a great extent French Canadian brick makers, at lower rates of wages than Yankees will work for. The wood used in burning the bricks comes from York and other places along the Maine coast.

Among the clergy in this county who have been settled in one place for more than ten years are Rev. T. V. Haines, North Hampton, thirteen years; Rev. I. C. White, Newmarket, fifteen years; Rev. J. H. Stearns, Epping, twenty-three years; Rev. Dr. E. Robie, Greenland, twenty-eight years.

Miss Georgie Cayvan, well known to many of our readers through her successful readings, has become a member of the Madison Square theatre company of New York, where she made her debut a few days ago in "Hazel Kirke," with marked success. Her contract, except for time required to fill reading engagements, is for a term of years.

Mr. Daniel D. Wendell was thrown out of a wagon between four and five o'clock on Thursday afternoon last, through the too rapid turning of a corner, from Water street into State street, and was considerably injured; he was taken to his home in an insensible condition, and was unconscious up to seven o'clock in the evening, since which time we have had no report of his condition.

Any persons who can give positive information as to the location of the graves of the following-named deceased soldiers and sailors—Seth Huntress, Thomas K. Clark, Charles Moulton, Pierpont Hammond and Thomas B. Parks—are requested to communicate, personally or by letter, with M. M. Collis of this city. The graves of the persons named are all in the north cemetery, but the exact localities are not known.

VISITING TEMPLARS.

The Boston Commandery of Knights Templar, with their ladies and invited guests, and Carter's military band, arrived in this city shortly before noon on Thursday last, as previously announced, and were received at the railroad station by De Witt Clinton Commandery of this city, with the Dover cornet band, and escorted through several streets to the steamboat wharf, where they embarked on the steamer Leyden for Star island. The ladies of the party were taken in carriages at the depot and driven about the city, meeting the procession several times, once on State street, where the knights formed in line and as the ladies passed saluted them by the presenting of arms and the playing of the bands—a very pretty scene. No organization makes a better display in public than the Knights Templar, with their fine uniform and large percentage of "solid men;" and the parade on Thursday was a fine one, and drew throngs of people upon the streets.

The Leyden left the wharf at about one o'clock, arriving at the Shoals at 2:30; returning, the steamer started at 3:30, arriving at 4:55—Mate Vennard laying the Leyden alongside the wharf in the handsomest style, in spite of the strong tide running. The Portsmouth Knights and their band returned on this boat. Lieut. Comdr. Kellogg paid every attention to the Knights, and did everything in his power to make the trip a pleasant one.

An excellent dinner was served at the Oceanic, 275 plates being laid. After dinner Sir E. C. Lotts called the party to order, and announced Sir Zeph H. Thomas as toastmaster; remarks appropriate to the occasion were made by Wyzeman Marshall, J. L. Stevenson, Alfred F. Chapman, Recorder of the Grand Commandry of Massachusetts and Rhode Island, Edwin Wright, Samuel C. Lawrence, Past Eminent Commander, Z. H. Thomas, Eugene H. Richards, Albert L. Richardson and others. The exercises were interspersed with selections by Carter's band, singing by the Temple Quartette, and readings by L. M. Averell of Cambridge, Mass., a member of Boston Commandery. Letters of regret were read from Commo. John C. Beaumont, U. S. N., Sir Nelson W. Aldrich, Grand Commander of Massachusetts and Rhode Island, Gen. Wm. Sutton, Sir George P. Cleaves, Grand Recorder of the Grand Commandry of New Hampshire, and Sir Chas. W. Gardner, Emmient Commander of De Witt Clinton Commandry.

In the evening a concert was given by the band from the stand on the lawn, lasting two hours; followed by a musical entertainment in Oceanic hall, by the Temple Quartette, Miss Mina Ryerson of Boston, and Miss Etta Chamberlain of Cambridge. This was succeeded by a reception and hop, complimentary to the ladies and invited guests, Carter's orchestra of fifteen pieces furnishing the music.

To-day is set apart for rambles about the island, boating, fishing, etc., the party returning home this evening.

MAN KILLED.

It was reported to the police at about one o'clock Friday morning that freight train 103 had run over a man on Portsmouth bridge. The accident occurred at the second truss from the Noble's island end of the bridge, and twenty-three cars passed over the unfortunate man, who was a marine named Riley. The train was delayed one hour and a half by the non-arrival of the coroner.

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

In Board of Mayor and Aldermen, regular meeting, Thursday evening, June 24th:

Petition for the increased school room accommodation in school district one, was received, accepted and laid over for one week.

Charles A. C. Gray was present by order of the board. Alderman Hall enquired if Mr. Gray had been informed as to the charges against him. Chief Engineer Marston stated that at a recent fire Mr. Gray ceased ringing the North bell before receiving orders to stop, and detailed the circumstances under which he had preferred the charge, deeming it a matter which should be heard and determined by the board as to whether the police officers should obey the orders of the engineer on such occasions or not. The jubilant democracy by their excessive exuberance on the streets prevented all the statements being distinctly heard.

An opinion of the city solicitor was read, holding that the police officers were by law under direction of the chief engineer. Alderman Sanborn thought the police officers should be at the scene of fires to protect property, and that the person paid for ringing bells should attend to that duty. The chief engineer in answer to questions from members of the board made further statements. Mr. Gray made a detailed statement of the occurrence, and said that the engines had reached the scene and had played upon the fire, and denied the statements of Mr. Marston. Alderman Hodgdon enquired of City Marshal Entwistle as to the order requiring the bell to be rung, and for how long time. The marshal stated that no duration of time had been indicated for the purpose. The rules required twenty minutes. Mr. Marston at considerable length reported the details of the occurrence. Alderman Sanborn said he heard the bell rung, and he was dressed and reached Congress street while the bell was being rung. Much back talk was engaged in, Mr. Gray stating that it was represented to him that the engineer was feeling provoked because the engines had reached the fire and got it under before his arrival. On motion of Alderman Hall the subject matter was referred to committee on police.

The Board were invited to visit the Almshouse, to-day, and partake of strawberries and cream!

It was voted that committee on city lands and buildings have power to repair the hay barn at the city farm.

Subject of water for State street schoolhouse was referred to above committee. After other business of no especial interest the board adjourned.

A SMART OPERATION.

Among the numerous canvassers who visited us within a few days past, was a dapper and smart fellow who opened his business talk by offering some gimcrack which we did not examine, and soon plunged into the real matter on hand with professional volubility. It appeared that he periodically came to our city and took orders for boots and shoes. He was nothing daunted by our telling him that we had local dealers who could supply us, who paid rent, taxes, and other contributions to the common weal, but he persisted that Portsmouth was a good field of operations, for his trade. Pursuing the subject, we sought to pump our visitor as to the cause of this state of affairs. He was nothing loth to give us the benefit of his observations; in short, he permitted himself to be "interviewed." He told us that he had worked for prominent shoe builders in Boston who made shoes for Portsmouth customers, and that the custom work of Portsmouth was the best surburban work of any place of its size within a radius of fifty miles from Boston. To our astonishment he appeared to have numerous orders, and to our enquiry as to how they were obtained, he frankly told us that this business, like all other kinds, had changed. People who could afford it, would not buy sale work; they obtained a better and more durable article if made to order and properly filled.

"Now," said he, "you have not a first-class boot-maker here in your place, or if you have, no one knows it." "How do you know this?" we enquired. "Why," said he, "I bought a copy of the CHRONICLE this morning, and of course I looked out for my kind of business. I found but one advertisement of any shoe store in this large place, and I made up my mind that if you could make a good shoe here no one knew it, and that Portsmouth, Kittery, the navy yard, and other spots about here were good for fifty orders for me. You see," continued the sagacious Crispin, "we go for those places where the local dealers do not advertise. People now-a-days will not hunt up their purchases. They are either canvassed or read the advertisements. It is either in one way or the other that goods are sold, and we regard your conservative men down here in our line as probably well enough off, and not desiring to do any more business, and so we sail in and pick up a good trade here. I would like to fit you to a pair of nice summer shoes; give me your order, and they will be here next week, express charges paid and warranted all right, or you need not have them."

But we were too deeply in a brown study in the contemplation of the fact that this sharp little fellow had selected our city as the scene of his operations, based upon his assertion that he had worked for Rogers in Boston, and we do not remember who else, and he appeared to know the trade of Portsmouth almost as well as the weak points in his local competitors.

Piles! Piles! Piles!

Do you know what it is to suffer with piles? If you do, you know what is one of the worst torments of the human frame. The most perfect cure ever known is Kidney-Wort. It cures constipation, and then its tonic restores health to the diseased bowels, and prevents a recurrence of the disease. Try it without delay.

—Robinson (after a long whist bout at the club)—"It is awfully late, Brown. What will you say to your wife?" Brown (in a whisper)—"Oh, I shan't say much, you know—'Good morning, dear,' or something of that sort. She'll say the rest."

The highest hopes and interests of the race rest on the purity, health, and strength of womanhood. We take pleasure in referring our readers to the remarkable efficacy of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in all that class of diseases from which women suffer so much.

—He came into the editor's room with a large roll of manuscript under his arm, and said very politely; "I have a trifle here about the beautiful sunset yesterday, which was dashed off by a friend of mine, which I would like inserted if you have room." "Plenty of room. Just insert it yourself," replied the editor, gently pushing the waste basket toward him.

Why throw away so much money trying worthless medicines, when for 35 cents a remedy can be procured that will cure Coughs, Colds, sore Lungs and Croup? Give it a trial. Adamson Balsam will do it. Trial bottle, 10 cts.

REFINED CIDER.

Of the different summer beverages manufactured at this establishment it is hardly necessary to say a single word. They have become popular "on their own merits," and can be found in many private families and on sale in every hotel, saloon and restaurant in this locality.

The Lagers bottled by me are from the best breweries in the country, and it is safe to say that there is no better in the world.

Orders may be left at my establishment for any of the above, which will be delivered anywhere within the city limits without extra charge.

Not Qualified--A Boy who would be a Pirate.

He was only a small boy, with a freckled face and hayseed in his hair, but he carried a two dollar pistol in his clothes, and he had come on from Lynn, Mass., to be a pirate. He was picked up on the wharf, looking longingly out to sea. Evidently the gentle child wanted to know the nearest way to the Spanish Main, and was figuring on his chances of sending a few galleons to the bottom when Policeman O'Neil came along. He was a frank boy, though, and when he was questioned he plumply told what brought him here, and how badly he wanted to go into the buccaneering business. That made his captor still more curious about him, but he never for a moment thought of concealing the rides he had stolen on baggage cars or the strategic ruse by which he had given the slip to the old folks at home. Aspirations so high as those the runaway thirteen-year-older professed could not be allowed to languish while a police court atmosphere was so close at hand, so yesterday they introduced the embryo scourge of the seas as Francis Sherlock to his honor at the Jefferson market bar.

"You have come all the way to this town to be a pirate?" said the magistrate.

The prisoner said he had, and tried to raise himself a couple of additional inches by standing on tiptoe. His honor looked over him critically and said, "Hum!" with considerable emphasis, but the other did not shirk his scrutiny a bit.

"I don't think you'll do for me," his honor went on after a reflective pause. "You haven't killed any one outright, and I question whether you've even set a house on fire. Besides, you don't swear loud enough, and I doubt if you drink hot blood with any relish."

The "terror" from Lynn looked abashed. Clearly he was painfully sensitive of the defects in his education. "I might be a cabin boy," he ventured after a while.

"No you mightn't," the court promptly returned. "You can't take a back somersault down the hatchway without breaking your neck; you don't know how to rip things up properly in the cook's galley, and you couldn't crack a joke at an old sea dog without getting thrashed. You won't do nohow."

The young marauder looked quite pensive. "Well, couldn't I be the fellow that lays around and says the funny things?" he asked.

"I'm afraid that berth's engaged, my boy. In fact, the only job you might come in for is to take the fellow's place that get's chopped up and buried with the plunder to keep it snug and safe. Would that suit?" This time there was no hesitation on the prisoner's part in saying that it wouldn't.

"Oh, it won't, eh," said his honor. "Then I'm afraid we can't do anything for you. Young men like you are a drug in the market just now. We had a troop on last week looking for Indians to shoot; there's more than a dozen around wanting to go on the highway, but it's only occasionally we come across gentlemen of your age with such modest and innocent aspirations as your own. We've a place uptown where you can take a hand in. There's not much burning or blood-shedding going on, but they're an uncommonly lively shoe factory, and they cane a chair quicker'n you could heave a marling spike. You had better stop there till we hear what they have to say about your vocation in Lynn."—New York paper.

FOR

Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

Diseases of the pulmonary organs are so prevalent and fatal, that a safe and reliable remedy for them is invaluable to every community. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is such a remedy, and no other so eminently merits the confidence of the public. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, to insure the greatest possible efficiency and uniformity of results, which enables physicians as well as invalids to use it with confidence. It is the most reliable remedy for diseases of the throat and lungs that science has produced. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt and certain relief, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it without difficulty. In the treatment of ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household, for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

The marvellous cures which AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has effected all over the world are a sufficient guaranty that it will continue to produce the best results. An impartial trial will convince the most sceptical of its wonderful curative powers, as well as of its superiority over all other preparations for pulmonary complaints.

Eminent physicians in all parts of the country, knowing its composition, recommend AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL to invalids, and prescribe it in their practice. The test of half a century has proved its absolute certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

Comdr. Yates, of the Alliance, reports to the department that his vessel arrived at St. Pierre, Miquelon island, off the coast of Newfoundland, June 15th, where she was to remain about a week to establish correct rates for chronometers, after which the vessel would sail for the banks, and search for reported dangers, and at the completion of this duty would sail for St. John's, Newfoundland. The commander expects to reach the latter point about the first week in July. The health of the officers and crew is reported excellent.

Major Augustus S. Nicholson, adjutant and inspector of the marine corps, has been ordered to make the annual inspection of the several marine barracks. An order has been issued direting that enlisted men of the marine corps on duty on shore be paid monthly instead of quarterly, the payment to be made on the first day of the month or as soon thereafter as possible. Haunted Me.

A workingman says: "Debt, poverty and suffering haunted me for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for doctoring, which did no good. I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I procured Hop Bitters and commenced their use, and in one month we were all well, and none of us have been sick a day since; and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your families well a year with Hop Bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost."—Christian Advocate.

—A whaling captain, lately returned from the North Pole, declares that a new breed of whales have made their appearance in those waters. They are supposed to have emigrated from the open sea at the pole. The skipper describes them as very much larger than the old form of whales, and quite gentle and confiding. In former years, when a whale was harpooned, the remainder of the herd threw up their flukes and made off. The new breed do not seem to mind in the least one of their number being captured, but remain around the ship, occasionally rubbing their noses against it to testify their friendly intentions.

will find all of Dr. Pierce's Family Medicines on sale in all principal drug stores and at the London branch of the World's Dispensary, Great Russell Street Buildings. Golden Medical Discovery is a most potent alterative or blood-cleansing elixir. It dispels all humors and cures blotches, pimples, eruptions, king's evil, or scrofula, enlarged glands, swellings, internal soreness, ulcers, and virulent blood poisons that, unremoved, rot out the vital machinery. Dr. Pierce's Pellets (little sugar-coated pills) are an agreeable and most cleansing cathartic; remove offensive and acrid accumulations, thereby preventing fevers and kindred affections. Grape Wine for Communion.

The superior quality and entire purity of Speer's Port Grape Wine, of New Jersey, and the success that physicians have had by its use, has induced them to write about it, and caused hundreds of others to prescribe it in their practice as the best and most reliable wine to be had. It is held in great favor for communion purposes, and said to be a cure for consumptives.

The Democratic Nominations.

The capacity of the democratic party for making blunders has rarely been more evident than in the nomination of Hancock and English. "Availability" alone was consulted by the delegates, and availability was understood to mean a man to please Tammany and who could not be assailed personally. At the head of the ticket is General Winfield Scott Hancock of the regular army, named after a defeated candidate for the presidency, a man of unblemished reputation, and an illustrious soldier; yet of aristocratic tendencies, one who has no sympathy with the people, utterly destitute of political experience, never prominent in civil life, and in truth utterly unheard-of outside of his profession. A weaker man we do not believe could have been chosen from the long list of candidates, except Tilden. Seymour, Bayard, Thurman, Field, Hendricks, Morrison, Randall—all have had more or less experience in managing affairs of state, and might with some propriety be called statesmen; but Hancock has never moved out of the military ruts, and has never spoken a word to indicate that he felt an interest in civil matters. The democratic convention had a grand opportunity to nominate such a man as Bayard, but foolishly threw it away, and with it the victory they might perhaps have won.

The jubilant democratic papers say almost nothing of English, so excessive is their joy to think they are a happy family again, with John Kelly and Tammany safely in the bosom of the party. We glean from one of them that English served one term in congress many years ago, and is now president of a national bank. He may be a respectable old gentleman, but certainly is a political fossil. His true place seems to be in a museum under a glass case, with a label on his back defining his age and location. We predict that when the truth is known it will be found that Tilden dictated the nomination of Hancock, and that the hands of the crafty schemer of Gramercy park are holding his leading strings, and that the democratic enthusiasm will last about as long as it did in the Greeley campaign.

Two Young Fools.

Lilly Bisbee, a girl of fourteen years old, of Haverhill, Mass., attempted suicide Wednesday night, June 23d, by taking laudanum. Medical aid saved her life. She was anxious to die—but why is not stated.

Mattie Wagner, seventeen years old, of Great Barrington, Mass., committed suicide on Wednesday, June 23d, with strychnine. Before death she admitted her act, but refused to assign a reason.

News and Notes.

It is said that Rev. John Morse, the Methodist minister of Calais, Me., who was reported drowned from a boat at that place June 23d, was seen and recognized in the town at a late hour that night. An evident effort to create the belief of accidental death has failed. His singular conduct is believed to have been caused by a complication with a woman in Dexter, Me. It is reported that he effected a $3000 life insurance a few days ago, and that his friends assisted him to get to Canada the next morning after he was drowned.

Herbert Albee, nineteen years old, employed in the Ocean mill at Newburyport, fell from the fifth story of the mill down the elevator way on Thursday evening last, and was instantly killed. He was the only son of a widowed mother, who works in the same mill.

Henry J. McAlvin, son of City Treasurer McAlvin of Lowell, Mass., is held in $1,000 to the superior court on a charge of felonious assault on a woman named Theresa McIntire, of Methuen, on Sunday, June 20th.

A hackman named Albert F. Gerry was on Thursday, June 23d, struck by a train in the central station of the Eastern railroad at Lynn. The train that struck him was "running wild," and had no right to run into the station at that time, as there was another train standing in the depot. Gerry was seriously injured, but it is thought he will recover.

Henry Dorsey, a newsboy at Concord, was thrown from a wagon on Tuesday, and received injuries from which he died in twenty minutes.

Hopping would be a weak word to describe how mad some of the western cities are, because the census does not show a greater growth of population. The census-takers are correct, because the hard times of the last few years have driven back from the city to the country a great many persons, who were out of employment. This explanation does not satisfy Louisville, Ky., which expected 200,000 and finds a population of only 112,000, nor St. Louis, which finds Chicago 100,000 ahead of her, and at the figure of 475,000. The city council of Peoria, Ill., has ordered a new count at its own expence, the census men agreeing to forfeit one dollar for every name missed. Cincinnati has 250,000 and is content; so is Cleveland, with 158,000, which makes her the second city on the lakes and the tenth in the country.

Political Matters.

The Chicago Times (ind. dem.) says of the Bayard election bill which the President vetoed: "Herein is the objection to Mr. Bayard's bill. Though it did not propose to repeal the election law, its provisions were such as would have rendered its execution unavailing for the protection of the purity and freedom of elections in great centres of population, against those who might wish to violate it. It was a measure, the effect of which would not have been to facilitate the execution of the election law; but, on the contrary, to facilitate obstruction and violation of that wholesome law."

The people of Indiana, at the last election, voted by 15,000 majority in favor of amending the state constitution so as to provide for the state election being held in November, at the time of the national election, instead of in October as at present. As this would tend to present the Kentucky democrats from assisting their Indiana brethren with their votes at the state election, as has been the long established custom, the democratic leaders of Indiana went to work to overthrow the work of the legal voters of the state, and managed to put off the evil day, for this year at least, by getting an adverse decision of the democratic supreme court, which ruled—three judges to two that the amendments were not constitutional. The Indianapolis Journal, in an article on the decision of the court against the amendments, says that "the argument was closed between two and three o'clock Thursday afternoon, and the opinion, covering about forty-five pages of legal cap, was rendered about noon on Friday. It could not have been prepared in the interval. It was prepared beforehand, and undoubtedly by preconcerted arrangement, in order to be used at Cincinnati."

—To enjoy fishing it is not necessary to catch fish. Just as big lies can be conjured up from nothing as can be based on a two-inch trout.

—A judge in Kingston, N. Y., ordered papers served at any cost on Laura Markle for refusing to appear to answer an order. The woman evaded the officers for some time, but was finally besieged in a house. She was informed that a man would be placed at the front and the back door until the papers were served upon her. Soon after a noise was heard in the rear of the house and she was seen running across a field. The officer pursued and finally caught up to her in the middle of a stream, and while both were standing in five feet of water he tried to show her the judge's signature and to serve the paper upon her. She said he was trying to drown her, and knocked the papers from his hand. They floated down the stream and sank, so that he had to take off his clothes and dive for them to save them. It was considered sufficient service.

Prejudice Kills.

"Eleven years our daughter suffered on a bed of misery under the care of several of the best (and some of the worst) physicians, who gave her disease various names but no relief, and now she is restored to us in good health by as simple a remedy as Hop Bitters, that we had poohed at for two years, before using it. We earnestly hope and pray that no one else will let their sick suffer as we did, on account of prejudice against so good a medicine as Hop Bitters."—The Parent. —Telegram.

—A poet in an exchange makes the very pertinent inquiry, "Where shall I find a heart that is true?" He has probably been deceived some time by his butcher, who gave him a kidney or a chunk of liver, and swore it was a heart. The best way to do these things, if you are not a judge, is to let your wife do the marketing.—Brooklyn Union-Argus.

—A child at Athens, Ga., fell from a third-story window, and a man, seeing it fall, pushed a barrel of water so that the child fell into it and was not hurt.

K'en though the face be not so fair,
And beauty may be all but flown,
Dear ladies, you need not despair,
If SOZODONT do make your own.
And brush your teeth and mouth with skill

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup,

REV. SYLVANUS COBB thus writes in the Boston Christian Freeman:—We would by no means recommend any kind of medicine which we did not know to be good—particularly for infants. But of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup we can speak from knowledge; in our own family it has proved a blessing indeed, by giving an infant troubled with colic pains, quiet sleep, and the parents unbroken rest at night. Most parents can appreciate these blessings. Here is an article which works to perfection, and which is harmless; for the sleep which it affords the infant is perfectly natural and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." And during the process of teething, its value is incalculable. We have frequently heard mothers say that they would not be without it from the birth of the child till it had finished with the teething siege, on any considerations whatever. Sold by all druggists. 25 cents a bottle. 5

Dissolution of Co-partnership.

PORTSMOUTH, May 12th, 1880.

THE CO-PARTNERSHIP heretofore existing between David Kimball and Frank J. Philbrick, under the firm name of DAVID KIMBALL & CO., is this day dissolved by mutual consent. The business will hereafter be conducted under the name of DAVID KIMBALL & CO., as heretofore, by Mr. Philbrick, who will settle all accounts.

DAVID KIMBALL.
F. J. PHILBRICK.

Notice of the dissolution of the partnership between myself and Frank J. Philbrick having been made public, it seems only an act of simple justice to add that our association, covering a period of nearly ten years, was at all times harmonious, and gave me full confidence in Mr. Philbrick's integrity. Thanks may receive the patronage of the friends of the late firm, to which his character and acquirements entitle him, is my sincere wish. In closing a business life of more than fifty-six years, I am led to look back with grateful remembrance of the many friends who have gone, who kindly gave me their confidence and support; and to those who remain, I tender my heartfelt thanks for their continued friendly interest and regard.

THE WEATHER.

Probabilities for New England, To-day,

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 26.

AROUND HOME.

Schooner Mary E. Caswell arrived on Friday night with forty barrels of mackerel, a large portion of them number ones.

Fifteen members of the city government and invited guests sat down to the annual strawberry and cream lunch at the city farm, Friday.

The Rye cornet band has commenced to give open-air concerts each Monday evening during the summer, at Rye Centre, where the band-stand is located.

The steamer Startled Fawn, of Newburyport, will make a trip from that port to York, Me., on Tuesday, and on Wednesday will bring the Central club, of Haverhill, Mass., to this city.

Many visitors were attracted to the residence of Mr. Seth W. Tripe, on Park street, Thursday evening, to admire a full blown night-blooming cereus plant. The unfolding was as charming as the fragrance.

The electric lights at the Wentworth house, seven in number, are to be in full blast this evening if fair weather. They are placed around the front and back of the hotel, and will no doubt make a brilliant show.

Mr. Daniel D. Wendell, who was injured by being thrown out of a wagon at an early hour last Thursday evening, did not recover consciousness until about seven o'clock Friday morning. He was dangerously hurt, but is now progressing favorably.

The lighthouse steamer Iris, with Capt. J. S. Skerrett, U. S. N., inspector of the first lighthouse district, on board, arrived at the navy yard on Thursday evening last, and on Friday the light stations at the harbor's mouth and the Isles of Shoals were inspected.

The Newburyport Herald of June 25th says: "Yesterday an extra train of four cars passed through this city, en route to Portsmouth, having on board the DeMolay Encampment of Knights Templar, of Boston, accompanied by Carter's band. They were entertained yesterday by the commandment of Kittery navy yard, and by his invitation passed the night at Appledore house, Isles of Shoals."

The Boston Commandery of Knights Templar returned from the Oceanic on Friday evening on the steamer Leyden, arriving here about half-past five o'clock. After the ladies had disembarked and had started for the depot through Deer street, the Sir Knights formed in line, and breaking into fours marched up to the station preceded by Carter's military band, which gave excellent music, as it always does. Right Eminent Grand Commander Hildreth and Grand Senior Warden Bunton, with the eminent commander of De Witt Clinton Commandery, were assigned positions on the right of the line. Arriving at the station, the command was marched into the depot, and coming to a halt and right face to the front, the eminent commander of De Witt Clinton Commandery was suddenly seized by Generalissimo John L. Stevenson, who escorted him down the line and presented him to Eminent Commander J. Francis Lotts, who at once turned and introduced him to the Sir Knights of Boston Commandery, at the same time calling for three cheers for De Witt Clinton Commandery. They were given in a manner which showed that the compliment thus gracefully tendered was heartfelt. The recipients in behalf of the absent command that he represented, could make no reply, but modestly bowed his acknowledgments. The visitors were delighted with their trip, and expressed much gratification at the manner in which they were received on their arrival, Thursday. We hope to see them here again.

The population of Epping is 1538, a gain of twenty-five per cent since the last census.

A robin built her nest on a switch near the Hampton depot, directly under the signal light, this season, and though about twenty-five trains daily pass by, she "stuck," and raised a family.

There is suspicion that the death of William Riley, the marine who was cut in two and otherwise mangled on Portsmouth bridge, Friday morning, was caused by foul play; and a man named Stevenson, who was with him when he started to cross the bridge, has been arrested. The mangled remains were sent to Kittery on Friday, they having been found on the Maine side of the boundary line between the two states. Deceased was fifty-four years old, and it is said was of a very pleasant and obliging disposition.

HE'S GOT HERE.

DEMOCRATIC FLAG RAISINGS.

Our democratic brethren are doing nicely at decorating the city with the national flag. On Friday three handsome ones were raised in honor of the nomination of Hancock and English, being the first ones raised in the democratic campaign in this city. One of them, in front of Frank Jones' office on Market street, bears the legend "Victory and Reform." [The democrats must "reform" first, before the people will allow them to win a national victory.] Another one is at Jones' brewery; and the third was hoisted by Mr. Alonzo K. W. Green, on a handsome staff erected in the garden of his premises on Water street. The lower mast of Mr. Green's staff is thirty-eight feet long, and the topmast twenty-five feet, of spruce grown on Mr. Samuel Langdon's farm on Lafayette road; and the top is ornamented with a spread eagle, nicely gilded, standing on a gilded ball and holding a dart. The pole was made by Mr. Jim Coleman, and the painting and gilding was done by Mr. Aaron L. Rand. Mr. John Smith, the colored descendant of Prince Whipple, Washington's favorite servant, will shortly raise a Hancock and English flag on Partridge street.

COUNTY EXPENDITURES.

A correspondent at Exeter writes us concerning the impropriety of the Rockingham county commissioners going into the heart of the commonwealth of Massachusetts to effect insurance upon the county buildings, without first consulting the agents at Exeter, Newmarket, Derry, Portsmouth, and other places in the county. The correspondent says:

I have recently read the annual report of the county commissioners for this county, and perhaps you can give me some information as to the expediency or necessity of effecting the insurance on the county buildings through an agent in Worcester. They paid to this agent residing in another state $540 in premiums, when the identical companies in which the property is now insured are represented by regularly appointed agents residing in this county, who are also large tax-payers, and certainly were entitled to the business. On enquiry I learn that the companies formerly insuring the property had their policies summarily cancelled by these commissioners without cause, or even a suggestion as to different times and rates. It may be a good thing for some of the commissioners to turn business into the hands of their relatives, or friends who reside in Massachusetts; but in case of a claim for damages by fire to this property, it might be of considerable advantage to deal with our own people, and not be left to the tender mercy of some stranger.

We presume that sagacious men like our commissioners made the change for the purpose of saving a portion of the premium; but as we understand it, reliable companies have but one rate for each specific class of insurance, and the Worcester agent would in fact not be permitted to underbid the agents of our own county. Such being the case the matter seems to demand an explanation not given in the reports. The commissioners perhaps have a good reason for this action, but we think our local agents in different parts of the county should not be passed by in this manner.

PORTSMOUTH MUSICAL ASS'N.

Apropos of the very pleasing entertainment given by the Portsmouth Musical Association on Wednesday evening, June 23d, a few words with respect to this organization seem at present well timed.

This association may be considered an outgrowth of the musical convention which was holden in Music hall during five days last February. Several attempts had been previously made to form a permanent musical organization here; part of those attempts had totally failed, and a few had been kept alive for a time but at length been abandoned. So positive a lack of success was apparent in all these endeavors that our older singers became entirely discouraged, and predicted failure for all future attempts; and the interest in musical matters in Portsmouth was for many years very low.

Each winter since Mr. S. W. Cole's removal to our city he has held one or more terms of rehearsals, in which the interest so increased from season to season that he became convinced that a convention of several days might be profitably held. Under many disadvantages, and with encouragment derived from a few hopeful friends, the project was set on foot, and its recent success, so well known to the public, was a tribute to the untiring energy and good judgment of its originators.

During this convention the association was formed, which, setting out with a membership of over one hundred, has since held regular rehearsals, and now numbers about one hundred and fifty members. The principal offices are filled as follows:

President, C. A. Sinclair;
Secretary, L. V. Newell;
Treasurer, L. S. Butler;
Director, S. W. Cole.

The list of vice presidents embraces many of our most influential citizens.

The objects of the association are to keep alive an active interest in good music, and to elevate the musical taste of the public.

The entertainment of Wednesday evening is to be regarded not as a formal concert, but merely as the last rehearsal before discontinuing work for the summer; and as it was a rehearsal and not a public concert, any criticism or commendation of the efforts of the leading personages who contributed so much towards the enjoyment of the listeners would be inappropriate.

In the autumn a grand concert will be given in one of our large halls, which all lovers of music among our citizens should give their cordial and earnest support to, thus to testify to their appreciation of the efforts by the director, accompanyists and chorus, and again that the necessary expenses incurred in running the association may be met from the proceeds of the concert.

Col. Sinclair, president of the association, at the close of the exercises made a neat little speech. Among other things he said that the present was the last rehearsal to be held until October; that the previous rehearsals had been attended by not less than a hundred members of the association, who had devotedly given their time to the furtherance of the purposes of the association; that in the fall the efforts of the association to improve the character of the vocal music in this community would be resumed, and that a concert would be given in Music hall by the members of the association, which would be equal if not superior in its excellence to anything ever yet enjoyed in Portsmouth.

HIT 'EM AGAIN.

Our conservative and generally quiet-spoken neighbor, the Journal, makes use of the following horrid language in its last issue:

The man or woman who wantonly despoils a front yard or a cemetery of its tasteful floral adornments, as has been done in several instances the past week, has no place in the category of crime. Satan himself wouldn't countenance such contemptible meanness, and our jails would be polluted by the presence of such a miscreant.

The old-time patrons of the Journal, when they read that item, must have thought a paragraph had gotten adrift from the CHRONICLE or Miller's Weekly, and blundered into the columns of our staid contemporary; but we trust the editor's righteous indignation will be overlooked this once, in consideration of the provocation.

YORK COUNTY ITEMS.

Capt. Josiah Stover of Kittery hoisted a flag bearing the names of Hancock and English, on Friday.

Mr. Safford, of the Pepperell house, Kittery point, has purchased the Matthews estate, near by, and is fitting it up for summer visitors.

We are informed by a member of the Kittery band that that organization has disbanded, and that some of the best musicians in it propose to come over to this city and start a band immediately.

It is reported that a mammoth excursion from Lewiston and Auburn is to visit Old Orchard beach on Saturday, July 3d, which is the day the two cities named will observe the "glorious 4th." Several secret societies and benevolent organizations will be largely represented, and a brass band will be taken along by the excursionists.

The Biddeford Times says the fishing boats of Cape Porpoise are doing well this spring. The schooner Uranus, Capt. Hutchins, sailing Gloucester the produce of her second trip, 24,000 lbs., and shared $56.75 to each man, the trip being made inside of two weeks. The schooner Little Kate, Capt. R. J. Nunan, shared $50 a man from the proceeds of her second trip, also made inside of two weeks; and the hake sounds taken, which were not disposed of, were estimated to give each man $12 more.

Chronicle Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 23d.

But little interest has so far been manifested in this city in the Cincinnati convention proceedings. The government officials—those who have attained position during twenty years of republican rule—were of course specially anxious as to the result at Chicago, and expended their time and enthusiasm during the convention held there early in the the month. The old Democratic Jackson Association—the Dem. Jack. Ass., as the Star calls it—will fire guns to-night or to-morrow, when the nomination is made. The prevalent rumor here that Senator McDonald would go on the ticket was well received here yesterday. Next to him—Seymour and Tilden out of the way—Hancock would be most agreeable to the city democracy.

This city will celebrate the 4th of July in an almost unprecedented manner. Everybody will participate.

We have three men here, who have been convicted of murder, but who are generally believed, by reason of evidence discovered since their trial, to be innocent. They will be hung at an early day unless the usual legal course shall be departed from, or the President shall interfere.

An old quarrel will be revived shortly. The post office department will issue advertisements inviting proposals for furnishing the service with new locks for the mail bags, etc. I cannot recall any instance in which bids for furnishing locks to any department have not resulted in a prolonged contest between the manufacturers.

A gentleman in this city has just received a letter from a party of friends in New York, who had just completed a trip around the world in seventy-five days, said to be the quickest time ever made.

Nearly all the state organizations, which disappeared from political life here at the incoming of the present administration, will be revived as soon as the campaign fairly opens. It is thought no opposition will be made by those in authority. The clubs are composed mostly of government employees, but the political work is done, generally, after office hours.

If the authorities here, as is now stated, cannot inquire into the efficiency of those federal officers whose duty it was to provide as far as possible against such "accidents" as that to the Narragansett, it seems that a change in the laws is an immediate necessity. Under the decision just made here, the New England officials who appear to have neglected their duty cannot be reached in any way—indeed, there is no way by which their nominal supervisors in this city can find out whether or not there was any neglect of duty.

It is said by politicians this afternoon that if any one but Seymour is nominated at Cincinnati, Senator Cameron will not only consent to retain his place as chairman of the national committee, but that he with Senators Conkling and Logan will make themselves conspicuous in managing the campaign. KNOX.

Cuticura

REMEDIES

Have achieved the most noted success of any Medicines of Modern Times.

Messrs. Weeks & Potter have never doubted the specific properties of CUTICURA, CUTICURA RESOLVENT, and CUTICURA SOAP, for the speedy, permanent, and economical cure of Humors of the Blood, Skin, and Scalp. They are, however, astonished at their universal success; for it was to be expected that in the hands of some they would fail solely from unpalatable or ignorant use of them.

They are enabled to say without fear of contradiction that no remedies ever achieved in the short space of one year the number of wonderful cures per formed by CUTICURA REMEDIES.

SALT RHEUM

MESSRS. WEEKS & POTTER: Gentlemen—I feel it a duty to inform you, and through you all who are interested to know the fact, that a most disagreeable and obstinate case of Salt Rheum or Eczema, which has been under my personal observation from its first appearance to the present time,—about ten (10) years,—covering the greater portion of the patient's body and limbs with its peculiar irritating and itching scab, and to which all the known methods of treating such disease has been applied without benefit, has completely disappeared, leaving a clean and healthy skin, under a few days of profuse application of CUTICURA.

I can and do heartily advise all similarly afflicted to try the remedy which has been so effectual in this case. Very truly yours,

CHAS. HOUGHTON.

LIVER COMPLAINT

Gentlemen,—I have had Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, with running sores on the side of my back, for ten years. Doctors did me no good. I have been spending for eight years and it did no good. Everything I ate distressed me. I got reduced from 178 to 132 pounds. At last I used the RESOLVENT and it helped me right off, and on one bottle I gained five and one-half pounds. It is doing the business, and I am going on it strong.

NOTE.—CUTICURA is admirable, assisted in cases of extreme physical weakness, or when the virus of scrofula, as known to lurk in the system, by the internal use of the CUTICURA RESOLVENT, without doubt the most powerful blood purifier and liver stimulant in the world.

CUTICURA SOAP is an elegant toilet and medicinal assistant to CUTICURA in the treatment of all external ailments. For chapped hands, rough skin and tan, sunburn, and the lesser skin troubles, it is indispensable; as a soap for the toilet, the nursery and bath it is the most elegant, refreshing, and healing before the public.

These great remedies succeed where all others hereafter in use fail because they possess new and original properties never before successfully combined in medicine.

Diseases of the pulmonary organs are so prevalent and fatal, that a safe and reliable remedy for them is invaluable to every community. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is such a remedy, and no other so eminently merits the confidence of the public. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, to insure the greatest possible efficiency and uniformity of results, which enables physicians as well as invalids to use it with confidence. It is the most reliable remedy for diseases of the throat and lungs that science has produced. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt and certain relief, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it without difficulty. In the treatment of ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household, for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough it so lessens the consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

The marvellous cures which AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has effected all over the world are a sufficient guaranty that it will continue to produce the best results. An impartial trial will convince the most sceptical of its wonderful curative powers, as well as of its superiority over all other preparations for pulmonary complaints.

Eminent physicians in all parts of the country, knowing its composition, recommend AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL to invalids, and prescribed it in their practice. The test of half a century has proved its absolute certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

GOOD WATCH WORK

HUTCHINSON'S.

Daily Chronicle.

AN EVENING IN THE WOODS.

BY ORION.

The sun has gone, the shadows fall
On path, and bank, and broken wall.
Remote, upon the heaven, is spread
A lingering cloud of fading red,
Fast changing to a dusky bar;
While brighter grows the evening star.

A single sea-bird, flapping high,
Recedes—all hin the distant sky,
And mingles with the mistiness,
And passes on, companionless:
Long-enlisted lover of the brine,
Diminished to a waving line.

Bright flowers, so joyful in the light,
Look pale and grave at verge of night
The pines and cedars, ever seen
By sunlight, dressed in shining green,
At nightfall change their vivid hue,
And rise, in solemn black, to view.
The birds that gayly sang by day,
Grow pensive in the twilight gray,
And rid, from thicket, rock, and tree,
In lower and in sadder key.

Melodious frogs begin their song,
For one loud concert, all night long;
Awakened bats commence to go
On many zambles, to and fro;
And owls, that fold, by day, their wings,
Start forth upon their wanderings.

The wind, which all the day was still,
Now shakes the trees upon the hill;
And ocean, scarcely heard before,
Now murmurs from the far-off shore.
The stream, that runs in restless mood
Its crooked journey through the wood,
Though barely heard mid sounds of day,
Now loud y dashes on its way.

Broad, dazzling views, on every hand,
Have fled, like some imagined land;
And countless scenes of sunlight gay
Now vanish from the memory.
The world of day has passed from sight;
And now appears the world of night.

Had all the symptoms.

Squibb's boy has been for some months an inmate of a law office. He entered with the determination, as he announced to his family, to become secretary of state. There would seem to be some probability of his succeeding, to judge from the following note sent the other day to his anxious mother, who had inquired why he didn't come home to see them oftener: "The impossibility of my absence will be readily apparent when I convey the intelligence that my senior principal is at the current juncture exhaustively engaged in the preparation of a voluminous series of interlocutory interrogatories to be propounded to a supposedly recalcitrant witness whose testimony is of cardinal importance in the initial stages of an approaching preliminary investigation involving the most momentous consequences."

A revenue posse, in attempting recently to capture moonshiners near Red Oak, Ga., were resisted. One moonshiner was killed and one mortally wounded.

PRAISEWORTHY WORK. Wm. E. Clarke, of Providence, R. I., has issued a pamphlet which he sends free to any address, setting forth the results of his experience with reference to Bright's Disease of the Kidneys. Mr. Clarke adduces the most incontestible evidence that this malady yields to the proper remedy. The only medicine used by Mr. Clarke is Hunt's Remedy, the great kidney and liver medicine, and with it he performs cures that are really very remarkable. Sold by all druggists. Trial size, 75 cts.

The income of the Duke of Westminster is said to be nearly $15,000 a day Most of his wealth is in real estate in London. An ardent desire of the Duke's life is said to have been realized in the recent winning of the Derby by one of his horses. His excitement on learning that he had succeeded is reported to have been "something painful to behold."

Regulate the Secretions.

In our endeavors to preserve health it is of the utmost importance that we keep the secretary system in perfect condition. The well known remedy Kidney-Wort, has specific action upon the kidneys, liver and bowels. Use it instead of dosing with vile bitters or drastic pills. It is purely vegetable and is prompt but mild in action.

The floor of a barn belonging to L. A. Ives of Mt. Holly, Vt., gave way at milking-time one night recently, throwing Ives, with thirty cows, timber, and some hay into the cellar. Ives was seriously hurt, a valuable cow was killed, and others were maimed.

Piles! Piles! Piles!

Do you know what it is to suffer with piles? If you do, you know what is one of the worst torments of the human frame. The most perfect cure ever known is Kidney-Wort. It cures constipation, and then its tonic restores health to the diseased bowels, and prevents recurrence of the disease. Try it without delay.

Charles Lunt, a farmer in Oldtown, Mass., was brutally pounded on the head with stones by Thomas Thornton, another farmer, Friday night. A physician was called and his wounds dressed. The assault was owing to trouble long existing between the parties.

The highest hopes and interests of the race rest on the purity, health, and strength of womanhood. We take pleasure in referring our readers to the remarkable efficacy of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in all that class of diseases from which women suffer so much.

Mrs. Felix Lewis of Olneyville, R. I., had her clothing set on fire Friday by the explosion of a kerosene can from which she was pouring oil on the fire. She laid down her infant from her arms, and then ran for the water butt. Her clothes were burned off. Recovery doubtful.

FOR PRESIDENT,

James A. Garfield,

OF OHIO.

Chester A. Arthur,

OF NEW YORK.

The Democratic Candidates.

General Winfield Scott Hancock, the nominee of the democratic convention for President, is a native of Montgomery county, Pennsylvania, where he was born Feb. 14th, 1824. He entered the West Point academy in 1840, and after his graduation received a commission as second lieutenant of infantry. He served during the Mexican war, in which he was promoted for gallantry, and at the outbreak of the war of the rebellion was assistant quartermaster in the western department, with the rank of captain. In 1861 he was appointed brigadier general of volunteers, distinguished himself in the Peninsular campaign, and received his commission as major general after the battle of Fredericksburg, where he commanded a division of the second corps. He was severely wounded at the battle of Gettysburg, where he took a prominent part, and was unable to take the field again until April, 1864, when he received command of the second corps and took part in the battles of the Wilderness campaign, but in June of that year the reopening of his wound compelled him to retire. He resumed his command after a time, but was finally assigned to lighter duties, and was engaged in recruiting a corps of veterans at the close of the war. He was made a brigadier general of the regular army in April, 1864, and major general in July, 1866. After the war he was successively in command of the middle department, of the Missouri, the Louisiana and Texas, and of Dakota, and on the death of Gen. Meade was made commander of the department of the east, with headquarters at New York, which place he now holds. In 1868 he was a prominent candidate before the democratic convention for the presidency, receiving one hundred and fifty-four votes on the eighteenth ballot, and has been voted for on the grounds of his military record and availability at succeeding conventions. In person he is stout and portly, with massive frame and soldierly carriage.

William H. English, the democratic nominee for Vice President, is a native of Indiana. He was a representative in four congresses prior to the rebel secession, his last term closing March 3d, 1861. During the war his sympathies were not at all with Gen. Hancock, but rather with Vallandigham and his disloyal Knights of the Golden Circle; in short, he was a secessionist, lacking only the courage of the secessionists who openly fought to destroy the Union.

Outrage in Vermont.

J. C. Tracy and wife, of West Hartford, Vt., were murderously assaulted in their bed at about one o'clock on the morning of June 24th, by some unknown person, who beat both into insensibility with a heavy club, and then took the pantaloons of Mr. Tracy into a pantry and rifled the pockets of a revolver and a small amount of money. He then returned to the bedroom door, with the probable intention of making further search, but by this time Mr. Tracy had partially recovered, and seeing the burglar jumped from the bed and ran toward him, upon which the burglar fired two shots at Mr. Tracy, both of which passed close to his head and lodged in the wall of the bedroom. As Mr. Tracy pursued him the burglar fired again, but the ball went wild. The burglar then fled out of the house, and before an alarm was heard by the neighbors he had escaped. A Swedish tramp was arrested on suspicion, but was discharged, there being no evidence to hold him. The deed must have been committed by some one very well acquainted with the interior of Tracy's house and the location of the bedroom in which the crime was committed. No other arrests have been made, and there is no other clue to the perpetrator of the deed. The large number of burglaries recently committed within a few miles of the place leads to the belief that an organized band of desperadoes is at work, with accomplices who are well acquainted with the best points to be visited. Mr. Tracy and his wife are in a precarious condition, their faces being mutilated almost beyond recognition.

A Triple Execution.

On Friday, at Canton, Ohio, three murderers paid the penalty of their crimes. The victims of the law were George W. Mann, aged eighteen years, G. A. Ohr, aged seventeen, and John Sammit, aged seventeen. Mann and Ohr, on the night of June 27th, 1879, murdered and robbed in a grove near Alliance, Ohio, an old man named John Watmough, who had previously given them money of his little and sorely-needed store, to buy food and drink; all they got by his murder was $5 and an old silver watch. Sammit was hung for the murder of Chris Spuhler, a boy of sixteen, who was an important witness against Sammit in a case of grand larceny; the boys met on the evening of the day before the trial, and Sammit shot Spuhler dead. The world is well rid of the three young brutes who were hung on Friday. Five companies of militia were on hand to preserve order, but there was no need of their services.

Naval Gazette.

Chief Engr. Stewart, Naval Constructors Hichborn and Mintoyne, and Civil Engineers Prindle and Craven, are a board to examine the new dry dock built at Baltimore.

The Pensacola arrived at San Francisco on Friday, with her crank-shaft broken.

Political Matters.

The Belfast, Me., Journal says: "Murch was entitled to the nomination, according to political usage, and he got it, as nearly everybody supposed he would. But he will find a nomination one thing, this year, and an election another. Two years ago he was not only nominated by an accident, but elected by an accident. Accidents of this kind are rarely continuous, as Mr. Murch will no doubt learn ere he is six months older. There is a good deal of disaffection in his district, and many who voted for him two years ago will not vote for him this year. He is generally regarded as having proved a failure as a Congressman."

The New Haven Union, the ablest greenback organ in New England for some years past, has gone over to the democratic party, horse, foot and dragoons. It hoists the names of Hancock and English at the head of its columns, and "blows" as vigorously for them as it formerly did for creating wealth by "fiat."

MR. GEO. WM. BALLOU, of the banking house of Geo. Wm. Ballou & Co., of Boston and New York, made a thorough examination in company with his railroad experts, of the entire line of the Toledo, Delphos & Burlington Railroad, before buying the first mortgage bonds. The railroad system embraces a line of 311 miles, over 200 of which is completed and running.

The local business is sufficiently large to provide for all interest charges, and the bonds being issued at the rate of only $7000 per mile, running at six per cent., ought to be entirely safe. At 90 and interest the bonds pay about 7 per cent. on the investment.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup.

REV. STEPHEN COBB this writes in the Boston Christian Freeman:—We would by no means recommend any kind of medicine which we did not know to be good—particularly for infants. But of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup we can speak from knowledge; in our own family it has proved a blessing indeed, by giving an infant troubled with colic pains, quiet sleep, and the parents unbroken rest at night. Most parents can appreciate these blessings. Here is an article which works to perfection, and which is harmless; for the sleep which it affords the infant is perfectly natural and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." And during the process of teething, its value is incalculable. We have frequently heard mothers say that they would not be without it from the birth of the child till it had finished with the teething siege, on any consideration whatever. Sold by all druggists. 25 cents a bottle. 5

Dissolution of Co-partnership.

PORTSMOUTH, May 19th, 1880.

THE CO-PARTNERSHIP heretofore existing between David Kimball and Frank J. Philbrick, under the firm name of DAVID KIMBALL & CO., is this day dissolved by mutual consent. The business will hereafter be conducted under the name of DAVID KIMBALL & CO., as heretofore, by Mr. Philbrick, who will settle all accounts.

DAVID KIMBALL.
F. J. PHILBRICK.

Notice of the dissolution of the partnership between myself and Frank J. Philbrick having been made public, it seems only an act of simple justice to add that our association, covering a period of nearly ten years, was at all times harmonious, and gave me full confidence in Mr. Philbrick's integrity. Thanks may receive the patronage of the friends of the late firm, to whom his character and acquirements entitle him, is my sincere wish. In closing a business life of more than fifty-six years, I feel no cloud on my mind, but cherish remembrance of the many friends who have gone, who kindly gave me their confidence and support, and to those who remain, I tender my heartfelt thanks for their continued friendly interest and regard.

DAVID KIMBALL.

AROUND HOME.

The Dover cornet band, which is to play in this city on the afternoon and evening of July 5th, will be quartered at the Kearsarge house.

The Portsmouth cricket club is to tussle with the well known Lawrence club on the grounds in this city on Monday, July 5th. The game will be called about 10:30 o'clock.

One evening last week Nathaniel Eaton of Dover tied his horse to a stake by the roadside, and left him to graze through the night. Next morning he found the animal dead, having been strangled by getting foul in the rope.

The population of Newmarket is 3,367 by the census of 1880, a gain of 380 since the census of 1870 was taken. The population of South Newmarket is 829, against 808 in 1870. Epping, which in 1870 had 1270 inhabitants, now has 1538, a gain of 268.

Mr. John Dixon will leave for Europe on Saturday, July 3d, by the Anchor line steamship Devonia, sailing from New York. Mr. Dixon proposes to travel extensively in Great Britain, Ireland and France before he returns, and will combine business with pleasure.

A good many visitors from neighboring towns got left in Dover on "circus day," through not going to the railroad stations as soon as the show was out. Nearly a hundred persons belonging in Great Falls were thus left, and most of them tramped it home, arriving in Great Falls at all hours of the night up to sunrise.

A well known horse man says that if carbolic acid soap is rubbed on the neck and legs of a horse, he will not be bothered by flies. The strong odor of the soap drives these tormenters away, and besides, the soap gives the animal's coat a fine polish. The remedy is safe and cheap, and if it will do what is claimed it should be universally applied during the warm period.

Dr. Donaldson's patients, who supposed that they would not be able to fall sick this summer on account of the doctor's prolonged absence, will be glad to know that he has returned and resumed his practice. The difficulty in making a satisfactory arrangement for the care of his numerous patients in and around Portsmouth, has prevented the doctor from completing his anticipated tour through some of the states of the great west.

Friday was a warm day, becoming uncomfortably hot in the evening, and Saturday was inf—but we refrain from speaking of the day as it deserved, through deference to the prejudices of our readers. This sultry weather was due to old Vennor, the Canadian, who predicted that the last six days of June would be remarkable for intense and oppressive heat, with frequent storms of thunder and lightning. It would be a good thing if that Canuck would attend to his own affairs, and let our American weather alone.

The Bulletin of Haverhill, Mass., of date June 25th, says of Elder A. A. Waite's tent service in that place on Thursday evening of last week, that "notwithstanding the extreme heat the tent was completely filled by a very attentive audience. It being the anniversary of the dedication of the tent, Mr. Waite read several slips from papers predicting that he would have a genuine circus within three months, but they had all proved false prophets and the original idea of the tent was being carried out, viz., the saving of souls." Mr. Waite preached a sermon and at the close gave a chalk talk. An inquiry meeting followed, led by Mr. Lawrence. The singing was especially fine, and a selection entitled 'Call the Lord thy sure salvation,' words and music by Mr. McLaughlin, and dedicated to Mr. Waite, was finely sung."

We are requested to remind our readers that the Concord & Portsmouth railroad dividend will be paid at Mr. Hackett's office on Tuesday the 29th inst.

The summer arrangement of the Eastern railroad went into effect this (Monday) morning. The corrected time table will be found on the 1st page of this paper.

The standing grass on the land of the late Wm. Simes, on the new road to Newington, was sold at auction on Saturday. Mr. Thomas McCarthy bought that on the small lot for $40, and Mr. Nathaniel Wiggin of Greenland secured that on the large field for $226.

Energetic growling was indulged in by the residents on Water street, near the State street end, several days last week, concerning the "hogo" created by the offal thrown overboard from the fish wharves, and which when uncovered at low tide, and exposed to the heated air, makes its presence painfully apparent to the olfactory nerves of everybody within nose-shot who is not blessed with the worst kind of nasal catarrh.

COUNTY EXPENSES--NO. TWO.

An explanation is asked in the CHRONICLE of Saturday, June 26th, in regard to insurance of county property at Brentwood. The item questions the propriety of insuring through an agent in Massachusetts, when there are several agents residing in the county. I applied this year to three of the insurance companies mentioned, through their agents, asking a reduction in rates of insurance, but without success. We finally insured the property for three years, paying $640 in premiums; having paid in the years 1877, '78 and '79 more than $400 each year. I am not aware that the county of Rockingham is under obligation to insurance agents, more than to tax-payers in general. My experience for the last three years has been that the commissioners are glad to purchase any and all goods in the county, where the price and quality are as favorable as elsewhere; but do not understand that our privilege to draw orders on the county treasurer is either for us to furnish enemies or reward friends. We know the tax-payers want the county debt paid and economy used as in private affairs. The agent referred to was not a relative or acquaintance of either of the board, but recommended to us by reliable business men in the county. Insurance companies may agree upon certain rates of premium in certain places, yet the rates would not be the same in Portsmouth and Exeter as in smaller towns.

NEWTON JOHNSTON,
Chairman County Com.

A YOUNG SCAMP.

On Wednesday evening of last week, as Miss Jennie E. Stott, a respectable young lady who lives in the outskirts of Newmarket, was returning home, she was feloniously assaulted by a young man seventeen years of age, named Michael J. Griffin. The young lady, who is only about fifteen years of age, determinedly resisted the attack, and cried lustily for help; her outcries were heard by her mother and Deputy Sheriff Smart, who hastened to her assistance, when the young villain fled. Mr. Smart however found him the next day, and Justice Shackford held him to answer to the grand jury in October, bail in $1000 being required.

On Saturday he was brought to Portsmouth jail, and was at once recognized by Sheriff Kent as one of three drunken fellows who passed by his house on the Sunday afternoon previous, overdriving their horse and making a brawl and tumult to the great disturbance of the quiet residents in that part of the city. His companions on that occasion will probably soon come to grief, and have an opportunity to relate a story of their Sabbath day's experience in the city and at the "Plains hotel."

PORTSMOUTH RIFLE CLUB.

On Saturday afternoon a number of gentlemen from this city had a target shoot at Wallis' sands, Rye beach, using the new Springfield rifles just furnished to the state troops. For a first trial the shooting was very creditable, every bullet fired striking the target at five hundred yards, and Capt. J. E. Ford making a bull's-eye. The shootists were Capt. Ford, Lieut. Robert E. Rich, and Messrs. George E. Hodgdon and Adolph Nelson.

It was agreed to form a permanent rifle club, and the following names were subscribed to the roll: Wm. H. Sise, Adolph Nelson, Robert E. Rich, James E. Ford, George A. Marden, John H. Locke, Marcus M. Collis, William H. Smith, Oliver M. Knight, Nelson Goodrich, and others; and it was decided to hold a meeting in the common council chamber on Tuesday evening, June 29th, for the purpose of organizing.

THE ARMY WORM.

In Saturday's CHRONICLE we announced the appearance of army worms at the city farm,—their first appearance in this section, so far as we have heard. On Saturday evening we were informed that the destructive pests had been seen that day crossing the road in immense numbers near the residence of Hon. Frank Jones, whereupon a team was at once harnessed to a heavy stone roller and driven up and down the road over the invading army, crushing the creatures by millions. On the same day Judge Batchelder found a few—forty or fifty thousand or so—on his premises on Middle street, and the grass fields of Mr. Charles H. Mendum and others in that vicinity swarmed with them. The only effective method yet devised of protecting a field from these worms is to make a ditch across the line of their march—a deep-ploughed furrow will do, if the side farthest from the worms is perpendicular; in this ditch or furrow, at distances of ten or fifteen feet, dig holes eighteen inches or more in depth and extending entirely across the furrow, making the sides perpendicular, or even overhanging if the ground is firm enough to admit of it. The worms will drop into the furrow, and not being able to scale the perpendicular side opposite will crawl along until they fall into the pits, where they will shortly perish.

ANOTHER "GEM PUZZLE."

The famous "fifteen puzzle" having happily gone out of date, the Eastern railroad has sent out a new invention to drive the public to madness and shocking profanity, under the thin disguise of a time-table. It is the worst time-table we ever saw. It is the meanest time-table that ever was. It is inconceivably meaner than any future time-table ever can be, for any change whatever must be an improvement. It is possible that an old railroad-man, who knew all about the matter beforehand and was skilled in mathematics and the deciphering of Egyptian hieroglyphics, might after long study of this time-table be able to make a guess at the time a train would start, though the chances would be about seven to two that he would guess wrong; but the ordinary traveller who should rashly attempt to find from this time-table at what hour a train would move, would not only never learn that, but after an hour's inspection would not know where he wanted to go nor what he wanted to go there for, nor what his name was. As a means of concealing from the travelling public just what they desire to know, the Eastern railroad time-table is the best thing we ever fell in with.

ODD FELLOWS' RELIEF.

The Odd Fellows' Mutual Relief Association of Rockingham County has recently changed its rate of assessments on death benefits, and is now more in accordance with the plan of the Legion of Honor, Royal Arcanum and similar cooperative societies; and in consequence is rapidly increasing its membership. The following are its officers:

Edmund M. Brown, president;
William G. Billings, vice president;
Benjamin W. Curtis, medical examiner in chief;
Isaac Dow, treasurer.

The local membership exceeds that of any other organization in the city, and its ramifications are rapidly extending into the country and adjoining states. The medical examiner in chief has appointed examiners throughout New Hampshire, and in parts of Maine and Massachusetts. Great care is exercised with respect to the character and health qualifications of the material admitted to the association. Dr. Daniel W. Jones is the local examiner.

HIGH SCHOOL ASSO'N.

The Portsmouth High School Association held its annual meeting on Friday evening in the common council room, when the following officers were elected to serve from the end of the 5th re-union (the next) to the close of the 6th reunion:

President, James P. Bartlett;
Vice Presidents, Rev. E. A. Rand, South Boston, Henry C. Barnabee, Boston, Stephen W. Clarke, Miss Sarah L. Garrett, Miss Edith Gerrish;
Recording Secretary, William Russell Foster;
Corresponding Secretaries, E. C. Stimson, Miss Mary Harratt;
Treasurer, George E. Hodgdon;
Directors, Charles A. Hazlett, Albert H. Sides, Edward H. Hall, Miss Georgie Hill, Miss Alice Hanscom.

Voted to hold the 5th reunion on Tuesday evening, July 20th, the board of directors being authorized to act as committee of arrangements, and to change the date if necessary, not exceeding one week. The same board reported that they had secured the previlege of dedicating Franklin hall, (not the opera hall,) the same to be ready for the reunion exercises.

Voted that each certificate of membership shall entitle the holder thereof to two admissions.

The following committee was appointed to draft resolutions of respect to the memory of the late president, Hon. William H. Y. Hackett, and report at the reunion: George E. Hodgdon, Miss Sarah L. Garrett, Plumer D. Norton.

YORK COUNTY ITEMS.

The Old Orchard & Ferry Beach railroad was formally opened on Saturday last.

Rev. George H. Wilson was installed pastor of the 2d Congregational church at Biddeford on Wednesday of last week.

Capt. Jonathan Young, U. S. N., has returned to his duties as executive officer of the navy yard, after a month's leave of absence.

The Saco Rifles were mustered in the state service on the evening of June 23d, fifty-five men taking the oath. Frank E. Clarkson was chosen captain of the company, which is to be armed and uniformed at once.

Nearly one hundred men, mostly French Canadians, are employed at brickmaking in Eliot. At the Abbott yard more than half a million bricks have been made this season. One yard is owned and managed by a live woman, and it is managed well, too. She employs none but Americans.

On Thursday morning last a house at Old Orchard, owned by S. M. Blake and occupied by Mrs. M. J. Davis, was burned with all its contents. Mrs. Davis made a fire and then went to a neighbor's house, and while she was absent the alarm was given; her loss is about $500, with no insurance.

Messrs. Frost, McKenny and Smith, who have for some months past been conducting revival meetings with good success in North Berwick, South Berwick, Salmon Falls and other places, separated last week, and went to their homes,—Mr. Frost to Castine, and the other two to Portland. They are all nearly worn out with their labors.

The small, white, leathery looking substance attached to the under side of the backbone of the hake, and hardly noticed by the landsmen, known as the air bladder or sound, has of late years become very valuable, frequently being worth more than the entire fish. The last trip of eight days of the schooner Eddie Weeks, of Cape Porpoise, filled a good fare, and from the hake than taken there was a large barrel of sounds, which without any curing or drying sold for $110.—Kennebunk Star.

The Biddeford Journal says of Hon. Edwin C. Moody of York, who was a member of the infamous set of scallawags known as Garcelon's council, that "with all his political vagaries, and ground-and-lofty tumbling, it must be said in his favor that he set his face against the Steal, and while the rascalities were going on protested against them. For declining to fall in and help rob the voters of the state of their rights, Moody was cut, or perhaps more properly speaking, was barred out from the deliberations of the thieves, and denied entrance to their secret councils. Tabooed is his way of stating it; and that was about where he was."

The Country Newspaper "Devil."

This is what T. E. Wilson, day editor of the New York World, but who has been in his time editor-in-chief of a country newspaper and therefore knows whereof he speaks, says about the "devil" of a country newspaper office: He is the "boss" of the country office, accountable to no man for his shortcomings. Upon his shoulders rests the dignity of the profession, as well as the proper management of the paper. The editor may unbend and go a fishing with the boys," but the devil never does. The editor may take a hand at a game of baseball, he may even go to the office with shoes unblackened, but the devil never does. To keep up the general average of tidiness the devil not only blackens his shoes, but his face as well; and this, gentleman, is the reason why the devil is grimy in feature; not, as commonly supposed, because he is unclean. Upon the light and elastic shoulders of the "devil" depend the whole internal economy of the office. He is everywhere—when he is not wanted, and never when he is. Woe to the editor whose copy is not on time! Woe to the compositor whose "stick" is thrown down carelessly in the wrong place! Woe to the careless foreman who does not measure his steps! Better for all and each that they had not been born. I have studied the devil in his place of power and in the sanctity—if such a word may be permitted—of his home, and in both places it needs a long spoon to eat with him.

White Wax.

It will be a surprise to a large number of our American women to be told that the white wax, of which they make such constant use when engaged in their household sewing, is the diseased secretion of a peculiar species of fly found in the eastern portions of central China. Most of our country-women, if they have given a thought to the subject, have supposed that this white wax was some refined product of ordinary beeswax—an article that has about it the conditions of cleanliness and healthfulness, which is more than can be said of exudations of insects due to some bodily malady. These flies apparently become diseased from feeding on the leaves of a particular kind of evergreen tree or shrub, of which they are exceedingly fond. The twigs of these trees in certain seasons of the year are thickly covered with flies, which in time leave upon them a thick incrustation of white matter. When this has increased to a sufficient size the branch is cut off and immersed in boiling water, which causes the wax to come to the surface in the shape of a viscid substance, which is skimmed off, cleansed, and afterward allowed to cool in pans. The trade in this article is quite an extensive one, as it is estimated that last year the crop was worth not less than $3,250,000.

BRIGHTON CATTLE MARKET.

Amount of stock at market—Cattle 4409; sheep and lambs 6200; swine 10,650; number western cattle 4224; eastern cattle 35; milch cows and northern cattle 150.

Prices of beef cattle per 100 lbs. live weight—Extra quality $5 25 and $5 62½; first quality $4 87½ and $5 12½; second quality $4 37½ and $4 75; third quality $4 00 and $4 25; poorest grades of coarse oxen, bulls, &c., $3 25 and $3 75.

Brighton Hides 8½c per lb.

Brighton Tallow 5c per lb.

Country hides 7½ and 8c per lb.

Country Tallow 3½ and 4c per lb.

Calf skins 12½ and 13c per lb, or from $1 25 and $1 75 per skin.

On account of the large supply of cattle which has been brought into market during the past week the trade has not been so active as it was one week ago. The demand for shipping cattle has not been so urgent, and prices upon all grades of beeves have fallen off fully ½c per lb from those obtained one week ago, for the average quality of beeves. There were but a few lots of cattle sold at our highest quotations, the larger portion selling at 5 and 5½c per lb live weight. Good cattle suitable for the English markets have been selling at $5 25 and $5 50 per 100 live weight.

Working Oxen—The call for working oxen is very light at present. As soon as the cattle commence coming in more freely from the north and West the trade will revive. Those offered on the market for sale are driven in from the immediate vicinity.

Store Cattle—With the exception of milch cows there are but a few store cattle offered on the market for sale, most of the small stock that is in a fair condition being bought up for beef.

Milch Cows—Trade for several weeks past has been very dull. This week there is a light supply in market and not much call for them. We note sales of 4 one milch cows at $175 the lot; 2 for $110; 1 do $95; 2 new milch cows for $110 the lot; 1 do $42.

Veal Calves—We quote sales at 3½ at $5 75 per head; 28 at $5 25 per head.

Sheep and Lambs—Western sheep and lambs cost hundred at Brighton about the same prices as they did one week ago. Sheep 5 and 5½c per lb; lambs from 7½ and 8½c per lb, live weight, all owned by butchers. None offered on the market for sale.

Swine—Prices remain unchanged from those of our last quotations—5 and 5½c per lb, live weight.

J. F. Squire & Co had 65 loads, C H North & Co 25, Miles Brothers 17 loads, all sales to the slaughter houses from the cars. Spring pigs $2 and $1 50 per head.

THE BEST REMEDY

FOR

Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

Diseases of the pulmonary organs are so prevalent and fatal, that a safe and reliable remedy for them is invaluable to every community. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is such a remedy, and no other so eminently merits the confidence of the public. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, to insure the greatest possible efficiency and uniformity of results, which enables physicians as well as invalids to use it with confidence. It is the most reliable remedy for diseases of the throat and lungs that science has produced. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt and certain relief, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it without difficulty. In the treatment of ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household, for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

The marvellous cures which AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has effected all over the world are a sufficient guaranty that it will continue to produce the best results. An impartial trial will convince the most sceptical of its wonderful curative powers, as well as of its superiority over all other preparations for pulmonary complaints.

Eminent physicians in all parts of the country, knowing the composition, recommend AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL to invalids, and prescribe it in their practice. The test of half a century has proved its absolute certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

The Undiscovered Country: A novel by W. D. Howells, author of "the Lady of the Aroostook," "A chance acquaintance," "Venetian life," etc. Boston; Houghton, Mifflin & Co.

Mr. Howells' reputation as the leading living American novelist is acknowledged, and to-day his writings are eagerly sought for and abundantly enjoyed. He possesses, as did Mr. Dickens, rare powers of description, but is never tiresome in details. The impatient reader who seeks only the denouement can but admire his skill in depicting scenes and characters, and enjoy every line of his writings. The "Undiscovered Country," besides being an interesting story, with characters of marked strength, has a purpose in its treatment of Spiritualism and Shakerism. The delicate situation in which some of the latter fraternity are placed because of love-making in their very midst, is described with a peculiar charm in narration, while the good but misguided Dr. Boynton and his pet theory are depicted in a masterly manner. The book is worthy of the extended fame of Mr. Howells as an author. It will be extensively read and admired, and although perhaps it will not be commended by the devotees of Spiritualism, they will admit the catholic spirit of the author even though dissenting from his conclusion, and forgive him as readily as the readers will forgive the well meaning Hatch for attempting to send the doctor and his daughter from Boston to Portland by way of the Fitchburg road and Ayer junction,—a proceeding, however, which was necessary to a proper disposition of the story, which switches off from that otherwise uninteresting locality. The book is printed with large type in one 12-mo volume, and is to be had at Wm. G. Myers', at publisher's price, $1.50.

John Church & Co., of Cincinnati, have published the "Garfield and Arthur Campaign Songster," a collection of campaign songs set to music. Price ten cents.

—A religious body having resolved to build a new church, the pastor went about begging very zealously, accepting not only the widow's but the child's mite. In the Sunday school a few days afterward, while instructing the children, he compared himself to a shepherd, and then inquired what the latter did with his flock. One bright-eyed little fellow promptly replied, "He shears them."

Grape Wine for Communion.

The superior quality and entire purity of Speer's Port Grape Wine, of New Jersey, and the success that physicians have had by its use, has induced them to write about it, and caused hundreds of others to prescribe it in their practice as the best and most reliable wine to be had. FOR PRESIDENT.

James A. Garfield,

Chester A. Arthur,

OF NEW YORK.

A Lofty Advertisement.

In conversation with one of our local cotemporaries of the press, recently, in discussing a gentlemen who had grown rich in the newspaper business! he remarked in reply to our enquiry, "No, he never could write anything; not even an advertisement." The earliest English "ad." appeared in 1652, and announced a book upon Cornwell's victories in Ireland. Since then, the art of advertising has increased, but the men who can write a really good advertisement, that is, who can be at the same time comprehensive and brief, interesting and sententious, have been comparatively few.

The man who has "put the tassel upon the cap of the climax" of high art in lofty advertisements, is the proprietor of a seaside hotel on the coast of Maine. His announcement is particularly refreshing. We subjoin a few extracts, and are at a loss to determine whether he is an inspired writer or one of the extensive proprietors who keep a poet upon their premises.

After a glowing description of his house and its attractive surroundings he says:

The guests of the house will rise when they get ready and go to bed when they please. If they allow the first rays of the morning sun, as they come dancing across the bay, to kiss their cheeks, his glorious colors will soon be imprinted there, and new life and vigor thrill the frame. But they can sleep until ten o'clock if they wish, for breakfast will be on from 6:30 to 10:30.

The morning may be devoted to boating, fishing, bathing, archery, lawn tennis, bowling, croqueting, riding, driving, swinging, sketching, promenading, and dine from one to three at pleasure.

The afternoon can be spent on the grand piazzas that extend clear round the house; or at the piano in the spacious parlor; or in reading, writing, talking; or swinging in dreamy content out under the trees in a hammock. Supper from six to eight.

Then a stroll over the grassy sward, with arm linked in the arm of a congenial friend; pleasant conversation; wholesome draughts of the delicious air, freighted with the odor of flowers and grasses and green trees; no flies, or mosquitoes, or bugs, or pests of any kind. Then a little rest on the piazza. Then the sound of a violin, accompanied by the rustling of dresses, the merry shuffling of feet and the graceful floating of fairy forms through the measures of the dance. Then, as previously stated, go to bed when you get ready; for the night clerk will be on duty and watchmen will patrol the halls all night long.

What a charming place of resort for ladies! To be kissed by "that gallant young gentleman, the sun," as Mr. Fielding calls it; to breakfast at will, to lounge about all day in the delicious atmosphere, and to lie down at night conscious of security from the careful vigils of the night watchman, while the young man with the diamond pin in the hotel office is ever on duty to send up the inevitable pitcher of iced water, at no matter how late an hour; how inviting! Truly if Maine cannot secure the presidency, she may at least boast of achieving perfection in a sea-side hotel, and we commend this unique resort to the Maine editors for their approaching summer excursion.

Raised from the Ranks.

The Army and Navy Register publishes a list of eleven non-commissioned officers of the army who have been designated by the secretary of war, after being duly examined for promotion, to second lieutenancies. The list is as follows:

Sergeant-Major Peter Campbell, eighteenth infantry.

Hospital Steward Eaton A. Edwards, U. S. A.

Hospital Steward James Brett, U. S. A.

The Register adds: "The above are not arranged according to relative rank. There have been sixteen examinations. Four of the applicants have failed to receive an appointment, and the papers of one have not yet been received. This is the largest number of promotions from the ranks which have been made at any one time in the army since the close of the Mexican war. The new lieutenants will be assigned to their regiments next week. We have received several inquiries in regard to the number of vacancies to be thus filled. The question is now under consideration at the war department whether under the law of 1878 the President will have the right to make any further appointments this year, and we understand that the decision is likely to be that no more appointments can be made until after the graduation of the next class at West Point."

That these new officers, selected for their especial fitness and ability, will prove themselves at least as efficient and capable as the average of officers prepared in that aristocratic hot-house, West Point, can hardly be doubted; and it would be far more in consonance with republican institutions, and we believe better for the country and the army, if all the officers were so appointed.

The following detachments have been made: Medical Director Edward Shippen from the Naval Medical Examining Board to special duty at Philadelphia; Medical Director George Peck and Surgeons Newton L. Bates and Thos. N. Penrose from the same and placed on waiting orders; Surgeon James A. Hawke from special duty to the Monocacy, Asiatic station.

Leave has been granted to Commander E. B. Woodward for one month; to Lieutenant George M. Book, during July; to Master C. L. Bruns for one month; to Assistant Paymaster C. M. Ray, during July; to Passed-Assistant Engineers D. M. Fulmer and William L. Baille, during July.

Midshipman Jonathan K. Brice has resigned.

News and Notes.

Admiral Ammen says that recent advices from Gen. Grant indicate that the general will not only take the presidency of the Isthmus Canal company, but proposes to enter heartily into this great undertaking.

The yawl boat of the coast survey steamer Bache, with a fishing party, consisting of James Patten, engineer of the Bache, his two sons, Willie and James Patten, and a third boy named Wm. M. Greenwald, was struck and upset in the lower harbor at Baltimore on Saturday afternoon, by two barges, and the three boys were drowned.

On the arrival at St. John, N. B., Sunday, of the ship Lillie Soullard, of Yarmouth, N. S., from Philadelphia, the captain handed over to the police authorities the second mate, William Mulholland, who, during the passage, shot and killed a seaman named James Lanborn while the latter was in the act of assaulting the first mate. It is claimed the shooting was accidental.

On Friday evening, at Paris, Stark county, Ohio, a Miss Keiser shot at William Zeigler without effect, and then shot and killed herself. She was a distant relative of Rev. Mr. Zeigler, father of William, and had visited at his house last summer, when an attachment sprang up between her and William. During the past week she had been visiting the Zeiglers, and either because of neglect or jealousy, she planned to kill her lover and herself. On Friday her visit was to end, and she was driven by a brother of William Zeigler to a train that would take her home. Instead of going home, she bought a revolver, made her way back to Zeigler's, secreted herself in William's room, and, when he came in (in the dark,) fired at him and then fatally shot herself.

If, during the ten years to come, the tide of emigration from Canada to the United States sets in as strongly as it has during the past eight months there will not be a great many people left in Canada to oppose annexation. It is stated that since October 1st of last year, 57,000 Canadians have left Ontario alone, and that of these more than nine-tenths have settled in the states. A very large number have left the province of Quebec, also with the view of becoming permanent residents of the United States. In addition to this a great many French Canadians have come over to remain with us for a term of years, or for so long a time as shall enable them to acquire something of a competency. During the time that this latter class are away from home their farms are deserted, or only worked to a half or third of their capacity, and the Dominion receives little benefit from them.

The wreck of the schooner Greyhound, with her mast projecting about thirty feet above water, has been lying in mid-channel, near the entrance to Newburyport harbor, for six months past. On Friday night of last week the mast was broken off, and is now out of water about three feet at low tide, making a very dangerous obstruction to navigation. There is a small spar buoy on the wreck, but it cannot be seen in the night.

Messrs. Geo. Wm Ballou & Co. and Chas. A. Sweet & Co., two of our prominent banking houses, are again to the front in the purchase of investment securities. They have just purchased $1,000,000 of New York & New England railroad company first mortgage six per cent bonds. The first mortgage bonds of this company are in high favor with conservative investors, and it is gratifying to learn that no more seven per cent bonds will be issued. With a three per cent money market and government fours at 109, these six per cent bonds should command a good premium.—Boston Journal.

Political Matters.

The Cincinnati Commercial says that if General Hancock should be elected President he would inevitably fall into the hands of a group of senators, and be the instrument of much mischief.

An Associated Press despatch from New York city, dated June 27th, says: "A party of Virginia landholders, headed by Senator Johnson, have been here several days endeavoring to induce emigration to their state. They have not been successful, emigrants apparently preferring the west to the south." And it will always be so, despite the superior attractions of soil and climate the south has to offer, until the northern emigrant is assured that he can vote as he pleases in the south without being either socially ostracised or murdered. The Virginia landholders would do far more toward inducing emigration to their state by working at home to secure all persons their civil and political rights, than in any other way.

Piles! Piles! Piles!

Do you know what it is to suffer with piles? If you do, you know what is one of the worst torments of the human frame. The most perfect cure ever known is Kidney-Wort. It cures constipation, and then its tonic restores health to the diseased bowels, and prevents recurrence of the disease. Try it without delay.

—The name of Smith occupies fifteen pages of the New York directory. There are forty-eight Widow Mary Smiths, without counting the Marys with a middle name.

Brown's Household Panacea

Is the most effective Pain Destroyer in the world. Will most surely quicken the blood whether taken internally or applied externally, and thereby most certainly relieve pain, whether chronic or acute, than any other pain alleviator, and it is warranted double the strength of any similar preparation.

It cures pain in the side, back or bowels, sore throat, rheumatism, toothache and all aches.

The great reliever of pain, "Brown's Household Panacea," should be in every family. A teaspoonful of the Panacea in a tumbler of hot water (sweetened, if preferred), taken at bedtime, will break up a cold. 25 cents a bottle.

Much Sickness,

Undoubtedly with children attributed to other causes, is occasioned by worms. Brown's Vermifuge Comfits, or Worm Lozenges, although effectual in destroying worms, can do no possible injury to the most delicate child. This valuable combination has been successfully used by physicians, and found to be absolutely sure in eradicating worms, so hurtful to children. Twenty-five cents a box. L.th&f

Dissolution of Co-partnership.

PORTSMOUTH, May 12th, 1880.

THE CO-PARTNERSHIP heretofore existing between David Kimball and Frank J. Philbrick, under the firm name of DAVID KIMBALL & CO., is this day dissolved by mutual consent. The business will hereafter be conducted under the name of DAVID KIMBALL & CO., as heretofore, by Mr. Philbrick, who will settle all accounts. DAVID KIMBALL.
F. J. PHILBRICK.

Notice of the dissolution of the partnership between myself and Frank J. Philbrick having been made public, it seems only an act of simple justice to add that our association, covering a period of nearly ten years, was at all times harmonious, and gave me full confidence in Mr. Philbrick's integrity. That he may receive the patronage of the friends of the late firm, to which his character and acquirements entitle him, is my sincere wish. In closing a business life of more than fifty-six years, I am led to look back with grateful remembrance of the many friends who have gone, who kindly gave me their confidence and support; and to those who remain I tender my heartfelt thanks for their continued friendly interest and regard.

AROUND HOME.

Commodore John W. Easby, chief constructor of the navy, is expected to visit the navy yard at this station this week.

The storm signals were ordered up at this station on Monday evening at about eight o'clock, for the first time since May 13th.

In the list of officers of the Odd Fellows' Mutual Relief Asso'n, as published in the CHRONICLE of Monday, the name of the secretary, Joseph H. Gardiner, Esq., was inadvertently omitted.

E. H. Winchester has had plans made to convert the Jaffrey stores on Bow street into tenements. The work will be done by contract, and the result will be a great improvement in the appearance of that portion of the street where the block stands.

The gospel temperance meeting at the Christian church, Court street, on Sunday afternoon, was well attended. The services were under the direction of Mr. Jos. French, president of the reform club. The speakers were Rev. Mr. Owen, Rev. Dr. Alden, Rev. Mr. Goss, Mr. John Durgin, and others.

The hotel at Smuttynose island, kept by Mr. Lemuel B. Caswell, came near being destroyed one night last week, through the depositing of ashes in a wooden receptacle. The fire was fortunately discovered before it had got under much headway, by one of the employes who was a little belated in retiring.

At last the finances and stores of the bureau of yards and docks permit the commencment, in a small way, of the painting of ship house No. 4, at the navy yard, a necessary step in the preservation of the property, long delayed by the so called "economy" of a democratic congressional majority. From the evils of having such a party control the government, good Lord deliver us!

A match between two picked elevens of the Portsmouth cricket club was played Saturday and Monday evenings. The elevens were captained by Sladen and Emery. Emery's side won, forty to thirty-three. Mr. Sladen was caught out by Cullen off Collins the first ball, but wishing to do better he asked leave to go in again to take the place of an absent player. Emery gave him leave, and then clean bowled him the first ball. Emery's side say they wish all their opponents were like Mr. Sladen.

The Universalist church was filled, Sunday forenoon, on the occasion of the annual observance of Children's Sunday. The exercises were of special interest, the sermon by the pastor, Rev. E. M. Grant, being touchingly appropriate. At the close of his address six little ones were taken to the font, where the beautiful rite of dedication was administered. Dainty bouquets of flowers were afterward presented to each child. The altar was handsomely adorned with flowers and verdure. The occasion was one of the happiest in the history of the church.

The Portsmouth Journal of "literature and politics" says: "Careful readers of a recent novel in the 'No Name' series do say that Plum island being translated means York, Me." The careful readers must have been poor students of geography. In the excellent novel referred to Mrs. Beauchamp Brown goes on board the steamer Cambridge of the Boston and Bangor line, leaves the hub at seven in evening, is on deck the next morning when the passengers disembark at Rockland, and between that place and Bangor takes a small steamer for Plum island, by which is evidently meant one of the islands in the Penobscot bay as York; is not in that region, and is not an island, if the careful readers "do" say so they are at fault.

The vestry of the North church, on Middle street, is being repainted outside. Mr. Josiah Grover is doing the work.

It is quite common nowadays for churches and Sunday schools to have an annual flower service for the children. It is a beautiful idea, and also suggests the progress of New Englanders toward the true idea of worship. The Christian church in this city held one of these floral services on Sunday last, and it was attended by so many persons that the house was filled before the hour of commencement, and many went away, unable to get in. The profusion of flowers of many kinds, especially of roses, was a prominent feature, while a score of canary and other singing birds added to the life of the occasion. Indeed, between the happy faces of the little children, the incessant music of the birds and the cheerful presence of the flowers, we forgot the heat of the day, and become lost in the enjoyment of the scene. It was a pleasant anniversary event, and one which, we hope, will ever be perpetuated there while children live and flowers grow.

THE ARMY WORM.

As this pest is likely to attract considerable attention in this neighborhood for some days to come, a brief account of its ravages in one or two other places may be of interest.

In Connecticut they made their first appearance week before last, where they advanced by myriads, so that they could be distinctly heard, and in some places the roads were black with them. On Sunday, June 20th, they attacked a seventeen-acre wheat field, and on the following Tuesday not a leaf or blade could be found in the field. Timothy fields are served in the same manner. The worms attack a corn-field and ruin it in a single night; crawling to the end of the leaves, they devour them, retreating backward, thus making destruction complete. It is gravely stated that they march in regiments and companies, and have generals and captains whom they follow in column.

They made their first appearance on the salt marsh in Salisbury, Mass., June 18th, and up to Wednesday morning, the 23d, had destroyed over two hundred acres of black grass, and will probably destroy every vestige of grass upon the eight hundred acres between the Merrimac and Hampton rivers. They also stripped several cornfields. The marsh land after the worms have passed over looks as if sawdust had been sprinkled upon it. East Salisbury farmers estimate that over three hundred tons of hay was destroyed by the army worms on the the marshes in the week following their appearance. The loss to farmers and marsh owners will reach five thousand dollars. No such wholesale and rapid destruction has ever been known; heretofore the greatest loss has been occasioned by grasshoppers.

This worm seems to be worse to deal with than the potato bugs, for after the army worms have got into a wheat or grass field, the farmer cannot even try to kill them with poison; or if the trial is made, the crop is of course rendered worthless. In places where it could be used, the ditch and pitfall plan is said to have worked well, but in many places such ditches cannot be made, and in any case would be of no use after the worms had once attacked a crop.

Experiments have been made by Henry Phillips, a gentleman of Lynn, Mass., with a view to exterminating the worms. A fire was lighted, which ran through the dry surface in quick time, but seemed to do no good—the worms appeared rather to like it, and "warmed up" to their work more voraciously than ever. Mr. Phillips also tried trenching, by ploughing a deep furrow around the land, and into this he poured kerosene. This work had the effect to cause them to tumble into the furrow in winrows, and to halt there to taste of the oil. Whether kerosene will kill them or not is a question of doubt, as it is reported that Lewis C. Hanson of Marblehead, Mass., having tested them with Paris green and kerosene, found them apparently invulnerable to attacks of this kind, and still alive and disposed to crawl. A number of them were soaked for five hours in strong potash lye, and came out alive!

These worms are of a dark color with light stripes along their sides, somewhat resembling the hairy grape worm; they have sixteen legs, and travel at the rate of about a mile a day, though individuals can get over the ground much faster; the larger specimens are two inches and a half long.

BOW MISSION SERVICES.

The gospel temperance service Saturday evening was conducted by Mrs. Hooper and Miss Esther Hague; a short service of praise preceded the regular exercises, which were as usual quite interesting. The special feature of the evening was a practical talk by Capt. Yates, of the schooner Eva C. Yates of Waldoboro', Me., at this port with coal from Richmond, Va. Capt. Yates said he had made thirteen trips to the coast of Africa, and had proved to his own entire conviction that total abstinence was the best policy, and the only safeguard against the evils attendant upon a visit to the sultry and deleterious climate of the African coast. The captain's remarks were full of interest; and the meeting, though not largely attended, was spirited.

The bethel service Sunday afternoon was conducted by a lady. This service is one of the established means of grace, and is doing its own work; the meetings will be sustained throughout the hot weather, as the workers have no thought of a "vacation" while there is work to be done; they are very much in earnest. After the bethel service, a children's bible service was conducted by Mrs. Hooper.

The reform club had an enthusiastic meeting Sunday evening. Remarks were made by members of the club, and also by Messrs. Taylor and Wolfe, officers of the steamer Williamstown, which arrived at this port Sunday. Mr. Taylor gave some account of the doings of the Harrisburg, Penn., reform club, of which he has been a member for four years; and also of the general reform work throughout his state. The chief engineer of the steamer, and several vessels' crews, were present. At the close of the meeting, by vote of the club, Ex-President James Marden, who some time ago withdrew from the organization, came forward and signed the pledge book, which act makes him again a member. The administration of President French during the past six months has been blessed with quiet and a steady growth; there is yet a noble work to be done by the club, and it is hoped that all who have the interests of the work at heart will lend a helping hand, and that whoever may be chosen as the standard bearer for the next three months, that party politics will be kept out, and the members seek rather to raise the fallen and rescue the perishing. Sometime since William Styles of Strafford sold a pair of horses to Asiel Hall of Rochester. Styles lent Hall harnesses and wagon for a few days, the latter leaving some harnesses there instead. Friday afternoon Hall drove up to the residence of Styles, having with him the borrowed harnesses and wagon. When about to take his own harnesses some objection was made by Styles' son Charles, who claimed that there was a little balance due, and that the harnesses would not be allowed off the premises until accounts were squared. Hall denied owing any balance, and attempted to take his property, when young Styles made a savage assault upon him with a club. The first stroke on the side of his head fractured the skull. Two other cuts on the head and several bruises on the body were inflicted before anybody interfered. A surgeon was sent for, who states that Hall's wounds are dangerous. Hall claims that the attack was premeditated.

During a heavy shower last Friday night, lightning struck and consumed the house and barn of Samuel Tucker of West Hopkinton; insured about $900, which will cover the loss. Lightning also struck the house of Charles H. Kimball of Contoocook, doing slight damage.

Henry P. Rolfe, who was, in 1873 United States district attorney for the district of New Hampshire, now brings a bill for extra services amounting to $2,519.97.

The house and outbuildings of Deacon C. C. Grant of Auburn were totally destroyed by fire on Friday night. Loss, $3000; insured in Rockingham Farmers' Mutual company.

A sad drowning accident occurred in West Claremont at ten o'clock Sunday forenoon. Joseph King, Walter Ager and Elmer Chaffin were bathing in Sugar river. King swam across and half way back, when he was seized with cramp. He called on the others for help, and Ager swam to his assistance, and in trying to save him both were drowned in ten feet of water. They were each about twenty-two years of age. Chaffin immediately gave the alarm, and the bodies were recovered two hours later.

—It does not pay to claim too much for General Hancock, who has no need to appropriate the merits of other generals, and he would not wish it done for him. The battle of Williamsburg was fought during the first part of the day by Hooker's division, and General Hancock did not appear upon the field until the fight was nearly over, and although he made a brilliant charge he lost but about a half dozen men. He certainly did not command through the day.

The body of an unknown man was found Monday morning in the Saco river near the end of the Eastern railroad bridge between Biddeford and Saco. The man was about twenty-five, well dressed, with dark brown hair and of medium hight. There are several bruises and cuts about the head and neck, and, while it is possible that he might have been struck by a passing train or have fallen from the bridge, there are many who suspect foul play. The watchman at the Eastern depot, Biddeford, says that between one and half-past one he heard voices near the depot. It is said that a wound in the head has the appearance of a bullet wound.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL.

Diseases of the pulmonary organs are so prevalent and fatal, that a safe and reliable remedy for them is invaluable to every community. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is such a remedy, and no other so eminently merits the confidence of the public. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, to insure the greatest possible efficiency and uniformity of results, which enables physicians as well as invalids to use it with confidence. It is the most reliable remedy for diseases of the throat and lungs that science has produced. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt and certain relief, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it without difficulty. In the treatment of ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household, for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

The marvellous cures which AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has effected all over the world are a sufficient guaranty that it will continue to produce the best results. An impartial trial will convince the most sceptical of its wonderful curative powers, as well as of its superiority over all other preparations for pulmonary complaints.

Eminent physicians in all parts of the country, knowing its composition, recommend AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL to invalids, and prescribe it in their practice. The test of half a century has proved its absolute certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

"Harry Coverdale's courtship and marriage." Philadelphia; T. B. Peterson & Bros. This is one of the popular novels issued by this extensive publishing house, which it will be remembered published "Nana," a work whose circulation was attempted to be suppressed, but which at once achieved an enormous sale by reason of this opposition. The work before us has illustrative engravings, and has a jaunty, pleasing style which makes it interesting from the start. Harry Coverdale is an English gentleman of wealth and education, just come into his estate; but like many of his countrymen, he derives more pleasure from hunting, fishing, and with his hounds and horses, than from the charms of female society, because they interfere with these pursuits. He is, nevertheless, not invulnerable, and in process of time actually falls in love and marries. Still his wife is a secondary object in his eyes, till an outside party creeps in and endeavors to create discord in the family. The husband's eyes are then opened, a duel follows, a reconciliation with the wife takes place; and with the experiences of the past, a life of happiness is ushered in. It is a readable, amusing, lively and sparkling book. It is issued in a large duodecimo volume, bound in cloth, full gilt back, and sold by booksellers at $1.75; or copies will be sent by mail, to any place, post-paid, by the publishers, on receipt of $1.75 in a letter to them.

—Calino entered a book-store and purchased a volume. "I will take two of them while I am about it," he said to the clerk; "I may wish to read it twice.—Paris Wit.

—There is a panic in the cheese market, the demand from abroad having fallen off while the supply was greatly stimulated by the high prices of the first of the season.

INCREASE OF KIDNEY DISEASES. Recently published "Vital Statistics" reveal an alarming increase in the dangerous forms of kidney disease, caused no doubt by the viciousness of modern living, and the excessive use of beer and other stimulants. All kidney disorders are dangerous, from their tendency to run into Bright's disease. The true cure for all kidney, bladder, liver, and urinary complaints is Hunt's Remedy, the great kidney and liver medicine. It has cured even Bright's disease, and all who suffer should give it a trial. Sold by all druggists. Trial size, 75 cents.

The devil looks well after his faithful servants. Charles A. Dana was a passenger on the steamer Seawanhaka and escaped unharmed, while lots of decent people lost their lives.

No Hospital Needed.

At Lawrence, Mass., Monday, during a thunder shower, a large chimney on the Pacific mills was struck by lightning; also Davis and Taylor's flour mill, and a dwelling house. The telephone wires were struck, the instrument in the register of deeds' office being demolished. No loss of life reported.

James Pyle's Pearline for all uses in the Kitchen as well as in the Laundry, in place of soap, is fast growing in favor. Be sure and take none of the dangerous imitations having the same outward appearance, or with similar sounding names. Nothing answers like Pearline.

The Marquis of Anglesey married on Saturday, at the British embassy, Paris, the widow of the late Hon. Henry Wodehouse, formerly Miss Minnie King of Georgia.

Statistics show that more people die of consumption than from any other cause. Slight colds are the seeds of consumption. Beware of the slight cough. Adamson's Botanic Balsam stands without a peer. Trial size, only 10 cts.

George Elliott of Elkhart, Ind., in a fit of jealously, Sunday, shot Minnie Darcy, his affianced, and then shot himself dead.

Let the poor sufferers from female complaints take courage and rejoice that a painless remedy has been found. We refer to Lydia Pinkham's Compound. It is prepared at 233 Western Avenue, Lynn, Mass. Send to Mrs. Pinkham for pamphlets.

Julia Driscoll, three years old, daughter of John Driscoll of Somerset, Mass., was fatally sunstruck in that town on Sunday.

When cold and chills affect the form,
And every fibre's aching, shaking,
What antidote will meet the storm
Sanford's Jamaica Ginger blesses,

Another Steamboat Horror.

The steamer Seawanhaka, employed in running regular trips between Peck slip, New York city, and Roslyn, L. I., took fire off Randall's island in the East river, at half-past four o'clock Monday afternoon, and was totally destroyed. The fire broke out in or near the firing-room, spreading with terrible rapidity, and the boat was headed for Randall's island at full speed, her bow running forty feet up on the beach, with her stern in deep water. The passengers who were forward of the flames then easily escaped, though a number had previously thrown themselves overboard in their terror, and been dashed to pieces by the paddle wheels; the unfortunate wretches on the after part of the boat, abaft the fire, were quickly forced to take to the water. Charles Smith, the captain, stuck to his post at the wheel until the steamer took the ground, and was terribly burned. The boat had a capacity of 1300 passengers, but Monday being a dull day on her route she had on this trip a much smaller number—from 350 to 500, of whom the first accounts say fifty or more perished. The steamers Granite State, Sylvan Glen, Minnehannock and Osseo were close at hand, and rendered every assistance possible, as did the members of the Eastern Boulevard boat club of New York, whose club house is opposite Randall's island; but the fury of the flames was such that many of the passengers were burned to death or driven into the water to drown, in spite of all the efforts to save them. The horrors of the Narragansett disaster were fully rivalled. Many of the persons rescued are terribly burned, and some of them cannot recover. The disaster was caused by an explosion, either of a kerosene lamp or of one of the small tubes of the boiler.

The Seawanhaka's passengers were generally farmers of Long Island, and bankers, business and literary men, who live on Long Island and go to New York in the morning, returning in the afternoon. Frequently the lady members of their families, and servants, accompany them. The boat always carried a large quantity of freight of an inflammable nature. This, it is supposed, accounts for the rapid spread of the flames. Some river boatmen characterized the boat as a "tinder-box." The steamer being merely a daily transport between near points, more in the line of a ferry-boat than anything else, kept no register of passengers, and the number of the lost can never be accurately ascertained. About thirty dead bodies were recovered in a few hours.

The Rifle.

In the international rifle match at Dollymount, Ireland, on Tuesday, between the Irish and American teams, the Americans won by a total score of 1285 to 1277. Close work.

News and Notes.

The steamer Long Branch, with 1800 passengers on board, was run into Saturday morning by a tug-boat just after leaving her dock, in the East river at New York, and badly damaged. She got into the Catherine street slip and landed her passengers, but was reported to be sinking at a late hour in the day in spite of all efforts to keep her afloat. The excursionists comprised the Harrison place Baptist church and Sunday school.

Deputy Sheriff Capron returned to Attleboro, Mass., from East Lynne, Conn., Monday night, where he was sent by Messrs. Horton, Angell & Co. to look up the property stolen from the person of Representative Horton at the time of the Narragansett disaster. He failed to recover the valuables, but arrested William Longshaw, one of the parties who committed the robbery. He was taken before Judge Bush of that place and his case was continued until July 7th, under $500 bonds, in default of which he was committed. Longshaw's accomplice, upon hearing of his arrest, fled, but the officers are on the track, and he will probably soon be arrested. Messrs. Horton, Angell & Co. are the only parties who have taken steps to find out the perpetrators of robberies committed at the time of the Narragansett disaster.

Mrs. Bradstreet, a lady about seventy-five years of age, was burned to death at her home in Topsfield, Mass., on Thursday of last week. She placed a lighted candle on the floor, and in moving about her clothing caught fire. She ran down stairs to where she kept a water pail, and, finding the latter empty, she lay upon the floor and rolled, and tried ineffectually to extinguish the fire. She then threw herself upon a bed, and set the latter on fire, and was so badly burned that she died shortly after.

A woman whose name was lightly used in the columns of a newspaper in Portland, Me., asked a lawyer to sue the editor for libel, but was informed that she had no redress under the laws. She determined to take matters into her own hands. She went to the newspaper office, collared the editor, and belabored him in the face and over the head with the handle of a heavy parasol. She struck him three or four times before he could recover from his surprise. Then jumping to his feet he caught up a stone paperweight and threw it in her face with full force. It glanced from her lip and nose, and did no serious injury beyond a slight flesh wound, from which the blood flowed freely. Upon this she fled, and proceeded directly to the police station, where she entered a complaint against the editor for assault.

City Treasurer Williams of Rochester, N. Y., committed suicide by drowning on Monday. Some time ago the Rochester common council appointed a committee to investigate his accounts, which event preyed on his mind. The report of the committee, showing that his accounts were correct in every particular, was published on Monday for the first time.

At Buena Vista, Colorado, Sunday night, an incendiary attempted to burn the Lake house, but was caught in the act and charged by a mob, who fired several shots, fatally wounding an unknown man, and severely wounding Calvin Moon and J. A. Matthews. The crowd also attacked Judge Casey, but he escaped. The intention was to murder him. A short time ago a petition signed by citizens caused the dismissal by Judge Casey of some members of the town police force, which caused the attack on him.

John Donnelly, aged eighty years, was killed by the outward Boston train Monday morning in the north part of Providence, R. I. He avoided one train by stepping on the track in front of another.

The coroner's jury in the case of Lizzie Patterson, of Lewiston, Me., who died recently under suspicious circumstances, returned a verdict that deceased came to her death by means of an abortion unlawfully procured, but do not find sufficient evidence to convict any one of the act.

Pliny Holton, aged twenty years, shot himself at Westminster, Vt., Saturday night, and he died Sunday morning. Cause unknown.

The Narragansett was raised at three o'clock A. M., Monday, and while being towed toward Cow bay grounded on Six Mile reef, off Clinton, only a few miles from where she was sunk. A tug was sent to her relief.

The "hot wave" was terribly fatal in New York city. Six fatal cases of sunstroke were reported to the coroners on Sunday, and twenty-four on Monday up to six o'clock in the evening; and the death rate from other diseases was greatly increased. About thirty persons, mostly young children, perished from the excessive heat at their homes, without having been exposed to the sun. The thermometer stood at ninety-four in the shade, Monday.

A few years ago, when General John F. Hartranft was the republican candidate for governor of Pennsylvania, the democratic press of the state bestowed upon him the elegant title of Hangman Hartranft. It had happened that at the time of the execution of the persons who were privy to the plot to assassinate President Lincoln, General Hartranft was a subordinate of General Hancock, who was the subordinate of somebody else. Of course, nobody has or will bestow any such epithet upon the soldier candidate of the democracy, but it is a lucky thing for him that he is not the republican nominee.—Philadelphia Press.

A Great Enterprise.

—"The devil bombshell" is the name of a new device for making the Glorious Fourth hideous, and one can but wish that the god-father of the plaything would take it into his satanic keeping before the small boy gets possession of it.—Boston Globe.

Fine Tobacco is very scarce and high,—but the manufacturers of the old-fashioned hand-made "Noriega" brand of cigars fortunately secured a large quantity of the choicest Havana leaf before the great advance in prices. They now propose to use this tobacco exclusively in making the above brand.

—We have heard of an old lady who was so very particularly neat that she always nicely washed her eggs before she broke them into the pan to fry; and was always particularly careful, moreover, to spit in the pan to see if the fat was just exactly hot enough to fry them.

—A judge of much experience says: "I never had a breach of promise case before me in which the mother of the girl did not know more about it than her daughter. She always suspects the fellow is a rascal, and accordingly gets ready for him."

Naval Gazette.

News from the United States steamer Lackawanna states that she was at La Libertad on June 1st. The day previous the keelson caught fire underneath the boilers, burning for a distance of about thirty feet. It was extinguished without any further harm being done. The Lackawanna is reported as arriving safely at Panama on the 24th of June, from San Francisco.

The Trenton arrived at Gibraltar June 16th, and sailed next day for the Baltic. The Wyoming arrived at Gibraltar June 23d from Constantinople, and sailed for the north June 25th.

—"Once upon a time there was a maiden," sings a poet. Poem rejected. We don't publish any stuff about a girl who would be guilty of going upon a time.—Boston Post.

—"Sooner or later," says a French writer, "everything is found out." Just so. A married man, for instance, is generally found out later—about three hours later—than he should be.

Worth a Thousand Dollars.

Every child born into a family is thought to be worth "a thousand dollars" to the parents. Why then should they not be cared for from infancy to maturity? Keep the mouth and teeth right by SOZODONT, and you start them right.

A Down Town Merchant

Having passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and acquainting his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed in suffering, and the parents without sleep. Returning home the day following, the father found the baby still worse; and while contemplating another sleepless night, the mother stepped from the room to attend to some domestic duties, and left the father with the child. During her absence he administered a portion of the Soothing Syrup to the baby, and the little fellow awoke next morning bright and happy. The mother was delighted with the sudden and wonderful change, and although at first offended at the deception practiced upon her, has continued to use the Syrup, and suffering, crying babies and restless night have disappeared. A single trial of the Syrup never yet failed to relieve the baby, and overcome the prejudice of the mother. Sold by all Druggists. 25 cents a bottle. 6

Sad Memories Now Recurring!

And now with summer heats and summer winds come the memories of years past when a fever-stricken community in New Orleans looked to that old landmark of man's faith in the charity of man, the World-Famous Charity Hospital. But, alas, the generous contributions of a public are not always forthcoming, and for a steady revenue this firm hope of the living and warm comforter of the dying has to look to the revenue it draws, by the intervention of wise legislation (prim but stingy moralists to the contrary notwithstanding,) from the Louisiana State Lottery Company—under a grant of 25 years, recognized in the revised constitution of the State. The drawings, which $2 wins $30,000, occur on the second Tuesday of every month, and any information will be given on an application to M. A. Dauphin, New Orleans, La., or same person at No. 319 Broadway, New York City.

A CARD.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a recipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. AROUND HOME.

One of Major Urch's seals died Sunday night. A porpoise recently placed in the aquarium died the same night.

Henry Plumer, formerly in the grocery business in this city, will conduct a restaurant at Coney island, N. J., this season.

The masons' laborers on the new shoe factory building struck on Tuesday afternoon, stopping all mason work for the rest of the day.

A bicycle club is in process of formation in this city. Three bicycles arrived on Monday evening, for the use of members of this club.

The mayor and a committee of the board of aldermen, and the city clerk, on Tuesday made an official visit of inspection to Pest island, remaining there about two hours.

Visitors are arriving at the watering places in this vicinity in unusual numbers for so early in the season. There were about one hundred and fifty at the Appledore house on Tuesday.

Stackpole & Haddock, who for some time ran a feather-bed cleansing establishment in this city and subsequently removed to Georgetown, Mass., have recently moved from the latter place to Fall River.

The steamer Gen. Bartlett made an excusion from Newburyport to the Shoals, Tuesday, and the steamer Startled Fawn made an excursion from Newburyport to York on the same day. Both boats were well patronized.

The Portsmouth rifle club organized Tuesday afternoon, by the choice of Col. Wm. H. Sise as president, and Lieut. Robert E. Rich as secretary and treasurer. The membership was limited to fifteen, increasable to twenty by a two-thirds vote of the club.

Quite a number of persons from Great Falls and other inland towns have visited this city within the past month, to consult the female Indian doctor, Mrs. Newell. The Indians will remain here until after July 4th, shortly after which they will leave for a tour on the eastern coast of Maine.

Steamer Mystic, Capt. Rashe Trefethen, took out a party of about one hundred persons to the Shoals on Monday evening, making a short stop at Star island and arriving back about eleven o'clock. The same boat made another excursion trip to the Shoals on Tuesday evening, with a good party.

This evening the Sabbath school of the North parish will give a strawberry festival at the vestry on Middle street. Besides berries, ice cream and cake, there will be readings, recitations, and music. The success of this Sunday school with such entertainments on former occasions bespeaks for this evening a liberal patronage. Tickets, 10 and 15 cents.

The coal pocket is nearly ready to go into operation, the erection on its top of five large derricks being all that is necessary to fit it for taking in coal. The first of these derricks was put up on Tuesday, on "the pulpit," as it is called, at the end of the pocket nearest the river; this is a spare derrick, for discharging small transient vessels. The other four will be used for discharging steamers and large sailing vessels.

The excursionists brought down the river on a recent Sunday by the steamer La Chiquita of South Newmarket, for a picnic and chowder near the fort on Gerrish's island, and whose performances there led us to suggest that they were "a hard crowd, apparently," were not from South Newmarket but from Exeter; and the little steamer, which does not unusally run on Sunday, was only induced to take the party out on that day through representations that the men composing it could not get away from their work on any other day of the week.

The Rockingham National bank pays a dividend of three and one-half per cent July 1st.

The Catholics of this city will have their annual picnic at Pinkham's grove, Dover, July 5th.

The celebrated Vienna bread, made by Vaughan Brothers and delivered hot at their bakery on State street every afternoon at three o'clock, and from their carts, is meeting with great favor from consumers.

Freddy Roberts, the Dover boy whose arm was shattered some days ago near Dover point by the accidental discharge of a gun which he was drawing by the muzzle from a boat, was reported on Monday to be dying.

When you find in your pocket half a dozen big three-cent pieces, each of which somebody has passed on you for ten cents, don't try to pass them off on somebody else for ten-cent pieces, in payment for lager or picture papers, for you can't do it; you'll get caught every time; we know. Just save them up, and also all the nasty little three-cent pieces which you take for five cents each, and buy postage stamps with them, which will effectually remove them from circulation, as they are not reissued by the government.

A correspondent at Exeter writes as follows, under date of June 28th: "Mr. O. A. Fleming of this town, while riding with his wife yesterday on the road from Exeter to Epping, at a place called Bloody brook met with a serious accident. a white cow which started out suddenly from the bushes frightening the horse, which jumped aside, going over an embankment with the buggy and its occupants. The buggy was turned bottom side up, and the top wrecked, and the horse's neck was broken; Mr. Fleming and his wife were both considerably bruised, but no bones were broken. The town is probably responsible for the damage, as there should have been a rail on the bank, it being a dangerous place in the dark. There are so many of these pitfalls on our highways that it is a wonder so few accidents occur."

SWIMMING FACILITIES.

The establishment of swimming schools is recommended. Every boy, and every girl too, ought to be taught to swim. We have heard it asserted that swimming is becoming a lost art, and also that the number of young men who know how to swim is not near so great as the number of old men who can swim, and who taught themselves natation in the natural way, forty, fifty and sixty years since. Swimming schools were all but unknown in the early part of the century, and yet of ten boys nine could swim. Few girls could swim in those days, and not very many can swim now; but the number of feminine swimmers is on the increase. Every animal but man swims naturally. Throw a blind kitten or a puppy of ten hours' life into the water, and it will swim; but throw a boy of ten years, and it is marvellous what heroic and successful efforts he will make to reach the bottom of the pond, lake, river, or sea into which he has been tossed. So swimming schools should be common, and to be taught to swim should form part of a sound education.—Boston Traveller.

If we had men on the city government who ever had been boys we should have bathing conveniences. Some day we shall have men who remember what a luxury it was to be clean. The cost would be trifling in comparison with matters on which money is squandered.—Newburyport Herald.

The foregoing paragraphs incline us to say something concerning the bathing and swimming facilities enjoyed by the boys of this city,—or rather, concerning the total lack of such facilities. Nature evidently intended the boys of this city to have the best of opportunities for summer bathing and swimming, but art has so improved upon nature that now the boy who would learn to swim, or the skilled swimmer who would paddle about in the water for a quarter of an hour, can find no place where he can legally or in decency indulge his inclinations except at such an expenditure of time and trouble as to virtually prohibit the indulgence.

Between thirty and forty years ago, when we were improving our mind—in the somewhat rare intervals of "playing hooky"—in the old barn then known as the Cabot street schoolhouse, on any warm summer day at the close of the afternoon session a mob of twenty or thirty boys, of all ages from five to fifteen or more years, would make a rush for the willows at Hale's point, on the bank of the north millpond, and in a few minutes they would all be splashing about in the water, and swimming in droves across to the other side of the pond. A boy of ten who could not swim the pond at Hale's point was considered a terrible milksop; and there was not one boy in ten at that time, among our associates, who could not swim at least a little. The waters of the pond were then pure and sweet, and the swimming place, though so close at hand, was entirely out of the public view. Now the willows are replaced by the Eastern railroad round-house, and Rock pasture and Hale's field, then bare of buildings, are now closely built over; and the waters of the once limpid pond are transformed into a sort of oderous gravy, in which no boy of good taste would want to swim, even if he had a chance.

The law against indecent exposure prohibits swimming in the docks, and the docks are no place in which to learn to swim, even were it allowable. The ponds cannot be used by bathers, and the nearest place we know of where boys can safely and without offending propriety learn to swim, is in the shallow cove near the south cemetery, and that is available only for a short time each tide, and is not easy of access. Whereabouts a swimming place or places should be provided we do not pretend to decide, but we do say that such places should be provided, and at the public expense—and at once.

THE GIBSON HOUSE.

The cosy little hotel on Vaughan street, formerly the American house and later the Commercial, and now the Gibson house, has recently undergone changes in other particulars besides its name. It has been repainted, has received an entire new outfit of furniture, carpets, bedding, etc., and with additions and alterations now has about forty rooms, and is an attractive and desirable resort for the travelling public. Mr. J. S. Grant, the proprietor of the property, is landlord of the hotel, and Mr. J. H. Robertson the clerk.

Mr. Robertson has for some years past been manager of the Marston hotel at Lewiston, Me., which was endorsed by the agent of the New York Trade Journal as "one of the best and most comfortable houses" in that region, the landlord being credited with knowing thoroughly what so few do know, "how to keep a hotel."

The painting of the house was done by Edward D. Coffin, the mason work by William J. Fraser, and the plumbing by William J. Doyle—all Portsmouth mechanics and all superior workmen.

Attached to the premises and under the same proprietorship is the stable known as the Rockingham house stable, kept by Walter E. Cochrane, and well supplied with superior animals and carriages, all the appointments being kept clean, neat and in perfect condition under the superintendence of the foreman, William H. Seymour.

Mr. Grant was induced to change the name of the house from the Commercial, owing to there being so many houses of the same name in other places, the name of Gibson being adopted because it is the name of a friend of his family, and short and easily remembered. It is his intention to make it a first-class house, and he especially desires the company of large parties, for which he will always be prepared.

MYSTERIOUS MURDER.

The body found in the Saco river at Saco on Monday morning proves to be that of John Currier of Old Orchard, twenty-one years of age, and a son of David Currier. Young Currier had been at work in Massachusetts for the past three years, having returned home about three weeks ago. A few days since he told the postmaster at Old Orchard that he was expecting a letter under an assumed name, and requested him to hold it for him. The letter came, and was held as requested, but who it was from is yet unknown. A coroner's jury was summoned, and the following facts were elicited: Saturday afternoon the deceased left his father's house with a roll of something that looked like paper, and took the six o'clock train for Saco. Arriving at Saco he took a room at the Saco house, where he took a lunch and spent considerable time in writing. He told them that he was expecting to meet some one. On paying his bills he exhibited considerable silver coin. He went into the billiard hall, requesting that any one who might call for him should be sent there, but nothing more was heard from him. Early Monday morning the watchman at the Eastern depot heard persons pass back of the freight house, who are supposed to have taken the Pullman train. As the body was found near that place, it is believed that these persons were the murderers. The body exhibited scratches, commencing on the throat and extending across the face to the hair; a bullet was found near the right temple, and the nose was also broken. His pocket-book was empty, and his watch was gone, as well as a revolver which he carried with him. He usually carried considerable money with him, but always in an inside vest pocket; when found the pocket-book was in an outside pocket of his coat. The body, when found, lay in about six feet of water, with the hand clutching the tall grass, from which it is evident that he was alive when he entered the water. The surgeons state that with the bullet wound alone he would have lived several weeks. In accordance with these facts, the jury concluded it to be a case of murder.

Railroad Accidents.

On Saturday last a freight train on the Milwaukee & Chicago railroad left the track near Martinsville, Ohio, and Wm. Mader, engineer, and John Urick, fireman, were killed.

On Saturday a wrecking train sent out from St. Louis, Mo., on the Vandalia railroad, to bring in a wrecked freight train, came in collision with another freight train six miles west of that city. Both engineers were fatally injured, the freight fireman and a blacksmith on the wrecking train were instantly killed, and ten other persons on the two trains were badly hurt, two of whom will probably die. The two engines and four cars were demolished.

A train on the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad went down a five-foot embankment near Sargent, Kansas, Sunday morning. One man was killed, another man and his wife fatally hurt, and nine others seriously injured.

The Type Sifter.

Among the patents issued from the patent office this week is one for a type sifter to William R. Whitmore and George Junis, both of whom are practical printers employed in the Herald office. This invention is found, upon using, to have three valuable purposes: First, it removes the type from the case, whereby the latter may be cleaned and the dirt in the type sifted out; second, a font of type may be changed from one case to another in a few minutes, ordinarily the work of hours; and third, it thoroughly mixes the type in each box, bringing into use the new letters from the bottom of the case. All this can be done without making any pi. The type sifter is a reverse case, covered with a wire screen. It is placed upon the type case, fastened at the four corners by clamps, and the two are turned over. One of the type sifters has been in use in our office a long time, and it has been the object of the inventors to bring it as near perfection as possible. Edward L. Davenport, another Herald office printer, is introducing the type sifter, and is meeting with great success. It is already in general use in Boston, where it gives perfect satisfaction, and we have no doubt that it will come into universal use. Mr. Davenport has the signature to a testimonial from the foreman of every office where the type sifter has been in use any length of time.—Newburyport Herald.

A Merciless Wager.

A certain Count Greppo—his name should be held in remembrance—lately made a wager of 10,000 francs with Prince Belmonte to drive four horses from Rome to Naples, without changing, in twenty-four hours. The counted started at 11 P. M. in the lightest possible, trap, with a coachman. Two vehicles, containing the holder of the stakes, a veterinary surgeon, and a coachmaker, followed. At Gaeta one of the horses began to limp, and at 9 P. M., when about six miles from Naples, it fell down exhausted. The bet was thus all but won. As it is, the 10,000 francs are to go to the poor!

The News, in a short leader on this tale of horrible cruelty, well remarks:

"In this bare statement, who knows how much and how long torture is involved? Count Greppo, on the box, felt none of it; and Prince Belmonte, awaiting at his ease the result of the wager was no doubt perfectly comfortable. If these two men had chosen for a bet to walk themselves into a state of limping exhaustion till they fell by the way, no one need have cared. They know their own worth, and may inflict upon themselves what sufferings they please. But they ought to spare presumably nobler animals. It is a pity that Count Greppo and Prince Belmonte cannot be introduced into a society of Houyhnhnms, and be made the subject of an experiment like their own; or, to keep aspiration within the bounds of reason, that there is little hope of their being prosecuted and punished for cruelty to animals. The stakes, it is said,—10,000 francs,—have been handed over to the poor. This handing to the poor is an easy salve to conscience."—Anti-Vivisectionist.

Sowing Corn for Fodder.

A writer in the Rural New Yorker says: "On many farms there are places where spring crops cannot be effectually planted. These spots may be found in poor places in the meadow where the grass is light, or in a portion of a new seeding where the seed has failed to catch, or perhaps in some hollow which was too wet for early plowing and planting. In such cases it will be profitable to sow the ground with corn for fodder for next winter, or for feeding green next August or September. It is a very common mistake in sowing corn for fodder to use too much seed. If sown too thick, the stalks will be slender, with few leaves and nearly destitute of saccharine matter. In thick sowing we get a heavy, bulky crop; but it is of poor quality. Doubtless one bushel per acre will yield a crop of more value in real nutriment than if double the amount of seed is used. The best way is to drill in rows about three feet apart, so that the horse culture may be employed. When thus grown, the stalks will be highly nutritious as stock food, and the nubbins that will grow on the stalks will add greatly to the feeding value of the crop. For summer feeding corn should be sown as early as it will germinate quickly. For fall feeding it should be sown at intervals of about ten days, and seeding continued until late in July. The late sowings may follow any early crop which may have been removed, as early potatoes, peas, etc."

—It used always to be a boast of Henry Clews, the banker, that he was a self-made man. One day he noticed that Mr. Travers, the Wall street wit, whose stammering squibs of speech have won a world-wide celebrity, was eyeing his bald head with a critical expression of countenance. "Well," what's the matter, Travers?" asked Clews, rather impatiently. "H-H-Henry," responded the other, "d-d-didn't you say you were a s-s-self-made man?" "Yes, certainly; I made myself." "Then w-w-why the d-d-devil, when you were s-s-about it, didn't you p-p-put a little more h-h-hair on the top of your head."

Cuticura

REMEDIES

Have achieved the most noted success of any Medicines of Modern Times.

Messrs. Weeks & Potter have never doubted the specific properties of CUTICURA, CUTICURA RESOLVENT, and CUTICURA SOAP, for the speedy, permanent, and economical cure of Humors of the Blood, Skin, and Scalp. They, however, astonished at their universal success; for it was to be expected that in the hands of some they would fail solely from spasmodic or ignorant use of them.

They are enabled to say without fear of contradiction that no remedies ever achieved in the short space of one year the number of wonderful cures performed by CUTICURA REMEDIES.

SALT RHEUM

MESSRS. WEEKS & POTTER: Gentlemen:—I feel it a duty to inform you, and through you all who are interested to know the fact, that a most disagreeable and obstinate case of Salt Rheum or Eczema, which has been under my personal observation in first appearance to the present time,—about ten (10) years,—covering the greater portion of the patient's body and limbs with its peculiar irritating and itching scab, and to which all the known methods of treating such disease has been applied without benefit, has completely disappeared, leaving a clean and healthy skin, under a few days of profuse application of CUTICURA.

I can and do heartily advise all similarly afflicted to try the remedy which has been so effectual in this case. Very truly yours,

CHAS. HOUGHTON.

LIVER COMPLAINT

Gentlemen,—I have had Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, with running sores on the side of my back, for ten years. Doctors did me no good. I have been ailing for eight years and it did no good. Everything I ate distressed me. I got reduced from 170 to 132 pounds. At last I tried the RESOLVENT and it helped me right off, and on one bottle I gained five and one-half pounds. It is doing me business, and I am going for it strong.

Yours truly, JOHN H. O. Y.

NOTE.—CUTICURA is admirable, assisted in cases of extreme physical weakness, or when the virus of Scrofula is known to lurk in the system, by the internal use of the CUTICURA RESOLVENT, without doubt the most powerful blood purifier and liver stimulant in the world.

CUTICURA SOAP is an elegant toilet and medicinal assistant to CUTICURA in the treatment of all external ailments. For chapped hands, rough skin and tan, sunburn, and the lesser skin troubles, it is unimpeachable; as a soap for the toilet, the nursery and bath it is the most elegant, refreshing, and healing before the public.

These great remedies succeed where all others heretofore in use fail because they possess new and original properties never before successfully combined in medicine.

THE CUTICURA REMEDIES are prepared by Weeks & Potter, Chemists and Druggists, Boston, and sold by Druggists. Price of CUTICURA, small boxes, 50 cents; large boxes, containing two and one-half times the quantity of small, $1. RESOLVENT, $1 per bottle. CUTICURA SOAP, 75 cents per cake; by mail, 30 cents; 3 cakes, 75 cts.

THE BEST REMEDY

FOR

Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

Diseases of the pulmonary organs are so prevalent and fatal, that a safe and reliable remedy for them is invaluable to every community. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is such a remedy, and no other so eminently merits the confidence of the public. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, to insure the greatest possible efficiency and uniformity of results, which enables physicians as well as invalids to use it with confidence. It is the most reliable remedy for diseases of the throat and lungs that science has produced. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt and certain relief, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it without difficulty. In the treatment of ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household, for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

The marvellous cures which AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has effected all over the world are a sufficient guaranty that it will continue to produce the best results. An impartial trial will convince the most sceptical of its wonderful curative powers, as well as of its superiority over all other preparations for pulmonary complaints.

Eminent physicians in all parts of the country, knowing its composition, recommend AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL to invalids, and prescribe it in their practice. The test of half a century has proved its absolute certainty in cure of all pulmonary complaints not yet beyond the reach of human aid.

Animal Longevity.

A tortoise which died in the bishop of Petersborough's garden in 1831, was more than two hundred and twenty years of age; and one belonging to Archbishop Laud died at the age of 128 years. As to fishes, the pike has been said to live for two hundred and sixty-seven years, and the carp for two hundred years. It is highly probable that the gigantic salamander may live for a greatly prolonged period, and frogs and toads are probably long-lived animals, small as is their relative size. A toad has been kept for thirty-six years without showing signs of age, and then died through an accident. Whales have been supposed to live from three to four hundred years. The life of an elephant is said to extend beyond one hundred years, but of this there seems as yet to be no certain evidence. Birds, as creatures at once active and warm-blooded, and thus compressing, as it were, much life into a small period, might be expected to be short lived. Yet parrots have been known to live for upward of a century, and pelicans, geese and crows may exceed the period commonly allotted to man. But though three score years and ten may be the ordinary term of human life, man can both live and retain his intellectual faculties more or less beyond one hundred years. Yet a horse is generally old at thirty, and is not known to have ever attained twice that age. The life of a sheep is about fifteen years' duration, and that of a dog from fifteen to twenty, although allied animals are much longer lived. Thus the lion called Pompey, which died in the Tower of London in 1790, had lived there no less than seventy years. Extremely varied, then, is the duration of the life of individual organisms. Not less varied are the relations to time of the lives of races and of different groups of animals and plants. Species, genera, families, orders, and classes of animals and plants differ extremely as to their period of duration, some of each of these groups appearing to have been but short-lived compared with other divisions of similar rank.

Our Progress.

As stages and stage routes are quickly abandoned with the completion of railroads, so the huge, drastic, cathartic pills, composed of crude and bulky medicines, are quickly abandoned with the introduction of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets, which are sugar-coated, and little larger than mustard seeds, but composed of highly concentracted vegetable extracts and are warranted to cure all irregularities of stomach, liver and bowels. Sold by druggists.

The use of Malt Bitters increases the flesh and prevents pulmonary or wasting diseases.

—Bernardino of Bergen says: "Beware of the man who always smiles when he talks politics; a whole-souled politician generally gets mad, and says things that wouldn't look well on paper."

THE FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS of the Toledo, Delphos & Burlington Railroad Co. are popular with the most conservative investor on account of the extremely low mortgage, less than $7000 per mile of finished road, and for the certainty of the payment of interest and principal when due. This road, running through Northwestern Ohio and Central Indiana, has ample facilities for transportation, and is situated favorably for a permanent and prosperous business. The country is rich in cereal proportions, and is inhabited by a thrifty and well-to-do class of people. The whole issue of these bonds, running 30 years at 6 per cent, is $1,250,000, upon 185 miles of road, with only $400 per mile to pay annually for interest. For merit and stability no better loan is offered in the market.

Brown's Household Panacea

Is the most effective Pain Destroyer in the world. Will most speedily quicken the blood whether taken internally or applied externally, and thereby more certainly relieve pain, whether chronic or acute, than any other pain alleviator, and it is warranted double the strength of any similar preparation.

It cures pain in the side, back or bowels, sore throat, rheumatism, toothache and all aches.

The great reliever of pain, "Brown's Household Panacea," should be in every family. A teaspoonful of the Panacea in a tumbler of hot water (sweetened, if preferred), taken at bedtime, will break up a cold. 25 cents a bottle.

Much Sickness,

Undoubtedly with children attributed to other causes, is occasioned by worms. Brown's Vermifuge Comfits, or Worm Lozenges, although efficacious in destroying worms, can do no possible injury to the most delicate child. The valuable combination has been successfully used by physicians, and found to be absolutely sure in eradicating worms, so hurtful to children. Twenty-five cents a box. 6ldeb1

"Canards."

Our good brother of the Times is very much exercised over what he calls "the CHRONICLE's canards," and makes a half-column article about an error into which we fell (in common with most other papers) when English was first nominated as the democratic candidate for the vice presidency, in charging him with being a secession sympathizer during the war. The fact is that English when nominated was an almost forgotten political fossil, and was judged by his record in congress prior to 1861, when he was one of the most subservient "dough-faces" who bent the knee to the southern slaveocracy; and our neighbor had to wait about a week before it could contradict the current report about English, as it knew no more about him than we did until it read the statement of John C. New, published in the New York and Boston papers on the 29th ult., and republished by us this morning. Why, the Times did not even know there was in existence such a man as William H. English of Indiana, at the time he was nominated, (no more did we,) and announced as the nominee Ex-Senator English of Connecticut!

Chronicle Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 28th.

The chief of the treasury secret service division asks that government rewards for the capture of counterfeiters and counterfeit plates be increased. He thinks the only certain way to break up the business is to offer rewards large enough to induce counterfeiters to expose each other. It will probably strike the intelligent citizen that this reward business, if carried too far, will induce crime as well as prevent it. The discovery of several new counterfeits of $100 bills has caused almost a commotion in the treasury.

A correspondent writing from the Virginia Springs, at which Senator Cameron is stopping, says the senator will go thence in about a month to New England, and that he will take no part in any meeting of the republican national committee, and will not accept its chairmanship. The republicans here, however, deny this, and aver that Cameron will accept the chairmanship, but will not attend the meeting of the committee.

Further census returns make the population of this district 180,000. The growth in this and other respects in the last ten years has been extremely gratifying. The increase is permanent, and is of the better class of people, who build fine residences, and who bring wealth and its refinements into the city.

It is amusing to note, at this time, the large number of democratic papers that claim to have been "urging General Hancock's nomination for years" and "had no second choice." According to editorial expressions many of his party papers have been for Hancock since he was a little boy. It is perhaps uncharitable to suspect that prospective post offices and consulships have had anything to do with these extraordinary displays of hindsight wisdom, in the event of Hancock's election.

The prominent part played by Wisconsin in the nomination of Garfield and Hancock will not go unrewarded, and according to the rules of politics Wisconsin will be well taken care of no matter which party wins. In the Chicago convention the Wisconsin delegation led the break in favor of Garfield, and at Cincinnati the delegation from their state was the first to change to Hancock and start the movement which promptly nominated him.

It is said the principal fight that will be made against the democratic ticket in Indiana will be upon Mr. English. The greenbackers are to be spurred up against him. Mr. English has been down upon greenbackers, and it was through his opposition that Sanders, the democratic nominee for governor, was defeated for congress. KNOX.

New Hampshire Items.

Frank H. Page, son of Moses Page, of Melrose, Mass., a lad of about ten years of age, went to Haverhill in this state, some time ago, to visit friends, and has been missing since Monday at ten o'clock in the forenoon. The river and woods were searched by scores of men on Tuesday, and Tuesday night, but up to Wednesday noon he had not been found.

The vast property belonging to the Wambek Lumber company has been sold at public auction by the assignees in bankruptcy. The property sold consisted among other things, of 11,000 acres of real estate situated in Bethlehem and Franconia, together with the valuable mills of the company; also railroad locomotives and cars, and a large amount of other personal property. The prices realized were good, and will insure a better dividend than had been expected. The directors of the company and principal stockholders at the time of the failure were Hon. John G. Sinclair of Bethlehem, Ex-Governor William Sprague, Ex-Governor Henry Howard and William G. R. Mowry, of Providence, R. I.

Political Matters.

Hon. John C. New, chairman of the republican state central committee of Indiana, says there has been a thorough canvass of the state, and that a complete list of the doubtful voters in every county has been made; these voters have been supplied with campaign documents calculated to place the republican party in the most favorable light, and the republicans will carry Indiana, Mr. New has no doubt. He says Hancock adds no strength to the ticket, and that the party cannot avoid its previous record. The fact that Garfield was a volunteer and Hancock is a West Pointer, will have considerable effect upon the soldier element. Mr. New says that the republican ticket is more popular than any that has been nominated in the state for twenty years. Mr. English was a war democrat and supported Morton for governor, and is a hard money man; but on the other hand, he is the most unpopular democrat in the state, and in his own county cannot poll within 2000 of the party vote.

It has been asserted by the editor of a democratic newspaper in New York that "a distinguished delegate" to the Cincinnati convention "declared as of his own knowledge that there is in existence a written communication from Gen. Hancock to the surgeons of the city of Washington tendering to them the body of the unfortunate Mrs. Surratt for dissection." This charge, coming from such a source, and on such authority, ought—if the rule laid down for the republican candidate is to be followed—to be "immediately explained" by Gen. Hancock. Not to be outdone by any of its contemporaries in exhibitions of unadulterated generosity and genuine public spirit, the New York Tribune offers its columns to Gen. Hancock for his explanation of the circumstance, and the publication of the letter which he either wrote or might have written, or is believed by the "distinguished delegate" to have written.

Naval Gazette.

The U. S. S. Rio Bravo, stationed off Brownsville, Texas, went out of commission on Saturday, June 26th, and will be turned over to the army. All the officers have been detached and placed on waiting orders.

News and Notes.

A census enumerator who went through a farming district near Brockton, Mass., says that the average farm in Plymouth county, worked by a man and his family, will not produce over $300 a year.

Charles F. Hill, a former guard, and Dr. Edward Spaulding and William P. Newell, ex-councillors, testified in the state prison hearing at Concord, on the 28th ult., that they had never seen any of the cruelties charged against Warden Pillsbury.

Mrs. Mary Vansirk has been arrested at Milwaukee, Wis., charged with poisoning her stepmother, Mrs. Leahey, and Patrick Leahey, her stepbrother. The motive was to obtain possession of property.

Issac Randall, a teamster aged sixty-five years, was crushed under his loaded team at Portland, Me., on the 29th ult., and died the following night. His load of planks slipped forward, startling the horse, and in trying to jump off he caught his foot and fell under the wheels.

Miss Ella Peabody, of Andover, Mass., has done the work of a man over five years, participating in doing her part of the outdoor work on a large farm. She handles the shovel and axe as well as most men, and with the scythe is a good hand, working on the road, and, in fact, doing all that would be required of a man. In person she is a little above medium height, and weighs about a hundred pounds.

Two hundred and fifty members of the New Jersey press association arrived at North Conway by a special train, June 29th, dined at the Kearsarge house, proceeded to Fabyan's in the afternoon, and went up Mt. Washington on the 30th, returning home via the Boston, Concord & Montreal railroad.

A Startled Governor.

A correspondent of the Utica Herald reports Ex-Governor Hoffman of New York as saying that one day near the close of his term he was sitting in the executive chamber when a strange man entered unannounced, and unceremoniously seated himself. In a moment he extended his hand, in the palm of which lay a somewhat battered musket ball. "Governor," said he, "that musket ball killed my brother in the streets of New York. It was fired by one of the militia, who were acting by your orders. I regarded you as my brother's murderer, and over his dead body swore that I would take the same bullet that killed him, and with it kill you. I have many times started to make good my vow, but each time deferred it. For certain reason I have made up my mind to let you live. But I want you to know that you owe your life to me, and continue to live entirely by my sufferance." The man then unconcernedly walked away. The governor admitted that the episode startled him.

—A cruel husband calls his wife "green fruit," because she never agrees with him.

—A shapely arm and wrist should be included in an archery outfit. Don't attempt hitting the bull's-eye unless nature has been kind in that respect. It is worse than for a Chicago girl to play croquet, and bracelets only attract attention to defects which they cannot cover.—Boston Gazette.

—Ada Monk, the actress, joined the Unitarian church of the Messiah, in New York, on a recent Sunday. The pastor, Rev. Robert Collyer, used the occasion to say that there should be no antagonism betwixt church and stage. Miss Monk will remain on the stage.

AROUND HOME.

There was a good catch of mackerel in one of the harbor weirs on Wednesday morning.

The shovellers in the gravel train engaged in filling in the north mill-pond struck for a raise of wages to $1.40 a day from $1.20, on Wednesday.

The schooners Daniel Marcy and Gov. Goodwin arrived at Doane's wharf on the 30th ult., the former with thirty-five barrels of mackerel and the latter with forty barrels.

Rev. S. C. Kimball of Newmarket it is said has accepted a call from the Freewill Baptist church at Barrington, but will continue to reside in Newmarket, at least for the present.

The break in the second Newcastle bridge caused by the collision with it of a schooner and steamer some days ago, has been so far repaired that the bridge is now open to travel.

The steamer Mystic, on a recent evening excursion to the Shoals, made the run out in an hour and twelve minutes, returning in an hour and twenty minutes against a strong ebb tide.

A "landscape painter" was at work near the Eastern railroad station, Wednesday of this week, defacing a decent-looking fence with a staring advertisement of some kind of quack liver pills. Sad to relate, he was not run over by the cars. We should like to make him and his master each take a box of the pills thus advertised.

The Newburyport Herald of June 30th says: "Rev. Edward A. Rand, formerly settled over the Congregational church at Amesbury, and later of the E street Congregational church, South Boston, has left the Congregational church and will be ordained to the ministry of the Episcopal church in Salem on the 7th of July."

All resident members of the N. H. Press Assoc'n, old or new, and all other editors or master printers in the city, are invited by the president to meet at the Portsmouth Weekly counting room at four o'clock on Friday afternoon, July 2d, (instead of Thursday as stated in the Weekly) to consult as to the Excursion next week, —agreeably to the constitution.

George A. Holbrook, son of John R. Holbrook of this city, and a graduate of Bowdoin college and the Episcopal theological school at Cambridge, Mass., was on Sunday, June 27th, admitted to the deaconate of the Episcopal church by Rt. Rev. Dr. Neely, Episcopal bishop of Maine, at Portland, and in the afternoon preached in St. Paul's church in that city. He has gone to Erie, Penn., to assume the duties of assistant in St. Paul's church there.

On Wednesday forenoon, the 30th ult., a beautiful inkstand set in gold and silver and engraved with the name of the recipient was left on the desk of Mr. Edward C. Stimpson, master of the Jones school, while he was temporarily absent from the room, by the members of the 1st class of 1880. Though Mr. Stimpson had no inkling of their intention, and no thought of receiving such a token of the pupils' regard, he was not so much taken aback that he could not acknowledge the grateful compliment in graceful and feeling terms.

How are the mighty fallen! The great "greenback-labor party" of Portsmouth, which started out a year or two ago with such lofty professions, and at the first election afterward sold out to the democracy, has now gone over to that party, bag and baggage—silver-tongued orator and all—and will support Hancock and English. Well, that is where it belongs; it was never anything but a tail to the democratic kite, anyway, and never amounted to much even at that, though it did manage to draw a few well-meaning republicans from the path of virtue.

At Haverhill, Mass., on the evening of June 28th, Rev. A. A. Waite was presented with a handsome flag for the centre-pole of his tent, bearing the words "Glad tidings."

Saturday, July 19th, the thirteenth anniversary of the formation of the Congregational church in South Seabrook will be observed with appropriate exercises. Rev. Wm. A. Rand organized the church, and has been its successful pastor ever since.

Texas Jack, the scout, who appeared in this city some years ago with Buffalo Bill in a "play" which consisted principally of rapid firing of blank cartridges from revolvers, has just "passed in his checks" at Leadville, Colorado. Like his associate, Buffalo Bill, he was a genuine scout, and remarkable for skill and daring, as well as for picturesque appearance. The idea of utilizing their reputation on the stage was conceived by the notorious "Ned Buntline," of whom it may be said that, although he lived in an atmosphere of sensation and theatrical display, and had a literary reputation that consigned him to the ranks of the Bohadils, he was a man of extraordinary and reckless courage, and had lived through a long career of remarkable adventure. Whether he is alive or dead now the public does not know, and if he survives he is living an old age of poverty and obscurity, as he did not share the financial success of his theatrical invention. These physically fine and brave young fellows were induced by the rewards and temptations of the stage to exhibit themselves, and inevitably became degraded in mind and body by its circumstances and dissipations. It was a degradation to the stage also, as they never had and never pretended so have any knowledge of the profession, and merely appealed to a cheap and vulgar curiosity. It is to be hoped that the experiment will not be renewed, and that the present era of "stage scouts" will be the last.

PORTSMOUTH RIFLE CLUB.

Col. Wm. H. Sise, George E. Hodgdon, Esq., George A. Mudge, Capt. James E. Ford, Adolph Nelson, Marcus M. Collis, John H. Locke, N. Goodrich, Wm. H. Smith, Lieut. Robert E. Rich, Dr. Andrew P. Sherburne, Thomas Neil.

The by-laws of the club are as follows:

Sec. 1. The rules of shooting shall be these of the National Rifle Association of the United States, except as amended by these by-laws.

Sec. 2. At each shooting the president shall appoint an instructor, who shall take full charge and direction of the firing and whose orders shall be strictly obeyed, and his decision upon any dispute arising therefrom shall be final. Shooting at two hundred yards and under shall be off hand; any other position at greater ranges.

Sec. 3. The secretary shall keep a record book containing a list of the members of the club, properly ruled, and mark thereon the score of shots made by each member at the time of shooting.

Sec. 4. The instructor shall appoint a member present, who shall tend the target and keep a score of shots fired, and their effect; he shall also be provided with suitable signals to announce the result of each shot fired.

Sec. 5. No member shall carry a rifle to or from the range loaded; and shall not load or fire until so ordered by the instructor.

Sec. 6. The object of this club being solely intended to perfect the members thereof in the skill and science of rifle shooting, all betting is prohibited under the penalty of expulsion.

Sec. 7. The United States Springfield breech-loading rifle, calibre 45, will be used, only.

Sec. 8. Each member shall be entitled to twenty-five shots per annum; and above that number to pay the cost of his ammunition. No member shall transfer the shots to which he is annually entitled to another.

Sec. 9. Any member who shall wilfully break any of the foregoing by-laws (excepting section 6) shall forfeit one dollar, and shall be suspended from the membership of the club until paid. The instructor at the firing shall be the sole judge of any violation of these by-laws.

Sec. 10 The club shall not accept a challenge coming from any other club, for the space of one year; and members of the club shall not accept a challenge coming from marksmen not belonging to the club, except on a vote of two-thirds of the members of the club.

LEARN TO SWIM.

In the CHRONICLE of June 30th we printed an article on the lack of facilities for salt-water bathing in our city, notwithstanding it is almost surrounded by salt water. After that article was in type the following was handed to us by a gentleman whose children of both sexes are good swimmers, and as its suggestions exactly chime in with our ideas, we print it:

The Boston Post of yesterday has a leading article upon the importance of learning to swim, the conclusion being that swimming should be a part of the education of every boy and girl living on a world two-thirds of which is covered with water. Especially is this the case when the numbers are increasing every year of travellers upon the ocean, and upon the inland waters of lakes and rivers. The recent disasters that have been attended with the loss of many valuable lives, strongly emphasize this view. Doubtless some of the lost might have been saved, but for their utter helplessness when forced into the water without being able to swim even a few yards.

It is a matter of regret that our city, almost surrounded by water as it is, has no place where this delightful and valuable art can be learned. Our boys and girls are shut off from obtaining an art which would not only contribute largely to their health and pleasure, but would add to their education an accomplishment that would give them confidence or comparative calmness in the emergency of being cast into the water. At present this valuable art is learned here only by the boys, and of them by those only who make opportunities for themselves by putting boldly out from our wharves and sheltered nooks upon our river side.

Thirty years ago some of the more enterprising of our young men clubbed together, and built a swimming bath house upon the northern side of Noble's island. This was simply a place where gentlemen only could avail themselves of the advantages of a covered common dressing room, from which they could emerge into the river for a long or a short swim. There was also constructed under cover a tank about four feet wide by twelve long, with a depth of water of from three to four feet, for the use of young learners; and there are many good swimmers in the world to-day, who took their first lessons in that tank. It was highly enjoyed for several years, until some malicious fire-bug destroyed it; and since that time we have had no conveniences for bathing in our river.

We are strongly of the opinion that there should be—with all our tide water—a large and convenient bath-house here, similar to those upon the Charles river in Boston, with a ladies' compartment as well as gentlemen's, in which during the warmer months any one could enjoy a salt water plunge, and learn to swim. Such an establishment, built upon a liberal scale, would add much to the attractions of a sojourn in our city in the summer months, and we think would prove a well-patronized and paying institution in every way. B.

Once on a time, so I've been told,
There lived a Fisher's daughter,
Who loved, they said, a Triton bold,
Who came up from the water,
Oft in his hands a net he'd hold,
In rising and in sinking,
Shining with coral, pearl and gold,
Which he kept ever clinking.

"Come, dwell with me," the Triton said,
And laughed a smile so sunny,
"Yes, I will come," the maid replied,
For love and not for money;
Then si e lespt in, and of her fate
No one amongst her kin knows,
Thus was the fish girl married to
The Triton, 'mongst the minnows.

THE CENSUS RETURNS.

The census returns for this city are completed, and with those of Greenland, Newington, Newcastle and Rye were exhibited to Mr. Newton Johnston, the officer appointed for that purpose by the census commissioner of New Hampshire, at the court house in this city, June 30th. The figures for this city foot up as follows:

Ward one, 3262; ward two, 3760; ward three, 1115; ward four, 1555; total, 9692—a gain of 481 since 1870, when the population was returned at 9211. The number of persons over seventy years of age is 436, of whom 138 live in ward one, 187 in ward two, fifty in ward three, and sixty-one in ward four.

Greenland returns a total of 694, a loss of one since 1870. Persons over seventy years of age, thirty-five.

Newington has a population of 432, of whom twenty-six have reached the age of seventy years. Population in 1870, 414.

Newcastle, 610; over seventy years of age, thirty-seven. Population in 1870, 667.

Rye has gained 110 in population since 1870, when the total was 996, it now having 1106. Over seventy years of age, seventy-three.

YORK COUNTY ITEMS.

The steamer Startled Fawn arrived at York harbor on Tuesday, the 29th ult., in two hours from Newburyport.

Thomas Burns, who has been playing at Chicago, Omaha, and on the Pacific coast, for a long time past, is spending the summer season at Mr. Keens' at Kittery point. Mr. George Wilson, of the Boston museum company, will summer at the same place.

Wm. W. Dean and Charles Dixon of Kittery are to pull a wherry race on the morning of July 5th over a course from the navy yard bridge around the beacon, returning around the spindle off Badger's island, back to the bridge. A lively pull may be expected, as both are good oarsmen.

Hon. Edwin C. Moody of York, chairman of the election returns committee of Garcelon's precious council, having exposed many of the infamous frauds committed by that gang of scoundrels in their attempt to steal the state of Maine from the legal voters, and suggested that he had got about enough of fusion, the Times of this city says "he might have added that fusion had got quite enough of him. Indeed he did say that he had lately been deposed from the chairmanship of the York county greenback committee, and he supposed that he was about out of the party. Mr. Moody has, we believe, tried all the parties at present existing, and may now be looking about for a new one to join; but he never will be a very important stake in any party. Nobody will now bid very high for him." Our neighbor is indiscreet; Bro. Moody is now a full-fledged democrat of the extreme copperhead brand.

Last summer, Mr. Theodore Cook, a banker of Cincinnati, give a little dinner party to some friends at the Queen City club, the guests being General A. T. Goshorn of centennial memory, General Andy Hickenlooper, lieutenant-governor of Ohio, and some others of less note. They ate, drank and were merry, and cared not that time flew and money was twelve per cent. The hour was late when the services were at length concluded, and half an hour later, Criswell, on his way home from the office, boarded a street-car which was crowded to the platform, and the tired humorist stood outside with the other people just as though he wasn't rich enough to own a street-car of his own. The driver was also tired, but not being a humorist, he was likewise cross, and as soon as he saw Criswell leaning comfortably up against the brake-handle, which alternately punched his back and jabbed his ribs, he roughly ordered him to go inside and hang himself up by one of the unsatisfactory straps. As every strap was occupied by two men, so as water couldn't have passed through the crowd at the door, Criswell said he didn't care to go inside, that he wanted to stand on the platform and look at the scenery. The driver didn't attempt to smother his wrath, but ordered the journalist to go inside or get off. Still the man who laughed and made other people laugh, refused to go, and the driver, a big, burly ruffian, made ready to pitch him off, and matters began to look serious. The other passengers brightened up with that expression of cheerful and expectant interest they always assume when there is any prospect of a fellowman getting a thundering good licking, and the paragrapher began to think there was every chance in the world for him to be made a horrible example of, and he hated the prospect most awfully. Something had to be done, and there wasn't much time in which to do it. The reporter's training stood him in good stead. One quick glance through the car showed him there was no one present who knew him.

"Come, young fellow," shouted the driver, "inside, or I'll bounce you clear across the street."

"My man," he said with dignified severity, "you don't know who I am, but I've had my eyes on you for several days. There are too many conductors like you on this road, and we are losing friends every day because our patrons are insulted by conductors who are boors and ruffians. Now you can pull the bell-cord and let me get off. But you need not take out the car to-morrow; there will be a man to take your place. When you take the car in to-night, turn over your bell punch and ask for your time. That will settle it."

The humorist swung himself off the car and walked away, the conductor staring at him in blank, speechless dismay, while the passengers seemed to think they had just seen the president of the Cincinnati Consolidated Street Railway company, and they cheerfully assured the conductor that he had made the mistake of his life. Criswell had noted the face of the driver and the number of the car, and the next day he waited for the same car, and when he got on, sure enough there was a new conductor.

"Where is the conductor who was on yesterday?" Robert asked, as he paid his fare.

"Oh," the new man said, springing the bell punch, "the blamed fool tried to bounce a director last night, and he got fired!"

—If a man undertakes to travel on the line between truth and dishonesty, says Josh Billings, he is sure to stumble, and we all kno on which side of the line he will fall.

HIGHGATE, VT., Sept. 16th.

A year ago last March I was taken with severe rheumatic pains, which, changing from one place to another, finally settled in my loins, the disease constantly increasing in severity. Past midsummer all efforts to obtain relief had failed—my appetite gone, my flesh wasting away and not able to walk a step but with the greatest difficulty. I told my friends that I should not live to see the snow fly again. In this condition I was persuaded by a neighbor to try one more medicine—the Kidney-Wort. Its effect was like a miracle. I soon began to recover the use of my limbs, my appetite and strength returned, and on the fifth day (the last of June) with less than half a package of Kidney-Wort used, I went into my hay field to work; and continued to labor through the season. I will add, that, as a tonic, my wife and self have found the Kidney-Wort to be very useful, and I take great pleasure in commending the medicine as invaluable.

SAMUEL HOGOBON.

—A story is going the rounds of a worthy German farmer who had a shrewish wife. After many bickerings, she announced her intention to desert his mansion and never return. News of the occurrence reaching the neighbors, one of them called to condole with the deserted farmer, and said: "Hans, I pity you." "My boy," replied the honest Dutchman as he distubedly knocked out the ashes of his pipe, "you vas right. She has shust come back."

What is Just Needed for Females.

We have been shown specimens of Sambuci Wine, prepared by Mr. Alfred Speer, of Passaic, N. J. It is pure without heating qualities, being absolutely free from spirits further than its own fermentation affords. Great preference is given to it in New York and other Hospitals as a tonic, gentle stimulant, diuretic and sudorific especially prescribed for females, old weakly persons, kidney complaint and rheumatism. Mr. Speer has been years experimenting in the production of this Wine, and the newest wine he sells is four years old.—N. Y. Tribune. For people that are old and worn out and need a strengthening wine, the above is the best that can be had.

This wine is for sale by A. P. Preston, D. Kimball & Co., and F. B. Coleman, druggists, and H. F. Gerrish, grocer.

—Russia will enroll 235,000 men this year to complete the army.

DUMB ANIMALS.

[Prize Essay by Morris Green.]

Much has been said and done in the interest of protecting dumb animals. But yet after so much good has been done there is a boundless field for protectors of animals to work in. In the foremost rank of all the noble works which man has accomplished should be placed the formation of scieties for prevention of cruelty to animals. By the exertions of these different societies wonders in the way of lessening cruelty have been done. They have excited an interest in animals and a love for them throughout many countries. In this subject every class of people can unite,—politicians, lawyers, orators, merchants, everyone, and future time will reveal this love for animals universal.

Throughout the whole civilized world the characteristics of animals are gentleness, love, obedience, faithfulness and strong attachment to their masters when treated right. The instinct that some animals have is truly wonderful—They can find their homes although carried many miles out of their way. They can be taught many wonderful things, some of which are beneficial to man. The uses of the animal kingdom to mankind are enormous. They give to man food, articles of apparel, and an immense amount of labor is performed by them, from the little bird to the huge whale. One can understand the importance of animals to mankind by imagining the animal creation to be exterminated and mankind to live alone. What could we do without them? It would not be a long period before the human race would succumb. As everyone knows, animals are often treated without mercy. For some slight cause—and often without cause—they are struck with blows that would kill an ordinary man if he were to receive them. Although such a large majority cruelly treat animals, yet there are some who love them and who treat them as they would wish to be treated. It is not my purpose to speak of those people who rightfully treat animals; for they shall receive their reward hereafter, and are in fact now receiving reward—but to speak of them who judge animals so low, that they can be abused just as their masters feel. Such persons should be reasoned with, and then if they continue, should be dealt with; for in some way this amount of cruelty must be lessened.

He prayeth best who loveth best
All things, both greatest and small,
For the dear God who loveth us,
He made and loveth all.

Each animal is put on the earth for its own purpose, and man is here for his special work, and although we are in a higher sphere of life than animals, it is all the more reason that we should treat them with kindness and love, and as we would wish to be treated if we could imagine some higher and nobler being placed above us and to whom we were forced to bow in servitude.

Kindness to animals is a Christian duty. Before a person becomes a true Christian he must practice this branch of the Christian religion; for it is written in the Bible, do unto others as you would others should do unto you. This applies to us in regard to our relations with the animal kingdom as much or even more than individual to individual; for we can protest against our wrongs, while they are dumb. It was the Almighty's will to place them in a lower plane of life than us and that we should be their masters. But he did not place them here to be dealt with as we pleased, but that we should treat them kindly and humanely as a very slight return for the good they do us; and moreover it is as easy to love them and be kind to them as to hate them and be continually abusing them. When a cat purrs at our feet and plays lovingly around us, shall we pat him and encourage him to continue in his play? Who is there that can answer this question in the negative? Yet I know there are many people who would kick and throw aside an animal under such circumstances. Verily the hearts of some men are hardened.

And then while we are performing a duty in treating animals rightly, yet there is another thing to be considered, and that is the satisfaction obtained when we do a kind deed for an animal.

Although an animal cannot speak to us and say that he is thankful yet in the expression of his face we see depicted many a loving thank, and it gladdens our hearts.

Of all the domestic animals, the one who perhaps receives the worst treatment is a horse. The amount of labor that is done by horses can be better imagined than described. God did not give us the power of great strength, but he gave us the power of being quick. But to the horse he gave strength with a reasonable amount of quickness, and when a person beats a horse because he does not do a certain amount of work quickly enough, he is not reasonable. When I was in Boston a few years ago, as I was walking by one of the parks, my attention was drawn to a man who was driving a heavily laden dump-cart. The horse, as could be seen, had been overworked, and while he was patiently doing his best the human driver would strike him blow after blow with a stick where it chanced to please him. He continued in this treatment for some time, until a modest appearing lady approached him and argued with him, and finally she told him that she would have him arrested if he continued in abusing the horse. As a policeman was seen approaching the fellow drove quickly off. His horse had been resting all this time and was refreshed. The countenance of the driver as he went on his way was cowardly, and he had not the appearance of a man who knew he was in the right way and dared to stand up for it.

James A. Garfield,

OF OHIO.

Chester A. Arthur,

OF NEW YORK.

A Manchester Expert Speaks.

The Manchester Union has got itself in a rage over the statement made by us—in common with nearly every other paper of any character in the country—at the time of the nomination of English for vice president, that he was "a secession sympathizer during the war," and says it is "a contemptible lie." The Union need not be alarmed; we do not propose to infringe on its special plan of conducting a political campaign. At the same time, we do not know of any paper better qualified than the Union to decide authoritatively as to what is "a contemptible lie," for no one should be a better judge of the quality of an article than the person who has been engaged all his life in its wholesale manufacture.

Forty Drinks Per Day.

The reckless and silly way in which political charges are made is well shown in a recent issue of the Salem Gazette. Somebody asserted that $100,000 per day was spent by the republican delegations in Chicago for liquor, and nine democratic papers out of every ten reiterated the silly story. The Gazette analyzed the statement as follows:

There were said to be 15,000 people in the expedition building to witness the republican convention. But call it 25,000, including women, children, and people of all kinds and all parties. One hundred thousand dollars would allow $4 to each person "for liquor." At ten cents per glass that would allow forty drinks per day to every man, woman and child in the assembly! Of course all that liquor was consumed in exactly the manner described, because the statement bears the impress of extreme probability on its face.

Naval Expenditures.

The closing of the account of disbursements of the navy department for the past fiscal year shows that the expenditures during that period were $426,678.-34 less than for the previous year, and that there was on hand, June 30th, an unexpended balance of $2,461,188.23 of the amount available for the year, exclusive of the balances in the hands of the pay officers of the navy. If this two and a half millions had been judiciously expended it would have done some good, to the navy and to the workingmen who could have been profitably employed.

News and Notes.

Thirty-two dead bodies were recovered from the Seawanhaka disaster up to noon of June 30th, and twelve or fifteen other persons known to have been on board the boat are missing. Forty-nine of the rescued passengers were badly hurt.

Frank Skilman, colored, of New Orleans, on the 9th of June married Lizzie French, a white girl, who lived with him several days and then returned to her parents. A few days later the girl's mother, accompanied by her son, W. J. French, went to Skilman's house, where French shot twice at Skilman, killing a little colored girl. On the 30th of June all the parties were before the superior court, Skilman having procured a writ of habeas corpus to get possession of his wife, whom he declared to be illegally restrained by her parents. On being questioned by the court, the wife declared her desire to go with her husband, and the court so ordered, when Mrs. French sprang for her daughter, and young French shot twice at Skilman, severely wounding him. The wounded man was sent to the hospital, whither his wife went to attend him. French was arrested and sent to jail, but why he was not arrested when he murdered the little colored girl is not stated.

Otis S. Hammond, formerly cashier of the Boston & Albany railroad, committed suicide by shooting, in Worcester, Mass., June 30th. He had been in poor health for three years.

Henry McKibben, aged twenty-eight years, whose father, J. W. McKibben, is manager of the Girard house in Philadelphia, committed suicide in a New York liquor store June 30th, by swallowing a dose of laudanum.

A successful trial of the Ellithorpe air cushion was made with the Borden block elevator at Fall River, Mass., on Wednesday, June 30th. Last April Messrs. Savey and Crowley were fatally injured in this elevator, the air-cushion not working properly. Wednesday the fall of the car was forty-eight feet, and it was so successful that eggs contained therein were not broken and water was not spilled.

A twenty-four-pound keg of Dittmar powder exploded in the store of the Dittmar Powder Co., New York city, on the 30th ult., smashing windows and mixing things up considerably, and slightly injuring three employes. The explosion was caused by a match thrown down by a careless smoker.

INCREASE OF KIDNEY DISEASES. Recently published "Vital Statistics" reveal an alarming increase in the dangerous forms of kidney disease, caused no doubt by the viciousness of modern living, and the excessive use of beer and other stimulants. All kidney disorders are dangerous, from their tendency to run into Bright's disease. The true cure for all kidney, bladder, liver, and urinary complaints is Hunt's Remedy, the great kidney and liver medicine. It has cured even Bright's disease, and all who suffer should give it a trial. Sold by all druggists. Trial size, 75 cents.

James Pyle's Pearline for all uses in the Kitchen as well as in the Laundry, in place of soap, is fast growing in favor. Be sure and take none of the dangerous immitations having the same outward appearance, or with similar sounding names. Nothing answers like Pearline.

Charles C. Davis, of Decatur, Ill., has been sentenced to the state prison for fourteen years for murdering Berry Johnson.

A Great Enterprise.

At Visalia, Cal., on the night of June 29th, Charles Celler shot Nellie Brady in a dance-house, immediately afterward shooting himself. Both died instantly. Celler took the girl from San Francisco to Visalia recently as his mistress, and forced her to support him by leading a life of shame, and her desertion of him prompted the deed.

Let those now smoke who never smoked before, and those who always smoked now smoke the more. Ever mindful that the old-fashioned hand-made "Norlega" cigar has no equal among its rivals.

A 25,000-barrel iron oil-tank at Olean, N. Y., was struck by lightning, June 30th, set on fire, and destroyed.

Let the poor sufferers from female complaints take courage and rejoice that a painless remedy has been found. We refer to Lydia Pinkham's Compound. It is prepared at 233 Western Avenue, Lynn, Mass. Send to Mrs. Pinkham for pamphlets.

The steamer Stonington has resumed her trips in the New York line.

Statistics show that more people die of consumption than from any other cause. Slight colds are the seeds of consumption. Beware of the slight cough. Adamson's Botanic Balsam stands without a peer. Trial size, only 10 cts.

Worth a Thousand Dollars.

Every child born into a family is thought to be worth "a thousand dollars" to the parents. Why then should they not be cared for from infancy to maturity? Keep the mouth and teeth right by SOZODONT, and you start them right.

Brown's Household Panacea

Is the most effective Pain Destroyer in the world. Will most surely quicken the blood whether taken internally or applied externally, and thereby more certainly relieve pain, whether chronic or acute, than any other pain alleviator, and it is warranted double the strength of any similar preparation.

It cures pain in the side, back or bowels, sore throat, rheumatism, toothache and all aches.

The great reliever of pain, "Brown's Household Panacea," should be in every family. A teaspoonful of the Panacea in a tumbler of hot water (sweetened, if preferred), taken at bedtime, will break up a cold. 25 cents a bottle.

Much Sickness,

Undoubtedly with children attributed to other causes, is occasioned by worms. Brown's Vermifuge Comfits, or Worm Lozenges, although effectual in destroying worms, can do no possible injury to the most delicate child. This valuable combination has been successfully used by physicians, and found to be absolutely sure in eradicating worms, so hurtful to children. Twenty-five cents a box. t,thsf

AROUND HOME.

The schooner yacht Lizzie, of Cohasset, Mass., came up to this city on Thursday afternoon last.

Mr. John W. Caswell raised a Hancock & English flag at his residence on Lafayette road, June 30th.

A submarine diver was at work off Pier wharf, trying to recover an anchor lost some time ago, on Thursday.

The pockets of all the weirs at Fort McClary and the entrance to the harbor were filled with mackerel on Thursday last.

John McDonnell and James Sullivan, for drunkenness, were each fined $3 and costs, in the police court on Thursday.

The dividend on the Portsmouth & Dover railroad will be paid to-day at the office of the treasurer, on Market street in this city.

The hay on Peirce's island has been safely stowed away in the barn this season without getting wet—a rather unusual occurrence.

There will be a cricket match between the Lawrence cricket club of Lawrence, and the Portsmouth eleven, on Monday, July 5th.

The steamer Startled Fawn, of Newburyport, made a trip to this city on Thursday of this week with a party from Haverhill, Mass.

Dover is 1994 ahead of Portsmouth by the census of 1880, having a total population of 11,686 to Portsmouth's 9692. Increase of Dover since 1870, 1686.

A boat owned and sailed by Mr. Benjamin M. Bailey was dismasted off the Jerry's point spindle, Wednesday afternoon of this week, by a heavy squall.

The Portland, Saco & Portsmouth railroad dividend (semi-annual three per cent) will be paid at the Eastern railroad treasurer's office in Boston on the 15th inst.

The Mutual Life Ins. Co. of New York, during the week ending May 22d, paid to a banker of this city an endowment policy of $1800, the dividends on which were $217.05. During the week ending June 5th the same company paid to a professional man of this city a policy of $1236.40.

Albert Eliot, a laborer, residing at the Creek, was struck by the westward bound train going out of this city Thursday evening just before seven o'clock, and very severly hurt. The extent of his injuries could not be ascertained. He was picked up in an unconscious condition and conveyed to his home.

Mr. John M. Bailey, of Billerica, Mass., writes us as follows under date of June 30th: "Seeing the account in the papers that the army worm had got into the fields in the vicinity of Portsmouth, I take the liberty to write you and suggest that you call the attention of the farmers in your region to the fact that after the worm has done its work, there will probably be time to plant corn for 'ensilaging,' and thus secure a good supply of fodder for fall and winter. The 'Mammoth Ensilage corn,' or other corn, can be sowed as late as the 20th of July, possibly till the 1st of August, and after that time it will be best to sow millet. The process of 'ensilaging' is not costly and by no means difficult, but it must be rightly done—and if so success is certain."

Referring to the admission in the CHRONICLE of Thursday that we knew no more about English, the democratic candidate for vice president, than the Times did, up to the publication of John C. New's statement that he was a war democrat, and that we therefore accepted the universal and previously uncontradicted statements of the metropolitan papers, based on his known record as a "doughface" when in congress before the war, that he was a secession sympathizer during the war, the Times of Thursday evening says: "Common honesty would require that one should abstain from making damaging reports about the conduct of a man of whom he knew nothing. It is better to wait a week for the truth than to hatch up a lie to exhibit one's smartness." We can only gather from this that our neighbor intends to charge us with deliberately and intentionally lying—a charge which the editor of the Times knows is wholly false. We would remind our brother that while deliberate misrepresentation might not be wondered at in one of the unregenerate, who goes down river Sundays and does other improper things, it is hardly consistent with the character of a professed follower of Him who spake evil of no man.

HIGH SCHOOL ASSO'N.

At a meeting of the directors of the Portsmouth High School Association it was decided to hold the fifth reunion of the alumni on Tuesday evening, July 20th, at the new Franklin dance hall, which will be opened to the public for the first time on that evening. The literary and musical exercises will be limited, but first class and very interesting. Harlow's orchestra will furnish the music for the dancing. It was also decided that each member of the association be entitled to two tickets of admission to the hall, and that the complimentary tickets be confined strictly to the members of the press and the graduating class of '80. Certificates of membership to the association can by obtained of Messrs. Geo. E. Hodgdon, No. 9 Congress street, and C. A. Hazlett, at the First national bank, by any person who has ever attended the high school, on the payment of one dollar.

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

In Board of Mayor and Aldermen, regular meeting, Thursday evening, July 1st:

Bids of the Rockingham national bank for municipal deposits and loans, deposits to draw 3 3-4 per cent interest, and loans to be at 4 3-4 per cent, were accepted.

Shirley B. Cunningham asked for sidewalk on South street; granted.

Geo. H. Jackson asked leave to encumber Fleet street for building purposes; granted.

Pay rolls of fire department, $1469.59, and of police department, $597.08, were ordered paid.

A committee consisting of the mayor and Ald. Noyes and Mugridge, were appointed to enquire into the expediency of erecting a bathing house.

The mayor stated that the city treasurer had had a suit entered against him by a citizen whom he arrested for non-payment of taxes, and suggested that the city solicitor be instructed to defend the suit, which was ordered.

Committee on police, to whom was referred the dispute about the alarm of fire some weeks ago, requested further time; granted.

Committee to whom was referred the subject of the condition of the Bartlett and Walker schoolhouses were granted a week further in which to report.

Committee on street lights introduced a resolution changing the time of lighting street gas lights, which was passed.

Plan of committee for introduction of water in schoolhouse on State street, was adopted.

Adjourned.

HIGH SCHOOL EXHIBITION.

Notwithstanding the heat on the 1st inst., the upper room of the high school building was filled in the afternoon with the relatives and friends of the pupils, and would have been had the day been twice as hot.

The school room was handsomely decked with flowers, and the programme was carried out as published, the exercises being more interesting than ever before within our experience. To discriminate between the various essays would be invidious; all were of a higher order than usual, both as to ideas and grammar, and were delivered in good style, with correct gesticulation. We will particularize the reading of "the king and locusts" by Miss Annie M. Varrell, which was excellently rendered, and shew that this young lady possesses unusual qualifications for a reader. The humorous declamation, "Milgenwater," by Emil C. Pfeiffer, elecited considerable applause.

Mr. Clarke and his assistants, Misses Cushing, Hooper and Magraw, may feel proud of the marked advance shown in the school under their charge; and the cordiality of feeling existing between teachers and pupils is pleasing to contemplate.

After the literary and musical exercises were over, the Haven medals were awarded, the spokesman of the committee being Col. D. J. Vaughan. The following is the

The compositions of Edith Chesley of the graduating class, and of Elwyn Carter of the third class, were judged to be second in merit.

We are informed that during the past year the most marked improvement made by any pupil was by Herbert White.

The essay written by Morris Green was judged most worthy of the special prize offered for the best essay on the protection of animals. [The essay will be found on the 1st page of this paper.]

The diplomas were then presented to the graduates by Mayor Sise, who said:

Young ladies and young gentlemen of the graduating class: It is with feelings of pride and pleasure that I have listened to these closing exercises of your school life; and by your perfection in them you have proved to us that we may well feel proud of the teachers and scholars of our high school. I now present you on behalf of our city these diplomas, and in doing so allow me to express the hope that through life the same laudable ambition that led you on to win these honors will animate you still; then with the help of an all-wise Providence the best probilities of the future will be yours.

We give the salutatory, subject "John Milton," by Clarence W. Fraser, and the valedictory, subject "Beauty," by Carrie E. Plummer.

John Milton.

Four years ago to-day the class which now graduates was examined for admission to our school; it seems but as yesterday. Time in its rapid flight has brought us to the closing scene of our High School life, and it is our pleasant duty to welcome here our friends and the friends of our school. We greet you as heartily and as kindly, we trust, as any former class. We ask your kind attention to our exercises. We do not promise you learned discourses, but we would present to you what we have with modesty and a due consideration of your patience.

> Three poets, in three distant ages born,
> Greece, Italy, and England did adorn.
> The first in loftiness of thought surpass'd;
> The next in majesty; in both the last.
> The force of nature could no further go;
> To make a third, she join'd the other two."

Thus wrote Dryden of England's great poet, and as we weigh this verdict, looking back through this essential medium of many years, it seems hardly more than just. Indeed, the two centuries that have passed away have only served to make the name of John Milton dearer to every scholar who loves the literature of our tongue. He lived in an age of controversy, and flung himself with characteristic energy into the thickest of the strife. His name was too hateful in the ears of royalists to allow his admirers to give public expression to their feelings under the Stuarts, but his modest wish to "leave someting so written to after-times as they should not willingly let it die" has been more than realized. While to the many-sided Shakspeare, as first of poets, the homage of the world is rightfully given, it would be difficult to limit the admiration justly due to the character, learning, genius and works of Milton. In learning and sublimity he stands without a rival in the whole range of English literature.

In endeavoring to write of him and his works, I have been tempted to wish that I knew either more of him or less. It is hard for a school boy to do justice to the great talents of one who wrote in his early days poems of unrivalled beauty, in middle life controversial prose unsurpassed in richness and energy, and when the great shadow fell upon him and he could no longer see the beauties spread around him evolved from the greater beauty within visions so grand and awful as to hold the world spell-bound in ever-increasing admiration and wonder.

Great poets are few in number; and denied the privilege of living at the same time with them and enjoying their society, what a blessing it is that we have their works, and can sit down with them, and know the secret workings of their minds! Milton had from boyhood a thirst for knowledge. He devoured, and, what was better, digested the classical works of several languages. He possessed the advantages of a good education, and as a direct result of his intense but ardent study, he soon so far mastered those languages, as to be able to write in them with comparative ease. In youth it appears that he never wasted his time, but improved each moment as it passed. The results of this habit brought in after years heart-felt gratitude from the world, and produced in himself feelings of satisfaction.

From the university of Cambridge he retired to the house of his father, where for five years he devoted his time most assiduously to classical literature, making the well-known remark that he "cared not how late he came into life, only that he came fit." What a commentary upon the folly of those who are eager to launch out upon life with little education, no acquaintance with the world's great thoughts, with no experience and perhaps with little sense. They expect to take the world by storm, but have supplied themselves with none of the qualifications necessary for such undertaking.

While at the university Milton had written his grand "Hymn on the Nativity" which as he been said "was sufficient to show that a new and great light was about to rise on English poetry." And during those five years of study he gave to the world those lovely fancies, those sweet harmonies of all pastoral, chivalrous, courtly, scholastic melodies, which meet and ravish us away from each urgent thought in Comus and L'Allegro, Il Penseroso, Lycidas and Arcadia.

In 1638 he went to Italy, "the most accomplished Englishman that ever visited her classic shores." "There it was," said he, "that I found and visited the famous Galileo, grown old, a prisoner to the Inquisition." The Marquis of Manso, the friend of Tasso, said of him, "If his religion were as good as his other qualifications, he would be 'non Anglus, verum Angelus,' not an Englishman but an angel."

Increasing civil dissensions recalled him to England, and he soon became engaged in the religious controversies of the day. The Puritans as a class possessed little learning, and were waging an unequal contest against such men as Bishop Hall and Archbishop Usher, when Milton appeared, and threw not only the force and fire of his genius, but his varied and copious learning, on the yielding side. It almost startles us as we see from the golden platonisms and gentle spirit of his earlier days rise the inflexible and wrathful genius that became the vindicator of Charles' regicide and the eulogist of Cromwell.

But we gladly turn from the period of strife to his latter years when his majestic spirit seems nearer in age than even in youth to the gates of heaven, and, no longer fiercest in the war of Christian against Christian, blends all the poetries of Christendom in that wondrous hymn compared to which Bulwer has declared "Tasso's song but a dainty lay, and even Dante's verse but a Gothic mystery."

Milton dared a greater and more sublime undertaking than uninspired man had ever ventured upon; from earth he entered other regions with fearless tread:

> He passed the flaming bounds of place and time;
> The living throne, the sapphire blaze,
> Where angels tremble wh e they gaze,
> He saw; but, blasted with excess of light,
> Closed his eyes in endless night.

Never again did the power of vision come to those sightless eyes, but in imagination he gazed upon scenes more sublime than mortal eyes ever saw, and depicted them in language which none but he could command. To speak befittingly of his Paradise Lost is merely beyond our might, we can only point you to it and say that it takes no second rank among the best works of human genius. He who studies it most, will most realize its overpowering merit.

Classmates, during the last year of our course we have spent many hours with Milton, studying his great life and the immortal poem

> Of man's first disobedience, and the fruit
> Of that forbidden tree, whose mortal taste
> Brought death into the world, and all our woe,
> With loss of Eden till one greater Man
> Restore us, and regain the blissful seat."

What lessons have they taught us which we can carry with us as we go forth from our school life to more active duties? Milton brought to every undertaking of his successful career the most ample intellectual furnishing, provided by long years of careful study, and a consummate industry which never tired till his work was done. These were the means which insured success for him. The lessons are plain, and may we ever heed them.

Beauty.

Beauty has much influence over our lives, especially as a love for it is one of a few things which remain unchanged to us by circumstances. We can imagine no surroundings amid which we would be indifferent to beautiful objects. In our homes, where we spend the largest part of our time, we feel most the influence of the things around us. We realize the difference between a pleasant home which tends to elevate the mind, and a formal, cheerless dwelling, affording only the necessities of life.

The most desirable pictures and statuary are not within the reach of all, and they are not absolutely necessary to make home attractive. In trying to adorn our homes, sometimes we disfigure them with ornaments that are merely fashionable. There is more beauty in the commonest flowers that are at everybody's disposal than in the most costly article of bric-a-brac that money can buy.

Sometimes rooms are filled with a variety of objects whose only merit lies in the fact that the owner made them. How many poorly painted landscapes, storks, cat-o'-nine-tails we see, that are supposed to adorn the objects on which they display only the workman's ignorance. A year or two ago, many a pretty china vase lost its beauty by having decalcomania figures pasted over its graceful form. A delicately-tinted shell has often been made common-place enough by daubs of paint.

Some people have grown up under such circumstances that they do not possess that refinement and delicate sensibility to beauty which is found in those who have been situated so as to have artistic tastes satisfied. So we find the better educated class of people are more susceptible to its influence than the lower classes. Familiarity with works of art quickens one's perceptions to a great degree. An educated eye sees beauty in what seems to others only rubbish. There is no one however degraded who does not find it in something; the roughest man is touched by the beautiful face and pleading eyes of his little child.

We admire beauty in the human form and face. Regular features and soft curving outlines please us more than angular lineaments. The Venus de Medici is more beautiful than the Laocoon, because its outline is made up of curved lines that gradually lose themselves in one another, while the outline of the latter is made up of a series of angles.

Beauty exists in a high degree in music, and through this medium has perhaps the greatest control over the mind. The association of ideas with sounds often makes music more beautiful to us. The singing of birds not only in itself delights us, but reminds us of their delicate forms and pleasing habits. A song of no particular merit that we heard in our childhood seems beautiful to us now because it brings with it pleasant recollections.

Pictures in which beauty is the predominating characteristic tend to make us happy and cheerful, while one in which suffering chiefly is expressed, tends to depress us. It is said that a person while looking at Angelo's "Last Judgment" is overcome by the awfulness and sublimity of the subject. We know that Raphael's Madonnas give us only pleasant impressions. The art museums of to-day are cultivating the tastes of the people. Here, others enjoy the pictures as well as the owners. While surrounded by graceful statues and other works of art, purer thoughts and loftier aims find their way into the soul. Here the laborer finds rest in seeing living pictures of great artists; or, perhaps, he is as much touched by the common scenes of every-day life, so vividly depicted by modern painters; for, although the artists of to-day choose subjects far different from the grand ones selected by the old masters, they are not wanting in beauty nor in their usefulness to men.

Pictures, however attractive, are but copies of more beautiful nature; and nature is ever before us. But every one does not appreciate beauty even in nature, and objects that awaken this emotion in one person awaken quite a different feeling in another. In one of his books, George McDonald speaks of the poppies that grow so commonly in the fields of Scotland. The Scottish maiden, as she sees them nodding and waving in the grain, thinks only of their beauty; but, to the farmer, they merely indicate the barrenness of the soil. And so it is with the common daisy or white-weed of our country. Although they are such a source of pleasure to children, they often suggest to more practical minds only the idea of injured hay-crops.

To a certain extent we have the power of creating our own happiness, although we are apt to think it depends wholly on circumstances. Nature furnishes us with sources of pleasure, which, if we wish to find, we must become acquainted with her works.

Beauty is everywhere: but we must seek for it in order to find it. It does not reveal itself to the eyes of every careless observer, although the earnest seeker finds it on every hand. He finds it in the majestic tree with its broad and spreading branches lifted to heaven, and in the modest flower, which, sheltered by its own glossy leaves, is lifting its little cup to the same heaven that cares for its neighbor, the tall tree.

And all this beauty has a good influence upon people. It softens their dispositions, and evens their tempers. We feel that we are better for that which exists in the world, and that our best thoughts often come to us when we feel its influence. Our capacity for enjoying it depends somewhat upon our state of mind. When we are happy, nature seems to have taken a holiday and to have decked herself in her gayest robes, just to please us. We see a new beauty in every leaf and flower, and the tinkling brook is singing a merry song that we never thought of listening to, before.

Things to be truly beautiful must be useful. All the beauty in the world would be of little importance if it were of no use. It is this sense of fitness that makes us admire a finely-built ship that looks as if it could withstand the storms of the ocean.

This fact, the utility of ornamental objects, is noticeable in nature. All the blossoms that the trees put on in the spring are not merely for show; they are necessary for the forming of the fruit. So we find all through the world that beautiful things are of some use, and often they have a work to do that a less pleasing object would not perform. They are like the leafy, branching, tree, that gives more shade than its stunted and barren neighbor.

All through our school-lives, and especially since we began the study of art, we have felt the influence of beautiful things. In thinking of the past four years, we see how the beauty of truth and mental growth has made us happier. We wish to express to the mayor and the high school committee our appreciation of their thoughtful provision for our welfare. We thank our chairman for his kindly interest in our work.

To our teachers, who have been so patient and diligent in their instructions, we are grateful. They have taught us that studying is a pleasure as well as a duty. We shall remember with pleasure in after years the happy hours spent with them.

While we are thinking of the benefits we have received, we do not forget our parents to whose exertions we owe almost every thing we enjoy.

Our school life has gone so swiftly that it seems but yesterday that we entered the school. Although our number is much smaller than when we entered, death has deprived us of none of our classmates. We hope to keep unbroken the bond of friendship and interest that makes us one in the present. The pleasant recollections of our school days cannot be forgotten.

The names of the graduating class are as follows: Edith Chesley, Grace A. Conner, Alice M. Craig, Laura H. Haraden, Grace Marvin, Martha E. Marvin, Carrie E. Plummer, A. Adonell Taylor, Annie M. The class motto is "Invenium viam aut faciam."

The reception at Congress hall by the graduating class, in the evening, was attended by a numerous and joyous party, and notwithstanding the warmth of the evening dancing was well attended to up to a reasonably late hour.

WAR IN BIDDEFORD.

During the street parade of the circus in Biddeford, Wednesday forenoon of this week, several houses were entered by burglars. In one or two instances they were discovered in the houses, but excused their entrances as a mistake. Notice being given at the police station, officers were promptly on the trail, but not until the afternoon could anything definite be learned as to their whereabouts, when word came that three men of the description of the burglars had gone out through to Goose Fair on the railroad. The officers overtook them on the railroad about a mile and a half from the city. City Marshal Andrews, with but one man, called upon them to surrender themselves, but was answered by shots from their revolvers, twenty-five shots being exchanged. The burglars taking to the woods, and the officers having exhausted their cartridges, sent back for a supply; meantime the burglars got a start of some fifteen minutes. The excitement spread rapidly, and soon there were hundreds upon the scene. The woods being of great extent, it was finally thought best to order out the Biddeford light infantry, who were promptly on the spot, under command of Capt. Berry, and sent into the woods at speaking distance apart. In about two hours two of the fellows were seen to leave the woods and make off a cross aroad and strike for another tract of growth, closely followed by the marshal. Capt. Berry and his men succeeded in getting around them, and they soon gave themselves up. The third escaped for the time being, followed by the officers and infantry. The prisoners are thought to be the persons who committed burglaries in Saco on the previous night, and it is believed they were also connected with recent burglaries in Portland. They are both small and dark complexioned, and gave no names. The third one was a larger man. Nothing was found on the two captured.

In reponse to a telegram city marshal Entwistle with a posse of police was on Thursday, searching between this city and South Berwick junction for the missing burglar who escaped from Biddeford on Wednesday after firing upon officers of that city. The man was seen on the track of the Portland, Saco & Portsmouth railroad, but being closely followed by the officers took to the woods near Eliot, which have since been surrounded we hear, thereby insuring the ultimate arrest of the man. City Marshal Entwistle returned home early Thursday evening.

cities, and although there is a great deal of cruelty now, yet it is lessened much by these defenders of God's creatures, who speak for them when a chance is offered. Therefore should this army of workers be continually made greater and greater, and then an immense amount of cruelty can be stopped.

Ever since the earliest times we read accounts of the bravery and attachment which dogs have shown towards their masters, though at the same time treated with inhumanity, and we know this to be a fact at the present time. Dogs have saved many lives, they have warned their masters of approaching danger, and they have done for man many beneficial acts. There are some who love dogs, possess them, and treat them in a manner which brings back love, and although there are many of this class of people there are many of another class who look upon dogs as an evil. They throw aside the thought of the good done and being done by these faithful animals, and they think that they are ungrateful and savage. Some dogs are brought up where they are dealt with kindly, and thus they have a love for their masters which sometimes costs them their lives, while other dogs are from their earliest age being continually kicked about and half starved, and thus their natures are changed to a great degree.

In the place of the courageous, noble-looking animal there is a beast that is continually sneaking away when he spies his master. What causes this difference in dogs? It can be nothing else but bad treatment that so completely changes their nature.

This can be seen in persons as well as in dogs, for when a person is brought up in misery his life is influenced by it.

In the slaughtering of different animals there is in my opinion more cruelty shown than in any other way. We are obliged to kill animals for our benefit, and if they must die let it be as quickly and with as little pain as possible.

One day as I was in the neighborhood of a slaughter house, I thought I would go and see how they killed animals. As I entered the yard I saw two or three men catching sheep. As soon as they were caught, the men tied them by fastening two of the front legs and one of the behind together, and then they were roughly carried to the slaughter house where they were flung on the blood-stained floor to await their turn for slaughter. One of them would be seized, hung on a hook, and his throat would be cut. Then he was left to die. After he became motionless they would proceed to skin the carcass while another was being stuck. All this would happen before the eyes of the sheep on the floor, and at intervals they would thump the floor with their one loosened leg as if they were in agony and they would utter a peculiar heart-rending cry. Such scenes I presume are going on day after day, and there are hundreds of people who perhaps have not the slightest idea of how sheep are killed.

There should be persons appointed to investigate into this matter and see what can be done to lessen the cruelty practised in slaughter houses. The sheep should not see their companions being slaughtered, nor should they ever smell the blood, which is so plenty in these places. Nor should they be allowed to die by degrees but they should instantly be put to death. The reason why these men are so inhuman is somewhat because they have practiced this slaughtering so long, that they have learned to look upon animals as having no feeling, and their hearts have become hardened. But the greatest reason for this cruelty is in my opinion because these men have had no teaching to the contrary when they were boys. I suppose in their youth they were accustomed to maltreat all living beings of the animal race, stone birds and cats, and do all such deeds, so that when they grew older they thought nothing of letting a larger animal lay in a dying condition for a long time.

We see boys now who bid fair when they grow up to be among the class that treat animals with cruelty, unless they are soon taught different.

The habit of kindness to all of God's creatures should be taught to the young, as well as the learning found in books; for when a boy is taught to love all animals, it helps to shape his destiny in the future, makes him love his fellow-men better, makes of him a better man, and gives him a love of nature as he watches the habits of all animals.

Therefore may this be instilled in all children so that when they become men they can work for the dumb who cannot express their treatment in words. There should be new methods invented for exciting an interest in the subject of treating animals with kindness. As I have said before, children should be made to be interested in this subject. For in less than half a century from now the youth of the present day will be the rulers of the world; among them will be the leading men, and if they are made to love animals now and regard them as a benefit, they will throughout their whole lives do what they can for their good.

It seems to be a trait in the nature of the greatest men who have lived, to love animals. In particular many of the greatest painters and poets have had a great love for the animal creation. They can ferret out in the actions of the dumb, just such things that will be the most pleasing in a painting or in poetry. A person's characteristic is in a great degree shown by the way he treats animals. When we see a person beating a horse cruelly we decide that that person has an ugly, revengeful spirit, but on the contrary, when we see a man reading a horse over an obstacle with gentle pats and kind, encouraging words, we see in that man's spirit all good characteristics.

May this work of protecting the dumb go on; may it be awaken up and increased that in a comparatively short time, a case of cruelty to animals will be rare. NEMO.

THE HIDDEN SORROW.

It was a bitter cold day; the streets of New York were alive with a dense mass of crowding humanity, over-coated, muffled and veiled, as became those who joyously braved the penetrating wind and sharp atmosphere, in the merry-making time between the death of the old and the birth of the New Year.

Notwithstanding the frosty weather, the Empire City was never in gayermood, and up and down and across the thronged thoroughfares, stylish turnouts dashed swiftly by to the twinkling music of silver-tongued bells and low, happy laughter, speeding away to the open roads and snow-clad country, lying white and still beyond the hurry and turmoil of the great city.

Though so cold without it, it was warm enough in the elegant room where we were sitting—my cousin Althea, her half-sister, Mrs. Irene Chester, and I. My cousin Althea was not young—past thirty, in fact; but she was the most beautiful woman I ever saw, and as she sat in the large crimson damask chair by the window, dreamily looking out at the hurrying passers-by, I thought I had never seen any one so charmingly and irresistibly lovely. Her lustrous black eyes, clear olive complexion and glossy wealth of purple-black hair were so perfectly perfect that one did not know which to admire the most, and her voice and smile were as sweet and winning as her form was graceful and her face matchlessly beautiful.

Howard Tremaine loved her as few men love their wives; and Althea, as everybody knew, idolized her handsome husband, and yet somewhere there was a hidden sorrow, the nature of which I could not for my life divine. I had seen its shadow more than once, but the substance kept itself well out of view, and, but for the sad, anxious, restless look that often of late crept into Althea's great, soulful eyes, I'd not have thought sorrow could exist in her luxurious home, much less fix itself permanently there.

We were going to the opera in the evening. Mr. Chester was to attend us in the absence of Howard, who had gone away two or three hours before with three or four friends, who had, very much to his wife's regret, called for him to accompany them on a little half-hour or so sleigh-ride out on the Bloomingdale road.

As the short winter afternoon wore on, Althea grew every moment more and more uneasy; her faith in the "little half hour or so," never having been very strong, died utterly, long before the sun's last cold, golden rays faded in the west, and when Mrs. Chester rang for lights, and carelessly remarked that it was time to dress, she was noticeably ill at ease, and would do nothing but walk to and fro between the window and the warm, rosy fire-light in that nervous, listening, expectant way, which is painfully suggestive of secret dread and anxiety, too deep and wretched for words.

Whatever Howard Tremaine touched turned to gold, and all that money could buy his wife possessed. Her wardrobe, jewels, house and carriage were among the most superb in New York, yet her closet evidently had its skeleton, and tonight, more than ever before, it seemed determined to rattle its dry bones in our very ears, and make itself felt and seen in every nook and corner of the millionaire's sumptuous home, in spite of all Althea could do to keep the unpleasant thing out of sight.

For the twentieth time she walked to the window, and, with a half-suppressed sigh on her lips, stood watching the sleighs fly past, so long that Mrs. Chester quite lost her patience, and exclaimed, rather petulantly:

"Nonsense, Althea! Why is it that you always will be worrying about Howard. He is not a baby, and is no doubt quite as capable of finding his way home alone as most men are. Mr. Tremaine knows that we are going to the opera this evening, and he will be sure to drop in before the end of the first act, you may depend. And now we must dress, if we wish to hear the opening air in 'Faust,' which I certainly do, however it may be with you."

Mrs. Chester was one of those positive characters who immediately act upon what they say, and in less than an hour we were on our way to the opera.

The house, when we entered, was literally packed with a most brilliant and fashionable audience, but Althea seemed to move like one in a dream, and took not the slightest notice of anything or anybody around her.

I could not make it out at all, and hardly dared to look at her for very sympathy. Her magnificent dress of violet velvet and creamy old lace became her perfectly, and never did a queen carry herself more royally, or seem more unconscious of her grandeur and beauty.

Diamonds—a fortune's worth of them—flashed on arms, neck and bosom, and gleamed like drops of liquid light amid the rich abundance of her dusky hair; but she was not happy.

There was much too heavy a sorrow lying unrestfully at her heart for that—too much of a nameless dread and anxiety to allow enjoyment of any sort.

At the end of the second act a gentleman made his way to our box, and asked, in the usual conventional manner, after the customary greetings were gone through with, how we liked the music.

Mr. Chester, who had been comfortably dozing in his chair the whole time, declared he was never more charmed—an innocent fabrication which none of us cared to question.

"And where did you leave Mr. Tremaine?" inquired Mrs. Chester, in some surprise. "He was with you, I think, Mr. Richland?"

"Yes, and I left him with the others at Delmonico's. I don't care for that sort of

Naval Gazette.

Capt. H. J. Bishop, U. S. M. C., is ordered from the Colorado to the Brooklyn navy yard, and Capt. T. H. Corrie from the Brooklyn yard and to the Colorado.

Rear Adm. J. M. B. Clitz is ordered to command the Asiatic station, and Capt. James E. Jouett to command the station at Port Royal; Commander Francis J. Higginson to duty as inspector of the fifth lighthouse district; Rear-Admiral Thos. H. Patterson from the Asiatic station and ordered to return home; Commodore Thomas Patterson from the naval station at Port Royal and ordered to command the navy yard at Washington; Captain J. C. P. De Krafft from command of the navy yard at Washington, and ordered to continue on duty as captain of the yard; Commander Silas W. Terry from duty as inspector of the fifth lighthouse district, and allowed thirty days to settle accounts; Lieutenant Richard Wainwright from the Asiatic station, and ordered to return home.

The United States ship Minnesota arrived off Rondout, N. Y., Wednesday, June 30th. The object of her visit is to procure boys for the navy.

Advices from Panama of June 23d contain the following: "U. S. gunboat Alaska arrived at Chimbote, Peru, on the 9th inst., having in tow storeship Onward, from Ancon. The Alaska sailed again for Callao on the 18th, carrying a mail for the legations at Lima, and having on board Gen. Adams, lately appointed United States minister to Bolivia. The gunboat Lackawanna was at Amapala, Honduras, on the 13th inst. President Soto made an official visit to the commander. The Lackawanna expected to touch at Corinto, Nicaragua, and Punta Arenas, Costa Rica, and thence to proceed to Panama."

Democratic Talk.

"Scott," the Washington correspondent of the Boston Traveller, writing under date of June 30th says:

I met a democrat to-day who was not pleased with the nomination of Gen. Hancock as the candidate of his party. He is a man who has held high positions, and who knows the inside working of the democratic machine. He does not consider Gen. Hancock's nomination a strong one, and predicts that before sixty days the democratic leaders will regret the action of the Cincinnati convention. "Hancock is not," said the democrat, "a man fit to be put into the presidential chair. He is without any civil experience, and has no opinions of his own on the great questions which go to make up a political party. He is a successful military leader and this is all that can be said in his favor. The documents which appeared when he was military commander in Louisiana, during the days of reconstruction, as having been written by him, were prepared by another hand. This much I know. These political papers I know were not written by Judge Black, as alleged by republican newspapers, but were written by Capt. W. G. Mitchell, who figures in a report to the war department as having been illegally appointed on Gen. Hancock's staff, and as having drawn $9051.05 to which he was not entitled. Mitchell is a man of ability and has been useful in supplying brains to Hancock, and enabling the latter to get credit for political papers which he never wrote, and which he is incapable of writing. Let me say that Hancock has been flourishing in borrowed plumage, and playing 'statesman' at the public expense. When the country comes to know his capabilities there will be a howl all over the land at the mistake made by our party at Cincinnati. I predict that as soon as the leaders see through Hancock they will close his mouth and keep him from public gaze as much as possible until the campaign ends. He is a splendid soldier and a gentleman in every sense of the word, but that is all that can be said."

New Hampshire Items.

According to the census returns there are 385 French Canadian families in Great Falls, and 150 French families in Salmon Falls.

At a meeting of the governor and council, July 1st, the following appointments were made: Ex-Gov. Benjamin F. Prescott and Joseph Kidder, trustees of the college of agriculture and mechanic arts; board of bank commissioners, Leander W. Coggswell of Henniker, John D. Lyman of Exeter, and William H. Berry of Pittsfield; Hon. James W. Patterson, superintendent of public instruction. Charles Jackman of Rochester, committed for four years to prison for taking a horse, was pardoned, there being strong petitions for him. Horace A. Brown and William Butterfield were appointed auditors of the State printer's accounts. J. L. Belden was nominated for special police justice of Keene. The governor and council decided to meet on Tuesday, the 13th inst., to consider the state prison matter.

News and Notes.

Hermann Lissberger, a New York iron dealer, who failed a short time ago, and made an assignment to Bernard Shultzfield, has filed his schedule in the court of common pleas. It shows liabilities of $2,181,672; nominal assets, $2,290,309, and real assets, $5692.

Mary O'Connor murdered her three children, the oldest six years of age, by cutting their throats with a razor, Friday morning, at Jersey City, N. J. The reason she gives is that she was not able to support them.

The pleasure steamer Mary exploded her boiler at Minneapolis, Minn., July 1st, while waiting at a landing for a pleasure party. Five persons were killed or fatally hurt, and several others injured.

The Harvard-Yale boat race at New London, Conn., July 1st, was won by Yale, beating Harvard ten boat lengths.

Hon. Daniel Waldo Lincoln, president of the Boston & Albany railroad, and Mrs. E. C. Appleton, wife of Dr. William Appleton of Boston, fell from a car attached to the "observation train" at the New London boat race on the 1st inst., and were both killed. The lady was dead when taken up, and Mr. Lincoln lived but a few moments, being terribly mangled.

Thursday morning, 1st inst., Andrew O'Brien of South Farmington, Mass., was killed by a car passing over his body. It is supposed he fell from a car.

Robbers entered the room of Thomas C. Fargo of Great Barrington, Mass., about four o'clock Thursday morning, the 1st inst., while he was out doing chores for an hour, taking $1,600 in gold. A pocket-book containing $2,000 was found near the window where the robbers made their escape. There is no clue to the perpetrators as yet.

A Frenchman named Ed. McGoldrich, who has been working in the lumber mill of Horace Richardson at Twin Mountain, N. H., was run over by the Syracuse express at Littleton, N. Y., Wednesday night, June 30th. He was not seen till morning, was terribly mangled and probably killed instantly; he was intoxicated, and probably lying on the track when the train came along.

Strange Incident.

Though the bathing season in Galveston harbor, Texas, ends as early as October 1st, a party went out by steamer to an island in the gulf on the evening of October 22d last year for the purpose of testing the salt water. Among the ladies was Mrs. B. H. Davis, wife of Major Davis, of the town of Bryan. Mrs. Davis and her sister, Mrs. N. B. Davis, were left by their husbands in charge of M. W. McGraw, who was from Bryan also. After an enjoyable bath, and when the time for the departure of the steamer had come, Mrs. B. H. Davis was missing. Her sister had seen her up to her chin in the water a few minutes before, and the news soon became noised about that the lady was drowned. The affair caused much excitement throughout the night, and on the following day it was talked about in every house in Galveston. A large reward was offered for the recovery of the body, and a long search, by means of boats and seines, was made. A week passed, and as no clue to the mystery could be found Mrs. Davis was given up as dead. But a few weeks ago, seven months having elapsed, Major Davis received a letter from his wife, who had landed in New York, after a seemingly endless cruise in a merchant vessel, by which she had been picked up. She had gone beyond her depth while bathing and had floated with the tide for an hour, when her moans attracted the attention of the vessel as it passed out of Galveston harbor bound for a Brazilian port.

Worth a Thousand Dollars.

Every child born into a family is thought to be worth "a thousand dollars" to the parents. Why then should they not be cared for from infancy to maturity? Keep the mouth and teeth right by SOZODONT, and you start them right.

A Down Town Merchant

Having passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and acquainting his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed in suffering, and the parents without sleep. Returning home the day following, the father found the baby still worse; and while contemplating another sleepless night, the mother stepped from the room to attend to some domestic duties, and left the father with the child. During her absence he administered a portion of the Soothing Syrup to the baby; and the little fellow awoke next morning bright and happy. The mother was delighted with the sudden and wonderful change, and although at first offended at the deception practiced upon her, has continued to use the Syrup, and suffering, crying babies and restless nights have disappeared. A single trial of the Syrup never yet failed to relieve the baby, and overcome the prejudice of the mother. Sold by all Druggists. 25 cents a bottle. 6

AROUND HOME.

Dover's gain of population since 1870 is 2390, instead of 1686 as previously given.

Howe Call, Esq., had an ugly fall down stairs on Friday, hurting his head and an arm quite badly.

Miss Annie B. Torrey, of Boston, has taken charge of the American Union Telegraph Co.'s office in this city, as operator.

Hon. Albert R. Hatch of this city made a speech at Pittsfield on the evening of the 1st inst., on the occasion of the raising of a Hancock & English flag.

The steamer Mystic will make a trip to the Shoals on Sunday, leaving Adams & Co.'s wharf at 10:30 A. M., returning in season to connect with the six o'clock train to Boston.

Candidates for admission to the high school are directed to appear at the principal's room this morning at eight o'clock, provided with slate and pencil. See notice in advertising columns.

Schooner Mary E. Caswell met with a mishap on Friday afternoon. In drawing her seines, which contained a hundred barrels of mackerel, the netting broke, and all but ten barrels escaped. Those that were taken were brought to this market, and most of them sold at retail.

An exchange says: "A New York doctor has a bran-new remedy for sea sickness. He regards it as a disease of the nerve centers, and proposes to cure it by use of the bromides." A better remedy for sea-sickness, and the only one that never fails, is to stay on shore.

Six young men started from this city in a boat on Thursday evening last for the Wentworth house, but when at the first Newcastle bridge got into a frolic, and the result was a capsize and wetting. Fortunately they were near enough to the shore to escape any further disaster.

The Portsmouth shoe factory is now running nearly to full capacity of its present establishment, having in employ one hundred persons, and manufacturing daily over seven hundred pairs of ladies' shoes and boots of different styles. The heads of the several departments are competent to oversee the work, and a superior class of goods is put into the market.

At about one o'clock in the morning, July 1st, the engine of a freight train on the Boston & Maine railroad struck a man near Newmarket depot, fracturing his skull and inflicting probably fatal injuries. From cards and papers found in his pockets it was supposed the man was G. W. Maress of Chelsea, Mass., a travelling corn-doctor.

The Catholics of this city will have an excursion and picnic at Pinkham's grove, Dover point, July 5th, to which all are invited. There will be music by Harlow's orchestra, a three-mile go-as-you please race will take place, and there will be other amusements provided. Trams leave the Eastern depot at 8:15, 9:50 A. M., 12:15, 1:15 and 3:00 P. M.; tickets fifty cents, to be had at the station on Monday.

Among the amusements on the Cricket grounds on Monday, will be a three mile race, go as you please, three dollars to the first winner, and two dollars to the second in. A juvenile race of one mile. A three legged race, and a trial for the greasy pig, entrees free, also a dance to commence at 7 o'clock. Daniel F. Collins, manager.

The members of the Portmouth Cricket club who will play on Monday, are J. White, Geo. Grey, Rev. Mr. Thorpe, D. Collins, W. Abbot, F. Cartledge, W. Sladen, P. Hubert, D. Burton, J. Rafter, J. Cullen, J. Shaw, P. Haley.

Mr. John Dixon lost on Wednesday, the 30th ult., nearly one hundred quintals of fish, owing to their being burnt on the flakes by the heat of the sun.

Mr. Albert Eliot, who was struck by a train on Thursday evening, on examination was found to have his shoulder broken. It is said that a short time previous to this accident he came very near being run over by a team. Hopes are held of his recovery.

A law should be passed obliging seiners to have the meshes of their seines large enough for the small fish to pass through. Recently a vessel arrived at one of the fishing ports with seventy barrels of mackerel; and to procure these, two hundred barrels of unsalable ones were slaughtered.

The new tank now being erected near the Eastern railroad depot to supply water for the engines of the passenger trains, will contain 51,000 gallons. The tank is sixteen feet in height, and placed on a platform twelve feet high, supported by heavy truss work. An engine will be required to pump the water into it, as the present force of water will only feed it to about six feet.

YORK COUNTY ITEMS.

The several churches of Kittery will have a union picnic on the 5th inst. in government grove, near Fort McClary.

There are three teams running from York to this city,—two stages with four horses each, and one smaller conveyance with two horses.

Four hundred barrels of mackerel were taken from the weirs this week, up to Friday morning. They were of a very small size, and were sold to the fish dealers at one dollar and a quarter a barrel.

The death at Biddeford of John F. Currier of Old Orchard, is still shrouded in mystery, though there is no doubt that he was murdered. Drops of blood have been found along the sleepers of the railroad, and it is believed that he received the injuries that caused his death some distance from the bridge. Another thing shown is that he must have been carried from where he was injured to the bridge, and that more than one person was engaged in this work, as the blood marks were between the rails and nearly in a straight line. The coroner's jury adjourned for one week.

J. E. Ryder, of 239 Superior street, Cleveland, Ohio, has published a fine campaign lithograph of James A. Garfield, containing in one group three likenesses of the next president—as a boy, as the gallant and successful volunteer general, and as the statesman. In the left hand upper corner of the picture is a representation of a log cabin, illustrative of the humble condition from which by his own unaided efforts Garfield has risen; in the right hand corner is the capitol at Washington, to which he is going as chief magistrate of the nation. The picture measures 17x24 inches, is sent by mail post-paid for twenty-five cents, and is worthy a place on the wall of every republican club room.

—As a means of preventing collisions in future, would it not be well to furnish every steamboat with a steam calliope? There does not seem to be anything better calculated to keep steamers apart and passengers from risking their lives, than such a machine.

Our Progress.

As stages and stage routes are quickly abandoned with the completion of railroads, so the huge, drastic, cathartic pills, composed of crude and bulky medicines, are quickly abandoned with the introduction of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets, which are sugar-coated, and little larger than mustard seeds, but composed of highly concentracted vegetable extracts and are warranted to cure all irregularities of stomach, liver and bowels. Sold by druggists.

An obituary notice of "Texas Jack" in a New York paper closes as follows: "He could handle a lariat with consummate skill, and was an expert in the use of a pistol. No man ever had a clearer passport to the world above."

A year ago last March I was taken with severe rheumatic pains, which, changing from one place to another, finally settled in my loins, the disease constantly increasing in severity. Past midsummer all efforts to obtain relief had failed—my appetite gone, my flesh wasting away and not able to walk a step but with the greatest difficulty. I told my friends that I should not live to see the snow fly again. In this condition I was persuaded by a neighbor to try one more medicine—the Kidney-Wort. Its effect was like a miracle. I soon began to recover the use of my limbs, my appetite and strength returned, and on the fifth day (the last of June) with less than half a package of Kidney-Wort used, I went into my hay field to work; and continued to labor through the season. I will add, that, as a tonic, my wife and self have found the Kidney-Wort to be very useful, and I take great pleasure in commending the medicine as invaluable.

What is Just Needed for Females.

We have been shown specimens of Sambuci Wine, prepared by Mr. Alfred Speer, of Passaic, N. J. It is pure without heating qualities, being absolutely free from spirits further than its own fermentation affords. Great preference is given to it in New York and other Hospitals as a tonic, gentle stimulant, diuretic and sudorific especially prescribed for females, old weakly persons, kidney complaint and rheumatism. Mr. Speer has been years experimenting in the production of this Wine, and the newest wine he sells is four years old.—N. Y. Tribune. For people that are old and worn out and need a strengthening wine, the above is the best that can be had.

This wine is for sale by A. P. Preston, D. Kimball & Co., and F. B. Coleman, druggists, and H. F. Gerrish, grocer.

The untold miseries that result from indiscretions in early life may be alleviated and cured. Those who doubt this assertion should purchase the new medical work published by the PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, Boston, entitled THE SCIENCE OF LIFE, or SELF-PRESERVATION; Exhausted vitality, nervous and physical debility, or vitality impaired by the errors of youth or too close application to business, may be restored and manhood regained.

Two hundredth edition, revised and enlarged, just published. It is a standard medical work, the best in the English language, written by a physician of great experience, to whom was awarded a gold and jewelled medal by the National Medical Association. It contains beautiful and very expensive engravings. Three hundred pages, more than 50 valuable prescriptions for all forms of prevailing disease, the result of many years of extensive and successful practice, either one of which is worth ten times the price of the book. Bound in French cloth; price only $1, sent by mail post-paid.

The London Lancet says: "No person should be without this valuable book. The author is a noble benefactor."

The Tribune says: "The author has had unprecedented success in dealing with nervousness of all kinds and its affections, whether due to pernicious habits or inherited. He is a Nervo specialist, and therefore knows whereof he writes with such power and ability."

thing, you know," lowering his voice, and glancing furtively at Mrs. Tremaine. "It makes one feel so confoundedly wretched the next day."

Althea was a well-schooled woman of the world, and full and unflinchingly she met his meaning glance. She was very pale, and the hand that held her bouquet trembled slightly, but otherwise she was her own calm, proud, lovely self, and Mr. Richland nor any one else could see beneath the mask.

I can't tell just how the evening passed. I only know I was intensely glad when it was all over with, and we were at home again. Mr. and Mrs. Chester went at once to their apartments, but I lingered a moment in the parlor with Althea, who seemed in no hurry to go to her room, though it was late and the whole house as still as death. But as she did not appear inclined to talk, I kissed her, said good-night, and went up to my chamber, leaving her there alone, like another Ariadne, sad and heart-broken, in the midst of princely splendor and untold wealth.

I had barely left the room before the jingle of bells and the clatter of flying hoofs in the now almost silent street arrested my footsteps. A sleigh dashed up and stopped at the door, as if driven by a whirlwind. The night was intensely cold, but the tired horses were smoking, and their quivering flanks white with frost and foam.

Not caring to see more, I dropped the curtain, and turned to look at Althea. She stood like a statue in the middle of the room, one hand pressed hard against her breast, and the other holding close about her the rich white opera-cloak she still wore, with its soft, snowy fringes and swans-down trimmings, shimmering in the faint, uncertain firelight like a silken cloud, for only one dim gas-jet was burning in the deserted parlor when we entered it, and even this Althea had turned down so low that it was now no more than a glimpse of light.

Unsteady steps sounded on the stairs, then came the sound of a muffled fall, and something like a half-uttered oath, mingled with the low cry of unutterable anguish that burst involuntarily from Althea's pale lips.

"I knew how it would be!" she moaned; "I knew how those unfeeling creatures he calls his friends would bring him home."

And swiftly and noiselessly as a spirit, unmindful of her elegant toilet, and the strangely beautiful picture she made, Althea hurried to the assistance of her helplessly-intoxicated husband.

It was not the first time she had waited his coming in a pale agony of fear and dread, not the first time she had heard that dull, soul-sickening fall, not the first time she had glided down the great oaken stair-case to find her husband—handsome Howard Tremaine—lying prone upon the floor, a sight to stir the pity of the coldest heart, and cause the very angels in heaven to weep.

I could have cried aloud in my unutterable surprise and grief, and on my knees have begged him for God's sake to desist from further breaking the heart of the wife who loved him so dearly—aye, so dearly!

I saw her through a rush of blinding tears help him somehow to regain his feet, and even in his pitiable weakness he looked like a fallen god; the noble head, the clear-cut features, the something indescribable that stamped him a man of wealth and intellectual force, was still apparent, though so completely had the man been gotten the better of by the demon that lurks in the wine-cup.

And she—Althea—the look in her eyes I'll never forget to my dying day. She did not say a word; a kind of dumb despair seemed to settle upon her countenance—a despair that paled her cheek to the hue of ashes, and chilled the very life-blood in her veins.

I had seen enough, heaven knows, of Althea's hidden sorrow, and stole away to my room, wishing I could believe the whole miserable scene but a troubled dream, that would vanish with the coming of the morrow's sun.

Howard did not make his appearance at breakfast the next morning. Althea explained, in a tone of apology, that Mr. Tremaine came in late, and "was tired."

Mrs. Chester did not guess that anything was wrong, but thought him ill, and advised Althea to send for the family physician. Althea, however, did not follow her sister's advice, but sat all day beside the sofa where her husband lay, suffering miserably from the combined tortures of headache and remorse.

Toward evening he began to "feel better" and good resolutions commenced to slip themselves into his mind, as is often the case when one's head and conscience have been for some little time on the rack.

"Althea," he said, drawing her lovely face down to his, and kissing the sweet mouth, that trembled beneath his lips in a way that betokened the near approach of tears—"Althea, I saw a look in your eyes, last night, which I cannot quite forget, and which I hope never to see in them again; and I promise you, here and now, that I will never so long as I live, touch a drop of wine. It's the devil's own and never-failing well-spring of sin and misery, and my wife—God bless her—is not to have her happiness clouded and her heart broken by the folly and madness that lie in a bottle of green seal. There! do you believe me, darling? or do you think me incapable of successfully resisting the sparkling temptation that has proved the ruin, the utter and absolute ruin, of innumbered millions, and embittered the lives of more women than I dare to think of?"

"I believe you, Howard," she sobbed; "I must believe you; for, to do otherwise, would kill me. If there was to be no end—nothing to look forward to but this—how could I endure to live? Oh, if you will but keep your promise, I shall be so happy—so happy, Howard!"

She fell, sobbing, into his arms, and through the fast-falling tears that filled her eyes the glad smiles were coming and going, like sunshine through an April shower.

Three years have passed since that day, but Howard has never broken his vow, and I feel quite certain now that he never will.

Cuticura

REMEDIES

Have achieved the most noted success of any Medicines of Modern Times.

Messrs. Weeks & Potter have never doubted the specific properties of CUTICURA, CUTICURA RESOLVENT, and CUTICURA SOAP, for the speedy, permanent, and economical cure of Humors of the Blood, Skin, and Scalp. They are, however, astonished at their universal success; for it was to be expected that in the hands of some they would fail solely from spa modic or ignorant use of them.

They are enabled to say without fear of contradiction that no remedies ever achieved in the short space of one year the numb r of wonderful cures per formed by CUTICURA REMEDIES.

SALT RHEUM

MESSRS. WEEKS & POTTER: It is with — feel it a duty to inform you, and through you all who are interested to know the fact, that a most al a greable and obstinate case of Salt Rheum or Eczema, which has been under my personal observat on from its first appearance to the present time,—about ten (10) years,—covering the greater p rtion of the patient's body and limbs with its peculiar irritating and itching scale, and to which all the known methods of treating such diseases ha been applied without benefit, has completely disappeared, leaving a clean and healthy skin, under a few days of profuse application of CUTICURA.

I can and do in truth advise all similarly afflicted to try the remedy which has been so effectual in this case. Very truly yours,

CHAS. HOUGHTON.

LIVER COMPLAINT

Gentlemen,—I have had Liver complaint and dyspepsia, with running sores on the side of my back, for ten years. Doctors did me no good. I have been spending for eight years, and did no good. Every morning I ate distressed me. I got reduced from 170 to 132 pounds. At last I read the RESOLVENT and it helped me right off, and on one bottle I gained five and one-half pounds. It is doing the business, and I am going on it strong.

Yours truly, JOHN H. EY.

NOTE.—CUTICURA is admirable, assisted in cases of extreme physical weakness, or when the virus or scrofula is known to lurk in the system, by the internal use of the CUTICURA RESOLVENT, without doubt the most powerful blood purifier and liver stimulant in the world.

CUTICURA SOAP is an elegant toilet and medicinal assistant to CUTICURA in the treatment of all external ailments. For chapped hands, rough skin and pimples, sunburn, and for loose skin troubles, it is indispensable; as a soap for the toilet, the nursery and bath it is the most elegant, refreshing, and healing before the public.

These great remedies succeed where all others heretofore in use fail because they possess new and original properties never before successfully combined in medicine.

MALT AND HOPS BITTERS

—AT—
HUTCHINSON'S.

Daily Chronicle.

Summer Drinks.

A great deal of harm to health and many deaths result, as everybody knows, from injudicious use of cold liquids to quench thirst during our blazing summers. Persons exposed to the heat, especially those hard at work, cannot or will not refrain from drinking, for they feel the need of supplying the waste from copious perspiration. What, then, shall they drink? Water seems, under the circumstances, to be inadequate to the wants of the system. It passes through the circulation to the skin as through a sieve, and flows over the surface in streams. A big drink of cold, or even of cool water on an empty stomach is very dangerous; it is liable to produce sudden death. The danger may be avoided, it is said, by putting farinaceous substances, particularly oat-meal, with the water to be drank by laborers, the proper proportions being three or four ounces of meal to a gallon of water. Why oat-meal should be better than rye, millet, buckwheat or corn-meal cannot easily be determined, but those who have used oat-meal, especially firemen, coal-heavers and the like say that it gives them greater endurance and increases their strength. This may be a mere notion, but the peculiar aroma of the oats may be so associated with an agreeable stimulation of the alimentary mucous surface as to promote digestion. The meal seems to fill the blood-vessels without increasing the cutaneous exhalations. Workmen who have tried acid, saccharine or alcholoic drinks have invariably expressed unsatisfactory results. Water with oat-meal seems to be by all odds the most wholesome and desirable summer drink for manual laborers.

INCREASE OF KIDNEY DISEASES. Recently published "Vital Statistics" reveal an alarming increase in the dangerous forms of kidney disease, caused no doubt by the viciousness of modern living, and the excessive use of beer and other stimulants. All kidney disorders are dangerous, from their tendency to run into Bright's disease. The true cure for all kidney, bladder, liver, and urinary complaints is Hunt's Remedy, the great kidney and liver medicine. It has cured even Bright's disease, and all who suffer should give it a trial. Sold by all druggists. Trial size, 75 cents.

—A conductor got off at a small station the other evening and was approached by a grimvisaged individual, who addressed him in a tone that shew he was very much provoked: "Say, did you know that you left me this morning?" The conductor responded pleasantly, "No, I did not; where were you?" "I was in the depot here." "Well my dear sir, you must recollect that the depot never goes out. I never load my passengers on with a stretcher. If you want to ride with me you must climb on the train." The angry man was completely nonplussed, and remarking, "Well, that's so," he turned and walked away apparently satisfied.—Albany Argus.

No Hospital Needed.

Worth a Thousand Dollars.

Every child born into a family is thought to be worth "a thousand dollars" to the parents. Why then should they not be cared for from infancy to maturity? Keep the mouth and teeth right by SOZODONT, and you start them right.

A Down Town Merchant

Having passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and consulting his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homœopathy. That night the child passed in suffering, and the parents without sleep. Returning home the day following, the father found the baby still worse; and while contemplating another sleepless night, the mother stepped from the room to attend to some domestic duties, and left the father with the child. During her absence he administered a portion of the Soothing Syrup to the baby, and the little fellow awoke next morning bright and happy. The mother was delighted with the sudden and wonderful change, and although at first offended at the deception practiced upon her, has continued to use the Syrup, and suffering, crying babies and restless night have disappeared. A single trial of the Syrup never yet failed to relieve the baby, and overcome the prejudice of the mother. Sold by all Druggists. 25 cents a bottle. d

News and Notes.

Only four vessels have been lost in the Gloucester fisheries the past six months, viz.: Schooner Winifred J. King, at Brace's cove, Feb. 3d; schooner Ocean Belle, sunk on Georges, March 27th; and schooner Annie C. Norwood, with her crew of fourteen men, on Cashe's, Feb. 23d. Their aggregate tonnage was 201.-56 tons and their value about $12,000, on which there was $10,772 insurance by the Gloucester Mutual Fishing Insurance company. The number of men lost overboard and in dories from Gloucester vessels since Jan. 1st, has been twenty, making the total loss of life the past six months thirty-four, leaving eight widows and sixteen fatherless children.

England and France have each agreed to keep a squadron cruising off the coasts of Turkey and Greece.

One hour after an "old master" had painted the name of a patent medicine on a big rock, a cow came along, licked it off and died before sundown. When the simple name of a medicine kills a cow, human beings want to beware of the stuff itself. A cow was never killed by licking the name of a patent medicine in a newspaper, and no other kind can be recommended.

Scott Bell, colored, was hanged Friday at Starkville, Miss., for the murder of Jim Henry, colored, on the 16th day of May last.

Dr. Thomas S. Lambert, the president of the defunct Popular Life Insurance company, who was convicted of perjury in having sworn to a false annual statement of the condition of the company, and sentenced to five years' imprisonment, and was subsequently granted a new trial, has been set free, the court ordering a nolle prosequi in the case.

A report from La Vernia, Texas, says a man named Neeson, living near the town, murdered an old man by the name of Bean, throwing the body in a well. He then rode to La Vernia, where he called upon Dr. McMahon, and shot him through the breast. The doctor ran, when Neeson pursued, firing twice more. He then mounted his horse and fled.

At Cedar Mills, Texas, June 24th, K. Frank Northcote, who shot Constable Crabtree some weeks since, was arrested and placed under guard at Crabtree's house. During the night he was taken from the guard by a mob of masked men, who crossed the Red river to the Indian territory, where they ridled him with bullets. Northcote's relations having a clue to the perpetrators will prosecute.

Frederick Emerson, alias Briggs, claiming to belong in Boston, has been arrested at Hartford, Conn., for attempting to swindle Mrs. Willis Hale, a wealthy widow of Meriden, out of a diamond ring. Briggs pretended to be a spiritual medium, and during an exhibition at Mrs. Hale's residence requested the use of the ring, which was granted, but when he left the house he took the ring with him and started for Hartford. When arrested he denied all knowledge of the whereabouts of the jewel, but it was found in his pocket.

Henry Arthey, in jail at New Philadelphia, Ohio, charged with the murder of a girl named Mary Senef, says that his wife murdered the girl in a fit of jealousy, and buried her in an ash heap in the cellar. Subsequently his wife told him of her action, and he and another man took the body to Sugar creek, where it was found.

New Hampshire Items.

The house, stable and outbuildings of John R. Weed at Littleton were burned Friday, with twenty tons of hay, farming tools, and provisions. The furniture was saved. The fire is thought to have been incendiary. Loss $2,800; insurance $700.

Payments of pensions for sometime past have been delayed by lack of funds caused by scanty appropriations for the current fiscal year, and an effort on the part of the commissioners of pensions to distribute the balance of such appropriations among the different agencies as equitable as possible. The final installment for the current year has just been received at the agency in Concord, but is insufficient to meet the payments due upon vouchers already accumulated, and under instructions to "give precedence in payment to regular pensions," some of the larger amounts due in restoration, reissue and new cases have been withheld till payment could be made from funds for the present fiscal year.

The Republican state committee will meet at Eagle hotel in Concord, on Wednesday evening, the 14th ult., at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of organization and inaugurating the campaign.

A census enumerator in a New Hampshire town found one family where the mother's age was twenty-six years, and that of her eldest son fourteen years. Inquiry revealed the fact that the mother was married when eleven years and six months old, to a man twenty-three years old. She is a native of Rhode Island, and claims to have been the youngest mother in the state.

The Contoocook Manufacturing company at Fisherville, which owns largely in the water power and mills, has purchased the machinery in the Contoocook factory, recently operated by F. & D. Arthur Brown, for $13,000, and have commenced running the same. The corporation owns the mill. This action will probably prevent the building of a new factory, for which the entire stock had been subscribed, as the proposed new company expected to secure the machinery in the Contoocook mill, but were outbidden by the successful purchaser.

Political Matters.

The republican national committee organized in New York Friday by the choice of Marshall Jewell as chairman, S. W. Dorsey as secretary, and George W. Hooker as assistant secretary.

In Wade Hampton's speech sustaining Hancock's nomination, he said: "In the name of South Carolina, that state which was so overwhelmingly republican that we scarcely dared count the democratic vote,—in behalf of that state I here pledge myself, if work, if zeal, if energy can do anything, that the people of South Carolina will give as large a democratic majority as any other state in the Union." That means that the "niggers" will have a hot time of it if they try to vote; means that the democrats "dare to count" their vote in this "overwhelmingly republican" state because it is swollen by tissue ballots and rifle club bulldozing into a majority. Hampton's "work," "zeal," and "energy" simply stand for fresh "fun at the fair," and pledges that the "best men and tool chests" will be on hand at the polls to secure that "free ballot" which the democratic party so eloquently demands.

The subject is being agitated by leading democrats of Thomaston, Me., to start a democratic organ to advocate the election of Hancock and English, and a straight-out democratic nomination for state officers.

The issue is now fairly joined,—Garfield and Arthur against Hancock and English,—the former representing the principles of nationality, of justice and of public faith which during twenty years of responsible administration the republican party has to its utmost ability made a part of the laws and the constitution; and the latter representing the perilous theory of state soveignty, which, beginning with resistance to the adoption of the constitution, was confirmed by the resolutions of '98, survived nullification and rebellion, and under all circumstances has been the shield of slavery and the bulwark of injustice to this hour.—Boston Advertiser.

The Boston Pilot says that Gen. Garfield was a member of the court martial that condemned Mrs. Surratt to death. This is about the most whacking lie or egregious blunder of the campaign. Gen. Garfield was not only not a member of the board, but could not have been. It was composed entirely of officers, and he was a civilian and member of congress at that time. But perhaps he was the hangman in disguise.—Providence Journal.

It is ordered that hereafter enlisted men of the marine corps will not be assigned to duty as master-at-arms, ship's corporal, ship's writer, school-master, yeoman or apothecary, nor otherwise diverted from their appropriate duties, except in cases of emergency. When necessary to make such assignment it will continue only until a suitable person can be selected for the duty from the crew of one of the vessels on the station, or one enlisted for such rating. Marines will not be enlisted or discharged on foreign stations.

—An Illinois girl with a breach of promise suit testified that it was the usual thing for girls to show their love letters to fifteen or twenty other girls, in order to make them jealous.

—There is no use locking the stable door after the horse is stolen. When you see the thunderclouds is the time to drink up the milk.

Over fifty years ago the original "Noriega" brand of cigars were first brought to the United States from Havana. The present Noriegas are close counterparts of those old-fashioned hand-made ones of former days.

—A tenant had been dancing all night over the head of his landlord. At six in the morning the latter comes up stairs and complains bitterly of the annoyance. "What annoyance?" asked the tenant. "Why, I haven't slept a wink all night," is the answer. "Neither have I," says the tenant, "and yet I don't make any fuss about it."

THE "WENTWORTH,"

Newcastle, N. H.

This Hotel will open June 28. It has accommodations for 400 guests, and offers more attractions for pleasure and comfort than any other seaside resort in the country. Its high situation affords beautiful views, both inland and seaward, its healthful atmosphere, the easy manner in which it can be reached, its advantages for boating, bathing and fishing, excellent drives and attractive walks, all combine to make it one of the most charming places on the coast of New England.

Since last year extensive additions have been made, among them one hundred and fifty sleeping rooms, a spacious Music Hall for dancing, theatricals and concerts, bowling alleys, billiard room, a passenger elevator operated by steam, a large and commodious stable for private equipages, the grounds lighted by the electric light, steam yacht for excursions, &c., &c.

The temperature of the bathing at the "Wentworth" is especially inviting to those unable to endure the shock incident to more exposed localities. An enclosed body of salt water, covering an area of fifty acres, affords a safe and pleasant place for boating at all times for ladies and children. The drives to the neighboring beaches and other points of attraction in this vicinity are unsurpassed. The verands, fifteen feet in width, surrounding the house, gives an extended promenade of over 1000 feet in length, while the view is unexcelled in beauty and grandeur.

An orchestra of twenty selected musicians, under the direction of Mr. John J. Braham, has been engaged for the season.

The house is furnished throughout in black walnut, has the best of beds, its sleeping rooms are of ample size, well ventilated, and from all sides of the house, affords fine views. Its cuisine will be found of an unexceptionable character. The "Wentworth" is situated three miles from Portsmouth, N. H., in the ancient town of Newcastle, and is reached from Boston in two hours' ride over the Eastern Railroad. Address

The New York & New England Railroad extends from Boston through Willimantic and Hartford to Waterbury, Conn. It also runs from Providence to Willimantic, and has several small branches.

The main line is being extended—now in process of construction—from Waterbury, Conn., west to Brewsters, New York, a distance of forty miles, making in all over 340 miles of railroad.

An extension of the road from Brewsters, New York, to the Hudson river at Fishkill has also been decided upon, and will, it is expected, be completed before the close of the present year, thereby giving Boston, Providence and Hartford and central New England, another through line to the West—in connection with the Erie railway at Fishkill.

First mortgage bonds of prominent New England railroads are very scarce, and as this loan will net the investor nearly six per cent., it is certain to maintain its price and be rapidly taken for investment.

A band of eight pieces, under Mullaly, is engaged to play at the Farragut house, Rye beach, during the season. There is to be a display of fireworks at the Farragut this evening.

Mr. William H. Gardiner arrived home on Saturday from Centreville, Tenn., where he has been engaged as principal of the academy for a year past. Mr. Gardiner likes the place and position very much, and will return in the autumn.

On Saturday Judge Batchelder had three sinners before him, all "drunks." Annie Campbell and John Barrett were each fined $3, the woman having to pay $6.90 costs, and Barrett $5.76. Mary Mitchell, colored, was let off on condition of leaving the city.

In addition to the regular dividend of three per cent on the Portsmouth and Dover railroad shares, now being paid, a dividend of one dollar per share of the unpaid dividend withheld sometime since, is now payable at the office of the treasurer, No. 17 Market street.

Among the passengers who sailed from New York, in the Anchor line steamship Devonia on Saturday, was Mr. John Dixon of this city, who visits Great Britain upon a tour combining business with pleasure. Mr. Dixon intends to establish an export trade of some of the commodities in which he deals.

Forty-nine candidates for admission to the high school presented themselves for examination at the school house on Saturday, and of this number forty-eight were passed, a few being "conditioned" in arithmetic. The class numbers twenty-five girls and twenty-three boys, one boy applicant being rejected.

Old Oaken Bucket Division, Sons of Temperance, elected the following officers on Monday evening of last week: W. P., Charles T. Larrabee; W. A., Miss Ida Deering; recording scribe, Lorenzo T. Burnham; assistant recording scribe, Miss Helen Gunnison; F. S., Charles T. Wiggin; treasurer, Mrs. Amanda S. Holbrook; conductor, Mrs. Susan M. Deverson; ass't conductor, Mrs. Alvira Brock; chaplain, Miss Louisa Rowland; inside sentinel, Miss Mary Fletcher; past worthy patriarch, Miss Mary Monroe.

As a team belonging in Newmarket, and containing two young men somewhat under the influence of liquor, was being driven up Chapel street toward the Episcopal church at a furious rate on Sunday afternoon, the horse (a very fine animal) suddenly shied and turned into the court between the dwellings of George B. French and John Cheever, capsizing the carriage and throwing out the occupants, seriously injuring one of them. He was cared for by the neighbors, and word sent to the city marshal, who had the man taken to the police station where his hurts were dressed by Dr. Grant. His wounds, although severe, are not dangerous.

George W. Maress, the young man who was struck by a Boston & Maine locomotive near the depot at Newmarket early in the morning on the last inst., died at 10:45 o'clock the same forenoon. The deceased was twenty years of age, industrious and temperate, and the main support of his mother and two sisters, residing in Chelsea, Mass. He had been peddling a corn-cure, and had $7 in his pocket when killed. It is supposed that he was waiting to try and get a free ride to Boston on a freight train, and fell asleep while sitting near the track, and when the train came along he was startled, and jumped against the engine without being aware of what he was doing.

Schooner Golden Gate, with a large excursion party from Kittery, went to Boon island on Saturday—that is, she would have gone there had not Seavey's island got in her way, she grounding on the eastern end of the island, near the small-pox hospital, and sticking fast for that tide. The excursionists tramped home across the navy yard.

The outward bound trains from Boston on the Eastern railroad were very crowded with passengers on Saturday. A large number of passengers enroute for the Wentworth and other seaside resorts in this vicinity, had the full benefit of the heavy showers in the evening, and some upon the "outside" must have felt the moisture, but when the glorious sunshine of Independence morning lighted up the broad piazzas at the Wentworth, and the beautiful prospect unfolded to the new comers, many an exclamation of delighted satisfaction was heard. One enthusiastic visitor went around exclaiming, "Here for once is found a spot of which the advertised descriptions are not exaggeration."

YORK COUNTY ITEMS.

The census of Kennebunk gives the number of families in the town as 705, and the total population as 2846.

The army worm made his first appearance in Eliot on Monday of last week, and was reported as having arrived at the neck on Saturday.

Mrs. Anna I. Guest, widow of the late Commodore John Guest, U. S. N., will spend the summer months at the Pepperell house, Kittery point.

Riverside Lodge, I. O. O. F., of Kittery, has selected officers as follows: James R. Philbrick, N. G.; Horace Mitchell, V. G.; C. L. Hayes, Sec.; Chas. A. Bowden, Treas.

Eben Avery, an insane man of Kennebunkport who has been chained for five years past, during the recent winter and spring spun the yarn for, and knitted, fifteen pairs of mittens.

The carriage repair shop at Kittery, owned and conducted by Granville C. Spinney, was burned Friday night, together with the lumber and most of the tools. Loss $1500; insured $700.

Tomatoes and Cancer.

The somewhat remarkable question: "Do tomatoes cause cancers?" is sometimes asked. Were it not that a considerable number of persons really believe that the eating of tomatoes causes cancers, and on that account refrain from eating them, such a preposterous question would not be considered worthy of serious attention.

Where or by whom this notion originated is not known, but some fancied resemblance between the shape of a tomato and a cancer probably gave origin to it. There is just as much resemblance between turban squashes and cancers as between tomatoes and cancers, yet no one thinks turban squashes cause cancers! Yet there is just as much reason for the belief in the one case as in the other.

The tomato belongs to the same family (Solanum) of plants as the potato. No one suggests that the eating of potatoes is the cause of cancers. That the eating of tomatoes causes cancers is a preposterous idea, and has no foundation whatever. As a matter of fact, the person who eats freely of tomatoes would be less likely to have cancers than one who refrains from eating them. They are a very healthy, wholesome fruit for summer use, the acid which they contain being decidedly beneficial to the digestion and the blood, tending to ward off disease by keeping the system in a healthful and vigorous condition.

"I Made That Man What He Was."

Sometime ago a saloon-keeper in Dover, Delaware, who patronized his own bar very liberally, stepped into a back room where men were at work about a pump in a well. The covering had been removed, and he approached to look down, but being very drunk he pitched in head foremost. He had become so much of a bloat, by use of strong drink, that it was impossible to extricate him in time to save his life.

There was great excitement in the town. Men and women who had never been inside his saloon before, were the first to rush to the rescue, and offer sympathy to the bereaved family. As he was dragged from the well and stretched out dead on the saloon floor, a wholesale liquor dealer from Philadelphia stepped in. After the first shock of finding one of his good customers dead, he turned to a prominent lady and said, pointing to the wretched victim:

"I made that man what he was. I lent him his first dollar and set him up with his first stock of liquors, and he's now worth $10,000 or $15,000."

Looking him square in the face she replied:

"Yes, you did make that man what he was—a drunkard, a bloat, stench in the nostrils of society, and sent him headlong into eternity and a drunkard's hell! What is $15,000 weighed against a lost soul, a wasted life, a wife a widow, and children orphans?"

He turned deadly pale, and without a word left the house.

"What is all the revenue to the millions whose homes are despoiled, whose sons are beggared, and whose loved ones are sent headlong to a drunkard's grave?"—Weekly Rescue, Los Angeles, Cal.

INVESTMENT SECURITIES which meet fully the demands of conservative capitalists are very scarce, and are taken out of the market at high prices when they become known. The new loan of the Toledo, Delphos & Burlington Railroad Co. is worthy of the careful consideration of all who desire 6 per cent. income, with all the requirements of absolute safety. These bonds are a first mortgage upon the main line extending from Toledo, Ohio, to Kokomo, Ind., a distance of 185 miles through undulating land, rich in cereal productions and inhabited by thrifty people. The mortgage is only $1,250,000, with 30 years to run and to pay the interest only $400 per mile is required. Other roads terminating in Toledo pay an interest account of $1400 to $3800 per mile.

For week ending Wednesday, June 30.

[Reported for the Boston Journal.]

Amount of stock at market—Cattle 3284; sheep and lambs 5628; swine 13,340; number western cattle 3068; eastern cattle 36; milch cows and northern cattle 169.

Prices of beef cattle per 100 lbs. live weight—Extra quality $5.25 and $5 00; first quality $4 87½ and $5 12½; second quality $4 37½ and $4 75; third quality $4 00 and $4 25; poorest grades of coarse oxen, bulls, &c., $3 25 and $3 75.

Brighton Tallow 5c per lb.

Country hides 7½ and 8c per lb.

Country Tallow 3½ and 4c per lb.

Calf skins 12½ and 13c per lb., or from $1 25 and $1 75 per skin.

There has not been so large a supply of western cattle brought in this week as there was one week ago. Cattle cost higher at the west, and upon some grades drovers may have got a slight advance over prices obtained last week, but the trade has been slow, and with the above exceptions we should say that prices have not materially changed from those of our last quotations. There has been a fair demand for shipping cattle, and quite a large number of the best beeves were bought up for the English trade. We did not hear of any sales made at more than our highest quotations, the larger portion of the western cattle selling at prices ranging from 5 and 5½c per lb live weight. On account of the hot weather there were not so many buyers in market as usual, the beef trade for several days past having been quite dull at Boston. The supply from Maine was light, consisting principally of milch cows.

Working Oxen—There has not been much call for working oxen for several weeks past. As soon as cattle commence coming in more freely from Maine and the north the trade for workers will revive. We did not notice any offered in the market for sale this week.

Milch Cows—The supply offered in the market has been light and the quality mostly of a common grade. We quote sales of 6 milch cows at $37 each; 3 milch cows for $41; 1 milch cow at $34; 1 cow and calf at $45; 1 milch cow at $40; 2 at $35 each; 4 at $55 each; 2 at $45 each, and 1 cow and calf for $57.

Veal Calves—We note sales of 37 calves, average weight 129 lbs, at $6 40 per head; 49 at $6 50 per head. The demand for veal calves has been active, prices ruling at 4½ and 5½c per lb, live weight.

Sheep and Lambs—Those from the west were mostly owned by butchers and cost landed at Brighton 3 and 3½c per lb for sheep; lambs 7½ and 8½c per lb live weight. There were a few Eastern sheep and lambs in market that sold for 5½c per lb live weight.

Swine—Prices for fat hogs have advanced over those of our last quotations, costing landed at the slaughter houses this week 5½ and 5½c per lb, live weight.

Important.

When you visit or leave New York city, save Baggage Express and Carriage Hire, and stop at Grand Union Hotel, nearly opposite Grand Central Depot. 350 elegant rooms reduced to $1 and upwards per day. European Plan. Elevator. Restaurant supplied with the best. Horse Cars, Stages and Elevated Railroad to all depots. Be careful and see that "Grand Union Hotel" is on the sign where you enter office in the centre of the block. ap16d1mag60

New Publications.

"The Tragedy of the Unexpected, and other stories," by Nora Perry, is a collection of nine entertaining pen sketches, published in the "Little Classic Style" by Houghton, Mifflin & Co., of Boston. The stories, despite the solemn title of the book, are pleasing, and the book is a convenient and agreeable little volume to pack in the satchel of the tourist, who in reading at this season seeks solace instead of solidity, in summer sauntering. It may be had at Myers' book store, at the publisher's price, $1.25.

"No. 13 Rue Marlot," is the title of a French story by Rene de Pont-Jest, translated into excellent English by Virginia Champlin, and published by Lee & Shepard of Boston. Price in paper covers, fifty cents. The story of course has its tragic narrative, as so many French stories have. It starts in the description of a supposed murder, at the spot from which the story is named, while the denouement is entirely changed from the anticipations of the reader by the efforts of an American detective, Mr. Wm. Dow, who beats all the French officers in his cleverness, and explains from scientific and professional hypotheses the whole affair, relieving from the terrors of impending conviction as a parricide of the beautiful daughter of a stern parent, and permitting the story to conclude in a halo of happiness, to the infinite relief and satisfaction of the interested reader. The book is uniform in style with many others of Lee & Shepard's fifty-cent books, ($1.00 in cloth,) and is for sale by Goodrich, corner of Market and Daniel streets, and is one of the best of the many detective tales in which French literature so commonly abounds

Horticultural Hints for the Season.

No better month in the year than this to trim evergreens, trees and vines. Remember that rasberries and blackberries can be taken up and transplanted after the new growth has a good start. If there are vacancies in the blackberry or rasberry rows, take up the new suckers or plants with plenty of root and set in such vacancies.

If you are afraid to put hay or straw on strawberries, because of foul weeds, scatter in enough sawdust or spent tan bark to just cover the surface nicely, mixing a little salt through it before putting on. It will keep the fruit clean and nice. Pile around the current bushes plenty of coarse material to keep the surface cool and moist.

Watch the currant worms, and on their appearance, which can be told by the leaves being stripped off, sprinkle over when the leaves are dry, water in which a spoonful of white powdered hellebore has been dissolved to the pail of water.

Watch the new growth of rasberries this month, (the black caps—as also blackberries,) and when two feet high nip off the tip ends to make them grow stocky and branch out. Nip off new growth of reds when three feet high, (and don't let them grow hilter skilter, and wait till next spring to "trim" them and especially to "cut back within one and one-half foot of the ground.")

Strawberry plants may be potted off this month. Sink pots in ground near the old plants, fill with rich earth and lay in this earth young plants, keeping them to their place by throwing on earth, or with a small stone.—Fruit Recorder.

Why He was Like a Torpedo.

Simpsonburg is not noted for activity. Quite the contrary. At the club the other evening he got energy sufficient to propound a conundrum. Said he, "Boys, why am I like a torpedo?" After having recovered from the shock produced by Simpsonburg's unwonted activity, the guesses flowed in quick succession. Jones thought it was because a torpedo is full of empty noise; but that was not right, Simpsonburg said. Neither was Robinson's guess, that it was because a torpedo doesn't say anything when it speaks. Smith tried to work out a pun on torpedo, torpid, but failed miserably. Everybody began to look sick. Then Brown tried. He said it was because a torpedo is not good for anything till its neck is twisted. Simpsonburg shook his head with something like animation. One of the boys said it was because neither could climb a tree, another that it was a relief when either went off, and a third ventured to guess, in an undertone, that it was a blasted nuisance. Finally Simpsonburg had to divulge; he couldn't contain himself longer. He said it was because he was full of snap. The boys yawned languidly; every one of them acknowledged to Simpsonburg that he should never have guessed it, which pleased Simpsonburg mightily.

Let the poor sufferers from female complaints take courage and rejoice that a painless remedy has been found. We refer to Lydia Pinkham's Compound. It is prepared at 233 Western Avenue, Lynn, Mass. Send to Mrs. Pinkham for pamphlets.

—Fourteen girls, students in a western college, are writing a continued story which the county paper is publishing from week to week. Each girl in turn writes a chapter. Already twelve chapters have appeared, and the story thus far concerns twelve splendid fellows, with long, silky mustaches, twelve beautiful maidens, with hair that reaches the ground, and twelve stern fathers. Six of the heroes have each a "St." in his name, and the other six are "the" somebodys.

KNOW THYSELF.

The untold miseries that result from indiscretions in early life may be alleviated and cured. Those who doubt this assertion should purchase the new medical work published by the PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, Boston, entitled THE SCIENCE OF LIFE; OR, SELF-PRESERVATION.

Exhausted vitality, nervous and physical debility, or vitality impaired by the errors of youth or too close application to business, may be restored and manhood regained.

Two hundredth edition, revised and enlarged, just published. It is a standard medical work, the best in the English language, written by a physician of great experience, to whom was awarded a gold and jewelled medal by the National Medical Association. It contains beautiful and very expensive engravings. Three hundred pages, more than 50 valuable prescriptions for all forms of prevailing disease, the result of many years of extensive and successful practice, either one of which is worth ten times the price of the book. Bound in French cloth; price only $1, sent by mail post-paid.

The London Lancet says: "No person should be without this valuable book. The author is a noble benefactor."

The Tribune says: "The author has had unprecedented success in dealing with nervousness of all kinds and its affections, whether due to pernicious habits or otherwise. He is a Nerve specialist, and therefore knows whereof he writes with such power and ability."

The author refers, by permission, to Hon. P. A. BISSELL, M. D., president of the National Medical Association.

Address Dr. W. H. PARKER, No. 4 Bulfinch Street, Boston, Mass. The author may be consulted on all diseases requiring skill and experience.

Cathartic Pills

Combine the choicest cathartic principles in medicine, in proportions accurately adjusted to secure activity, certainty, and uniformity of effect. They are the result of years of careful study and practical experiment, and are the most effectual remedy yet discovered for diseases, caused by derangement of the stomach, liver, and bowels, which require prompt and effectual treatment. AYER'S PILLS are specially adaptable to this class of diseases. They act directly on the digestive and assimilative processes, and restore regular healthy action. Their extensive use by physicians in their practice, and by all civilized nations is one of the many proofs of their value as a safe, sure, and perfectly reliable purgative medicine. Being compounded of the concentrated virtues of purely vegetable substances, they are positively free from calomel, or any injurious properties, and can be administered to children with perfect safety.

AYER'S PILLS are an effectual cure for Constipation or Costiveness, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Loss of Appetite, Foul Stomach and Breath, Dizziness, Headache, Loss of Memory, Nausea, Biliousness, Jaundice, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Dropsy, Tumors, Worms, Neuralgia, Gout, Gripes, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Gout, Piles, Disorders of the Liver, and all other diseases resulting from a disordered state of the digestive apparatus.

As a Dinner Pill they have no equal.

While gentle in their action, these Pills are the most thorough and searching of purgatives that can be employed, and never give pain unless the bowels are inflammed, then their influence is healing. They stimulate the appetite and digestive organs; they operate to purify and enrich the blood; they impart renewed health and vigor to the whole system.

TREATMENT OF DUMB ANIMALS.

[The following, written by Master Clarence W. Fraser, was judged to be second in merit of the essays written by pupils of the high school, submitted in competition for the gold medal offered by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals as a prize for the best essay on "Cruelty to Animals," without particular regard to mere scholarly merit, the writer of the one offering the best ideas on the subject to receive the medal. Eight papers were received, all signed with fictitious names, the committee of award (Hon. T. E. O. Marvin, J. B. Upham, Jr., and Miss Mary A. Foster) not knowing who were the authors of any of them until after the award was made.]

The "lords of creation," perceiving their superiority to brutes and led by a natural desire to exercise their authority, often treat the dumb animals subjected to their care with unmerited severity and frequently with downright cruelty. Looking back through time with the essential aid of history, we see in Rome dumb animals led out in the arena to slaughter, merely to give pleasure to large and excited audiences. We need not look back far to see the same thing transpiring with equal zeal in modern countries. It makes us sad, when we learn that an amusement of this kind obtained in any country public favor, and that such scenes received for a moment the sanction and applause of the persons who claimed for themselves a place in refined society.

The softening influence of the Christian religion, combined with a certain gradual refinement of civilization, is slowly but surely putting an end to this barbarous custom. The belief is sometimes expressed that the world continues daily from bad to worse. How can that sentiment be entertained for a moment by a discriminating man, when such scenes of cruelty continually decrease in their ability to give pleasure to the masses?

Public tyrants in all ages have been detested; but many a man denied the opportunity of exercising his tyranny upon his fellow beings, employs his natural hard-heartedness on his horse or dog.

I was once the unwilling witness of a scene revolting for its cruelty. Four boys, each aged about ten years, had found by some means a cat, and one, who seemed to be the ring-leader in the sport, was beating the poor creature with a large stick, and, while she lay upon the ground, he frequently hurled huge stones upon her quivering body.

He stopped several times in his cruelty to mock her death agonies and laugh at her suffering. Meanwhile the other three stood around dancing and shouting and evidently enjoying the sight. At last the creature was—to—to—dead, and they buried her. Not a sign of sympathy escaped one of the boys during the whole scene; all remained unmoved to pity. They were well dressed, and apparently belonged to good families; but, perhaps, they lacked good training, and were allowed to do as they pleased. It brings a sadness to our hearts, when we think of the future lives of such, as could be so cruel and unfeeling in boyhood.

Brutal violence may force a certain degree of obedience from animals; but it also excites hatred; and ill will of a beast should be avoided, as that of a man. Kindness administered to the brute creation, instead of cruelty, would make a vast difference in regard to the relations of man to beast.

A part of the injury to animals is done through carelessness and without the intention of producing suffering. A thoughtless school boy espies a bird that, unsuspicious of harm, is swelling its little throat in song, as it sits upon the swaying branch of a tree. He stoops down and picks up a stone; without one thought of the harm likely to ensue, he throws it, and unluckily kills the bird. As he looks at the lifeless body and ruffled feathers, he feels sorrowful; but the injury is done and cannot be repaired. We feel some sympathy for him, while for the person who inexcusably abuses an animal, and feels no compunction of conscience, we have none; but, as in each case the animal suffers, care should be taken to guard against such sad accidents.

All animals, from the smallest insect that wings its flight across the meadow, to the ponderous elephant exulting in his forest home, were created to roam the earth without restraint and with the power to provide for themselves. Man, in his wisdom, seeing that their services would be of great advantage, domesticates many of them, or, in other words, conquers their spirit, and renders them obedient to his will. If he takes this responsibility of caring for animals upon his own shoulders, it is but right and just that he should be both a good provider and a kind master.

Brutes, although they lack the reasoning power of man, often become attached to a person through his acts of kindness, and express a friendship and fidelity, which is not to be found in his associates.

A man who is destitute of a friend among his fellow beings, is to be lamented; but the friendship and love of a horse or dog serves to render many a life pleasant, which would otherwise be unendurable. A kind word or act costs nothing, and it is always accompanied with pleasant feelings.

Observe how different tones of the voice affect an intelligent dog. Scold him, and fear is expressed in his face, his tail drops, his whole body withers, and he crawls tremblingly away; but in place of the angry tone, speak to him gently and with kindness; at once he is all animation, he jumps up and capers around you and sparkles all over with enjoyment.

Animals have been created for a purpose, and are a part of God's great plan. Considering them in this light, is it not our duty to protect and cherish them? In

FOR PRESIDENT,

James A. Garfield,

OF OHIO.

Chester A. Arthur,

OF NEW YORK.

Chronicle Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 1st.

There are many indications here of a determination to make the presidential campaign a warm one. Democratic headquarters will be removed to this city, and will occupy such rooms at the capitol as are necessary. Democrats say there will be no lack of the funds necessary to a complete organization of every voting precinct in the doubtful states. Both parties will make great efforts in Maine, though so far the republicans seem to appreciate most fully the importance of this September state. Senator Blaine will have full control of the republican forces in the state, and will not only canvass the state thoroughly in person, but will have many able speakers from other sections. On the democratic side, I hear that Vorhees and probably Thurman will go there.

Secretary Sherman, contradicting a report which has been widely circulated, authorizes a statement that he will adhere to the policy of applying to the purchase of bonds for the sinking fund all surplus revenue that from week to week may be found to have accumulated. The reduction of the debt for last month will be small, owing to heavy payments for pensions, etc.

The nomination of General Hancock cost his friends at Cincinnati only about $700; to this the democrats "point with pride." But the republicans say the nomination of Garfield didn't cost a cent! These facts the intended candidates for 1884 should not fail to notice.

General Hancock's nomination, though well received by his party has failed to provoke the usual amount of "ratification meetings." The same is true to a certain extent of Garfield's nomination. Things may get lively after awhile, but the probabilities are that the campaign will be an earnest one, unaccompanied by powder-burning or throat-splitting on either side.

Col. Forney, who made haste to endorse Hancock, is beginning to fear he flopped too soon. KNOX.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 3d.

The political events of the past week may be summoned up as follows: The republican national committee has elected Hon. Marshall Jewell as its chairman, and will have "headquarters" at two or three different points. The democratic national committee has virtually decided to select Senator William A. Wallace as chairman, and will probably have headquarters in this city. The actual campaign will not be opened until after the 12th, when the democratic national committee will meet in New York. After that date the work will probably be such as the younger of our voters have never seen. General Weaver, greenback candidate for the presidency, has published his letter of acceptance, being the first of the candidates to do so. The general will certainly be a "dark horse" in the campaign—probably a very dark one—but it should be said that his letter is manly, and that he brings to the public attention many things of general importance wholly ignored by the two larger parties.

During the week ending June 30th an enormous number of applications for pensions were received—a greater number, in fact, than in some whole years since the war. Applications filed after June 30th, when granted, only carry pensions back to date of filing. The pension office was kept open up to twelve, midnight, on the 30th. The loss of each successful applicant, by failure to apply in time, is from $200 to $2000, and probably averages $1000.

Attorney General Devens says, unofficially, that necessary United States election marshals will be appointed this year, and that he anticipates no difficulty in having them paid hereafter.

The actual reduction of the public debt for June was less than two millions. As published in the papers, about eight millions of nominal but not real reduction was included in the statement.

General Hancock is said to feel grieved at the oft-published statement of his eagerness in the matter of the execution of Mrs. Surratt. It is due the general to say that all such charges do him injustice; he simply did his duty faithfully. Probably, considering the fact that both the candidates have the esteem of all who know them, it would be well to drop the personal contest now going on.

Officials of the bureau of steamboat inspection do not think the criticisms upon them on account of the recent accidents are just; they say any defect there may be is in the law. INDEPENDENT.

Naval Gazette.

A naval officer calls our attention to a most unfortunate error, which appeared in the list of naval officers asking various favors of Congress, published under this head in the Journal of June 12th. The list was correct as received, but in altering the arrangement of the names that of Commander Geo. H. Perkins was so misplaced as to make it appear that he had been dismissed from the navy, for drunkenness, and was seeking advancement on the navy list. In reference to this, an officer who calls our attention to the error, which was a clerical one, says: "Commander Geo. H. Perkins, so far from seeking advancement over his brother officers would not accept if tendered, and the whole navy knows that if any man should have been advanced during the late war it was Geo. H. Perkins. His record both at New Orleans and Mobile is not surpassed, if equaled, by that of any man in the Navy." In his report of the action at Mobile bay, Admiral Farragut said: "I cannot give too much praise to Lieutenant-Commander Perkins, who, though he had orders from the department to return north, volunteered to take command of the Chickasaw, and did his duty nobly." Commander Perkins is one of the finest officers of our navy, and we greatly regret that through a clerical error he has been placed in a false light to the readers of the Journal.

—There is no use locking the stable door after the horse is stolen. When you see the thunderclouds is the time to drink up the milk.

—Said Angelina, suddenly breaking the oppressive silence, "Don't you feel afraid of the army worms, Theodore, that are coming so rapidly this way?" The question was such a strange one that Theodore's surprise caused him to look right at Angelina for the first time in his life. Why did she ask that, he wanted to know. "Oh, nothing," she replied, as she toyed with her fan; "only the papers say they eat every green thing wherever they go."

Six Per Cent Bonds.

One million dollars of New York & New England railroad company first mortgage six per cent bonds have been purchased by Messrs. George Wm. Ballou & Co. of Boston. No more seven per cent bonds will be issued by this company, and in view of the large investment demand, this new six per cent loan will be quickly taken by careful investors. It is stated that the present net earnings of the New York & New England railroad company are nearly double the annual interest charge. With this foundation the first mortgage bonds must be safe.—Boston Post.

A Down Town Merchant

Having passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and acquainting his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homœopathy. That night the child passed in suffering, and the parents without sleep. Returning home the day following, the father found the baby still worse; and while contemplating another sleepless night, the mother stepped from the room to attend to some domestic duties, and left the father with the child. During her absence he administered a portion of the Soothing Syrup to the baby, and the little fellow awoke next morning bright and happy. The mother was delighted with the sudden and wonderful change, and although at first offended at the deception practiced upon her, has continued to use the Syrup, and suffering, crying babies and restless night have disappeared. A single trial of the Syrup never yet failed to relieve the baby, and overcome the prejudice of the mother. Sold by all Druggists. 25 cents a bottle. 6

Ups and Downs of Cities and Towns.

The changes of commerce that destroy and build up cities rapidly, almost like the visions of Aladdin's golden lamp, find another exemplar in the seeming great prosperity of New Orleans, not only present, but still greater in the near future. War-worn—poverty-curst—plague-stricken—she, like a Phœnix, revives and presents a busy scene of wealth-producing industry. But amid it all stands the Charity Hospital, which depends for its existence and ever ready means of doing good on the revenue it derives from the sale of the tickets of the Louisiana State Lottery Company, whose drawings monthly afford an opportunity to win a fortune. Cuticura

REMEDIES

Have achieved the most noted success of any Medicines of Modern Times.

Messrs. Weeks & Potter have never doubted the specific properties of CUTICURA, CUTICURA RESOLVENT, and CUTICURA SOAP, for the speedy, permanent, and economical cure of Humors of the Blood, Skin, and Scalp. They are, however, astonished at their universal success; for it was to be expected that in the hands of some they would fail solely from apathetic or ignorant use of them.

They are enabled to say without fear of contradiction that no remedies ever achieved in the short space of one year the number of wonderful cures performed by CUTICURA REMEDIES.

SALT RHEUM

LAW OFFICE OF CHAS. HOUGHTON,
17 Congress Street, Boston, Feb. 28, 1878.

MESSRS. WEEKS & POTTER: Gentlemen,—I feel it a duty to inform you, and through you all who are interested to know the fact, that a most disagreeable and obstinate case of Salt Rheum or Eczema, which has been under my care and observation from its first appearance to the present time,—about ten (10) years,—covering the greater portion of the patient's body and limbs with its peculiar irritating and itching scab, and to which all the known methods of treating such disease have been applied without any benefit, has completely disappeared, leaving a clean and healthy skin, under a few days of profuse application of CUTICURA.

I can and do heartily advise all similarly afflicted to try the remedy which has been so effectual in this case. Very truly yours,
CHAS. HOUGHTON.

LIVER COMPLAINT

Gentlemen,—I have had Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, with running sores on the side of my back, for ten years. Doctors did me no good. I have been spending for eight years and it did no good. Everything I ate distressed me. I got reduced from 178 to 132 pounds. At last I tried the RESOLVENT and it helped me right off, and on one bottle I gained five and one-half pounds. It is doing the business, and I am going for it strong.
Yours truly, JOHN H. ROY.

NOTE.—CUTICURA is undeniable, assisted in cases of extreme physical weakness, or where the virus of Scrofula is known to lurk in the system, by the internal use of the CUTICURA RESOLVENT, without doubt the most powerful blood purifier and liver stimulant in the world.

CUTICURA SOAP is an elegant toilet and medicinal assistant to CUTICURA in the treatment of all external ailments. For chapped hands, rough skin and tan, sunburn, and the lesser skin troubles, it is indispensable; as a soap for the toilet, the nursery and bath it is the most elegant, refreshing, and healing before the public.

These great remedies succeed where all others heretofore in use fail because they possess new and original properties never before successfully combined in medicine.

THE CUTICURA REMEDIES are prepared by Weeks & Potter, Chemists and Druggists, Boston, and sold by Druggists. Price of CUTICURA, small boxes, 50 cents; large boxes, containing two and one-half times the quantity of small, $1. RESOLVENT, $1 per bottle. CUTICURA SOAP, 25 cents per cake; by mail, 30 cents; 3 cakes, 75 cts.

The New York & New England Railroad extends from Boston through Willimantic and Hartford to Waterbury, Conn. It also runs from Providence to Willimantic, and has several small branches.

The main line is being extended—now in process of construction—from Waterbury, Conn., west to Brewsters, New York, a distance of forty miles, making in all over 300 miles of railroad.

An extension of the road from Brewsters, New York, to the Hudson river at Fishkill has also been decided upon, and will, it is expected, be completed before the close of the present year, thereby giving Boston, Providence and Hartford and central New England, another through line to the West—in connection with the Erie railway at Fishkill.

First mortgage bonds of prominent New England railroads are very scarce, and as this loan will net the investor nearly six per cent, it is certain to maintain its price and be rapidly taken for investment.

We can recommend these bonds as being among the safest offered in the market.

THE "WENTWORTH,"

Newcastle, N. H,

This Hotel will open June 26. It has accommodations for 400 guests, and offers more attractions for pleasure and comfort than any other seaside resort in the country. Its high situation affords beautiful views, both inland and seaward, its healthful atmosphere, the easy manner in which it can be reached, its advantages for boating, bathing and fishing, excellent drives and attractive walks, all combine to make it one of the most charming places on the coast of New England.

Since last year extensive additions have been made, among them one hundred and fifty sleeping rooms, a spacious Music Hall for dancing, theatricals and concerts, bowling alleys, billiard room, a passenger elevator operated by steam, a large and commodious stable for private equipages, the grounds lighted by the electric light, steam yacht for excursions, &c., &c.

The temperature of the bathing at the "Wentworth" is especially inviting to those unable to endure the shock incident to more exposed localities. An enclosed body of salt water, covering an area of fifty acres, affords a safe and pleasant place for boating at all times for ladies and children. The drives to the neighboring beaches and other points of attraction in this vicinity are unsurpassed. The veranda, fifteen feet in width, surrounding the house, gives an extended promenade of over 1000 feet in length, while the view is unexcelled in beauty and grandeur.

An orchestra of twenty selected musicians, under the direction of Mr. John J. Braham, has been engaged for the season.

The house is furnished throughout in black walnut, has the best of beds, its sleeping rooms are of ample size, well ventilated, and from all sides of its house affords fine views. Its cuisine will be found of an unexceptionable character. The "Wentworth" is situated three miles from Portsmouth, N. H., in the ancient town of Newcastle, and is reached from Boston in two hours' ride over the Eastern Railroad. Address

AROUND HOME.

The first coal was put into the coal-pocket at about ten o'clock Tuesday forenoon.

The fine orchestra of twenty-two pieces which is to furnish music at the Wentworth during the season, arrived on Monday.

Hon. Daniel Marcy threw out in front of his residence on Pleasant street, on the morning of July 5th, a handsome flag bearing the names of Hancock and English.

The Rhode Island press association arrives in this city over the Eastern railroad this evening, taking coaches for the Wentworth. Ex-Gov. Smyth, of Manchester, will be their guest this evening.

The Portsmouth City Guards have received an invitation from Newburyport to visit that city at such time as may be convenient to them, and held a meeting Tuesday evening to act upon the subject.

The democracy of Greenland enthused on Monday, and hoisted a mammoth campaign flag near the residence of J. S. H. Frink, Esq. All the "stalwarts" were present, and remarks were made by Col. C. W. Pickering, Col. Edwin A. Peterson and Mr. Frink, the latter afterward entertaining the company at his residence.

The mayor and aldermanic committee on streets, accompanied by the street commissioner, on Tuesday viewed the railroad crossing at the north end of Market street, with reference to the removal or otherwise of the second track laid across the street to the Concord railroad wharf some time ago, and still retained in position.

Rev. Moses How, of New Bedford, Mass., who will be ninety-one years old on the 22d of next month, and who has been paying a brief visit to Sheriff Kent, is enjoying the best of health and bids fair to survive many years longer. Few clergymen living have married more persons than he, and had he put his fees received for that service at interest they would have amounted to $50,000 or more.

Johnnie Danielson, aged five years, son of William Danielson, residing on Bridge street, has been missing since Monday forenoon at eleven o'clock, vigorous search failing to reveal his whereabouts. He had on a white linen suit, new boots, striped stockings, and a white hat trimmed with blue. [Since the foregoing was in type we learn that the boy turned up in Dover all right, Tuesday morning.]

The north mill-pond was drained on Saturday and Sunday nights, the tide-gate being lashed open. The rich stores of filth at the bottom, being thus exposed to the hot air, sent forth loud odors. The white paint on the houses and fences nearest the northeast end of the pond was turned to a dingy brown, the green paint on the window blinds became of a dull lead-color, and a gentleman informs us that the plated work on the harnesses and carriages in his barn was turned almost jet black.

In reply to numerous enquiries received by mail and personally, we would inform our readers that the Appledore steamer leaves daily, Sundays excepted, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon and at six o'clock in the evening. On Sundays the steamer Mystic, Capt. Trefethen, leaves after the arrival of the Sunday train from Boston, for the Shoals. The hotels at the Shoals are now open for the reception of guests. The Mystic can be engaged for evening excursions to the Shoals.

A small party of gentlemen who were proceeding to their boat with their baskets on Sunday forenoon last, to go down river on a fishing excursion, were shocked beyond measure to notice that some boys near Water street were firing crackers in entire disregard of the day.

The steamer Empire State took large parties from Boston to the Shoals on Sunday and Monday. She makes another trip to the same place to-day.

A handsome Weaver & Chambers flag was flung to the breeze in Greenland on the 5th inst. Nathaniel Wiggin, Esq., made the address. This is said to be the first greenback flag raised in the state.

Mr. Orlando Tomkins, and his partner Mr. Hill, well known in dramatic circles as the only persons who could wring success from the lease of the Boston theatre, are at the Wentworth. These gentlemen bring their equipages with them.

INDEPENDENCE DAY.

The celebration in this city was the quietest within our recollection, the ringing of the bells and the band concerts being the only public demonstration. The boys had bonfires on Market square and at Christian Shore, from midnight on Sunday until morning, but they were not very big ones; the south end boys also had their customary bonfire on South street, opposite the park gate, and beat the centre and Christian Shore boys all hollow in that line; but the number of boys out, and the pistol and cracker firing and the noise generally, were much less than usual. The salute from the navy yard at noon was about as prominent a feature as any of the day's celebration, though it did not last a great while.

The meeting of the return-of-the-sons committee, in the common council room in the forenoon, was attended by nearly all the members, but no business appearing the committee after a short session spent in informal converse adjourned.

A nice little business was done on Market square during the day by persons who had targets set up and air-guns to shoot at them with, and who were very well patronized.

There was a good attendance at the cricket match at the Creek, between the Lawrence club and a Portsmouth eleven, the game being won by the former, ninety-three to thirty-seven.

The Catholic picnic at Pinkham's grove, Dover point, was generously patronized and in every way a success, the receipts being large and the order maintained most creditable to the managers, while innocent amusements were liberally provided for; on some previous occasions of this kind there have been unpleasant accounts of the prevalence of drunkenness and consequent rowdyism, but we are informed that on Monday the managers refused to allow any intoxicants whatever to be sold, the consequence being that the large number of reputable people of both sexes and all sects who attended enjoyed the affair very much.

The temperance meeting at the Epping camp-ground, under the auspices of the Rockingham County Temperance Asso'n, was attended by about 5000 people; President F. W. Miller of the association presided, and speeches were made by Col. J. Horace Kent, Rev. Dr. Dam of Suncook, Rev. C. B. Pitblado of this city, John B. Gough, 2d, of Newmarket, Gen. Neal Dow of Maine, and others.

After the evening concert on Market square was finished, the band proceeded under engagement to the Rockingham trotting park, where they played several selections during the discharge of a fine display of fireworks—the handsomest show in this vicinity for several years.

About half-past ten o'clock at night the dwelling of Mrs. Phineas Goodrich on Cabot street was discovered to be on fire on the roof, the mischief having been caused by a rocket. An alarm was given, which was quickly responded to by Albert L. Stringer and two assistants, who by their prompt action in mounting the roof, and their judicious use of the water passed up by the quickly-assembled neighbors, saved the house, and probably other buildings in the neighborhood from destruction.

During the evening a rocket sent off from in front of the Kearsarge house struck the top of a window in the barber shop of Mr. John Griffin, shivering the glass and setting fire to the awning over the window; then taking a downward course entered the shop, striking the leg of a chair and exploding, doing no further damage other than discoloring the floor. A young man who saw the awning on fire climbed up the water conductor and pulled the awning from its fastenings, as in the former case probably saving the building from being burned.

EASTERN RAILROAD NOTES.

Some of our cotemporaries in the advertisement of this road state that the Pullman train which leaves this city at 4:05 A. M., does not run to Boston on Mondays. This is erroneous. The Pullman train to and from Bangor run daily, Sundays included, and leave Portsmouth on Monday mornings as on all others.

The trains on secular days are run by Charles M. Gowen and George W. Kennard, recently promoted to be conductors. The latter is a native of Eliot. The new officials are gentlemen well qualified for the positions they now fill.

Mr. John Bennett of this city has been transferred as baggage master upon Conductor Garland's train between Portsmouth and Boston. Conductor Garland came out of Boston with nearly seven hundred passengers on his train, on Saturday last.

Upon the first inward train from Rockport to Boston on Tuesday morning were five hundred and fifty-eight passengers.

About sixty feet of the cut at the western end of the Salem tunnel is being covered, at the joint expense of the city of Salem and some of the abuttors, and will afford enlarged street accommodations at that spot.

YORK COUNTY ITEMS.

The two young gentlemen of Kittery who were announced to pull a wherry race on the morning of July 5th, failed to put in an appearance, whether from fear of each other or because they "did not wish to have their names put in the papers" we cannot say.

The large boat recently built by Mr. Wm. W. Dixon of Kittery, and which was at first cat-rigged, has been altered into a sloop, and looks much better to our fancy in her new rig, though she looked very well before. She carries considerable more canvas than formerly, and we should say would be a hard one to beat in light weather and smooth water,—and possibly in any weather.

The two burglars who were surrounded and trapped by the Biddeford police, citizens and militia last week, were on Saturday held in $500 each for their appearance at the supreme court, and were committed to Alfred jail in default. They gave the names of Wilson and O'Neil, and waived examination. The third robber, who was tracked to the woods near Eliot, and it was hoped was penned up in the growth there, is still at large. Several revolvers, and a quantity of stolen property, have been found along the route taken by the thieves at the time they were running away.

Diphtheria is prevailing in a malignant form at Gray, Me. There have been twelve or fifteen deaths, principally children. The dead are buried at night, and the funeral services held afterwards. Sunday, June 27th, there were funeral services being held in three dwellings at the same time. The schools have been closed, and every child possible has been sent away. The physicians are worn down by their labor.

Serious explosions in the gas main supplying Tottenham Court road, London, Sunday night, caused large fissures in several parts of various streets, wrecking fronts of house and doing immense damage. Two persons were killed, and fifteen injured; 400 houses were more or less wrecked.

Col. Depau and Col. Shannon fought a duel at Charleston, S. C., Monday, and Shannon was killed. The murdered man was sixty years of age.

It is announced that pardons for all the French communists have been signed, and will be gazetted by the 14th inst. at the latest.

Daniel Linnehan's wife was found in a dying condition at her home in Boston on Monday, with her skull broken. Linnehan is under arrest for the murder. Both were intemperate, and quarrelled furiously when drunk.

Adamson's Botanic Balsam has gained a reputation which places it in the front rank of curative agents. It has been in the market but about nine years. It is now recommended by the best physicians because it cures coughs and colds every time. Price, 35 cts.

Mrs. Henry Moulton of Sharon, Vt., committed suicide Saturday last by hanging. Her husband was absent, and she had sent her only child, a small boy, away to a neighbor's. She was first found by her husband on his return in the evening. The cause was temporary insanity, arising from long continued illness and family trouble. Her father hung himself some years since.

REMARKABLE. John Hunt, of Providence, R. I., found himself seized with a general dropsy. His body swelled to an enormous size; he could not lie down, and death seemed inevitable. His kidneys were also badly affected. The services of a renowned physician were secured, and a prescription was made after a thorough examination. Mr. Hunt began to improve at once, and after a time was restored to perfect health. The family used the medicine in similar cases with the same results. They named it Hunt's Remedy, the great kidney and liver medicine, and it is now sold by all druggists. Trial size, 75 cents.

At Bryant, Iowa, on Sunday evening, a farmer named Hugh Hanna attempted to cross a submerged bridge over a stream near his home in a wagon with his wife and five children. The strong current swept the wagon from the bridge, and all excepting Mrs. Hanna were drowned.

DELICATE FLATTERY. Farmer Jones—"Well, how do you like that Sanford's Jamaica Ginger, Mr. O'Brady?" Mr. O'Brady—"Shure, now, Farmer, and isn't it many a long day since I had the felicity to welcome such a salubrious toothful."

Dr. R. W. Hills of Covington, Ind., committed suicide on Monday by shooting. He was a leading physician in that county for twenty-five years, and was wealthy. Ill health and consequent despondency are supposed to have caused the act.

Kidney-Wort Always Cures.

EAST WAKEFIELD DEPOT, N. H.

MESSRS. WELLS, RICHARDSON, & CO.

Gentlemen—Permit me to say a word in favor of Kidney-Wort. My mother has been afflicted with kidney disease for a number of years. Last spring she was so bad as to necessitate her taking Spirits Nitre at least three times a day—had a most alarming pain in her side, also much numbness. After taking one box of Kidney-Wort the pain and numbness disappeared. Her appetite improved at once, and she has not taken a drop of Spirits Nitre since. I advise all who need such a medicine to give it a trial.

MRS. W. H. PARKS.

During the celebration at Troy Mills, Iowa, on the 5th, the marshal of the town slapped a man's face for insulting a woman. A free fight ensued, in which several hundred persons took part. It is thought four persons were fatally wounded, and not less than thirty seriously injured.

nothing equals Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a most powerful restorative tonic, also combining the most valuable nervine properties, especially adapting it to the wants of debilitated ladies suffering from weak back, inward fever, congestion, inflammation, or ulceration, from nervousness, or neuralgic pains. Mr. G. W. Seymour, druggist, of Canton, N. Y., writes Dr. Pierce as follows: "The demand for your Favorite Prescription is wonderful, and one man stated to me that his wife had not done a day's work in five months, when she commenced taking your Favorite Prescription, took two bottles and is now on the third bottle, and is able to do her housework alone and milk fourteen cows twice a day." Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is sold by all druggists.

A yacht containing fourteen persons capsized on White Bear lake, fourteen miles from St. Paul, Minn., Monday afternoon; there were eight men in the party, seven of whom swam ashore without attempting to render any assistance to the women and children, one man being drowned in the attempt to save his wife and two children. Three women and three children perished.

Brandy are now being used by physicians everywhere who rely upon them as being the purest to be had of druggists. It is unsurpassed for weakly females and old people.

Havana advices of July 5th say that the insurgents under command of Calixto Garcia have been overtaken and completely defeated, and the minister of war and other officials who accompanied Calixto Garcia in the last expedition that left the United States have been taken prisoners. Garcia, with a few remaining followers, has fled to Managua.

We go to visit a friend. He has a taste for hunting, possesses sufficient means to enable him to engage in the pastime, and is the owner of a finely-trained dog. He naturally invites us to a hunting expedition. The dog with a wonderful sagacity finds game. If his master shoots a bird, he bounds away after it, and returns with joyful alacrity to receive the caress and praise of his master. We look at his fine form, notice his happy character, and think how much we should enjoy the company of such a sagacious companion. On our return home from this pleasant visit, our attention is arrested by a cry of pain, evidently proceeding from some injured animal. We turn, and see a dog limping along upon three legs; some careless boy has struck him with a stone. His woeful looks and shrunken form proclaim his half-starved condition. He evidently belongs to no one, and receives ill treatment wherever he goes. Now and then he is pitied, but nobody cares to take him in and shelter him. What a contrast between the two! Both may be equally capable, and may possess the same natures; circumstances have made the difference.

We are all to a certain degree influenced by outside appearances, and very often we become prejudiced against an animal, and ill-treat him from the reason that his looks do not please us. Let us treat animals with equal kindness, and we will soon find that there is worth in the most miserable looking.

Attention has been gradually attracted to the abuse of animals, and sympathy awakened by their silent sufferings. People for a long time shut their eyes to the cruelties perpetrated on the defenceless beast, or, if they saw, it was to countenance such acts. It is a pleasant thought, that, after so many years, many people are doing all in their power to alleviate such suffering, and it is to be hoped that as the years roll by this cruelty will be continually lessened, until at last every man will treat dumb animals with the consideration and kindness which is due. If it is impossible for one to love them, he certainly can protect them from abuse. And this is the duty of every person.

New Hampshire Items.

The Granite Monthly for June has a likeness of Hon. George A. Pillsbury for a frontispiece, and eleven pages are taken up by an illustrated article on Lake Winnipesaukie, followed by nine full-page pictures of scenes on the lake and its borders, and a map of the region. Other articles are,—an unfinished sketch of the life of Rev. Elias Smith; New Hampshire men in congress; the Walker House and the Walkers; the Chandler Scientific Department; "Behind the Veil," and "Bypast Hours," poetry; Reminiscences of Daniel Webster, and Major Frank. Concord; J. N. McClintock; $1.50 a year.

Independence day was very quietly observed almost everywhere in the state. At Lake Village a soldiers' monument was unveiled, and at Contoocook the Grangers of the neighborhood had a big picnic.

A valuable horse of Phineas Adams, agent of Stark mills, was drawn under Amoskeag falls at Manchester, and drowned, while attempting to swim across the Merrimac river on Sunday.

At Lee, on Saturday, Ransom Caldwell went into Spaulding's steam saw mill to escape a shower, and in passing a saw he stumbled and fell, cutting off both hands and nearly splitting his head in two pieces. He lived about ten hours. He was forty-nine years old, and unmarried.

Frank M. Sylvester, aged about twenty-one years, was instantly killed in Manchester, Monday morning, while coupling cars. He was employed in place of George W. Campbell, who was killed in the same way about three weeks ago. He leaves a wife and one child.

Political Matters.

Denis Kearney has been deposed from the leadership of the San Francisco sandlots crowd, who have accepted another blatherskite named Wellock as their king. The police were obliged to protect Kearney.

A few days ago a Rockland, Me., schooner found a Matinicus fishing boat anchored, with lines out, but no one in the boat. Upon hauling in the lines they found a big halibut and a man on one of them, the man having a hook in his wrist and a gaff in his hand. He probably got the hook in his wrist and was pulled overboard while trying to haul the halibut into the boat.

The first prize of honor given by the Emperor of Germany at the Berlin Fishery Exposition, was awarded to Prof. Spencer F. Baird of the United States fishery commission; it consists of a beautiful crystal epergne elaborately ornamented with gold, silver, pearls and precious stones, and is of the value of $2,000. Prizes were awarded to Cape Ann exhibitors as follows: Gloucester Isinglass and Glue Co., gold medal for collective exhibit showing the manufacture and application of fish glue and isinglass; Russia Cement Co., Rockport, silver medal for liquid fish glue; A. W. Dodd & Co., Gloucester, bronze medal for smoked halibut; Capt. J. W. Collins, Gloucester, honorable mention for an adjustable marine drag to assist vessels in laying-to in heavy gales.

GOOD WATCH WORK — AT — HUTCHINSON'S.

Daily Chronicle.

The Indians and the Fireworks.

The Indian has a hard time of it, altogether. An Idaho mining camp intending to celebrate the Glorious Fourth in bang up style, ordered a heap of fireworks to be sent to them. A whole wagon load went on, and while on its way was captured one night by a band of Indians.

They didn't exactly know what kind of property they had got hold of, and proceeded to investigate. The chief thought the cannon crackers were cigars and the little ones cigarettes, which articles he had seen in use at the various camps he had visited, and he distributed a lot around, and they all lighted up for a smoke, and pretty quick a more surprised and puzzled set of Indians never got together. The chief had a cannon cracker, and after the explosion it was three minutes before he could get breath enough to yell, and then the wild shriek he gave could be heard five miles away. That ended the smoking.

Another buck fell off the top of the wagon with a box of giant torpedoes, and the crash that greeted him as he alighted scared him so that he got up and ran off at breakneck speed.

A squaw contrived to get a pin wheel afire, and as she dropped it on the ground the natural tendency of the thing to whirl around made it go kiting along the ground like a wheel of fire, sending out a shower of sparks and causing the affrighted lady to scud away from it, with her eyes as big as saucers, with terror. The pin-wheel got under the wagon and ignited it, and the Indians at first tried to extinguish the flames, and pretty soon a Roman candle went off, and before the man who was hit by the first ball on the nose could clap his hand on the injured member, another ball caromed there and then a third; and then the rockets began to go off and take the bucks in the legs and ribs, and the different colored fires threw first a red and then a blue light upon the scene, and the "mines" blew up and filled the air with hissing serpents and other things horrid to behold, and more pin-wheels got loose, and when a buck jumped to avoid a pin-wheel he got into the air just in time to be hit by a rocket, and almost everybody got more or less burned, and in about five minutes a crowd of the worst seared and most frantic Indians the world ever saw was scurrying off in the darkness across the prairie howling with pain and fear. And the next load of fireworks sent through that region won't be meddled with by those Indians.—Boston Post.

For All Female Complaints

nothing equals Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a most powerful restorative tonic, also combining the most valuable nervine properties, especially adapting it to the wants of debilitated ladies suffering from weak back, inward fever, congestion, inflammation, or ulceration, from nervousness, or neuralgic pains. Mr. G. H. Seymour, druggist, of Canton, N. Y., writes Dr. Pierce as follows: "The demand for your Favorite Prescription is wonderful, and one man stated to me that his wife had not done a day's work in five months, when she commenced taking your Favorite Prescription, took two bottles and is now on the third bottle, and is able to do her housework alone and milk fourteen cows twice a day." Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is sold by all druggists.

There were thirty powder and pistol accidents in New York city on the 6th, ten in Brooklyn, and six in Jersey City, four deaths by drowning in the harbor while bathing, and eight small fires from fireworks.

No Hospital Needed.

Stephen Chapman of Provincetown, Mass., was found dead in his house a few days ago, with a bullet hole in his head; the case was at first supposed to be one of suicide, but since then circumstances have come to light which tend to prove that it may not have been such. It is known that Chapman and his wife lived unpleasantly. An umbrella stick was found in an adjoining room, broken nearly off, and spotted with blood at the lower end; a revolver with every chamber charged but one was found in still another room between two mattresses of a bed, and the autopsy proved that the bullet imbedded in the brain was of the same kind and size as the others remaining in the revolver. The room in which the fatal act was done has been taken possession of by the sheriff, and an examination will be held.

Highest Prize Port Wine.

The best wine in the country, that took the highest premium at the Centennial, is Speer's Port Grape Wine, which has become the most celebrated product of New Jersey. This wine and his P. J. Brandy are now being used by physicians everywhere who rely upon them as being the purest to be had of druggists. It is unsurpassed for weakly females and old people.

The wreck of the British iron steamer John Bramhall, which went ashore on Gull island nearly three years ago and subsequently went to pieces, has been sold to the New York Coast Wrecking company, for $2,125.

Chester A. Arthur,

OF NEW YORK.

Unwise Parsimony.

It seems that the flag-ship Tennessee is to go to Cuba to enquire as to the Spanish cruisers over-hauling some of our merchant vessels on the high seas. It is fortunate that we have even one ship in commission, available for that purpose. Mr. Evarts must enquire somewhat gingerly of the Dons as to this business, because Spain knows that if Secretary Thompson was elected not to make available a large share of the funds ordered by the the people through their congressmen to be expended towards maintaining a navy, but to return it to the treasury, there cannot be any considerable naval force to back up the enquiry. Possibly, this instance may serve to convince Secretary Thompson that his policy of not expending appropriations made for naval purposes is an unwise one.

The secretary's policy reminds us of the Boston man who made a little speech to the children at a Sabbath school picnic. "Religion, my little hearers," said he, "is like a savings bank, where you put your money in and never take it out again!" The Hon. Secretary seems to think that the government money must be saved, not expended for the benefit of the country. If born and brought up within sight of the Atlantic, if familiar with the wants of commerce, the development of trade, and the intercourse with other nations, perhaps Mr. Thompson would have possessed more enlarged ideas as to naval affairs. As it is, he is too old and too firm in his notions to attain new light upon this subject; by his course no needed supplies are gathered at the yards, no means are at hand for refitting and repairing ships, and his policy is viewed with perhaps subdued, but general dissatisfaction not only by every officer in the navy, high and low, but by every one who appreciates the necessity of a great commercial and producing country protecting itself by a proper developement of this important arm of the service.

News and Notes.

Dr. Joseph Blackwell of Boston has been arrested for causing the death of Helen T. Barry, a young girl belonging in Rockland, Mass., by criminal malpractice.

At Dunkirk, Ohio, on the 6th inst., the boiler of a threshing machine exploded, killing seven persons and wounding eight others. Two of the wounded died in a short time, and three others cannot recover.

It is reported "on the best of authority" that the Canadian government is about closing with a syndicate of capitalists now in Ottawa, for the construction of the Canadian Pacific railroad. The syndicate are to furnish $100,000,000, and receive in return a land subsidy of 50,000,000 or 60,000,000 acres of land, relieving the government of all responsibility.

A Bodie, Cal., despatch says that Patrick Carroll, a miner, was ejected from a meeting of the Miners' Union on Monday night, the 5th inst. He attempted to re-enter the hall and fired at those who opposed him, when he was shot dead. He was a native of Lynchburg, Va., and said to be a great-grandson of Charles Carroll of Carrollton.

Lewis Richards, about twenty-two years of age, was found dead under suspicious circumstances early Tuesday morning, the 6th inst., near the railroad bridge crossing at Oakdale, Mass. His face and head were badly mashed. He was seen Monday evening drinking and carousing about Worcester with some companions. Traces of blood were found from the body for about a mile towards West Boylston, showing that the body had been brought from that direction. Joseph Lavotica was arrested on the evening of the 6th at Oakdale, on suspicion of being the murderer.

The fishing schooner Ida R. Freeman, of Wellfleet, Mass., arrived at that port on Saturday, July 3d, with ninety barrels of mackerel. The vessel was anchored in the harbor, and the crew went to their homes, with the exception of three Swedes, who remained on board. Sunday night the Swedes got the vessel under way, and left for parts unknown. It is supposed they intended going to Europe. In addition to the fish on board, they carried away the seine boat, dories and a small seine, and the clothing of the crew. They have provisions enough to last eight weeks.

Daniel Loomis and William Langlaw, fishermen, will be tried in Lyme, Conn., on the charge of robbing the body of Edwin J. Norton, late of Attleboro', Mass., which they had recovered from the wreck of the Narragansett, of a gold watch, and a large amount of money. They deny the commission of the crime.

At Hopkinton, Mass., on the 4th inst., Joseph Perkins, an Englishman, was thrown from a wagon and so badly injured that he died.

Councillor Rodney Wallace and Alderman George F. Fay of Fitchburg, Mass., have each presented the city with a check for $500 to pay for two iron fountains in place of two wooden ones now in use.

Mrs. Cora Walker of New York city, on a visit to friends in Philadelphia, on the 6th inst. fell in a fit in a bath tub, and was scalded to death.

A tornado demolished a portion of the penitentiary at Columbia, S. C., July 6th. Several convicts were hurt by jumping from the windows, two fatally.

In an affray at Campbell's store in Atascosa county, Texas, between two Dee brothers and two McCoys, one of each was killed, and the others badly wounded.

John Hart, a respectable German citizen of Attleboro', Mass., was found dead in his house on the evening of the 6th inst., with a bad wound on his head. Murder is suspected.

New Hampshire Items.

William Estey, hailing from Manchester, was arrested in Franklin, recently, charged with passing counterfeit half dollars. He was held for trial.

Patrick Talty, aged six years, son of James Talty of Manchester, fell into the upper canal on the 9th inst., and was drowned. The canal was drawn to recover the body.

Warren O. Wilson of Keene, a prominent citizen and advanced Odd Fellow, on the 6th inst. took an overdose of laudanum, causing death. He was about fifty-five years old.

William G. Whitney, between sixty and seventy years old, employed at Abbot-Downing Company's manufactory at Concord, was on the 6th inst. drawn up over a shafting and killed.

Mr. A. D. Holt, a well known resident of Nashua, was badly injured by a stick of timber that fell upon him on the 5th inst., while at work on the Methodist church in Hudson. The bones of one of his legs, at the heel, were badly crushed, and he received injuries upon the head which have caused brain fever and made his recovery doubtful.

There were two horse races at the Rochester driving park on the 5th inst., for purses of $100 and $150, divided. Patchen won in the three-minute class, and Belle Davis in the free-for-all.

Considerable excitement was caused at Bath, on the 5th inst., by the attempted abduction of a four-years-old daughter of Mrs. Burton, by the child's father, William F. Burton, assisted by a confederate. About a year since Mrs. Burton commenced divorce proceedings on the ground of extreme cruelty. The court gave her temporary custody of the children, expeessly forbidding Burton, by injunction, from interfering with them. The divorce proceedings are still pending. Before light, Monday morning, Burton entered the village and concealed himself where he could watch his wife's house. About ten o'clock the child went out on the piazza, when Burton seized her and ran out of the village, and had nearly reached the team where his man was waiting, when he was overtaken by his wife's father, and a struggle ensued. Others coming up, Burton was secured and the child restored to its mother. Burton stole the child in a similar way once before, carrying it to Vermont, whence it was recovered with difficulty.

At East Pepperell, on July 4th, a young man was seriously assaulted by Thomas Joyce and one Cavanaugh, Nashua shoemakers employed at that place. The young man, whose only offending was his remonstrance because of slang abuse when passing them, was knocked down and struck with a stone so as to make a bad wound and fracture of the skull. He was insensible for a whole day. The assassins were run down late at night, one of them attempting to escape up a tree and the other becoming mired in a swamp.

Political Matters.

The democratic district committee of the fifth congressional district of Maine have issued a call for a district convention, to be held at Castine on the 27th of July, to nominate a candidate for representative to congress. This is the district now represented by Murch, one of the greenback accidents which got into congress at the last election. Murch has been renominated by the fusionists, but some of the old straight-outs do not seem to fuse very extensively.

The democracy are especially dissatisfied with the selection of Marshal Jewell as chairman of the national republican committee. The trouble is, all the bad things saved up to say against Cameron are now of no avail, and a new kind of mud-throwing must be used for Jewell.

THE FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS of the Toledo, Delphos & Burlington Railroad Company are upon the market, and are meeting fully the demands of the most conservative investors. Capitalists who want an investment upon which they can rely for the prompt payment of interest and principal when due, need look no further. These first mortgage bonds are a lien upon the main line of the Toledo, Delphos & Burlington Railroad, extending from Toledo, O., to Kokomo, Ind. The entire issue is only $1,250,000 upon 183 miles, requiring only $4,000 per mile to meet the interest upon this road, while $1000 per mile, net, will be received from the local business alone. This issue is but a small one upon a large and valuable property, and is being rapidly taken up.

Love rules the court, the camp, the grove,

Brown's Household Panacea

Is the most effective Pain Destroyer in the world. Will most surely quicken the blood whether taken internally or applied externally, and thereby more certainly relieve pain, whether chronic or acute, than any other pain alleviator, and it is warranted double the strength of any similar preparation.

It cures pain in the side, back or bowels, sore throat, rheumatism, toothache and all aches.

The great reliever of pain, "Brown's Household Panacea," should be in every family. A teaspoonful of the Panacea in a tumbler of hot water (sweetened, if preferred), taken at bedtime, will break up a cold. 25 cents a bottle.

Much Sickness,

Undoubtedly with children attributed to other causes, is occasioned by worms. Brown's Vermifuge Comfits, or Worm Lozenges, although effectual in destroying worms, can do no possible injury to the most delicate child. This valuable combination has been successfully used by physicians, and found to be absolutely sure in eradicating worms, so hurtful to children. Twenty-five cents a box. tthsf

The New York & New England Railroad extends from Boston through Willimantic and Hartford to Waterbury, Conn. It also runs from Providence to Willimantic, and has several small branches.

The main line is being extended—now in process of construction—from Waterbury, Conn., west to Brewsters, New York, a distance of forty miles, making in all over 300 miles of railroad.

An extension of the road from Brewsters, New York, to the Hudson river at Fishkill has also been decided upon, and will, it is expected, be completed before the close of the present year, thereby giving Boston, Providence and Hartford and central New England, another through line to the West—in connection with the Erie railway at Fishkill.

First mortgage bonds of prominent New England railroads are very scarce, and at this low price will net the investor nearly six per cent., it is certain to maintain its price and be rapidly taken for investment.

We can recommend these bonds as being among the safest offered in the market.

We do not know whose idea it was to keep the street lights going all through the night before the 5th, but it was a good idea, whosever it was.

The Temperance Mutual Relief Association will have a picnic at Bay-side Grove, Stratham, on Friday, July 9th. Tickets—twenty-five cents for adults, fifteen cents for children. All are invited. See advertisement.

No doubt the ringing of the North church bell on the occasion of the alarm of fire, on the afternoon of the 7th inst., was satisfactory to all as to the length of time it was rung, even including the alderman who assisted in pulling the rope.

The tally-ho coach from the Farragut house, Rye beach, was in town on Wednesday afternoon of this week, empty inside but with its top loaded down with passengers, one of whom invited the attention of the public to what was going on by sounding a horn at brief intervals.

The gross earnings of the Eastern railroad for May, 1880, were $227,415.14, against $203,840.38 for the same month last year—an increase of $23,754.76. The gross earnings of the Portsmouth, Great Falls & Conway (operated by the Eastern) for May were $14,475.50—an increase of $4,059.59 over May, 1879.

The schooner yacht Eliza, belonging to Laighton Bros. & Co., of the Shoals, is receiving a thorough overhauling at Call's wharf, under superintendence of Mr. Warren Keen. She is to receive new deck-frames, and new top timbers fore and aft, be recalked, have her cabin refitted, and be painted inside and out.

Mayor Sise and the special committee appointed by the board of aldermen to consider the expediency of establishing a public bathing house, spent most of the afternoon on the 7th inst. in inspecting the water front of the city, from Newcastle bridge to Freeman's point, in search of suitable sites; two places were decided upon as being far superior to any others, viz.: the Raynes ship-yard, and a point on Noble's island.

Shortly after two o'clock in the afternoon on the 7th inst. fire was discovered in C. L. Brown's slaughter house in Pickering's field, near the Newcastle bridge, and in half an hour the building was destroyed. A considerable number of pigs were kept in the building, but all were gotten out; nearly all the other contents were burned. The property destroyed was insured in Dodge's agency to the amount of $500—$300 on the building, $100 on the fixtures, and $100 on meats and skins. No person connected with the establishment had been in it since eleven o'clock in the forenoon, and the fire is supposed to have been incendiary.

In the South Newmarket regatta on Great bay, July 5th, there were nine entries and four prizes. M. S. Lane's sloop yacht "Phantom" won the first prize, L. B. Robertson's "Dido" the second, H. H. Pinkham's "Fawn" the third, and J. O. Davis' "Surprise" the fourth. The course was twelve miles long, and the best time made was one hour, twenty-eight minutes and nine seconds. A catamaran, the "Flying Dutchman," was dismasted. The race was a close one throughout.

It is stated that the judges of the supreme court will meet for reference, before announcing decisions at the adjourned law term in August, at the Wentworth in Newcastle.

The rolling stock of the Eastern railroad has been increased, partly by purchase and partly by construction in the company's shops of fifteen new passenger cars. In some of the latter the old-fashioned blind gives place to oval-top windows and curtains, after the manner of Pullman cars.

The brickmaking business at Dover point was never so brisk as it is at present, and as the brick made down there cannot be excelled for durability, they find a ready market. There are thirteen brick yards now in operation, and it is expected that during the season 6,500,000 bricks will be made, while 3550 cords of wood will be necessary in the manufacture. Seventy-five hands find employment, the majority of whom are French Canadians, who work cheaper than the brickmakers of any other nationality. The most of the Dover point bricks are sold to Boston and New York parties, and they may be found in the finest structures in both cities.—Democrat.

A Haverhill, Mass., correspondent furnishes to a Boston paper the following, which may interest Portsmouth readers: "The last of religion and jugglery by Elder Waite, in his 'Glad Tidings' tent, it is said brought out an audience of 3000 at twenty-five cents a ticket, the two performances putting in his pocket, it is thought, over $1000. The success was greater than that of the most renowned prestidigitateur who ever visited this city. The elder has been preparing for the final 'scoop' for more than a month. He is understood to be a reformed and converted showman. He opened his trick entertainments with Bible reading and prayer; earnestly asking God to give him strength to perform his tricks, and confound the wicked Spiritualists. One or more clergymen of the city assisted him in some of his tricks. 'Hold the Fort,' 'Come to Jesus' and other revival melodies were sung by a powerful choir while the tricks were being performed, and the great audience was in full smypathy with the magician, greeting him with shouts of applause. It was the most wonderful combination of religion, fun and trick-playing ever witnessed here. Elder Waite claims to have made one hundred converts since he has been laboring here."

PORTSMOUTH COAL-POCKETS.

Mr. J. Albert Walker, known far and wide as the projector, builder and proprietor of the Portsmouth coal-pockets, announces a change in his business, in his retirement from the firm of C. E. Walker & Co., and his starting a new business at Concord railroad wharf at the north end. Mr. Walker proposes here to conduct a wholesale and retail business in Lehigh, Lackawanna, Wilkesbarre, Franklin, Shamokin, and other varieties of first quality coal, of all sizes, also hard and soft wood, sawed and cut to order, with lime and cement, and other kinds of masons' building material. While Mr. Walker invites all interested to come and examine the new coal-pockets, he will save their steps by having an order book and telephone communication with his office at Moses' hat store, No. 13 Congress street, (Walker's old stand,) where orders left will be promptly filled, and where in stormy weather it will be a great convenience to many of his retail customers.

POLICE COURT.

WEDNESDAY, July 7; Batchelder, J.

William Griffin, for drunkenness, was fined $3, costs $6.90. In default of payment he was sent to the county farm.

The next case was against a man charged with an assault on John E. Lydston, the complainant exhibiting a perfectly lovely pair of black eyes. The evidence shew that while the defendant had broken the statute the provocation was very great, and the offended majesty of the law was appeased by the payment of $7.76, fine and costs.

John E. Lydston, for an assault on Edward Hilton, was fined $5, costs $5.76; jail in default.

John Hoyt, who was held to answer to a charge of aggravated assault on his wife some time ago, and was shortly afterward bailed out of jail, was on the 7th inst. delivered up by his bondsmen, and again went to jail.

The regular meeting of the Board of Instruction was held last evening at eight o'clock. Present, Mayor Sise, Messrs. Knight, Vaughan, Pender, Locke, May, Sherburne, Hoyt, Goodrich, Newton, and Gardner, and Mrs. Wilson.

Communication from the board of aldermen transmitting a communication from Prof. N. J. Coffin, in relation to his model on physics of the globe, was received, and the same was referred to committee on text books to report.

Numerous bills were read and ordered to be paid.

The subject of non-resident children attending the public schools of the city without paying tuition was discussed, and the whole question was referred to the several committees to report.

The secretary stated that there had been expended of the school appropriation $11,778.10, and estimated the expenses for the balance of the year would be $7,745.50, leaving a balance of $746.40, which added to the literary fund would be sufficient to purchase fuel.

The secretary's statement about wood burned in the schools was read, and the chairmen of the several district committees were constituted a committee to lay the subject before the board of aldermen, and suggest the use of coal.

Voted to proceed to the election of teachers, seven votes being necessary to elect.

The grammer grade committee reported the names of Charles E. Buzzell, Edward C. Stimpson, R. H. Perkins, Susan F. Drake, Sarah A. Whittem, Eliza M. Marshall and Harriet L. Hill, and they were elected, each receiving nine votes.

The intermediate grade committee reported the names of Sophila J. Foye Emma E. Young, Josie F. Prescott, Nellie C. Moers, Mary F. Garrett, Lucy H. Rand, Irene O. Clark, Mary E. Prescott and Lizzie S. Wood, and each receiving nine votes, they were elected.

No election of teachers for the suburban grade, and the committee on examinations was ordered to hold a competitive examination for the Lafayette, Plains and Woodbury schools.

Candor compels us to admit that in these statistics the democracy has us at a disadvantage, because in the Cincinnati hotels the landlords, knowing the habits of the "unwashed," furnished no soap in their rooms. A careful canvass after the Cincinnati convention adjourned, shouting for "Hancock and reform," shew to the landlords of the hotels of the Queen City of the West that their entire assortment of toilet tumblers had been abstracted by their recent guests, to be used, we presume, in drinking success to their ticket upon the home stretch.
